Two Good Things
IN FLOUR.
1. Scale Weight.
2. First Quality.

If good flour makes good bread it follows that one sort of flour makes better bread than another.
Which sort makes best?
That depends. The best flour is the purest, the best ground, the strongest and containing the most health-giving and nourishing properties.
These good points are all found in our Flour.
Have you tried it? Perhaps yes. Perhaps no. If you have not, do so, and you may find a better flour than you have been using, and we a customer.

TURNBULL'S
Display.

The Spring Styles shown this season are such a decided change and unusually pretty. We want all to see them to the best advantage and naturally to leave the impression, that for decidedly New and Cheap Goods, Turnbull's is the right place to go for a large selection. Since our store has been thoroughly renovated, the first thing that strikes you on approaching the George-st. entrance is the white front and large show windows handsomely decorated with Fine Millinery Goods, Printed Challies, etc. too numerous to describe, which is but indicative of the clean stock within and our clean and straight-forward manner of doing business. While passing through the store, even when not intending to buy, you are compelled to stop and price some of the articles on display. Pretty Print Blouses from 50c. each, up to those of Figured Wool Delaine at $1.75. Neat Patterns in Light Prints, narrow, but warranted to wash at 5c. a yd. Novelties in Pearl Bead Frillings at 5c. a frill. White embroidered Apron Lawns at 20c. a yd. Cream and White Curtain Nets, Taped Edge at 15c. to 25c. a yd.

Fine Navy Serges for Boys' Wear at 35c., 40c., 50c. a yd.; Handsome Patterns in Tweed at 50c. a yd.; Nice Cream Damask Table Linen at 30c. a yd. Black and Brocaded Flannelettes just suitable for baby at 15c. a yard. You pass the Dress Goods counter in a hurry, but have to ask what that shimmering, shining material is that is hard to describe. Still everybody falls in love with it, and no wonder the manufacturers call it Gloriosia. On reaching the archway leading into the Simcoe-st. store you are struck with amazement and almost think you have got into midsummer and begin to look around for the bumble bees and humming birds among the flowers. Some of the leading colors are the New Shades in Heliotrope and Lavender, French Grey, Buttercup and Black combined. Most of the Bonnets are small toque shapes, flat, and trimmed at the back with pretty little forget-me-not flowers, jewelled ribbon and lace to match. There is something very pretty for children in Leghorn Hats, trimmed with ruchings of Silk and Lace. We have received into this week a Choice Lot of very pretty Shapes in Hats and Bonnets, also the latest in Flowers from Glasgow. These styles will not be shown elsewhere. Come early and select your patterns before they get picked over.

Struck by a Train.

ALLANDALE, April 9.—As the "4.15" express was coming into Allandale station a man named John Healey, who has been working in Barrie for the past year, was noticed walking on the track. The whistle was blown several times and the bell rang, but without any effect as the man still kept the track. The engine was reversed, but too late and the man was struck on the right arm and shoulder and thrown off the track insensible. He may recover. He was the worse of liquor when struck and hardly knew what happened to him.

Trainmen Parboiled.

MILWAUKEE, April 9.—The engine of a freight train, north bound, on the Wisconsin Central road, jumped the track near Vernon to-day and tipped over, pinioning Dan McMullen, engineer, R. A. Moore, fireman, and Peter Seipp, brakeman, beneath the wreck. All were terribly scalded. Moore is dead; the others will die.

Dropped Its Money in the Slot.

ORILLIA, April 9.—One day lately the 4-year-old child of Mr. Thomas Wood, carter, swallowed three cents. Mr. Wood, observing the distress of the child, succeeded in getting one of the coppers out of its throat. The other two had passed beyond recovering. They tore the throat severely and the child is still suffering distressingly from the mishap. It is hoped its life may be preserved, however.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is on the flood tide of popularity, which position it has reached by its own intrinsic, undoubted merit.

LANSDOWNE RESIGNS.

INDIA'S VICEROY TO RETURN TO ENGLAND.

A Three Hours' Battle With the Manipuris in Which the Latter Were Put to Flight and Several of Their Leaders Killed.

SIMLA, April 9.—Advices have been received here of a brilliant success for the British forces near Manipur. The Manipuris made a fierce attack upon the slender force of Goorkhas commanded by Lieut. Grant, which recently captured Fort Shabat, driving out an overwhelming force of Manipuris at the point of the bayonet, after playing sad havoc in their ranks by a well-directed rifle fire. The Manipuris' attack was stubborn and determinedly made, and they pushed forward in spite of the destructive fire with which they were received. The enemy fought gallantly for every foot of ground, the attack lasting three hours, during which some superb fighting was witnessed on both sides. Finally the Manipuris were repulsed, the usurping Rajah and two prominent chiefs, all three of whom displayed remarkable bravery in leading the tribesmen to the attack, being killed during the onslaught. The loss of the tribesmen in addition to the killing of their leaders was very heavy.

Captain Peregrave has arrived at Fort Shabat with much-needed reinforcements. This, combined with Lieut. Grant's victory, has so disheartened the Manipuris that they announce they are ready and willing to recognise the authority of the British officials directly the British troops re-enter Manipur. Additional bodies of troops are on the way to Manipur, where the massacre of Goorkhas and the subsequent fate of Chief Commissioner Quinton and his party will be thoroughly investigated.

CALCUTTA, April 9.—In the letter which was yesterday received from the chief of the Manipuris he says: The British attacked my palace, massacred my soldiers and their women and children; they threw living women and children into the flames of their burning houses and desecrated the temples. Therefore, I killed the whole party.

The letter from the Manipur leader also contains the following: "I deeply regret the sad event, which was wholly due to the rashness and indiscretion of the British officers."

A second letter here says the surviving British subjects, with the exception of the clerk and interpreter, were liberated before the demand made by the British Government for their release had been received.

Lord Lansdowne, in forwarding the two letters to England, says he fears it is true that the officers were killed, but that it is evident the story was concocted to shield the Manipur regent.

Lansdowne Resigns.

LONDON, April 9.—The Chronicle says: "The Marquis of Lansdowne has intimated to the Government his desire to resign the viceroyship of India on account of ill-health and for other reasons."

WAR REPORTS CONTINUE.

Austria Concentrating Large Bodies of Troops on the Galician Frontier.

LONDON, April 9.—A Vienna despatch says that the Austrian Government, not being reassured by Russia's denial of unfriendly [illegible] large bodies of troops at Tarnopol and Brody to watch the Galician frontier. The 13th corps under Hohenlohe has been reinforced by a portion of the 1st corps and Prince Windischgraetz of the 11th is watching the frontier with a large force of cavalry. Count Hartenau, formerly Prince Alexander of Bulgaria, who is now an officer in the Austrian service, has, it is stated, been called into consultation at the war office with the view of utilizing his services in an important command.

The Austrian authorities have great confidence in the abilities of the Prince, which were proven in the war between Servia and Bulgaria. It is said that the Austrian Government has important secret information from Russia which is the basis of its warlike preparations.

The German Kaiser has laid out a personal program which apparently does not take into account an early declaration of hostilities. On the 23rd he is going to Wartburg for some black cock shooting, and after spending a few days there he will proceed on a visit to Count Goerz in Upper Hesse, to shoot on his estates. The Emperor will not, as has been expected, go thence to Alsace-Lorraine. If he pays a visit to those provinces at all this year it will not be before September. It is to be noted, however, that twice as many officials have been detailed as during the Kaiser's shooting trip to Silesia as messengers to carry any information from the Chancellor to the Kaiser during the absence of the latter from the capital, state secrets not being entrusted either to the post or telegraph.

Apparently by some understanding with Austria, Germany has suddenly begun to increase the forces near the Russian frontier and to hasten the completion of works intended to facilitate the transportation of troops. All indications go to show that a Russian invasion would be met by formidable armies of the allies, whether first directed against Austria or Germany or both countries at once. On the French side Germany has a series of fortresses that could not fail to delay invasion long enough to give ample time for the concentration of the army.

At 71 She Has Had Two New Jaws, New Hands, Arms, Etc.

GREENVILLE, Tenn., April 9.—A woman 71 years of age, who has twice exfoliated or shed many of the bones from her body and had new and sound ones grow in their stead, has, through the mediumship of Dr. Bell of Parrotteville, set the East Tennessee Medical Society guessing as to how and why she does it. She is Miss Sarah Lees of Coney's Branch, Tenn., and there is abundant proof that she has shed and given as souvenirs to friends 100 pieces of bone. This exfoliation, marvelous as it may seem, has included the shedding twice of Miss Lees' entire jaw bone; yet all the teeth but two in her new jaw are intact.

During the last 21 years she has twice shed in addition to the jaw the bones of the hand and forearm, arm and shoulder-blade, and this without leaving any deformity and without suppuration and with entire consciousness of the change on the aged patient's part. Her health is good.

Insane From Remorse.

WALKERTON, April 9.—An insane man, at present in jail, was one of the jury who convicted McLeod of arson, for which he was sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary. It seems that something like remorse has taken possession of him and deprived him of reason.

At no season in the year is cold in the head and catarrh more prevalent than during April. To neglect either means misery and perhaps fatal results. Nasal Balm is the only certain remedy for these dangerous diseases, and as a precautionary remedy should be kept in every household. Nasal Balm has cured thousands of sufferers—it will cure you. Try it.

SENSATIONAL TRIAL IN ITALY.

179 Members of a Murder Society in the Dock.

ROME, April 9.—The trial at Bari of 197 members of the Mala Vita Society excites intense interest. The accused occupy two galleries secured by strong iron bars. Most of the prisoners are masons and coopers and are young and well-dressed, but many are well-known criminals. Strong police and military forces preserve order in the precincts of the court. The examination of 207 witnesses for the prosecution and 425 for the defence commences Monday and will last a whole week. The majority will plead absolute ignorance of the society. A few admit they wounded certain persons by order for fear of death.

A Neapolitan, who said he had been asked to pay to keep his name from the list of informers, revealed the names of many members of the society, including the president.

A prisoner named Passaquindici denounced 70 members, and declared there were 200 more not yet arrested. He described the society as divided into Camorristi, Picciotti and Giovanotti, the lower grades being subject to the higher. This evidence and that of other informers caused great excitement in the court.

The prisoners shouted and gesticulated to their friends in the court, and the uproar that ensued amounted almost to a riot. Seven of the prisoners are tattooed with curious devices. Thirty counsel are employed for the defence.

ELOPERS CAUGHT.

The Woman Escapes Punishment, but the Man Must go to Jail.

BARRIE, April 9.—In January last a man named Richard James and Mrs. White of Linden Valley, near Lindsay, eloped, both leaving families behind. Detectives were placed on their track, but lost them. They went to Allandale and boarded a while and finally took up housekeeping in Tollendal, James taking the assumed name of Dr. Nichol, which was Mrs. White's maiden name. On Good Friday James was walking along the road when he was thunderstruck upon meeting one of his Linden Valley neighbors driving. The neighbor wrote home and on Friday two of the woman's brothers and Constable Sweeney proceeded to Tollendal and arrested the pair. They were brought before C. H. Ross, J.P. Mrs. White was let off to appear when called upon and James will bear the sentence of the court next Saturday.

DEATH OF A HERO.

Death of Colonel di Quaregna Announced from Sardini.

LONDON, April 8.—A letter from Sardini announces the death at an advanced age of Colonel di Quaregna, an Italian, who distinguished himself by a memorable act of heroism during the Paraguayan war in South America. The tyrant Lopez was trapped in the town of San Pedro di Bobi, surrounded by a strong force of the allies, and defended only by about 800 men under the command of Colonel di Quaregna. The garrison was reduced to straits and the besieging force sent word that all could march out free provided they would surrender Lopez.

Di Quaregna thought of a stratagem which would probably mean death to himself but might result in saving the despot. He arranged that Lopez disguised in his uniform should ride out at the head of his men, as if in fulfilment of the agreement, while Di Quaregna, in the well-known attire of Lopez, whom he somewhat resembled in stature and appearance, should give himself up to the Brazilians. The scheme worked admirably, and Lopez departed at the head of his garrison. Upon arrival of the pseudo Lopez at headquarters the deception was quickly discovered. The enraged Brazilians with difficulty restrained themselves from killing Di Quaregna on the spot. Counsels, however, prevailed, and after being imprisoned until the end of the war he was permitted to go back to Italy.

Disastrous Fire in Toronto.

TORONTO, April 9.—A destructive fire occurred here to-night in Heintzman's piano warerooms, 117 King-street west. The entire fire brigade was on hand and in time subdued the flames, but not before great damage was done. Heintzman & Co. fix their loss at $30,000, Mr. Quinn, the shirt man, puts his at $16,000, while W. Goldstein's loss is not known, though large. The loss will probably total $50,000. The flames damaged the Rossin House adjoining, but only to a slight extent. This is the worst fire that has visited Toronto since the University went up in smoke.

Mutilating Dominion Bills.

OTTAWA, April 9.—The attention of the officers of the Finance Department has been called to a practice which is being indulged in by some smart individuals in Western Ontario. Dominion bills have been mutilated by scissoring out certain portions of one dollar bills and then, by carefully pasting the pieces together, an entirely new bill has been made. Thus, five single dollar bills have been converted into six bills and the Government cheated to the extent of $1 in six. The Assistant Receiver-General at Toronto has been requested to communicate with the different banks on the subject, and it is probable that prompt steps will be taken to stop the practice.

Wright the Wrong Man.

HAMILTON, April 9.—Alfred Wright, who was arrested here on the charge of impersonating a voter named Hands, a Toronto policeman, at the last Dominion elections in Haldimand, was taken to Cayuga by Constable Farrell. He had to pay his own expenses at the hotel. Wright was tried before two magistrates at Cayuga yesterday, when the magistrate discharged Wright, as there was no evidence against him. He says that he was not near Cayuga on election day. Wright is going to see if he can't obtain redress.

Fever on Shipboard.

GLASGOW, April 9.—The Anchor line steamship Circassia, which left New York March 18 and reached Greenock yesterday with fever on board, is detained at quarantine. The sickness reported is even more severe than at first supposed. The second engineer died from the fever during the voyage and seven others of the Circassia's crew are suffering from the same malady. The nature of the fever is not stated.

Suicide at Galt.

GALT, April 9.—Albert Chandin, a married man, aged 45 years, committed suicide here to-day by taking a dose of "Rough on Rats." Deceased was an Englishman and had been drinking to excess lately.

Still a Tie.

ROCHESTER, April 9.—To-night's scores in the bicycle race: Clark 381 miles 6 laps; Readfax, 380 miles 6 laps; Ashinger 3[illegible], Appel 3[illegible], Desmond 301 miles.

The Cokedom Shooting.

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., April 9.—This afternoon Capt. Loar and 13 deputies were arrested on a charge of murder for shooting the strikers at Frick's Coke works last week. They were taken to Scottdale, where they will give bail.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

THE IRISH LAND BILL CALLS FORTH WARM DISCUSSION.

Another Rising at Oporto—Military Called Out to Quell the Outbreak—They Charge the Mob, Injuring Many.

OPORTO, April 9.—This city, recently the scene of a violent Republican outbreak, was to-day disturbed by Republican rioters. The trouble arose from the arrest during a fair of several thieves who were mistaken by the crowd for Republican agitators. A riot followed, which the military were summoned to quell. The soldiers were stoned by the rioters and were forced to charge upon the mob, injuring many. They finally quelled the disturbance, but extra precautions against future disorder are being taken by the authorities, who are cognizant of latent agitation.

Revolutionists Indicted for Murder.

BERNE, April 9.—The Court of Indictment has decided to try Castioni on the charge of murdering Councillor Rossi in the revolution in the canton of Ticino in September last and 21 other Ticinese who took part in the insurrection.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

The Land Bill up for Discussion—A Lively Debate.

LONDON, April 9.—In the House of Commons this evening in committee on the Irish land bill Henry Fowler (Lib.) moved that the salaries of land commissioners be placed in the estimates and thereby be controlled by Parliament. Mr. Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, contended that the land commission ought, like the judges, to be paid out of the consolidated fund and not be subject to the control of majorities swayed by party influences. If the commission, he said, became the slaves of Government it would be impossible to command the respect of all classes in Ireland.

Mr. Healy held that the proposal was a vital one. The Government had rigged up a commission out of Tory nominees and attaches of the House of Lords, the permanent landlords' barracks. The only chance the tenants had rested in the control of the commission by Parliament.

T. W. Russell (Unionist) declared the Government's attitude would be resented in Ulster.

Mr. Morley said the proposal of the Government was a mischievous blow at the soundest principle of the Constitution and Parliament.

Fowler's motion was rejected, 183 to 143.

The House presented an air of liveliness this evening. There was a goodly muster of members and the galleries were well filled. All the Irish leaders except Parnell were in their places when the House was called to order, an unusual scene lately on Irish benches. Mr. Gladstone occupied his accustomed seat. Mr. Balfour was apparently happy in the thought of the House having at last reached the Irish land bill. The Irish members looked rather solemn, being affected by their knowledge of the difference of opinion existing in their ranks regarding the measure, Parnell and his followers favoring the rapid passage of the bill.

During the proceedings Tim Healy assailed Messrs. [illegible] and Thomas W. Russell for supporting the Government against a [illegible] amendment offered by Healy. The Speaker finally ended the matter by calling Healy to order for prolixity and Nolan for using unparliamentary language.

Parnell arrived at a late hour. He met Maurice Healy on entering the House, but did not speak to him.

NAMING THE MAN.

When He Stated Gladstone Had Granted Audience to American Dynamiters.

LONDON, April 9.—In connection with the charge made by Mr. Parnell at the meeting in Phoenix Park, Dublin, recently that Mr. Gladstone had received American dynamiters at his residence at Hawarden, The St. James Gazette publishes a story to the effect that Mr. Atkinson of Detroit, Mich., and Dr. O'Reilly visited England in 1889 as emissaries of Alexander Sullivan and as representatives of the Irish-American extremist party, and that while in England upon that occasion the two gentlemen named visited Mr. Gladstone. The St. James Gazette adds that, as Dr. O'Reilly's name was one of the most notorious names in connection with dynamiters, Mr. Gladstone could not have received him or Mr. Atkinson without knowing their true character.

Deplorable Prospects for McCarthyites.

DUBLIN, April 9.—Yesterday at the first public meeting of the National Federation, which was presided over by Thomas Sexton, the announcement was made that the account standing in the name of John Dillon had been overdrawn to the amount of $15,000. Other urgent liabilities, amounting to $40,000, were also reported. A resolution was adopted to call upon Parnell and McCarthy to at once release from the fund a sum sufficient to meet present and future liabilities.

A Gory-Hued Circular.

ROME, April 9.—The Socialists throughout Italy are organizing a demonstration for May 1. As a preparative for the demonstration they have issued a sinister manifesto printed on red paper, which is being secretly distributed among working men. This circular calls upon the Neapolitans to meet in Naples on May Day.

Justin McCarthy, M.P. for Newry, has offered to resign his seat in the House of Commons in favor of Dr. Shaw, if that gentleman will consent to resume his old position as [illegible].

The Newfoundland delegates will be allowed to plead their case at the bar of the House of Commons. Their arguments will thus gain great publicity.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, APRIL 10, 1891.

TWO ARTICLES OF CONSUMPTION.

THE sugar question has taken on a new phase, says the Toronto Empire, by the fact that under the new tariff law of the United States raw sugar is admitted free into that country, a change which will undoubtedly cheapen the price there. As a duty for revenue purposes has long been levied upon raw sugar in this country—under both Liberal and Conservative Administrations—and brings to the treasury about three million dollars a year, and therefore enhances the price, it is argued that the duty will have to go here in order to cheapen Canadian sugar. The loss to the revenue under that abolition of duty would of course have, as everyone understands, to be made up by a tax of some other sort, and whatever policy the Dominion Government decides to adopt will have to keep that end in view. As the Government is exceedingly capable, and looks after the interests of Canada with marked success, it will not probably require to call in the assistance of the Opposition organs in framing the best course to follow on the sugar question. When a decision is arrived at it is sure to be in the general interest.

The item of coal oil is also causing the Opposition organists much trouble, and several of them are losing sleep over the question. They declare that the price is too high, that the tariff is the cause and that the quality is not good. What is the use of the Conservative worrying themselves by answering these allegations, when we have good Liberal authority for declaring them to be one and all utterly without foundation and the invention of prejudice? No one will question the soundness of Mr. Lister, M.P. for West Lambton, as a Liberal of standing, and his testimony on these points is very conclusive. As to the inferiority of the oil, this is Mr. Lister's testimony (Hansard, 1887, page 1,155):

"I deny that the foreign oil is better than the oil manufactured here. I say that the oil manufactured here is equal to any petroleum oil manufactured in the world. I frankly admit that in the past the oil was inferior, but the difficulties which the refiners encountered have been overcome, and we are manufacturing to day as fine a burning oil as can be produced in the world."

Now with regard to the price of coal oil, and to the allegation that an abolition of the duty would effect a decrease, Mr. Lister is equally explicit:

"We know perfectly well, as far as the United States is concerned, that the whole oil interest of the United States is practically controlled by the Standard Oil Company, and we know that they have been bringing oil into this country to sell at a less price than the cost of producing it, in order to get control of this market. The moment you strangle that industry you will get the price up at once. The people of Canada are to-day getting their oil much cheaper than they ever did before. If my hon. friend from the sea thinks he will be able to get it cheaper, perhaps he will for a time, but the moment the Standard Oil Company came here he would have to pay a higher price."

This is the case in a nutshell, and disposes very neatly, without Conservative intervention, of another tariff bogey of the Opposition.

Stand Your Ground.

When you make up your mind to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to buy some other preparation instead. Clerks claim that "ours is as good as Hood's" and all that, but the peculiar merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla cannot be equalled. Therefore have nothing to do with substitutes and insist upon having Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier and building-up medicine.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

A PETITION TO THE QUEEN RESPECTING EDUCATION.

Mr. Campbell of Durham Wants Such Changes in the B. N. A. Act as Will Place Education Completely Under the Jurisdiction of the Legislature.

TORONTO, April 10.—In the Ontario Legislature yesterday Mr. Campbell (East Durham) introduced this notice of motion: 1, that legislation respecting denominational schools in Upper Canada was adopted by the Parliament of the late Province of Canada at a time when Upper and Lower Canada were joined in a Legislative Union; 2, that this legislation was adopted by the Parliament of Canada against the wishes and opinion of a large majority of the representatives of Upper Canada in the Legislative Assembly; 3, that by the passage of the British North America Act, 1867, the Imperial Parliament imposed on certain Provincial Legislatures restrictions in dealing with education; 4, that in consequence of these restrictions the people of Ontario are not free to make such laws respecting education as they may from time to time deem necessary and prudent; 5, that such restrictions are contrary to the principles of proper responsible government as conferred on the Dominion of Canada and on the several provinces composing it and to the autonomous powers which were in other respects granted to the Provincial Legislatures; 6, that the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec are the only provinces of the Dominion of Canada which are so restricted; 7, that in opinion of this House the interests of the country require such change in the British North America Act, 1867, as will place education under the jurisdiction of the Ontario Legislature as completely as the various subjects assigned to provincial jurisdiction under section 91 of that act; 8, that a humble address be presented by this House to Her Most Gracious Majesty, embodying the foregoing resolutions, and praying that she will be pleased to have them brought to the notice of the Houses of Parliament with a view to securing the change desired.

A Serious Riot at Hof.

MUNICH, April 9.—News has reached this city of a serious riot at Hof, in Upper Franconia, on the Saale. Polack workmen were fiercely attacked by unemployed Saxons and Bavarians and a desperate struggle ensued. Twenty-five men were more or less seriously wounded. The police were unable to cope with the enraged workmen, and it was found necessary to call on the [illegible] of the garrison for assistance in restoring order.

Female Police Justices

ATCHISON, Kan., April 9.—At the recent election Mrs. Mary T. Burton, formerly editor of The Kansan and at present postmistress, was elected police judge at Jamestown. Mrs. Jessie McCormick was elected police judge at Burr Oak. Both are strong prohibitionists. Mrs. Burton is the widow of a prominent politician who died from the effects of strong drink.

A Bright Fruit Outlook.

GRIMSBY, April 9.—An examination of the condition of the fruit trees in this neighborhood this week shows that the prospects are bright for an almost unprecedented crop of various kinds of fruit this year. The continued cold weather has prevented the buds from coming out and nothing has, therefore, suffered from the frost or ice. The fruit growers are greatly encouraged at the outlook.

Brothers Seek Death Together.

LANCASTER, Pa., April 9.—Milton Kauffman died ten days ago under mysterious circumstances, and last night his brother Harry died from the same symptoms, which resembled arsenical poisoning. Their father to-day stated that Harry had confessed to him that he and his brother had taken poison with the object of dying together. The boy would give no explanation of the act.

Indigestion

IS not only a distressing complaint, of itself, but, by causing the blood to become depraved and the system enfeebled, is the parent of innumerable maladies. That Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best cure for Indigestion, even when complicated with Liver Complaint, is proved by the following testimony from Mrs. Joseph Lake, of Brockway Centre, Mich.:—

"Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony, was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an improvement in my condition. My appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life."

SPRING, GARDEN SPRING,
1891. WORK!! 1891.

Only live fish swim up stream and only live seeds will grow.

My seeds are tested so that their vitality is assured.

And when you sow them you know what you are going to reap.

It requires about the same carefulness in a seed store as it does in a druggists establishment.

A TRUTH.—Good seed is never cheap, in the way that men look upon cheapness.

My prices are as reasonable as those engaged in same business in Toronto and Montreal.

My Seed Trade is increasing every year but I want every man, woman and child that has a bit of garden, to get a part of it, at least planted with my Seed.

I know they will grow and come up without the aid of a flock of chickens to bring them to the surface, provided of course you do not put them too deep and to avoid this, look for instructions in my Seed and Plant Reporter. Get one at Seed Store, corner of Brock and Water-sts.

CASH HARDWARE STORE.

On and after 1st April we shall do business on a Cash Basis.

To cover the inevitable losses attendant upon a credit business, (which accrue from amount of time spent in keeping accounts, collecting, bad debts, interest account, and in numerous other ways, larger margins of profit must be asked.

In these times cash buyers ask, expect and are entitled to close prices. A careful consideration of the subject convinces us that the time has come for a cash business done on smaller profits.

The only customers who may be put to inconvenience are those who have had long credit. In more ways than one it will be to their advantage to pay cash.

For convenience of our old customers who consider their accounts due when presented, we will call 30 days cash and render all accounts the first of each month, and we wish to say that we will be happy to do business with them on these terms.

As the new departure is something of an experiment, what would be considered a close cash price will be made all through the stock. Not a few leaders only, but a general reduction in everything from the fourth flat to the cellar.

Our idea is to perform more than promised rather than promise more than can be fulfilled.

Our stock is large and varied, consisting of Builders', Contractors', Household, Mechanics', Painters', Shoemakers', Farm, Mill, Factory, Lumbermen's, Sporting, Threshers', Cabinetmakers', and other lines of Hardware.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

Allowed to Go.

A Good Entertainment.

A large audience assembled in the Opera House last evening to greet the Zera Semon on his return to Peterborough, and Zera gave them a good entertainment. The performances in magic were startling and thoroughly mystifying, and the jugglery was wonderful. The singing and dancing also were good, and the large audience was so well pleased that no doubt the company will draw full houses during the remainder of their stay.

A Society Funeral.

The funeral of the late Francis J. Parker took place yesterday afternoon from the Nicholls Hospital. He was a member of Jubilee Lodge of 'Prentice Boys, and the funeral was attended by King William Lodge of True Blues, the local Orange Lodge, and Jubilee Lodge of 'Prentice Boys. The cortege was headed by the Y.M.C.A. band. The pall bearers, members of the lodge of 'Prentice Boys, were Messrs. Wm. Lyons, Andrew Armour, Thos. Duncan, R. Carter, R. Cook and John Elliott. The funeral passed down George-st. to the Little Lake Cemetery, where the interment took place with the usual ceremony.

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that the people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick-headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sell at 50c and $1 a package and is called Lane's Family Medicine.

A Sad Death.

The Lindsay Watchman says:—"We regret to say that a young man of much promise named Edward Shea, son of the late Thos. Shea, of Manvers, who has been attending the collegiate institute in this town, died on Monday last under very sad circumstances. He went home for his Easter holidays, where he contracted a disease which turned out to be black diphtheria. On his return to Lindsay, he became so ill that his medical attendant advised him to go home as quickly as possible. He continued so ill that he was unable to direct the driver to his home. We learn that there are several cases of this dread disease in the neighborhood of Fleetwood and that there have been several deaths during the past few days. It behoves our town authorities to be on the alert and prevent its appearance in our town."

Col. H. C. Rogers, brought up the defective sanitary arrangements of the town and pointed out that something should be done at once to remedy the evil complained of. He suggested that a deputation from the board should wait on the Town Council and press the matter.

Mr. Hay suggested a formal communication from the board to the Council would draw the attention of the Council to the matter.

Col. H. C. Rogers submitted the following resolution, seconded by Mr. T. A. Hay,—That the Board would respectfully urge upon the attention of the Town Council the urgent need of sewers in the town. The The Board recommend that a scheme of drainage be adopted and proceeded with so that George-st. shall be at once supplied with the needful drainage and other portions completed from time to time as the finances of the town will warrant.

The resolution was carried.

THE CANAL DEPUTATION.

The President reminded the Board that it was proposed to send a large deputation to Ottawa to press for the early commencement of work on the Trent Valley Canal. It was expected that members of the Board would join with the deputation and that the Board should be well represented. On motion the following members were appointed:—Messrs. W. H. Meldrum, R. Mulholland, Col. H. C. Rogers and George Hilliard.

The canal question was discussed for some time, members giving their views.

Mr. W. H. Casement, of Lakefield, and Mr. J. P. Hurley, of town, were proposed for membership.

MORE TOWN PUBLICITY.

A resolution was passed that Messrs. Manson, Fair, Hay and Meldrum be a committee to wait on the Town Council and ask for a grant of money to be expended by the Board on advertising the advantages of the town.

A Presentiment.

In reporting the sad death by drowning in Campbellford of the little daughter of Mr. Joseph Sconey, the Herald says:—"Mr. Sconey had a presentiment that morning that something would go wrong and told his wife that he feared one of his relatives was dead. With this fear he returned home after going into the country, instead of going further away as he intended doing, only to find his little child cold in death. The father and mother have the sympathy of the entire public."

Children Poisoned.

The Minden Echo says:—"Two little children of Mr. George Barry's of this village were playing out doors and got hold of a bottle containing belladonna on Saturday morning last, and helped themselves to a portion of its contents. Noticing one of them acting strangely and the other apparently gone to sleep the parents became alarmed and called in Dr. Curry who by the use of emetics and other means succeeded in saving the children's lives. This should be a warning to everybody not to leave poisonous drugs within the reach of the children or as in the present case throw a corked bottle out doors that contains poisonous mixtures where it might be picked up."

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND ELECTION.

Three Opposition Members Elected, Giving the Opposition a Majority.

By Telegraph to the Review.

HALIFAX, April 10.—Elections in three divisions in Prince Edward Island yesterday for local assembly resulted in the election of three Opposition candidates. Dr. Jenkins and Messrs. Robertson and Cumminsky. This gives the Opposition a majority of one in the Assembly, and will doubtless lead to a change of Government and probably to a dissolution of the Legislature.

BAILIEBORO.

A Sabbath School Teacher Kindly Remembered by his Class.

Correspondence of the Review.

Mr. and Mrs. David Lewis were pleasantly suprised on Friday evening by a call from the members of Mr. Lewis' Sabbath school class, who presented them with a handsome silver pickle cruet accompanied by the following address:—

DEAR TEACHER.—We, the members of your Sabbath school class, present you with this pickle cruet in token of our respect and good wishes.

The class unite in wishing you very much happiness, and hope that you may still continue to be our teacher.

FROM YOUR CLASS.

Miss Maggie Soden made the presentation and the address was read by Miss Maud McClung. Mr. Lewis thanked his class in behalf of himself and his wife, and after spending a pleasant hour the party dispersed.

Sons of Scotland.

It is probable that a branch of the order of Sons of Scotland will be organized here next week. The enthusiastic Scotchmen who are promoting the formation of the branch have been very successful and have obtained about fifty names on the list of charter members. The society will thus begin with a good membership.

What a debt of gratitude the world owes to such men as Drs. Ayer and Jenner—the latter for the great discovery of vaccination and the former for his Extract of Sarsaparilla—the best of blood-purifiers! Who can estimate how much these discoveries have benefitted the race?

Haliburton 'Taters.

The Haliburton correspondent of the Bobcaygeon Independent writes:—"The only instance of liveliness lately has been in the potato trade. Mr. Fitzgerald has been buying all 'taters offering at 50 cents a bushel. They are for export to the States. He has bought several car-loads and expects to get several more. These potatoes have been sent chiefly to Cincinnati. Costing 50c. here, and with a duty of 25c., they must reach nearly a dollar a bushel before they get into the Cincinnati market. It is supposed that they are wanted for seed, the fame of the potatoes raised in the county of Haliburton having spread all over the continent. There can be no doubt whatever that the potatoes of this district are the finest in the world. I am told that in the best restaurants in Cincinnati, a Haliburton baked 'tater is considered a 'bonbouch,' and in the 'creme de la creme' of American society make presents of Haliburton 'taters as great delicacies. We are very glad to get 50c. a bushel. It is wonderful how little our 'taters suffered from the epidemic of rot which attacked 'taters in all other parts of this continent.

Organ Recital.

The organ recital given in St. John's church last evening by Dr. Davis was largely attended by an appreciative audience. Dr. Davies manipulated the instrument with his customary skill and the entire programme was excellently given, though the third number may be mentioned as a brilliant one and the last was very much appreciated. The programme was as follows:—

1. Sonata No. 2 (four movements)	Mendelssohn
2. Nocturne in F	Kœhler
3. Overture....."Cosi fan tutte"	Mozart
4. Andante	Wely
5. Selection from "Judas Maccabeus"	Handel
6. "Hymne a St. Cecile"	Gounod
7. Swedish March	Sodermann
8. Marcia Pomposo	Panofka

—The residence of Mr. Robert Rankin, sr. in Port Hope, was burned yesterday morning with its contents. It was insured for $800. A barn belonging to Mr. J. Grimison was burned at the same time.

—Mr. Wm. Dunk, of Campbellford, had two fingers of his right hand split from the top to the first joint by a saw in a sash and door factory in which he was working.

The Last Meeting of the Town Council.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—The amusement it afforded me in reading the REVIEW's report of the Town Council's meeting on Monday night was marred by the thought that the expense of the luxury had to come out of the pockets of the ratepayers. In their ardent desire to serve their new found masters of the C.P.R. Co., they rushed through two readings of a by-law to rob the town of a part of Wolfe-st. and turn the same over to the C.P.R. Co. without the leave or license of the property owners who are shut out from their lots without any compensation whatever being offered therefor. One would think from their actions that they were the paid agents of a wily, over-reaching and self-seeking railway company rather then the guardians of the people's interests. We might well cry halt and ask whither are we drifting? Where are the representatives of the South Ward, in whose ward the act of spoliation is being attempted? Can they afford to ignore the interests of their constituents in their over zeal to serve this inflated company? Our council a few years ago tried this same trick, but redress was sought in the courts and their precious by-law was knocked into a cocked hat, and right prevailed to the tune some hundreds of dollars out of the town coffers. Let the ratepayers be on their guard again for "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." Nor can these custodians of the people's rights be called sticklers on this point, for we find them invading a a widow's home hard by and laying waste her small plot of ground under the pretext of opening up a street that had an existence in their imagination half a century ago, with what success, the court is this day trying to decide. Before closing I would suggest that if the Railway Co. is too poor to buy a piece of land for themselves, which is plentiful in the vicinity of Spaulding's Bay, the Town Council should buy it for them, which would be cheaper than paying costs on interminable law suits, or still better let one of their number, say Mr. Cahill, solicit subscriptions to the fund and so it would appear more voluntary on the part of the ratepayers.

Yours &c.,
Ratepayer.

THE FATTED CALF. THOUGH DEAD, YET SPEAKETH.

On the Saturday preceding Easter, upon entering the doorway of H. C. Winch & Bro.'s meat stall, I was delighted to behold a splendid and extremely fat calf hanging half skinned and magnificently decorated. The sight inspired the muse.—And the calf tells its tale of woe.

It is Easter—men seem to rejoice and to feast,
But the season means death to the fowl and the beast.
Men's love must be dead and their sympathy cold,
They regard not the life of a beast, young or old,
They would kill a young calf, yes, before its skin dried,
That their nice craving appetites might be supplied.
They would break family ties for veal cutlets or steak
Though my grief-stricken mother would bawl for a week.
Two happier bovines never stood in a byre,
And a more kinder mother not a calf could desire.
When I stood up beside her to suck her rich milk,
Then she licked all my back till it shaded like silk.
My young frolicking days were too pleasant to last,
And a dark hour arrived before two months had passed.
I was laid half asleep when they gave me a pinch;
I looked up at my boss and your friend Harry Winch.
My boss puffed and blowed on the milk that I drank,
Harry handed my brisket, ribs, pinbone and flank.
I knew not the meaning when I heard Harry say,
"It will suit me tip-top for my Easter display."
Then they lifted me up to the rig for a ride,
I could hear my poor mother loud bawling inside;
Of such grief Boss nor Harry no notice did take,
All their thoughts were the dollars and cents they could make.
That last ride changed my joy into torture and pain
For Tomson, the cruel wretch cut my jugler vein;
He half-skinned and disbowelled me, dressed me nicely for sale,
Then he split up my body from the neck to the tail.
I am dead here; I hang with my back to the wall
To be gazed at by crowds as they enter your stall;
I am stretched out and covered with my fat like a net,
Decorated with motions, grand flowers and rosette.
Harry Winch and his brother keep me always in your view,
If you were a fat calf they would soon slaughter you:
For they search the whole globe for their Easter display—
They would butcher a whale if it came in their way.
My short life seemed a dream, a short joy then a sorrow,
A grand show for to-day, a rich feast for to-morrow.
I craved a true wish as I breathed my last breath,
That my mother would gore both the Winchs to death.

WM. TELFORD, Smith.

The Wolf Turned Shepherd.

It is fabled, that once upon a time a wolf finding his tithes few and scarce, determined to turn shepherd; and for this end provided himself with hat, cloak, crook, and the pastoral pipe. To call the flocks, he was obliged to imitate the shepherd's voice. In doing so his true character was discovered, and he lost his life. Diamond Dyes for domestic dyeing guarantee the protection of all fabrics, and give to the consumer all that can be desired in beauty, brilliancy, fastness and durability of colors. Common, crude dyes, outwardly are dressed to imitate the genuine Diamond Dyes, but their effect when used, causes consternation and ruin. As the wolf's voice betrayed his true character, so will the use of inferior dyes no matter how clothed, reveal their disastrous composition.

Someone advertises for "a house girl to assist in washing of a small [illegible] someone else wants "a gentleman [illegible] breakfast and tea." There are wants that can, no doubt, be easily satisfied. It is only fair to assume that in having the gentleman for tea that an accompaniment of the meal will be a cup of Hawley Bros. superior flavored Teas. You provide the boiling water, Hawley does the rest. d76

The publishers of Our Homes, a large, elegantly printed 32-page magazine, announce that in order to increase their circulation they are willing to devote their entire first year's profits to this end, and in order to do so, offer competitions in which they give large cash rewards to those taking part. One of these competitions is now in progress and closes on April 25th. In addition to the large amount given in cash on their general prize list, they offer as an extra inducement the following special cash prizes:—During the weeks ending April 11th and April 18th they offer daily cash prizes of $10, and a weekly cash prize of $50 for the first named week, and $100 for the latter. For the week ending April 25th they offer daily cash prizes of $25, and a prize of $100 for the week. These exceedingly generous prizes are in addition to the general prize list, and the person who gets one of the special rewards may also get a large prize in the general list. No other magazine publishers have ever made such a liberal offer, and as the competition remains open three more weeks you should avail yourself of the liberal offer at once. A Cure for Constipation and Headache.

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache and is the best Spring Medicine. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a package.

There is danger in impure blood. There is safety in taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. 100 doses one dollar.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease consumption. Ask yourself if you can afford for the sake of saving 50cc., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. d16w4-6m

FRIDAY, APRIL 10, 1891.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

"And now she means to shake him—is that it?" said Bellingham.

"Well, apparently not. She seems to have plenty of money herself, and she has made him a proposition which does her credit. She has proposed to marry him and pay back the money that he has spent on her. I have begun to fall in love with her myself! And I may do it if she'll have me: for Mr. Edwardes' pride, as he calls it, would not allow him to accept her proposal, and hence his misery, which at one time last night assumed quite a suicidal complexion, but I remonstrated with him, and he felt a little better this morning."

While they were sitting there the door was suddenly opened, and in came young Mr. Edwardes himself in a state of great excitement. He had a newspaper in his hand.

"Did you know what was in this paper?" demanded he, striding up to Helwise.

"What one generally finds in a New York Sunday paper two weeks old," returned Helwise, tipping back his hat and looking up at him. "This is Mr. Bellingham, Mr. Edwardes."

The latter looked at the architect, and seemed to hesitate whether or not to proceed, but the emotion by which he was possessed was too much for him; he went on. "It says here," he exclaimed, holding the paper toward Helwise, with his finger on the paragraph, "that—here, read it yourself!"

Helwise took the paper and read: "Mlle. Marana, the great Russian prima donna, who has endeared herself to all New Yorkers during the past season by her charming behavior as well as by her unrivaled musical powers, will next month bring to a close the most successful engagement ever known in this city. Mlle. Marana has lately been in delicate health. To those of thousands of her friends and admirers we add our own cordial hopes that she may return to us next spring with renewed strength and energy. Meanwhile we shall not look upon her like again."

"Is that the paragraph you mean?" asked Helwise, looking up. "What's the trouble with it?"

"Only that there's no such person as Mlle. Marana in New York, nor ever was—that's all!" cried out the young gentleman in a loud tone.

"You're mistaken, sir," put in Bellingham. "I'm personally acquainted with Mlle. Marana, and have heard her sing in New York this season a score of times."

"You heard an impostor, then!" returned the other angrily. "I know what I'm talking about. Good God! don't I know who the Marana is?"

"Keep your coat on, young man," said Helwise with a quiet laugh. "Possibly you are mistaken instead of Mr. Bellingham."

"Well, I beg your pardon, gentlemen," said Edwardes, putting a restraint on himself and speaking in an agitated voice. "If you only knew you would pardon me. But look here, sir—Mr. Bellingham—I'll tell you. I met Mlle. Marana in Moscow last summer. She—well, the truth is, she's the lady who is here with me now. She had an engagement with a fellow named Inigo to sing this season in New York for four thousand dollars a night, and,—she gave it up because I asked her. I guess there isn't more than one Marana in this world! There's only one woman alive who could sing anything near her, and that's my own sister—whom I ruined and disgraced, by George!" Here, in spite of his struggles to prevent them, tears forced themselves into the young gentleman's eyes, and he sat down and hid his face in his hands. "And now, to think," he cried out, starting up again and walking to and fro in the room, "to think, after all she's done for me, that scoundrel Inigo should trump up an imposter to take her place! By George, I'll bring him to book if I live another fortnight!"

"You are making a singular accusation, Mr. Edwardes," said Bellingham sternly. "Will you vouch for its accuracy?"

"Yes, I will vouch for it, Mr. Bellingham," returned the other, facing him; "and my name is not Edwardes. I've had enough of this humbug. There's my card, sir."

Bellingham took the card. "Edward Randolph," he read and paused. He looked at the young man curiously.

"May I ask your father's name?" he said at length.

"Alexander Randolph," Edward replied.

"A tall man, about fifty-five, with gray mustache and imperial?"

"That's the man. Do you know him?"

"I have met him. You had better go home and look after him," said Bellingham gravely, "and get your Mlle. Marana to go with you."

Bellingham left for Liverpool the same evening, and took passage for New York two days later. Edward Randolph and Mlle. Marana sailed the same day on another steamer, and they all arrived at their destination within ten days afterward.

CHAPTER XI.

WHAT HAPPENED TO HER IN THE MEANWHILE.

Hamilton Jocelyn had observed with anxiety the progress of the acquaintance between Bellingham and the prima donna and was casting about in his mind how to put a stop to it, when Bellingham suddenly disappeared. He would have inferred that he must have proposed to mademoiselle and been refused had not the latter's aspect plainly showed that she was suffering quite as much as Bellingham could be supposed to be. Jocelyn's acuteness was not of a fine enough order to enable him to hit upon the real explanation. But the episode also admonished him that it was full time he himself took a leading and a winning hand in the game.

Accordingly Jocelyn insensibly began to draw nearer to the object of his attentions. He talked to her a great deal about her profession, about the prerogatives of genius, and the peculiar privileges permitted to the artistic and especially to the musical temperament. He launched into philosophical speculations about the constitution of society, and demonstrated what a gigantic tyranny the marriage covenant was as at present administered. The time would come, he declared, when we should look back upon such a state of things with wonder mingled with disgust.

"THE CAT IN GLOVES catches no mice," and so is the business man handicapped who suffers from sick headache, biliousness and dyspepsia, unless he makes use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

For men or women of sedentary habits, there is nothing equal to them as a gentle laxative to the bowels, and as a regulator of the entire digestive system. No griping, no pain, they are as gentle as Nature herself in their action.

Persons whose business gives them little physical exercise, will do well to always keep a vial in their vest pocket, to ward off all attacks of indigestion.

One little "Pellet" a dose as a laxative; three or four as a cathartic.

Being purely vegetable, they operate without disturbance to the system, diet or occupation. Put up in sealed vials, hence always fresh and reliable, which is not the case with pills put up in wood and pasteboard boxes.

The "Pleasant Pellets" are the only Liver Pill sold, by druggists, under a positive guarantee from their makers, of their giving satisfaction in every case, or price paid for them (25 cents) will be refunded.

They're the cheapest pill sold, because you only pay for the good you get.

Can you ask more?

Something is lost when you use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It's Catarrh. No matter how bad your case, or of how long standing, you can be cured. Incurable cases are rare. It's worth $500 to you, if you have one. The manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Remedy are looking for them. They'll pay you that amount in cash, if they can't cure you. It's a plain square offer from a responsible business house, and they mean it. It seems too one-sided, too much of a risk. It would be—with any other medicine behind it. But incurable cases are rare—with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

SUDDENLY SUMMONED.

Sudden Deaths in Various Sections of Ontario.

ARTHUR, April 9.—Mrs. Hugh McTaggart of Arthur complained to her husband while working around the house of a pain in her heart, then a chill in her back. She sat down by the stove to warm herself, when her head fell forward on her breast, and before a doctor could be secured for her she was dead.

Drowned in a Railway Ditch.

SARNIA, April 9.—Daniel Carter, a resident of Point Edward, was last seen alive Monday evening, and was then considerably under the influence of liquor. It is supposed that he wandered out along the railway track by mistake for the way to his home, and that he stumbled off the track into the ditch and was unable, in his helpless condition, to extricate himself. Mr. Leckie next morning found the dead body of Carter lying face downward in the ditch between the two tracks of the Y, the water at the spot being only two feet deep. Deceased was a man of about 63 years of age, an Englishman and a pensioner of the British army.

Death at the Journey's End.

BROCKVILLE, April 9.—Yesterday afternoon an old man named John Goodin, aged 82 years, was found dead in a boat at Jones Creek by some men who were fishing in that vicinity. After drawing the boat up on land he had taken off his coat and used it for a pillow. Monday afternoon he procured a boat at Lachapelle's boat works to row up the river and probably died on the way.

Burned to Death.

BARRIE, April 9.—Mrs. Feigner, living on the 11th con. West Gwillimbury, was standing near the stove when by some means her clothes caught fire, and when her son John Stephen, who had been from the house only a few minutes, came in he found her lying on the floor, apparently suffocated and badly burned. Dr. Stevenson was called in and did all he could to relieve the sufferer, who died next day.

Died in a Drug Store.

HAMILTON, April 9.—Harvey Crosthwaite, a well-known Bartonville farmer, walked into A. Rutherford's drug store yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock looking as well as usual, made a purchase and 15 minutes later his body was carried out in a coffin. Death resulted from heart disease.

Only Two Hours' Warning.

MINTO, April 9.—William, son of Robert Scott, reeve of Minto, attended school as usual, came home at night, assisted his father in feeding the stock and took his tea all right. Just before retiring for the night he complained of a pain in the bowels. Two hours later he was dead.

Dropped Dead While Preparing Tea.

WOLFE ISLAND, April 9.—Mrs. John Laughlin was busy preparing the tea when she suddenly gasped and fell to the floor. A doctor was immediately summoned, but before he arrived she was a corpse. Her mother-in-law died suddenly a week ago.

Killed in His Father's Mill.

QUEBEC, April 9.—The young son of Mr. Elie Martel of St. Augustine, while near a large revolving wheel in his father's flour mill, was struck by the wheel and literally cut into three pieces.

Found Her Daughter a Corpse.

RIDGETOWN, April 9.—Mrs. Gilbert, widow of the late Ira Gilbert, was found dead in her bed by her mother, Mrs. Kilbora, who resided with her. On going to arouse her she found she was dead.

Two Good Things IN FLOUR
1. Scale Weight.
2. First Quality.

If good flour makes good bread it follows that one sort of flour makes better bread than another.

Which sort makes best?

That depends. The best flour is the purest, the best ground, the strongest and containing the most health giving and nourishing properties.

These good points are all found in our Flour.

Have you tried it? Perhaps yes. Perhaps no. If you have not, do so, and you may find a better flour than you have been using, and we a customer.

TURNBULL'S Display.

The Spring Styles shown this season are such a decided change and unusually pretty. We want all to see them to the best advantage and naturally to leave the impression, that for decidedly New and Cheap Goods, Turnbull's is the right place to go for a large selection. Since our store has been thoroughly renovated, the first thing that strikes you on approaching the George-st. entrance is the white front and large show windows handsomely decorated with Fine Millinery Goods, Printed Challies, etc. too numerous to describe, which is but indicative of the clean stock within and our clean and straight-forward manner of doing business. While passing through the store, even when not intending to buy, you are compelled to stop and price some of the articles on display. Pretty Print Blouses from 50c. each, up to those of Figured Wool Delane at $1.75. Neat Patterns in Light Prints, narrow, but warranted to wash at 5c. a yd. Novelties in Pearl Bead Frillings at 5c. a frill. White embroidered Apron Lawns at 20c. a yd. Cream and White Curtain Nets, Taped Edge at 15c. to 25c. a yd.

Fine Navy Serges for Boys' Wear at 35c., 40c., 50c. a yd.; Handsome Patterns in Tweed at 50c. a yd.; Nice Cream Damask Table Linen at 20c. a yd. Black and Brocaded Flannelettes just suitable for baby at 15c. a yard. You pass the Dress Goods counter in a hurry, but have to ask what that shimmering, shining material is that is hard to describe. Still everybody falls in love with it, and no wonder the manufacturers call it Glorosia. On reaching the archway leading into the Simcoe-st. store you are struck with amazement and almost think you have got into midsummer and begin to look around for the bumble bees and humming birds among the flowers. Some of the leading colors are the New Shades in Heliotrope and Lavender, French Grey, Buttercup and Black combined. Most of the Bonnets are small toque shapes, flat, and trimmed at the back with pretty little forget me not flowers, jewelled ribbon and lace to match. There is something very pretty for children in Leghorn Hats, trimmed with ruchings of Silk and Lace. We have received late this week a Choice Lot of very pretty Shapes in Hats and Bonnets, also the latest in Flowers from Glasgow. These styles will not be shown elsewhere. Come early and select your patterns before they get picked over.

The Accommodating Stranger Again.

SMITH'S FALLS, April 10.—John Hughes of Dacre, Renfrew county, bailiff of the fifth division court, when on his way to Springtown passed a stranger walking on the road. Mr. Hughes spoke to him and the stranger said he would ride with him a piece and got into the rig. After a short time Hughes asked the stranger to hold the lines while he filled his pipe. While Hughes was engaged in filling his pipe the stranger gave him a sudden shove, upsetting him out of the sleigh and drove rapidly away. Horse and man are still missing.

Chinamen Sent Back.

DETROIT, April 10.—Long Gian and Long Goon who a few days ago crossed from Windsor to Detroit were sent across the river with admonition not to return. They took the train this afternoon for Toronto. There is a suspicion that one of these men is engaged in the business of smuggling. Eight Chinamen have attempted to cross from Windsor during the past three days but have been prevented by the federal authorities.

Still in the Land of the Living.

FORT WAYNE, Mich., April 10.—The report telegraphed to Berlin, Ont., that the man Dunbrook, wanted for burglarizing a store at Berlin, had committed suicide at the Infantry barracks here by hanging himself in his cell is without foundation, as Dunbrook is still alive and as well and happy as his quarters in the guardhouse will allow.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is on the flood tide of popularity, which position it has reached by its own intrinsic, undoubted merit.

SENSATION AT ST. THOMAS

CALAMITY CITY'S LATEST SPICY SCANDAL.

A Woman's Tongue Responsible for the Resignation of the Respected Pastor of the First Baptist Church—As Usual There Are Two Sides to the Question.

ST. THOMAS, April 10.—For some weeks past the scandal-mongers of this city have been busy tearing to tatters the good name of Rev. A. H. Munro, pastor of the Centre-street Baptist Church, of which Rev. Elmore Harris of your city some years ago had charge. So fine a subject for attack has not been before them for a long time and they are making the most of it. All sorts of stories are afloat about him, with plenty of what is made to appear as strong circumstantial evidence back of them; and if half are true he is morally ruined beyond recovery. But there is no reason to believe that they are any of them true. The busiest tattlers have been one or two other clergymen who have long been jealous of the erratic parson's popularity, and it is found that wearers of the cloth are the quickest to accept as true and keep agoing the most extravagant tales of his immorality. They are like virtuous, seldom-tempted women, who have no mercy for the sister under suspicion, and condemn her, without a hearing, as fallen. Mr. Munro, it may be true, has acted indiscreetly, but it will require the strongest testimony direct and unanswerable to satisfy his staunch friends here that he has been guilty of the grave offences with which a female member of his congregation charged him and which a joint committee appointed by himself and the congregation pronounced not true. He has, however, so conducted himself as to invite criticism, and he cannot complain if the worldly who have followed him think they have good reason to look with suspicion upon his course. Unmindful of the fact that ministers are very generally regarded as open to the same temptations and subject to the same weaknesses as other men, while they are held up to a strict accountability, even if they are not watched, he seems to have lost sight of the admonition of St. Paul to the Thessalonians, that it was essential for the Christian disciple to "abstain from even an appearance of evil." Although a married man he had often been seen walking with pretty women who are members of his congregation. There was nothing wrong in all this, but those people who do not affect the ancient and superstitious reverence which formerly went far to save a member of the sacred calling from even a suspicion of evil, commenced to talk, and what otherwise might have remained hidden or reserved for ephemeral gossip is now public property.

The Woman in the Case.

The slough of despond in which the pastor now flounders had, as has been said, its genesis in a friendship with a well-preserved member of his congregation, a Mrs. John White, widow of a former merchant tailor, and during his lifetime one of the prominent officials of the church. While visiting some relatives Mrs. White told a circumstantial story to the effect that she had met her Faustus in her preacher, that although he had grown bald in the service of the Master his holy office had not whipped the offending Adam out of him, that in fact he frequently visited her home and instead of the time being occupied in meditation, prayer and the ministry of the Word according to St. Paul's injunction to Timothy, he rehabilitated "the kiss of peace," as practised by the early Christians at their agapes or love feasts.

Demanding an Investigation.

The story was not long in spreading. From whisperings in the closet it spread until it was heralded from the housetops, and finally reached the ears of the pastor. He promptly demanded an investigation. A committee was appointed selected from prominent members of the congregation and evidence was taken behind closed doors. It is understood that the preacher admitted that he had kissed the widow, but only in a spirit of platonic friendship. Mrs. White stuck to her story, supplementing her confession by explaining that her love for the pastor, like Aaron's rod, had a most consuming tendency. Numerous friends and relatives, however, testified that if not insane Mrs. White was given to strange imaginings and was laboring under an hallucination. The upshot was that the committee of investigation fully exonerated the pastor, who forthwith went gunning for his deacons, whom he said had been trying to undermine him.

But the report of the examining committee did not end matters. The congregation was not a unit in accepting the report of the committee as clearing the pastor of, shall we say, indiscretion, and the pew-holders became less numerous. The congregation became divided, and to add to the preacher's discomfort he received a letter from a son of Mrs. White intimating that upon a certain date he would arrive from British Columbia to shoot the destroyer of his mother's peace of mind, she having written to him making him acquainted with the "facts of the case."

The Pastor Resigns.

Finally, realizing that a house divided against itself was sure to fall, Mr. Munro sent in his resignation, which was to take effect on June 15 The majority of the congregation, however felt that the usefulness of their pastor, so far as Centre-street Church was concerned, was at an end, and that to delay his departure until June would be to work unnecessary harm to the church. Accordingly the salary which would be due to Mr. Munro up to June 1 was Thursday tendered him, and in accepting the same he signed the following document:

$350. ST. THOMAS, April 8, 1891.

Received from the Centre-street Baptist Church three hundred and fifty dollars, in full of all claims and services as pastor of said church, in consideration of which I hereby and now give up charge of said church, with the privilege, however, of preaching there on next Sabbath.

As originally written, the agreement contained the words, "give up charge of said church and congregation." The words "and congregation" were objected to by the pastor and afterwards erased, a fact which confirms the statement made by a member of the congregation that a second Baptist congregation will be formed of those loyal to the preacher and will worship in the Congregational church.

A Clever Preacher.

Mr. Munro is perhaps 55 years of age. He is a man of talents—three of which he possesses in an unusual degree: He has intellectual ability, he has the gift of felicitous rhetoric and he has the very magnetism of quiet yet commanding eloquence. But it should be added that his judgment might be greatly improved—if, indeed, that is not almost wholly the gift of nature rather than the addition of grace. He appears equally indifferent to praise or censure, and sympathy for him would be thrown away. What the upshot of the affair will be cannot be predicted at present. Mr. Munro's mistake seems to have consisted in being too careless of his own reputation, unmindful of the fact that scandalous stories might easily be set afloat which it would be awkward to meet and perhaps impossible to wholly explain before a suspicious public. Conscious that he was "square," that he tried to live his life purely and clearly, "free from all breath of scandal," he failed to abstain "from an appearance of evil." His friends believed in him before the scandal; they believe in him yet, and if the result of the trouble shall lead him henceforth to consecrate his unquestioned abilities to the duties of his calling, and to that exclusively, putting platonic affection behind him, the lesson, severe as its cost has been, will not be learned wholly in vain, while the gain to the Christian pulpit will not be insignificant. A preacher cannot serve both the Lord and Plato, even if, arithmetically expressed, Plato gets only about one-tenth of one per cent. of his services. The moral is obvious. Let the minister stick to his pulpit as the cobbler to his last, and, even as Luther threw the ink-bottle at the devil, fight against the suggestion of the flesh for a display of spiritual love during pastoral visits.

The church will doubtless be crowded to the doors on Sabbath next, when Mr. Munro will deliver his farewell sermon, and that it will score sundry members who have set their faces steadfastly against him in this his hour of trouble goes without saying.

HER LIFE FOR HER SIN.

The Mother of the Murdered Bond-street Babe Dying.

ORANGEVILLE, April 10.—The mother of the infant found dead in a shed in rear of 16 Bond-street, Toronto, recently, belongs to this town and is now ill at the home of her parents in the neighboring township of Mono. She is being attended by Dr. Smith and is at present in a very critical condition. Her companion, who boarded with her at the house, is also in the vicinity. The unfortunate woman, who lies ill at her home, was at one time employed in a private residence in Mill-street, and later on at the Gordon House. About seven months ago she removed to Toronto and secured employment in some factory. Before leaving here she kept company with a young man of the East Ward who does not bear the highest reputation and who is believed to have been her seducer. This young man is also at present ill at one of the hotels, but whether his sickness is due to the prevailing la grippe or to remorse of conscience over his base treatment of the woman who trusted him, cannot be stated. It is believed the woman made away with the infant in the vain hope of hiding her shame. She is respectably connected.

THE DATE NAMED.

President Harrison Fixes the Date for the Discussion of Trade Relations.

OTTAWA, April 10.—Monday, Oct. 12, has been fixed by President Harrison as the date he and Secretary Blaine will meet the Canadian delegates in Washington to discuss closer trade relations.

No delay will be caused by the postponement, inasmuch as any treaty agreed upon will be required to be ratified by the Senate and that body does not meet until next December. There is not the slightest foundation for the statement that the Ministers were treated in a discourteous manner either by Mr. Blaine or the President.

SHOT DEAD BY A FISH.

A Canadian Youth's Peculiar and Fatal Accident.

WINDSOR, N.S., April 10.—James Harman, a pupil at the collegiate institute, was out fishing in company with some other youths. He had a gun with him, and it is said in the excitement of a heavy tug at the end of the line the gun fell and went off, the shot entering the leg of the boy, who died six hours later from the pain and loss of blood. The remains were taken to Halifax by the Windsor and Annapolis train last night en route to Boston, where his family reside.

A Passenger Deliberately Shoots a Railway Station Agent.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 10.—Stationmaster McKeen of Oxford Junction, I.C.R., was shot to-day by a passenger named Murray on the Quebec express train bound east. Murray stepped off the train at Oxford Junction, drew a revolver and fired at McKeen while he was passing him on the platform. The ball entered his breast and Murray attempted to fire again, but missed owing to McKeen holding his hand. It is thought McKeen will recover. Murray was arrested and taken to Truro. He has been living in Missouri for five years and was returning to his home in Pictou. He is thought to be insane through some family trouble in Missouri.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN.

The Opium Traffic in India Under Consideration.

LONDON, April 10.—In the House of Commons to-night the annual motion against allowing opium traffic in India was made by Mr. Pease. The motion was carried by a vote of 160 to 130. The Government was thus defeated, and the members of the Opposition greeted the result with loud cheers.

THE FIGHTING IN MANIPUR.

The British Loss was 14 Killed and 27 Wounded.

LONDON, April 10.—A despatch from the Viceroy of India confirms the news that Lt. Grant on April 6 repulsed 4000 Manipuris natives armed with guns. Reinforcements are rapidly pushing forward. The Miranzais continue to resist the authorities and are erecting stone breastworks. In the Miranzai rising 14 of the British were killed and 27 wounded.

SIMLA, April 10.—It was the Senaputty, or commander-in-chief of the Manipuri forces, who was killed in the engagement between Lt. Grant's forces and a force of Manipuris referred to in yesterday's despatches, and not the usurping rajah. The latter, according to a letter received by the Viceroy of India, was executed by the loyalists after the massacre of the British forces at Manipur.

Troops Arriving From India.

PLYMOUTH, April 10.—The troopship Himalaya has arrived from India, having on board a large number of soldiers. There were 200 cases of influenza among the troops during the last fortnight, but none of them had a fatal termination.

A Hypnotist Expires After a Performance.

LONDON, April 10.—Prof. Lowell Young, who met with much success recently in giving public exhibitions of hypnotism, died at Portsmouth Wednesday night within a few hours after publicly operating upon a number of soldiers of the garrison at that place. The cause of his death was cerebral and nervous exhaustion. The symptoms and circumstances were similar to those which accompanied the death of Bishop, the mind reader, in New York.

At no season in the year is cold in the head and catarrh more prevalent than during April. To neglect either means misery and perhaps fatal results. Nasal Balm is the only certain remedy for these dangerous diseases, and as a precautionary remedy should be kept in every household. Nasal Balm has cured thousands of sufferers—it will cure you. Try it.

ST. CATHARINES, April 10.—Richard Ratcliffe, of the firm of Ratcliffe & Parnell, committed suicide this afternoon. When Parnell went to the premises at 2.15 he found the door locked. He unlocked it and went inside and half-an-hour later on going upstairs to the workshop found Ratcliffe suspended by the neck from the ventilator over the door, his feet just touching the floor. The body was cut down but life was extinct. Dr. Goodman did not consider an inquest necessary. Deceased was suffering from an acute attack of grippe, which brought on temporary insanity. A letter was found in deceased's pocket unsigned, but in Ratcliffe's handwriting, in which he clearly made manifest his intention to commit suicide. The religious allusions contained in the letter, together with its peculiar style and the unwarranted depression manifested, showed conclusively that deceased's mind was unbalanced. Ratcliffe, who was in comfortable circumstances, was about 63 years of age and leaves a wife and four young children. He was one of the best known Freemasons in the district. P. Leaped From the Ferry to Death.

DETROIT, April 10.—As the transfer Lansdowne was returning from the Canadian shore and neared the dock at the foot of 24th-street this afternoon, a middle-aged man wearing a dark suit of clothes and grey beard and mustach deliberately jumped into the river and sank. Life preservers were thrown, but he was drowned. The body was recovered. No one knew who he was and there was nothing to identify him.

The Knife and Carbolic Acid.

GLADSTONE, Man., April 10—Shore Woodside, living alone on a farm near here tried to take his life by cutting his throat. Not accomplishing this he swallowed carbolic acid. Neighbors who called to see him said he had his throat tightly bound up to prevent bleeding. He kept holding the bandages tightly in his hand and wouldn't allow anyone to examine his wound. His clothing was covered with blood. He is still alive.

A Boy Hangs Himself.

MORRISBURG, Ont., April 10.—John Leach, a boy from the Orphans' Home, was sent to clean a stable while his employer, Mr. Beckstead of Dunbar, went to a neighbor's to get his mail. When he returned he noticed the stable door open and went to see what was wrong, when he found the boy suspended from the upper floor by a rope that was used to hold a pole between the horses. He cut him down, but life was extinct.

MILLE ROCHES, Ont., April 10.—An accident happened this afternoon at Hutchison & Co.'s works on the Cornwall canal enlargement at this place by which one man was killed and another injured. They were working in an excavation when the bank gave way, burying one man named Portras and breaking the arm of John Cummings. The body of Portras was recovered in about half an hour, but life was extinct.

A Wife's Terrible Find.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 10.—At Langille's sawmill, Mahone Bay, yesterday, Mrs. Joseph Ernest found her husband's body in a standing position in the dam when she went to give him his dinner. His head was only a few inches under the water. The supposition is he was on a small raft getting a log to haul up and the raft parted and he went down feet first.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

That Tired Feeling

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MOSHER, 50 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

A PROTEST IN THE EAST RIDING. THE Examiner announced last evening that it had been decided to enter a protest against Mr. Burnham's election in the East Riding. No doubt the loss of the riding was not pleasing to the Liberal party, but the result was the expressed will of the people. The contest was fought by Mr. Burnham with fairness and with scrupulous care. The announced decision is probably more owing to the manipulation of the chief organizer at Toronto, Mr. W. T. R. Preston, and his visit to the county, than to anything else. If the protest is entered it will only have the effect of giving annoyance and causing expense with the hope that some technical breach of law may be discovered which, owing to the strictness of the Dominion law, will void the election. Whether those who have forced forward the protest succeed in that not very laudable ambition or not, they will gain nothing by it, for many friends of the party are opposed to proceedings being taken. The contest was fairly fought and the election honestly won, and if the protest is entered it will only be the last resort of disappointed leaders of the party who are unwilling to accept the verdict of the people without causing them more trouble and annoyance.

THE WASHINGTON MISSION.

The Negotiations to Begin on October 12th—Fabrications Demolished.

The Empire's Ottawa correspondent writes on April 9th:—The conference between the representatives of Canada and the United States on the subject of trade relations will be commenced at Washington on Monday, October 12. Sir John Thompson and Hon. G. E. Foster returned home this morning from their visit to the United States capital, and a few hours after their arrival at Ottawa a despatch was received from Sir Julian Pauncefote, announcing that Mr. Blaine had fixed the above date for the commencement of reciprocity negotiations. The prompt manner in which Mr. Blaine has acted is an effectual answer to the Globe's statements that the United States will not discuss reciprocity with the Government of John Macdonald, and that the postponement of the conference on Monday was an intentional affront to this country. The inventive genius who during the past few days has been manufacturing lengthy Washington "specials" in the Globe building will doubtless find it a hard task to reconcile this latest phase of the situation with his statements of the early part of the week.

THE CASE STATED.

The two Ministers who have just returned from Washington speak frankly and freely on the subject of the postponement of the conference. Sir John Thompson explained the matter to The Empire thus:

"On Thursday last Sir Charles Tupper saw Mr. Blaine and intimated to him that the Canadian Government was ready to send delegates to Washington to discuss informally the question of trade relations between the two countries, and asked what day would suit his convenience. Mr. Blaine said he was much improved in health, and was prepared to meet the delegates at once. He thereupon appointed Monday last as the day. On the following day (Friday), supposing that Sir Charles Tupper was still in Washington, Mr. Blaine wrote him to say that after seeing the president he thought he might desire a postponement of the meeting beyond Monday, but would let Sir Charles know later in the day. Meanwhile Sir Charles had left Ottawa, and the letter, therefore did not reach him. Despatches to Washington announced our intended departure, and thereby it was learned that Sir Charles Tupper had gone to Ottawa on Thursday, and had not received Mr. Blaine's letter of the day following. A telegram was thereupon sent to Ottawa, explaining the reasons for the proposed adjournment, but the despatch did not reach here until some hours after our departure. On Monday, at the time appointed, we were received by Mr. Blaine most cordially. He expressed to us his regrets that a change in the arrangement had become necessary. He stated that President Harrison desired to follow the negotiations as they proceeded, and as the President was in the midst of preparations for his trip to California, Mr. Blaine desired that a later day be fixed for the conference, he promising that no time be lost in naming the day. The Secretary of State reminded us that no delay would be caused by the postponement, inasmuch as any treaty agreed upon would be required to be ratified by the Senate, and that body does not meet until next December. There is not the slightest foundation for the statement that we were treated in a discourteous manner. Mr. Blaine's explanation is a perfectly reasonable one, and I have the strongest conviction that he was sincere in his statements."

Hon. Mr. Foster was also seen and he corroborates Sir John Thompson in every particular.

Stand Your Ground.

When you make up your mind to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to buy some other preparation instead. Clerks claim that "ours is as good as Hood's" and all that, but the peculiar merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla cannot be equalled. Therefore have nothing to do with substitutes and insist upon having Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier and building-up medicine.

THE PNEUMOGASTRIC NERVE.

Upon an average twice a week,
When anguish clouds my brow,
My good physician friend I seek
To know "what ails me now."
He taps me on the back and chest
And scans by [illegible] for bile,
And lays an ear against my breast
And [illegible]
Then is he ready to admit
That all he can observe
Is something wrong inside, to wit:
My pneumogastric nerve!

Now, when these Latin names within Dyspeptic hulks like mine
Go wrong, a fellow should begin
To draw what's called the line
It seems, however, that this same,
Which in my hulk abounds,
Is not, despite its awful name,
So fatal as it sounds;
Yet, of all [illegible] known to me,
I'll say without reserve,
There is no torment like to thee,
Thou pneumogastric nerve!

This subtle, envious nerve appears
To be a patient foe—
It waited nearly forty years
Its chance to lay me low;
Then like some blithering blast of hell
It struck this guileless bard,
And in that evil hour I fell
Prodigious far and hard.
Alas! what things I dearly love—
Pies, puddings and preserves—
Are sure to rouse the vengeance of
All pneumogastric nerves!

Oh, that I could remodel man!
I'd end those cruel pains
By hitting on a different plan
From that which now obtains.
The stomach, greatly amplified,
Anon should occupy
The all of that domain inside
Where heart and lungs now lie,
But, first of all, I should depose
That diabolic curve
And author of my thousand woes,
The pneumogastric nerve.

—Eugene Field in Chicago News.

Used it Secretly for a Time.

It was supposed to be a profound secret, but owing to a very peculiar circumstances it leaked out. One of Montreal's most successful business men, and a strict church member, and one who was always looked upon as a total abstainer from alcoholic beverages, was compelled by medical law to use a certain quantity of brandy three times a day as a stimulant and invigorator. This merchant, from morn to night, had the cares and trials of an immense business on his shoulders; and some time ago became a weary, thin, worn out looking, and withal, so nervous and irritable, that his condition excited dread and alarm amongst his friends. For weeks the brandy diet was strickly adhered to in secret, when suddenly, coming to a consciousness of his folly and his physician's stupidity, he resolved with great determination to give up the brandy and try a remedy which had been recommended by a well known Corn Exchange man. This remedy proved to be Paine's Celery Compound, and its use was at once commenced by the merchant. His surprise and pleasure was great after using the Compound for a week. He found his appetite returning, his nervous system in better condition, and strength taking the place of lassitude and weariness. In less than a month his bodily strength was greatly increased, his sleep was healthful and refreshing, and his capacity for work as great as ever before.

This is not an uncommon case; scores of such could be pointed out if necessary, showing the useless, yes the evil effects of alcoholic stimulants, and the grand results of that great restorer and tonic, Paine's Celery Compound.

Woman not the Weaker Vessel.

Among savages the woman is just as healthy as a man. Considered as an animal from a physiological standpoint, a woman is capable of more hard work, of enduring more hardship, deprivation, and disease, than a man. A woman will endure where a man will succumb and break down entirely. She is not naturally the weaker vessel, and certainly in some respects a woman is constitutionally the superior. Out of an equal number of male and female infants there will be found at the end of the first year a greater number of girls alive than boys, according to statistics. This discrepancy continues up to the age of 15 or 16, when the mortality becomes greatest among the girls. At the age of 40 or 50 the death-rate is about equal in both sexes, and, finally, the oldest inhabitant is always a woman, thus showing that her constitutional fund of vitality is naturally greatest. It is sometimes argued that a woman is naturally weaker and inferior because the average weight of her brain is from four to six ounces less than that of the average man, and that thus her intellectual quality is less as well as her physical. But when the size of a woman's brain is considered in comparison with the weight of her body, it is evident that a woman has more brain per pound than a man; and if that be a proper standard of comparison, then woman is the superior. There is no physical reason why a woman should be more feeble or diseased than a man. Stanley was furnished with 200 negro women to carry his stuff into the interior of Africa, and he found them the best porters he had employed, although he felt very doubtful about accepting their services when first proposed. The Mexican Indian woman is able to carry her household goods on her back with two or three babies on top when a change of location is desirable. Meanwhile her husband trudges bravely along carrying his gun. On the continent of Europe most of the heavy work is done by women. In Vienna women and dogs are frequently hitched together, and sometimes a woman is yoked with a cow to drwa a load of produce to the city. Many of these peasant women will carry upon their heads a load of vegetables that few American men could easily lift. These women have the muscles of the waist and trunk thoroughly developed. Despite their hardships, they do not suffer from the backache or displacements, or other ailments which the women who dress fashionably are constantly afflicted with.—Phrenological Journal.

A Discovery Important to Ladies.

The political battle is over, but the battle with disease must be constantly and unceasingly waged else the grim reaper will come out victorious, and loved ones will be gathered to their long homes. On all sides may be seen pale and listless girls who should be enjoying the health and glow of rosy youth. Everywhere we are met with women young in years, yet prematurely old, who suffer in silence almost untold agonies, the result of those ailments peculiar to the female system. To all such, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills come as a blessing. They restore wasted vitality, build up the nervous system, enrich the blood, and transform pale and sallow complexions into glowing, rosy cheeks that alone follow perfect health. In a word they are a certain cure for all these distressing complaints to which women and girls are peculiarly liable. A trial of these pills will convince the most sceptical of their wonderful merit. For suffering men Dr. William's Pink Pills are equally efficacious. For overwork, mental strain, loss of sleep, nervous debility, and all those diseases that lead to broken-down manhood, they are a certain specific, stimulating the brain, reinforcing the exhausted system and restoring shattered vitality. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are nature's restorative and should be used by every weak and debilitated person. For sale by all dealers or sent post paid on receipt of price (50 cents a box) by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Among the Peasantry of Connaught.

DUBLIN, April 10.—Lady Zetland and Miss Balfour visited the islands of Inniskea, Clare Innisturk and Innisboffin Wednesday. They entered many of the cabins, conversing with and giving money to the occupants, and adding many to the Castle relief list. The Clare boatmen presented a remarkable address, referring to the diversion by unscrupulous politicians of the funds sent from America for the assistance of the poverty-stricken people of Ireland and warmly thanking Mr. Balfour for the fund which he and the Earl of Zetland were instrumental in raising and the distribution of which was the means of averting starvation in the impoverished districts. All the islanders ran to the beach to meet the visitors when they arrived at Innisboffin. Bonfires were blazing and flags flying, and the fishermen literally carried the boat to the land. When the visitors landed the women of the place pressed around to grasp the hands of the ladies and called Heaven's choicest blessings on them. Lady Zetland was deeply affected by all she saw. The party resolved to march across the island, and the start was made with a guard of honor composed of a dozen stalwart fishermen in the van and the whole population following as a rear guard.

Result of a Burglar's Visit.

VANCOUVER, B.C., April 10.—A day or so ago a shooting accident occurred at Wellington, which was all but fatal in its results. A resident who had been disturbed the previous night by an attempted burglary, borrowed a 45-calibre bulldog revolver from a fellow-workman for use in the event of a second visit. While showing the weapon to a friend, a cartridge—the only one he had—exploded, the bullet entering his wife's arm and inflicting a painful wound. The lady was passing at the time, and had she been a few inches nearer the weapon the missile would have passed through her body.

CASH HARDWARE STORE.

On and after 1st April we shall do business on a Cash Basis.

To cover the inevitable losses attendant upon a credit business, which accrue from amount of time spent in keeping accounts, collecting, bad debts, interest account, and in numerous other ways, larger margins of profit must be asked.

In these times cash buyers ask, expect and are entitled to close prices. A careful consideration of the subject convinces us that the time has come for a cash business done on smaller profits.

The only customers who may be put to inconvenience are those who have had long credit. In more ways than one it will be to their advantage to pay cash.

For convenience of our old customers who consider their accounts due when presented, we will call 30 days cash and render all accounts the first of each month, and we wish to say that we will be happy to do business with them on these terms.

As the new departure is something of an experiment, what would be considered a close cash price will be made all through the stock. Not a few leaders only, but a general reduction in everything from the fourth flat to the cellar.

Our idea is to perform more than promised rather than promise more than can be fulfilled.

Our stock is large and varied, consisting of Builders', Contractors', Household, Mechanics', Painters', Shoemakers', Farm, Mill, Factory, Lumbermen's, Sporting, Threshers', Cabinetmakers', and other lines of Hardware.

An old saying:—"You should go to Kingan's where you can get anything from a Needle to an Anchor."

Obituary.

The death is announced of an old and well known citizen, Mr. Arthur May, which occurred at Prescott, Ont., this morning, where he was at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. Jas. Craig, Collector of Inland Revenue. Mr. May had reached the age of 74 years, and was a son of one of the pioneers of Peterborough, the late Capt. Geo. May, of steamboat fame. Mr. May came to Peterborough 57 years ago at the age of 17 and has resided in this neighborhood until the last three years. He was married to Miss Mary Ann Ames, daughter of Mr. Thos. Ames, of town, and had a family of three sons and four daughters, the youngest son being Mr. Geo. May, of our town. The body will be brought home for interment in the Little Lake Cemetery, the funeral taking place from the residence of his sister, Mrs. Sarah Drake, 188 Rubidge-st., on Sunday, at 3 o'clock.

THE TEACHERS ORGANIZE.

An Association Formed by the Teachers of the Town.

A meeting of the teachers of the town, from the Collegiate Institute, Public schools, Separate schools and Business College, was held in the Collegiate Institute building this forenoon, at which an association was organized. Mr. Fessenden, Principal of the Collegiate Institute, presided and Mr. A. Blanchard, of the Business College, acted as secretary. There were forty-two teachers present.

After it was decided to form an association the first business taken up was the election of officers, which resulted as follows:—

PRESIDENT.—Mr. Fessenden, Principal of the Collegiate Institute.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.—Mr. W. Smith, Principal of the Central school, and Mr. W. Brick, Principal of the Separate school.

SECRETARY.—Mr. A. Blanchard, of the Business College.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.—Misses Richardson, Nicholls, Broad, Becket and Lynch and Mr. Jeffries.

A committee was appointed to draft a constitution and code of by-laws, which will report at a meeting of the Association to be held on the first Saturday in June.

Mr. A. Blanchard read a very practical and instructive paper on "the Principles of Writing," which he accompanied with black-board illustrations.

An interesting discussion followed, which will be resumed at the next meeting.

Mr. Jeffries, of the Collegiate Institute, read a paper on "The Teaching of Poetical Literature to Junior Pupils," which was very interesting as well as useful.

The discussion on this paper will also be resumed at another session.

The Association adjourned to meet on the first Saturday in June.

THE SAULT RAILWAY.

The Portion from Town to Bobcaygeon to be Surveyed at Once.

A deputation of the promoters of the proposed Sault St. Marie railway returned from Montreal this morning, where they had an interview with Mr. Seargeant, General Manager of the Grand Trunk railway. The deputation consisted of Messrs. Jas. Stevenson, M.P., John Burnham, M.P., R. H. D. Hall, R. S. Davidson and C. McGill, and they were accompanied by Mr. J. G. Macklin, Divisional Engineer of the Grand Trunk.

The deputation was pleasantly received by Mr. Seargeant and the conference lasted a couple of hours. The situation and the prospects of the railway were discussed and also different plans for carrying out the project.

While the entire line would be of importance, and of benefit to the town, the portion from Peterborough to Bobcaygeon is especially of local importance. The desirability of having this portion speedily constructed was dwelt upon, and Mr. Seargeant gave instructions to have surveys made of it at once. Several surveys of the ground will be made, one from the terminus of the Chemong road, one from Lakefield and one by way of Fowler's Corners.

A railway to Bobcaygeon would draw to Peterborough a large part of the trade of that section and also from the district north of the village and would be of advantage to the people of that district as well as to the town.

A charter for the railway has been applied for and will be secured and a bonus to aid the road will be asked from the Dominion Parliament.

Gorton's Minstrels.

Admirers of good singing, novel specialties, artistic dancing and magnificent music will no doubt welcome the return of the above excellent company at the Opera House on Tuesday evening, April 14th. They gave the best of satisfaction when here about eleven months ago, and the public are assured that the performance this time will be equal if not superior to the last. St. Catherines Evening Journal says:—"The Gorton's Minstrels appeared before a large and intelligent audience last night. The company only numbered sixteen, but all were first-class artists, and gave one of the best Minstrel entertainments ever given in the city." 1d66

Aunt Jack.

Mr. Charles Bowser, who sustains the character of Barrister Bruce in this sparkling comedy, finds himself in a peculiar dilemma at the end of the 2nd act. He has proposed to and been accepted by a lady whom he knows to be the aunt of his friend and partner, Caleb Cornish, and whose name he supposes to be the same as that of her nephew. This impression is suddenly dispelled when the action of the play reveals the supposed Miss Cornish to be in reality Miss Joan Bryson, the plaintiff in the breach of promise case in which Bruce is engaged as counsel for the defence. Mr. Barrister Bruce's feelings on making this discovery can be more easily imagined than described. Aunt Jack will appear at the Opera House, Thursday, April 16th.

An Assembly to Open the Edison Works.

Work on the large machine building of the Edison General Electric Company has advanced so rapidly that it is expected that it will be completed by the end of next week. It is the intention of the Company, as expressed by Mr. Martin, the engineer in charge of the works, to open the building with a complimentary ball to our citizens on the evening of Monday, April 20th. The immense size of the floor space in the building will admit of a social gathering probably larger than has ever before been held in the district, and as the invitations are general, will no doubt be largely availed of. The invitations are now in course of preparation, and as it will take some time to send out so large a number, this invitation is given that the occasion may be known in time to permit, it is hoped, of a very general acceptance. The Company and local manager feel that a hearty hospitality has been extended to the local officers and others, and that the merchants and business men have been obliging and in many cases have been at considerable inconvenience, met the wishes of the Company, who desire to reciprocate.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Inspector Tilley Inaugurates Grade Conventions.

Dr. Tilley, Inspector of Public Schools, has completed his examination of the schools of the town. The attendance was somewhat broken on account of sickness, but the examination showed very satisfactory progress by the pupils in their work.

A new feature of school work was introduced this time. It was what are called grade conventions. They are carried out by the teachers of one grade visiting the room of a teacher of the same grade and observing the work in the room during the afternoon. At the conclusion of the teaching, when the pupils are dismissed, the teachers and Inspector hold a consultation to talk over any points of interest they have observed with a view to improving the methods of teaching. Some of the benefits of these conventions are obvious. The teachers observe the points of excellence and the defects in the room they visit and all are benefitted by the experience and exchange of ideas. Besides they bring about uniformity in teaching and in management, which is an essential feature in graded schools where pupils pass from one teacher to another. The similarity in teaching saves much time, as the pupils do not have to learn or be taught new methods when they enter another room.

The first grade convention was held on Wednesday afternoon by the teachers of Parts I and II of the first book. Misses McClennan and McDonald of the North Ward school, Misses Lough, Martin and Boughnel, of the South Ward, and Misses Blackwell, Peters and Cameron, of the Central, visited the rooms of Misses Aldridge and Rutherford, of the West Ward.

On Thursday afternoon the teachers of the second and third book classes convened. The rooms of Misses Jenkins, Hall, Perry and Davidson in the Central school were visited by Mr. Walkie and Miss Becket, of the North Ward, Mr. McCreary and Miss Richardson of the West Ward, and Misses Broad and Sim, of the South Ward.

Yesterday afternoon the last convention for the present of this series was held by the fourth form teachers. Mr. James Smith and Miss Nicholls, of the Central school, visited Mr. Stirling's room in the South Ward. Mr. Brick, teacher of fourth class work in the Separate school, was also present by invitation.

After the conventions in the particular rooms visited, the teachers also paid a brief visit to other rooms and observed many points of interest.

The teachers were pleased with the opportunity of observing each other's work and for consulting together, and no doubt much benefit will result from the short time spent in this way.

The visits to the schools showed that the teachers are in earnest in their profession, and the progress that the children have made in acquiring knowledge, even or perhaps especially with many small pupils, was very pleasant to see.

It is the Inspector's intention to have two or three of these conventions each year, and the teachers in all the rooms will become thoroughly familiar with each other's methods of work, thus securing perfect uniformity, while the experience and consultations will also be of much practical benefit. Dr. Tilly is an earnest, as well as a thorough, educationist, and his efforts to advance the schools, aided as they are by the entire staff, are very successful.

BURGLARY AT NORWOOD.

A Hardware Store Entered and a Quantity of Goods Stolen.

(By Telegraph to the Review)

NORWOOD, April 11.—The hardware store of Mr. A. J. Fitzgerald, of this place, was broken into last night by burglars and goods to the value of $125.00 were carried off. The stolen goods consisted principally of jack knives, revolvers, watches and jewellery. Entrance was effected by removing a small pane of glass in a window at the rear of the store. There is at yet no clue to the burglars.

The Washington Mission.

The secret is out. Sir Charles Tupper did not secure reciprocity in Washington and the following letter tells why:—

"DEAR SIR,—You will see the force of our objection to reciprocity with Canada when I tell you that we feared to open our country to the excellent and cheap teas sold by Hawley Bros., of Peterborough. Our tea dealers would not allow us to do so, as their business would be cut off by that firm. Yours truly.

Thousands of Lives Lost.

Poets and novelists go into ecstacies over what they romantically call "beautiful spring," and "gentle spring," and while, no doubt, every one is glad to see winter release its icy grasp, "beautiful spring" is, after all, one of the most deadly seasons of the year. Sudden transitions from warmth to extreme cold, with piercing, chilling winds; from dry to sloppy "muggy" weather, all combine to make the season a most trying one, even to the hardiest constitution, while to those with weak constitutions the season is one of positive danger. Undoubtedly the greatest danger at this season of the year is from cold in the head, which very few escape, and which, if not promptly and thoroughly treated, developes into catarrh, with all its disagreeable and loathsome effects. Catarrh, neglected, almost as certainly developes into consumption, annually destroying thousands of lives. At this trying season no household should be without a bottle of Nasal Balm. In cases of cold in the head it gives almost instant relief and effects a speedy cure, thus preventing the development of catarrh. Where the latter disease has already secured a hold it is equally efficacious, and with persistent use will cure the worst case. From the outset it sweetens the breath, stops the nauseous droppings into the throat and lungs, dispels those dull headaches that afflict the sufferer from catarrh. Nasal Balm is not advertised as a cure-all—it is an honest remedy which never fails to cure cold in the head or catarrh when the directions are faithfully followed, and thousands throughout the country have reason to bless its discovery. Nasal Balm may be had from all dealers or will be sent post-paid on receipt of price (50 cents, small, or $1, large size bottles,) by addressing Fulford & Co. Brockville, Ont.

The Witty Irishman Again.

Edwin Booth, the melancholy Dane, is very entertaining when he enjoys a brief convalescence from dyspepsia. Here is one of the jokes he tells on Fechter, who played a round of characters in this country:

"I went one night to hear Fechter in a melodrama of a tragic cast. In one part of the play Fechter had to count out money. He was very deliberate and said slowly, 'One, two, three, four, five,' and soon. The interest of the play was hanging on the tragedian's having enough money and paying it over to the villain. He kept slowly counting and the audience grew more restless and anxious for him to finish. A witty son of Erin in the topmost gallery, getting tired, yelled:

"'Say, Mr. Fechter, give him a check!'"

An Embarrassing Request.

A young clergyman of this city makes it a practice to visit the prisoners in jail and give them good advice. Just as he was taking his departure a few days ago, one of the inmates called the philanthropist back and said:

"Are you coming to see us again?

"Yes, in a few days."

"Would you mind to bring me a morning paper?"

"Not at all. You shall have the paper." The clergyman was about leaving when the man in bonds motioned mysteriously to him to approach. The good man did so, and the other in a hoarse whisper added:

"When you bring me that paper, don't forget to wrap it around a bottle of good old rye whisky."—Texas Siftings.

HOW LONG WILL EGGS KEEP?

Marvellous Experiments at the Ottawa Dominion Farm.

"How long can an egg be kept fresh and wholesome, without the aid of preservatives?"

This was the question which the Empire addressed to Prof. Saunders last fall, when the matter of shipping eggs to England was receiving general attention.

"That is a problem which we are trying to work out in the poultry department of the Experimental Farm," replied the professor, "and if you will come out some afternoon I shall be pleased to show you what has been done."

This short conversation occurred in November last, and it was resolved at the time to run out to the farm and look into the experiments which had been referred to, but other engagements came in to prevent this plan being carried out. November passed, December came and went and the New Year dawned. In January the Empire again spoke to Prof. Saunders concerning the egg experiments.

"How are those eggs getting along, Prof. Saunders?" was the question asked.

"Strange to say, we haven't been able to spoil a single egg yet," replied the genial director. "We have kept some of them at a temperature of from 78 to 84 Fahrenheit since the latter part of October last, and up to date we haven't found one to be bad. We have treated others even more severely and yet they remain fresh at this date. It is beginning to be a problem with us now, whether an egg can really be spoiled."

Again, Prof. Saunders invited the Empire to go out to the farm and examine some of these eggs, and again the promise was made to comply; but January was a month full of political rumors and uncertainty. The more absorbing question of whether or not Parliament would be dissolved shut out the question of how long an egg could be kept from spoiling. The month passed and February came. On the second of that month his Excellency dissolved Parliament, and the country was plunged into the excitement of a general election. Eggs were never once thought of. The weeks sped by, and the crucial fifth of March came with its triumph for Sir John. More than a week after election day the Empire again met Prof. Saunders.

"Professor, what about those eggs?"

"They are still fresh," was the surprising reply. "We intend to test one from each batch this afternoon, and you had better come out and see them for yourself."

After so many invitations and failures to respond, it was thought best to put no further tax on good nature. The Empire went out to the farm in the afternoon, and was present when the tests were made by Prof. Saunders and Mr. A. C. Gilbert, the poultry manager. The test in each case was very simple. An egg from the different batches was brought into the office and broken into a tumbler. It was then carefully examined.

No. 1. This was an egg laid on October 27th last. With others it had been packed in bran and laid away in the cellar. It was four and a half months old. Prof. Saunders broke it into the tumbler and it was found absolutely fresh and sweet. The albumen was clear, and the yolk firm.

No. 2. This specimen was laid on the 29th of October last, or four and a half months ago. It had been placed in the incubator on 31st October and kept at a constant temperature of from 28 to 84 degrees until February 11—a period of three months and 12 days. It need scarcely be said that this represents a very much higher average than the temperature of our three hottest summer months, and was only 20 to 24 degrees below the hatching heat. When broken, however, this egg was perfectly good. The volume of albumen had shrunk about one half and was denser, but there was not the faintest trace of disagreeable oder. To the taste it was fresh and sweet.

No. 3. This egg was laid on 5th November last, and had been subjected to unusually severe treatment. From the time it was laid until the 11th February—a period of three months—it had been left for half of each day in the incubator, and for the other half in the colder atmosphere of the cellar. This alternating extremes of temperature each day would seem to be more than any ordinary egg could stand. But when Prof. Saunders broke the shell, the contents fell into the goblet clear and oderless. The volume was, however, considerably reduced, and at the point where the yoke had rested against the shell there was the faintest possible trace of staleness. In every other respect the egg was sweet, and absolutely fit to eat.

No. 4. This specimen had also sustained heroic treatment. It was laid on the 7th of December last, and on the 23rd of that month it had been placed in the incubator and kept at a temperature of from 78 to 84 degrees until February 11. From that time until last Saturday it had lain in the open cellar. It was broken, and seemed in every respect as fresh as the day it was laid. The air space was small, the albumen clear and the yolk perfectly sweet.

No. 5 This one had been laid on 3rd of November last. It was then packed after a very common method. The surface of the shell was greased with lard and the egg buried in salt. It was considerably over five months old; yet it was perfectly sound. It was neither better nor worse than those which had received no special attention. It was simply a good, full, fresh egg.

No. 6. This was an extraordinary specimen. Along with half a dozen others it had been laid in the office drawer during the first week in August last. It had been given no treatment whatever. There it lay through all the heat of August and September, the changing temperatures of the fall months, the severer extremes of winter, not 10 feet from a base burner stove, and down to the hour of the test. When Prof. Saunders got ready to break the egg that had lain for seven months and a half in an office drawer the Empire stepped back a pace or two so as to be prepared for the worst. Back number eggs are always to be suspected. Yet, when the table knife cut the shell in twain, the contents fell out, sweet, fresh looking and perfectly wholesome. As a matter of fact, Prof. Saunders ate it for his supper, and pronounced it first-class in every respect.

Here, then, were the proofs of the surprising fact that fresh eggs could be kept for a long period without suffering material deterioration. The last egg examined was over seven months old, lying all that time in a comparatively warm room and surrounded with no preservatives whatever. Yet, like all the others, it was perfectly good. It would seem that an egg packed away when quite fresh may be kept at a high temperature for many months, or submitted to extremes of heat and cold without suffering to any appreciable extent in quality. These experiments also show that popular notions respecting the age at which an egg may be said to be fresh are in need of revision. If a farmer's wife labelled her basket: "Fresh eggs; laid three weeks ago," she would find no purchasers. When we know, however, that it has been found impossible to spoil an egg within six months at the experimental farm, we are bound to believe that an egg is just as good in its third week or third month as when laid.

These experiments are novel. There is no record of similar tests that the Empire can learn of. They have their value, too. They shed direct and valuable light on the question of shipping eggs to England, and landing them in a perfectly wholesome condition. It was for that reason Hon. Mr. Carling, from the outset, took a deep interest in the matter. He was to have been present at the test on Saturday, but pressure of departmental business prevented him from doing so. He has directed that the data be carfully compiled, and additional experiments of eggs undertaken. The work is original, timely and highly useful—a criticism which applies with equal force to all the experiments in hand at the farm.—Toronto Empire.

A BAD HUMOR CURED.

$5,000 Expended on Doctors and Medicine Without Avail. Gave Himself up to Die.

Good Wife Suggests Cuticura Remedies. Uses them 7 Months, and is entirely Cured

I was in the war during 1863-64, and took a heavy cold at Gettysburg, from which I never fully recovered. In 1875 I broke out in sores all over my chest and shoulder, which seemed impossible to cure. I tried all the famed doctors I could find, and to no avail. I expended some five thousand dollars trying to find a cure, but could not, and finally giving myself up to die, my good wife suggested to me, one day, to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES which were so extensively advertised and used. I followed her suggestion, and am happy to say by diligent application of your CUTICURA REMEDIES for seven months I was entirely cured, after spending five years of time and money without avail, and am a sound and well man to-day. You may refer to me if you wish, as I will tell any one who may call on me my experience.

TALMAGE'S BUSY WIFE.

A Glimpse of the Great Preacher's Business Manager.

Mrs. Talmage is distinctly her husband's right hand, and all the details of his busy life are looked after by her, says Edward W. Bok in The Ladies' Home Journal. She is a business woman, having a rare executive ability, capable of easily handling a number of things at the same time. Much of Dr. Talmage's daily work is planned and laid out by her. She makes his pastoral and social engagements, and all his lecturing interests are in her hands. She knows his capacities better than he. Whenever a journey is to be made it is she who lays out the route, procures the tickets and staterooms and attends to all the details. No public man, perhaps, is saved so many annoyances as is Dr. Talmage by his wife's foresight and ability. The rear apartment of the second floor is Mrs. Talmage's working room. It is tastefully furnished, but more with an eye to utility than ornamentation. In this room Mrs. Talmage spends most of her time. It is "her private den." All the mail that is left at the house for Dr. Talmage is taken into this room and is opened by her. It is not an unusual thing for the postman to deliver between one and two hundred letters a day, all of which pass through Mrs. Talmage's hands. Business letters are answered by her, and all letters that may be of an unpleasant or annoying personal nature are destroyed. Dr. Talmage never sees them.

A day in Mrs. Talmage's home would be a revelation to those that believe that the life of a public man's wife is a succession of pleasures, dotted here with a pretty compliment and there with some token of honor. While many people are yawning and preparing to break their night's rest, Mrs. Talmage is already up, opening the first mail. Breakfast is promptly at eight o'clock. Then the family separate and the wife begins to receive callers—which alone is a task. It is a well-known saying among the neighbors that the "Talmage bell is never still." All kinds of people must be seen, innumerable appointments made and kept, the pastoral work of the largest church in America must be looked after, the details of a score or more missionary, church, literary societies with which Mrs. Talmage, or her husband, is connected, have their demands, and, in addition to all these, are the household cares of a large house and a family of growing children. All the appointments of the Talmage home in Brooklyn reflect the woman who presides over it. Gaudiness in furniture or decorations is absent, and, instead, one sees a harmony of good taste on every hand. Mrs. Talmage is an excellent housekeeper and her home shows it.

Which of the Tenders Will be Accepted?

The ladies of Canada for the ensuing two or three months have some important and necessary work to perform in the home. This work they must do themselves, but the material required for the consummation of a perfect job, they must of necessity procure. Several tenders are made for supplying this material, and strange to say all at the same price. The only thing now to consider, is the character of each tender. Many make certain promises, but alas! they have failed so often in quality, that public confidence has been shaken. One tender however, Diamond Dyes, shows a record of rare success, and grand results in all its extensive operations wherever employed. Will the tender of Diamond Dyes be accepted, or will you trust one of the many whose records are doubtful and unsatisfactory?

Agricultural Outlook in Europe.

The London, Eng., Standard publishes a review of the agricultural outlook, in the course of which it says the steady rise in wheat revives the hopes of the English farmer. Wheat will probably reach the highest price in many years, the principal cause being the failure of foreign crops. The wheat crops of France and Russia are much below the average. The deficiency will be at least 20,000,000 quarters. It is expected that cold winds and frosts have almost destroyed the French crop. Germany, Holland and Belgium all furnish pessimist reports. In Roumania there is a decrease in the wheat area, and in India there has been a bad wheat season. The only exception is Hungary, where there are better prospects, but it is almost certain the world's wheat consumption will exceed the production computed. Whatever the magnitude of America's crop may be, it will not be sufficient to cover the European deficit, thus compelling an extra draft upon the reserves for the third year in succession.

The Standard, in conclusion, says: "The increased home consumption, the decreased wheat area, owing to the spread of population, and of recourse to scientific tillage in order to repair the waste of first settlers, thus increasing the cost of production, must ultimately remove the American farmers' formidable competition in European markets, and allow the English farmer to look forward to a prosperous future."

Swallowed Half His Mustach.

LONDON, April 10.—Mrs. Langtry produced "Linda Grey" to-night, at the Princess's Theatre. During the performance, at the moment when Victor Broughton (Mr. Bernard Gould, Mrs. Langtry's leading man), rushes to embrace his wife, Linda Grey, (Mrs. Langtry), the actor swallowed one side of his drooping mustach, the other half still adorning his upper lip. He at last managed to splutter it out of his mouth amid the merriment of the audience, and quietly put it in his pocket. He then tore off the other half of his mustach and played the rest of the part as a smooth-faced man.

Indigestion

IS not only a distressing complaint, of itself, but, by causing the blood to become depraved and the system enfeebled, is the parent of innumerable maladies. That Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best cure for Indigestion, even when complicated with Liver Complaint, is proved by the following testimony from Mrs. Joseph Lake, of Brockway Centre, Mich.:—

"Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony, was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an improvement in my condition. My appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life."

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

ALLEGED IRREGULARITIES IN CONNECTION WITH AN ELECTION.

End of the Lion Provident Association—Its Corporate Powers Revoked by Order-in-Council—Recognition of the Volunteers of 1837.

TORONTO, April 11.—In the Assembly yesterday Mr. Hudson, member for Hastings, moved a resolution charging D. R. Leavens, returning officer, and James McCready, one of the deputy returning officers in the last election for East Hastings, with gross irregularities and frauds in connection with the election and asking that the whole matter be referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections for investigation. In doing so he charged that these officials made public the way in which the electors voted, comparing the names with the numbers on the ballots and thus intimidated electors; that Leavens purposely appointed himself a deputy returning officer in order to carry out his purpose better; that when counting the ballots at his poll Leavens refused to place the ballot box on the table where all could see it, but placed it under the table where none could see it but himself in order to take advantage of Mr. Hudson; that when the ballots at Leavens' poll were counted Mr. Hudson had only 71 although 74 electors have since sworn they voted for him, and the scrutineers counted on 85 votes which were clearly promised them. Turning to McCready, he claimed this official also put his ballot box under the table to the disadvantage of Mr. Hudson; that when the ballots at McCready's poll were counted there were only 95 for Mr. Hudson although 108 electors have since sworn they voted for Mr. Hudson. In another poll, the deputy returning officer, one Cawler, permitted two men to vote although their names were not on the list and refused to administer the oath although requested. On a recount a number of ballots, marked on polling day for Mr. Hudson and accepted as correct in the evening, were found to be marked with a second small cross and were rejected, thus nearly counting him out. He mentioned a number of other irregularities which were done with the deliberate purpose of defeating him.

Mr. Fraser refused to discuss the grave charges made, but declared that it was not proper to refer the matter to the committee. Mr. Hudson, who spoke so warmly, was himself on the committee and his friends who were also on the committee applauded the charges as if they were already proved. This was unseemly conduct on the part of those who would be judges if a reference were made. Was a reference to the committee necessary? Mr. Hudson has his seat, and even if the charges are proved the seat would not be affected. Moreover, a petition was filed in the courts against Mr. Hudson, who filed a cross petition. But the petitions were dismissed by the judge. Besides, the law provided that a charge of malfeasance could be made before a police magistrate, who could investigate the case free from the prejudice which would characterize the judgment of the committee. What necessity was there, then, for a reference to a committee, members of which cheered the charges made as if they were already proved?

Mr. Metcalfe and Mr. Wood (Hastings) repudiated the insinuation that they were biassed and not fit to pronounce any opinion upon the case in committee.

Mr. Meredith said the returning officer was an officer of the House, and it was the duty of the House to see that he performed his duties properly and, if necessary, punish him for wrongdoing, apart altogether from a criminal prosecution in the courts. A cross petition can contain no charges except personal ones against the opposing candidate, and therefore a cross petition cannot reach the wrongdoing of an official. A returning officer could not even be joined as a party in a cross petition. There was therefore no reason for refusing to refer the case to the committee. The charges included what is known as "stuffing" the ballot boxes. Was this not a charge which ought to be investigated by the House?

Mr. Mowat said there was no desire on the part of the Government to screen any officials if they were guilty. But the resolution did not specify the charges. It had therefore been impossible to obtain from the parties implicated their version of the case, although Mr. Mowat said he had tried to do so. Overzealous or unscrupulous men are found everywhere. Before the matter went to the committee the parties charged, having heard today the specific charges made, ought to have a chance to make a reply. All the precedents which he had looked up indicated that the charges must be specific before a reference could be made. The resolution also alleged irregularities. But irregularities might be unintentional or without influence on the election. There was no need therefore to refer mere irregularities to a committee when the one who was injured by these irregularities already had the seat. If the charges of fraud are true, these officials are subject to a criminal prosecution. The only punishment the House could inflict was imprisonment during the session. The session, however, will end in a couple of weeks, perhaps before the prosecution on the part of the House would be finished. A judicial investigation was always more satisfactory than one by a committee more or less prejudiced. Moreover, there was no time for such an investigation by a committee of the House because the members were fully occupied by other business. Mr. Mowat in conclusion said he was there to see that no bad precedent was formed. Without actually refusing to allow a reference to a committee he moved the adjournment of the debate in order to consider what would be done, now that the charges were specified. The debate accordingly was adjourned until Monday.

Mr. H. E. Clarke moved his resolution asking for particulars of the fees charged and collected in the Toronto registry offices and the number of days the registrars worked full time (6 hours), half time and where absent altogether. Mr. Mowat consented to allow the resolution with certain amendments. For example, there was no record of the attendance in the office and therefore that part of it could not be supplied.

Notice is given of an order-in-council, dated April 3, revoking the corporate powers of the Lion Provident Life & Live Stock Association upon consideration of the report of the commissioner who investigated the concern. The World called attention to the peculiarities of this company last summer.

Among the notices of motion is one by Mr. Willoughby declaring it expedient that the Government should make some recognition of the services of the volunteers in 1837, and another by Mr. Balfour for a return of the minutes of Toronto University Senate since July, 1887.

"TRUTH'S" SPRING BIBLE COMPETITION

NO. 22.

LIST OF REWARDS ARRANGED IN TWENTY-ONE DIVISIONS.

SEND NOW! DON'T DELAY!

In these latter days there have arisen many false schemes and many scores of Imitations of TRUTH's Competitions, but one after another have failed and utterly perished, yet TRUTH prevails, and makes good all its promises. Its reputation is now too well established to risk damaging it, and as it has cost a large amount of money and many years of care and labor to build it up, the publisher could not afford to fail in carrying out all his agreements to the letter. Please note that there are twenty-one divisions, instead of three as formerly, of the largest list of bona fide prizes ever offered and ever actually given away by any publisher in the world. The total value of prizes in this Spring list is about $10,000. Send one dollar and answers to the five following questions: Where in the Bible are these words first found: 1 GRAIN; 2, CORN; 3, WHEAT; 4, BARLEY; 5, RYE. If your answers are correct, and your letters arrive in time, you are almost sure to get a reward, as there are so many and every one sending in cannot always find correct answers to all these questions. All the five answers must be correct to get any prize, but you will get full value for the dollar in TRUTH if you don't get anything else. There have been very few dissatisfied prize-winners in previous competitions, considering that we have given away during the Past eight years scores of thousands of prizes. Some people expect a piano for every dollar sent, and are mad if they don't get it. We wish it were possible to give every subscriber a gold watch or a piano or both, but we can't do it. Some publishers intimate they will, but nobody can do it for any length of time. Send one dollar and correct answers and you won't regret it; and bear in mind that we do not guarantee that everybody whose answers are correct will get a prize, but this we do say, that all those prizes in the twenty-one different lists will be given away:

TURNBULL'S
Display.

The Spring Styles shown this season are such a decided change and unusually pretty. We want all to see them to the best advantage and naturally to leave the impression, that for decidedly New and Cheap Goods, Turnbull's is the right place to go for a large selection. Since our store has been thoroughly renovated, the first thing that strikes you on approaching the George-st. entrance is the white front and large show windows handsomely decorated with Fine Millinery Goods, Printed Challies, etc. too numerous to describe, which is but indicative of the clean stock within and our clean and straight-forward manner of doing business. While passing through the store, even when not intending to buy, you are compelled to stop and price some of the articles on display. Pretty Print Blouses from 50c. each, up to those of Figured Wool Delaine at $1.75. Neat Patterns in Light Prints, narrow, but warranted to wash at 5c. a yd. Novelties in Pearl Bead Frillings at 5c. a frill. White embroidered Apron Lawns at 20c. a yd. Cream and White Curtain Nets, Taped Edge at 15c. to 25c. a yd.

Fine Navy Serges for Boys' Wear at 35c., 40c., 50c. a yd.; Handsome Patterns in Tweed at 50c. a yd.; Nice Cream Damask Table Linen at 30c. a yd. Black and Brocaded Flannelettes just suitable for baby at 15c. a yard. You pass the Dress Goods counter in a hurry, but have to ask what that shimmering, shining material is that is hard to describe. Still everybody falls in love with it, and no wonder the manufacturers call it Gloriosia. On reaching the archway leading into the Simcoe-st. store you are struck with amazement and almost think you have got into midsummer and begin to look around for the bumble bees and humming birds among the flowers. Some of the leading colors are the New Shades in Heliotrope and Lavender, French Grey, Buttercup and Black combined. Most of the Bonnets are small toque shapes, flat, and trimmed at the back with pretty little forget-me-not flowers, jewelled ribbon and lace to match. There is something very pretty for children in Leghorn Hats, trimmed with ruchings of Silk and Lace. We have received late this week a Choice Lot of very pretty Shapes in Hats and Bonnets, also the latest in Flowers from Glasgow. These styles will not be shown elsewhere. Come early and select your patterns before they get picked over.

FOR A TERRIBLE CRIME.

A Belfast M.P. and a Prominent Orangeman Flees to Escape Arrest.

BELFAST, April 11.—A warrant was recently issued in this city for the arrest of Edward De Cobain, member of Parliament for East Belfast, on a scandalous charge. De Cobain escaped, however, and disappeared from the country, going, it is believed, to Spain. To-day another warrant for his arrest was issued and efforts will be made to take him into custody as soon as possible. The accused man is a prominent member of the Orange institution, being Deputy Grand Master for Ireland, and is the son of a Wesleyan minister. He is about 51 years of age and has been a member of the House of Commons since 1885.

JOSEPH TALKS OF PEACE.

Emperor Francis Joseph Talks of Peace to the Reichsrath.

VIENNA, April 13.—Emperor Francis Joseph opened the session of the Reichsrath. His Majesty in his speech dwelt upon the desire for peace manifested throughout Europe. He said that all European governments had given him assurances which denoted that peace was the most essential object of their endeavors. This, he added, combined with the friendly relations now existing between the powers of Europe, justifies the hope that peace will prevail for many years to come, thus, the Emperor added, enabling the members of the Reichsrath to continue their labors undisturbed by war or other serious complications.

PASTOR AND PEOPLE.

REV. MR. MUNRO OF ST. THOMAS SAYS FAREWELL.

An Immense Congregation Assemble Expecting Some Racy Developments, But They are Disappointed—The Very Appropriate Text Which the Preacher Took.

ST. THOMAS, April 12.—The interest in the Munro scandal, which had comparatively died out, was owing to two reasons suddenly awakened afresh yesterday, first by the publication of the whole affair in the newspapers; secondly, from the fact that the long strained relations between pastor and people were to be finally severed by a farewell sermon this evening. It formed the only subject of gossip in all circles and amongst all classes to-day, and long before the hour of service this evening the church was packed with an eager and inquisitive congregation gathered from all churches in the city anxious and ready for any denouement that might take place. The text was selected from the concluding portion of the 13th chapter of II. Corinthians and its application to the whole situation was most apt.

These words, said the speaker, were the last words of the Apostle Paul to the Church at Corinth, that church at which he gained his greatest popularity and where he received the most cruel and trying treatment. He preached an able and an earnest sermon, concluding as follows: "In concluding not only this sermon, but my work in this building, though my silence may disappoint some, I refrain from speaking of much which has been hard to bear and will be sad to remember. I gladly turn from it to speak of my gratitude to the large number of the members of this church who have been so just and kind to me and who in spite of the sacrifices which it has compelled them to make and influences which they have had to resist have stood by me and sympathised with me in my great and sore affliction. May God bless and reward them as He alone can and as He surely will. I wish also to thank the many members of the congregation whose sense of right and justice has caused them to show me regard and kindness, which have done much to enable me to sustain what I have had to endure. Nor can I abstain from making mention of the many ladies and gentlemen of other denominations who by their personal visits and their communications have shown their steadfast confidence and deep sympathy. If some have compelled me to see human nature in its very worst others have exhibited it in its very best aspects, fulfilling the golden rule and illustrating the charity which rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth. To you and to them from the very heart I say, in the words of my text: 'May the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.'" At the close a great many friends and admirers went forward and warmly shook hands with their departing pastor.

CHICAGO'S BIG FIRE.

The Haymarket Theatre and Other Buildings Destroyed—The Loss Will Reach Fully One Million Dollars.

CHICAGO, April 12.—Chicago this evening suffered one of the most destructive conflagrations that has occurred here since the big fire of 1871. The loss is fully $1,000,000. John M. Smyth's house furnishing establishment in West Madison-street, and Kohl & Middleton's dime museum were burned and the fire crossed the street and destroyed the building of the People's Clothing Co. Despite all efforts the buildings between Union-street and Haymarket block shared the fate of those across the street and were wiped out completely. In the Haymarket the fire was confined to the upper story, but the whole building was damaged.

It took 40 fire engines and nearly 300 firemen to bring the fire under subjection. Francis Gamble, who was struck by flying debris during the fire, died at the hospital to-night.

Gave Up Its Dead.

GANANOQUE, Ont., April 12.—Cyrus Moore, aged 14, son of Walsingham Moore, disappeared on December 8 last and no trace of him could be found. Saturday his body was found in the river. When the body was found skates were on and his hands were in his pockets, indicating that he had fallen through an ice-hole while skating.

Children and Dynamite.

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 12.—Three small children of Thomas Munce were playing with a partly empty glycerine can to-day when a terrible explosion occurred. Two of the boys were blown to atoms. The third was badly bruised and will likely die.

New Teeth at 90.

COLUMBUS, Ind., April 12.—William G. Brooks, a pioneer of Redding, and over 90 years old, has cut almost an entire new set of teeth in the past few weeks.

The Boy and the Revolver.

HALIFAX, April 12.—A 15-year-old boy named Frederick Ridde, living in Windsor-street, was playing with a revolver in bed smoking when he discharged it, the bullet entering his head and killing him instantly.

Extending Manitoba Railways.

WINNIPEG, April 12.—Attorney-General Martin gave notice in the Legislature last night of the introduction of a bill providing for aid to the C.P.R. to extend its branch lines in Manitoba and to reach Souris coal fields on conditions of making rates for carrying coal.

The proposal of the Hudson Bay Railway for a grant of $1,500,000, to be paid on completion of road within five years has been accepted by the Local Government.

Through the Ice to Death.

HALIFAX, April 12.—Thomas Keltina, a man 28 years old, went through the ice while walking across Long Lake this afternoon and was drowned. A companion named David Irons also got into the water, but managed to crawl out.

Killed by a Plum Pit.

MONCTON, N.B., April 12.—Mrs. James Glendenning of Shediac died a few days ago, the pit of a plum becoming embedded in the tissues of her stomach. She left a husband and four young children.

Murdered the Baby at Tag.

RICHBURG, S.C., April 12.—Clarence Robinson, aged 5, and Emma Sherry, aged 4, disputed over a game of "tag," and the boy in a rage picked up a stone and killed his playmate.

Found Dead in Bed.

WROXETER, Ont., April 12.—Robert Montgomery, aged 62, one of the oldest settlers of this section, was found dead in bed yesterday.

Wants $20,000 for a Tooth.

BOSTON, April 12.—A suit for $20,000 has been instituted against Dr. U. K. Mayo, a dentist, by Mrs. Jane S. Fowle. She charges that an apprentice in the office of Dr. Mayo pulled the wrong tooth while she was under the effect of gas.

THE ITALIAN QUESTION.

Report That Unless an Answer From Harrison is Forthcoming To-morrow, Italy Will Take Action.

ROME, April 12.—The principal topic of conversation to-day in political and official circles has been the report that unless the American Government made a very speedy reply to Premier Rudini's last note Minister Porter would be requested to leave Rome and the Italian Legation would be recalled from Washington.

Many of the newspapers gave it conspicuous prominence in their columns and asserted their belief that it was substantially correct. They say America is to be allowed until next Tuesday, April 14, to reply to the last Italian note. If by Tuesday no reply is forthcoming from Secretary Blaine, then, the papers declare, diplomatic communication between the two countries is to be wholly suspended. Many, therefore, who at first scouted the report are now inclined to think it may have some basis, while the believers in Italian self-assertion and a vigorous foreign policy are elated.

The Opinione says: "The news from Washington is the subject of much comment. If Mr. Blaine is unable to make a categorical reply to Italy's simple and straightforward request, we can await the conclusion of such a silence serenely and without lamentations or threats. Public opinion, however, on both sides of the Atlantic, will hardly consider dignified such a painful admission of impotence."

WASHINGTON, April 12.—It is now a matter of positive knowledge that the Italian Government has not sent to this Government or any of its representatives a notification that a reply is expected to Marquis Rudini's note within any specified time. It is not customary in diplomacy for any nation to undertake to dictate the date of correspondence coming from another nation, and had Italy adopted this course it would certainly be regarded with umbrage by our own Government and would excite great surprise among the diplomats of other nations whose customs are regulated by unwritten but almost immutable law.

In high official circles here there has been no change in the opinion that the New Orleans matter is being manipulated in Italy to influence Italian politics. It is surmised that a brave show of indignant national feeling is being made, while there is in Rome a knowledge that Secretary Blaine's reply is near at hand, so that when it is made public the impression would be conveyed to the Italian popular mind that the United States had been overawed.

Justice Stephen's Successor.

LONDON, April 12.—Judge Collins has been appointed to succeed Justice Stephen in the High Court of Justice. There were several candidates. Judge Collins has the advantage of being an Irishman, though he belongs neither to the Parnellite nor to the anti-Parnellite faction, a circumstance which reminds forgetful persons that there is a third Ireland, entirely outside those two divisions. He is a Queen's Counsel, a bencher of his Inn, a member of the Bar Committee, a favorite with attorneys who have given him for years past large and lucrative business; and passes with both branches of the legal profession for being an able and sound lawyer, with none of that genius of which the public and the profession alike have a secret fear.

Water in Sahara.

PARIS, April 12.—A despatch from Oran says that an enormous reservoir of water, 120 feet below the surface, has been discovered at El-Golea, a small caravan station in the midst of the Sahara desert. The reservoir was discovered while a number of workmen were engaged in sinking a well at El-Golea. The shaft sunk already gives 40 gallons of good clear water per minute, and it is expected that this amount can readily be increased should it be found that a larger quantity is necessary. The discovery is of the highest importance and will undoubtedly tend to develop the caravan trade of El-Golea, which is one of the stopping places in the Sahara desert of caravans which travel across that region. This is the first time that water has been found at so slight a depth in the Sahara.

Bismarck Has a Sure Thing.

BERLIN, April 12.—The electoral contest at Geestemunde, where Prince Bismarck's candidacy for the Reichstag is opposed by candidates belonging to the Socialist and Progressist parties, has assumed the proportions of a great political event. The entire interest of the country centres in the result of next Wednesday, on which day the polling will take place. Prince Bismarck has definitely accepted the candidature on the assurance that he will receive a triumphant majority. The peasant vote will be given solidly to Prince Bismarck, as the champion of agricultural interests, besides his being the greatest living German, and he may be said to have a sure thing.

BERLIN, April 12.—Emperor William in a speech at the Marine Academy at Kiel said that the navy would have to assume the chief offensive role in the next war, and must endeavor to annihilate the enemy by a grand coup. The duties of the navy would resemble those of cavalry on shore. The next German military manœuvres, he said, would be conducted on the strategic principles of the English system, which alone resembles warfare.

Stranded on the Rocks.

LONDON, April 12.—The British steamer European, which sailed from London yesterday for New Orleans, is stranded on the rocks at Margate. She is in a precarious condition, lying with her broadside to the sea. A lifeboat and tugs have gone to her assistance. It is doubtful if she can be floated.

Death of a Toronto Alderman.

TORONTO, April 12.—Information reached the city yesterday of the very sudden death of Ald. George E. Gillespie in California. The deceased alderman left Toronto on March 19 last to join his wife, who had been wintering at Pasadena for her health, intending to return with her as soon as the weather moderated. He was stricken with grip and died in a few days. He was senior partner of the well-known wholesale firm of Gillespie, Ansley & Martin.

Traded a Wife for Town Lots.

CAMBRIDGE CITY, Ind., April 12.—Miller and Corra Sherry, residents of Dublin, Ind., have dissolved their marriage relations, the husband accepting two unimproved town lots in that village in lieu of his wife's affections. The conditions in the deed are that he relinquish his entire interest in her and an agreement that she may have a divorce.

Sheriff Scarfe Dead.

BRANTFORD, April 12.—Sheriff Scarfe of Brant died last evening. He was stricken with an attack of grip about a year ago, from which he never fully recovered.

At no season in the year is cold in the head and catarrh more prevalent than during April. To neglect either means misery and perhaps fatal results. Nasal Balm is the only certain remedy for these dangerous diseases, and as a precautionary remedy should be kept in every household. Nasal Balm has cured thousands of sufferers—it will cure you. Try it.

FED THEM TO DOGS.

HORRIBLE FATE OF BRITISH OFFICERS IN INDIA.

The Natives Hack Them to Pieces and Throw Them Over the Walls—Another Battle of Blackthorns—The Italian Imbroglio. General Foreign News.

LONDON, April 12.—The latest advices from India concerning the massacre at Manipur are that Commissioner Quinton was decapitated and his body horribly mangled, the limbs being afterward thrown outside the city walls, where they were devoured by dogs. Two officers whose names are not given and a bugler were speared by the Kutis and Mr. Grimwood, the British political agent at Manipur, and two other officers were shot. The bodies of all the victims were brutally mutilated and afterwards thrown over the walls of the city, as in the case of the unfortunate commissioner. The remains of two officers who were killed during the fighting were treated in a similar manner. A large reward has been offered for the capture of the regent of Manipur.

The Natives Not Ill-used.

LONDON, April 12.—Capt. [illegible], Jr., a survivor of the massacre at Manipur, denies the stories in regard to British ill-usage of the natives. He asserts that the Manipuris fired first on the British.

To Save the Priests.

DUBLIN, April 11.—At the trial to-day of the Parnellites, charged with having disturbed a McCarthyite meeting, three priests, who were among the large number of persons arrested at Carrick-on-Shannon yesterday for refusing to appear as crown witnesses, were compelled to go on the witness stand. Two of the prisoners affirmed their innocence, but pleaded guilty in order to free the priests and were bound over to keep the peace for one year. The other prisoners were discharged.

John Daly's Courage May Set Him Free.

DUBLIN, April 12.—John Daly, one of the Mayo dynamite conspirators, who is serving a life sentence in Mountjoy Prison, is in a fair way to obtain his freedom through saving to-day the life of Warder Fitzmaurice, whom a convict felled to the ground with a crowbar. Ere the Warder's assailant could finish his murderous task he was, after a terrific struggle, reduced to submission by Daly.

A Seven Years' Struggle Ended.

DUBLIN, April 12.—The plan of campaign has collapsed on the Tower Hill estate in [illegible] and [illegible], the former purchasing the holdings under the Ashbourne Act, while the latter has reinstated evicted tenants on the payment of a single year's rent less 20 percentage. Thus a seven years' struggle is ended.

The tour of Lady Zetland and party on Friday took them out of reach of telegraph. Starting from Deradda they traversed a bleak country to Cashel and Carna. At both places the party received a warm welcome, and addresses were presented to them.

DUBLIN, April 12.—Messrs. Tanner and Deasy (Nationalist members of parliament) spoke at Macroom to-day. A lively scene occurred at the meeting, the heckings of opponents of the speakers being drowned by the cheers of friends. Both factions fought fiercely. Blackthorns were used right and left and blood flowed freely. Many persons were seriously hurt. So great was the uproar that the speakers for the most part were unheard, even by those nearest the platform.

Foreign Money Markets.

LONDON, April 12.—Money was easy early in the week, but tightened on successive withdrawals of gold for Germany amounting to £480,000, together with £600,000 going on Monday. The last Bank of England returns of diminished reserve combined with the efflux of bullion abroad, renders an early advance of the bank rate exceedingly probable. Discount hardened during the week and was quoted at 3¼ for 3 months and 3 for short. On the stock exchange business was more active and there was a higher range of prices in every department. The scarcity of stock shown in the settlement just closed assisted in strengthening quotations and good advices from other bourses and the decided symptoms of a revival in New York helped to give a sense of general buoyancy.

France's Ambassador to Germany.

PARIS, April 12.—M. Herbette, the French Ambassador to Germany, has sent to M. Robert, French Minister of Foreign Affairs, a despatch full of misgivings as to the nature of the Ambassador's relations with the Berlin Foreign Office. M. Herbette says that Chancellor Von Caprivi treats him with formal politeness, while the German Emperor, who was formerly invariably affable in his manner, now speaks curtly and has shown positive ill-humor towards Frenchmen whom M. Herbette has introduced at receptions. The news causes increased anxiety in Government circles here.

Murder Revealed After Forty Years.

LONDON, April 12.—An aged woman named Mary Ann Walsh, for several years an inmate of the workhouse at Ashton-Under-Lyne in Lancashire, died in that institution yesterday. Just before her death she confessed to having murdered her nephew in September, 1849, because she hated the child's mother, her sister. The records confirm the woman's story, so far as the violent death of the child is concerned.

Foreign Brevities.

The first consignment of samples of Chinese tobacco have been received by London brokers. China is desirous of competing in European markets.

Joseph Kubowski, director of the State Bank of Kalsz, Prussia, has been sentenced to two years' imprisonment for misappropriating 60,000 marks of the bank's funds.

A syndicate of capitalists in Yokohama and Shanghai are purchasing iron mines in Japan, the development of which is said to promise great profits.

The coming contest for White Haven will be a sharp one. The borough is naturally a Liberal one, but has been kept in the Conservative camp by the popularity of Cavendish-Bentinck, just deceased.

A series of experiments with quick-fire guns has been made at Canet's great battery at Havre in the presence of French officers, a Russian commission headed by Col. [illegible] and the Danish General Lieutenant.

A tradesman named [illegible], in [illegible], Prussia, shot and killed his son and daughter last night, and killed his wife with a hatchet, mangling her body in a frightful manner. When the police arrived at the house they found [illegible] surrounded by the corpses of his family. The tragedy is attributed to a [illegible] of insanity.

Dropped Dead at a Friendly Chat.

WINGHAM, April 12.—Mrs. George Hutchinson, aged 28, wife of a blacksmith here, while conversing with a visitor to the house suddenly fell dead to the floor from heart disease.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 18[illegible] I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

HAVE NOT LOST A SINGLE DAY

A CONCESSION TO CANADA.

A DESPATCH from London, Eng., says that Canada has just secured an important concession from France. The French government has been for some time refusing to admit Canadian hams and bacon to France because goods from the United States of this class were prohibited owing to dangerous diseases known to exist in the American pork. Sir Charles Tupper, the Canadian High Commissioner, made a friendly protest to the French government, pointing out that the Canadian herds are absolutely free from disease. As proof of his contention Sir Charles submitted to the authorities at Paris samples of Canadian hog products, which the experts to whom they were referred for analysis, declared to be absolutely free from taint, and distinctly superior to the United States goods of similar grades. The result is that the French authorities have decided to admit Canadian hog products, and some consignments have already been admitted. It is hoped that an increasing profitable market has been thus secured. Similar steps are now being taken by the officials of the High Commissioner's office to induce other European powers, who include Canadian hog products in the prohibition against American goods, to grant similar concessions to Canadian pork.

DR. WELDON'S VIEWS.

A GREAT deal has been made in Liberal papers of what purported to be an interview with Dr. Weldon, a Nova Scotia Conservative. In reference to this the Halifax Herald says:—"Dr. Weldon, M.P., was in town yesterday, after a week or two of recreation in the country, and he was very much amused to learn of the furore which an alleged newspaper interview with him on Mr. Blake's letter had created. Dr. Weldon declared very emphatically that the interview in question did not express his real views, but that they were perverted and distorted, particularly in regard to annexation as a possible future for Canada. He had no idea that Canada would seek annexation, even if Great Britain should decide to decline to enter into more liberal trade relations with us, and he regarded it as perfectly absurd that he should be credited with the opinions reported in the interview."

THE publication of the Newfoundland draft treaty shows, says the Montreal Gazette, that on almost every article of merchandise Canada sends to the Island special low duties were to be given when imported from the United States. The operation of the treaty would have practically destroyed a considerable trade between this port and Newfoundland. The Canadian Government will need to offer no excuses to the Canadian public for the steps it took to prevent the ratification of the convention till, if possible, as good terms could be obtained for the Dominion. That it was justified in doing this even Newfoundlanders, when they become cooler, will admit, for the Canadian tariff law especially grants to the products of Newfoundland all the privileges stipulated for in the arrangement with the United States.

"Every Spring."

Says one of the best housewives of New England, "We feel the necessity of taking a good medicine to purify the blood, and we all take Hood's Sarsaparilla. It keeps the children free from humors, my husband says it gives him a good appetite, and for myself I am sure I could never do all my work if it was not for this splendid medicine. It makes me feel strong and cheerful, and I am never troubled with headache or that tired feeling, as I used to be."

  On the banks of the bonny Dee.

'Twas there he met my mother,
  Who was also born close by,
Which is my excuse for living
  And will be till I die.
I never have been naturalised;
  By trade I am a fool,
I am working at it steadily
  And I do not go to school.

I do not read—the Bible,
  And I never write—a cheque;
I can swear in choicest English,
  With a boil upon my neck.
I have megacephalitis;
  I am not a homeless child,
I served one day in prison,
  Then I was rather wild.

I rent the house I live in,
  I'm never out of debt,
Have you anything else to ask me?
  Will I take a drink? You bet!

SOUTH MONAGHAN.

Correspondence of the Review.

EXPLANATION.—It is quite a little while since news has appeared from here, but never mind. The correspondent is not absent, and is always on the alert for news of importance.

CENTREVILLE.—Mr. Robert Lancashire was interred in the burying ground on Wednesday, April 8th. He will be remembered by many friends around here.

LODGE MEETING.—The members of L. O. L. No. 46, Cavan, held their monthly meeting at their hall, Fraserville, on Thursday evening, April 7th. We learn quite a number were present. The members of this lodge have always been noted as strictly adherent to their flag.

PERSONAL.—Mr. James Lang, of Peterborough, was lately visiting his friends here.

So Very Wisely Decided.

Two farms are offered for sale in a hay growing district, and a purchaser comes along and finds that both farms are of equal size, and that the owners each ask the same price. The intending buyer learns, however, that A's farm yields from one to one and a half tons more to the acre than B's, and without further hesitation buys A's farm. Diamond Dyes so justly celebrated, and so thoroughly tested, do double the work of any of the crude makes offered by some dealers, and are sold at the same price as the common goods. Can there be a doubt regarding the choice that the ladies will make when buying package dyes?

A Stable Boy Heir to An Earldom.

LIVERPOOL, April 12.—An heir to the Earldom of Milltown, whose claims are admittedly superior to those of the present holder of the title, has been discovered in the person of Robert Lesson, an ex-soldier and now employed as a laborer in a stable at Birkenhead. Lesson's case has been investigated by an eminent barrister, who has expressed his conviction that the stableman is the true earl.

The Dissenters and the Queen.

LONDON, April 12.—Dissenters in all parts of the country are writing indignant protests to the newspapers against the refusal of Rev. Mr. Davis to offer the toast of the Queen. The substance of the letters is that nonconformists are not surpassed in loyalty by churchmen or any other religious denomination and that Mr. Davis represented only himself in his demonstration against the royal family.

Two Vacant Seats.

LONDON, April 12.—The death of two members of Parliament was announced to-day. One of them is Mr. Thomas Keay Tapling, a Conservative, who represented South Leicestershire. He was head of the firm of Tapling & Co., wholesale carpet and Manchester warehousemen. The other deceased member is Col. Charles Joseph Theophilus Hambro, also a Conservative, who sat for South Dorset. He was a magistrate and was prominent in Free Masonry.

To Be Prohibited.

VIENNA, April 11.—The Government has issued an order prohibiting the proposed manifestations on May day. The Government also refuses to grant a holiday on the first of May to the persons employed in the state factories.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache.

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache and is the best Spring Medicine. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a package.

SHAMEIKIN CONFESSES.

THAT HE INTENDED TO KILL THE CZAR AND HIMSELF.

A Persuader in the Shape of a Galvanic Battery Has a Powerful Influence—Many Arrests Followed His Disclosures—The Czarina Seriously Affected.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 12.—Shameikin, who was arrested for attempting to assassinate the Czar at a review, belongs to the Scaevoli Club of Kharkoff, the members of which are bound by oath to make continual efforts to murder the Czar. Most of the members have been arrested.

The Czarina is seriously affected by the news of the conspiracy against the life of the Czar, which has just been made known to her. She has been suffering great anxiety on account of her second son, the Grand Duke George, who was wrestling with his cousin, Prince George of Greece, and received serious injury to the spine. He is suffering from attacks of fever. He is at present on board the Russian war vessel Admiral Nakhimoff, in Algerian waters. On the advice of the doctors sent thither by the Czar, the intended removal of the Grand Duke to Corfu has been abandoned, and he will for the present remain where he is.

Shameikin, the would-be assassin of the Czar, has been induced to make a full confession to the police after, it is reported, two or three applications of a powerful battery, strong enough to inflict pain but not to destroy life. He will not be sentenced to death, or probably tried. The Czar exercises the authority, in special instances, of dispensing with the forms of trial for political crimes, and Shameikin will nominally be sent to Siberia. Russian exiles in London, however, smile in a ghastly way at the suggestion of any punishment as mild as Siberia for anyone who came so close to the actual murder of the Czar. They say that if he is kept alive now, it is probably only because he has not confessed enough, and that, if he survives the horrors of the prison, he will die under the knout. A Russian refugee named Semenow has even gone so far as to suggest that Shameikin is probably being utilized for vivisection purposes in the new surgical institution recently opened with great display in St. Petersburg and in which vivisection is a specialty.

The police have succeeded in arresting a large number of Shameikin's fellow-conspirators, but two of the leaders are said to have made their escape into Roumania as soon as the capture of their principal leader was known. The incident of Shameikin's arrest was given to the public somewhat prematurely by the police, who were so proud of their achievement that they could not keep it quiet. It is thought improbable by those best informed as to Russian methods and affairs that any of the conspirators captured will again be heard of. It is stated that the Czar is determined to strike terror into those who are engaged in plots against his life, and that he is convinced that the fear of death itself is no deterrent. The police have ascertained that the globule found on Shameikin contained a deadly poison sufficient to have killed him [illegible] after he had killed the Czar. The nature of the poison has not yet been developed, but its effect has been tested.

Bulgarian Assassins Caught.

SOFIA, April 12.—The Bulgarian authorities have paid a reward of 20,000 francs to a Bulgarian, whose name is carefully concealed from the public, for his services in detecting the murderers of M. Beltcheff, the Bulgarian Minister of Finance. It is believed that the assassins are now in the power of M. Stambouloff, the Prime Minister, whose life, it is supposed [illegible] endeavoring to take when Beltcheff was shot and killed.

A Hand-Mirror Stops a Sermon.

BANGOR, Me., April 12.—While the Rev. F. E. Whitham of the First Methodist Church was delivering his sermon on Sunday morning a sudden flash of light athwart his eyes caused him to start. A moment later the phenomenon was repeated and then it became apparent that some mischievous person was amusing himself with a hand mirror. The interruption continued at short intervals, until finally the service had to be abandoned. Investigation traced the cause to a neighboring house and it was not long before a young man, member of a prominent family, was under arrest as the perpetrator. He was arraigned in court and sentenced to a short term of imprisonment and to pay a fine.

Dust Storm at Sea.

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—The bark Payson Tucker, which put into the Delaware breakwater while bound from Cienfuegos to New York, had her decks covered with yellow powder in a storm on April 2 when off Body's Island, Virginia. At the time there was a light rain falling. A moderate breeze from the west covered the decks and rigging to a depth of a seventeenth of an inch. It is supposed to have been the pulverized soil of a southern state taken up by a whirlwind and carried aloft until landed on the Payson Tucker.

[illegible] Throat in a Dream.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., April 12.—A man named Rexford, aged 23, eloped with a 13-year-old girl from the interior of Lewis county yesterday. The couple came to Parkersburg and passed the night. Rexford was discovered in bed this morning with his throat cut. It is claimed he dreamed he was in a fight and cut his adversary's throat. The couple were arrested.

CASH HARDWARE STORE.

On and after 1st April we shall do business on a Cash Basis.

To cover the inevitable losses attendant upon a credit business, (which accrue from amount of time spent in keeping accounts, collecting, bad debts, interest account, and in numerous other ways, larger margins of profit must be asked.

In these times cash buyers ask, expect and are entitled to close prices. A careful consideration of the subject convinces us that the time has come for a cash business done on smaller profits.

The only customers who may be put to inconvenience are those who have had long credit. In more ways than one it will be to their advantage to pay cash.

For convenience of our old customers who consider their accounts due when presented, we will call 30 days cash and render all accounts the first of each month, and we wish to say that we will be happy to do business with them on these terms.

As the new departure is something of an experiment, what would be considered a close cash price will be made all through the stock. Not a few leaders only, but a general reduction in everything from the fourth flat to the cellar.

Our idea is to perform more than promised rather than promise more than can be fulfilled.

Our stock is large and varied, consisting of Builders', Contractors', Household, Mechanics', Painters', Shoemakers', Farm, Mill, Factory, Lumbermen's, Sporting, Threshers', Cabinetmakers', and other lines of Hardware.

How to Play Ball.

The popular "Buck" Ewing, captain of the New York's, has written an article for the Boy's Department of The Ladies' Home Journal for June, on the "Ins and Outs of Base-ball," in which the famous catcher will tell how to play the game; how to form a nine; the hardest positions and how to fill them; how to throw a ball, etc. This is Ewing's first article, and it is said to be the best which has ever been written for boys on the great national game.

Many people who pride themselves on their blue blood would be far happier with pure blood; but, while we cannot choose ancestors, fortunately, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, we can transmit pure blood to our posterity.

THE SEWERAGE QUESTION.

An Interview with the Chairman of Last Year's Committee.

A representative of the REVIEW met Councillor Langford, who was chairman of the committee on sewerage appointed by the Town Council last year, and in view of recent letters on the question and the action of the Board of Trade asked him about the present position of the matter.

"Last year," said Mr. Langford, "the Council, on the recommendation of the committee, ordered a topographical survey of the town. It was late when the work was ordered, but it was carried forward by Mr. Belcher as far as the season permitted and will be completed this spring."

"What should be the next step after the survey is completed?" asked the reporter.

"The next thing to be done," said the Councillor, "would be to employ a sanitary engineer to decide upon the system best suited to the requirements of the town. After that had been done and the cost ascertained the question would be in a shape that it could be presented to the people, when, if they are in earnest in asking for sewerage, they could authorize the Council to go on with the work."

"Have you an idea of what it would cost?"

"That is an important question, and one that, of course, could only be accurately ascertained after the plans were made. However, to do the work necessary to be done now would not cost so very much—$30,000 should cover it. Sewers are certainly required in the centre of the town, but I cannot see that they are necessary for the health of the people out further. Of course it would be a nice thing to have them all over the town, but that is not necessary now, and to cover the whole town would cost a considerable sum. If the centre part were constructed the cost should not be borne by the whole town, but a portion should be provided for on the frontage tax principle."

"Have you formed any idea of what a system for the whole town would cost?"

"I think $100,000 ought to provide a system for the town. That is what the Brockville system cost and there they had considerable rock excavation, paying as high as $5 per cubic yard for some of the excavations. The difficulties here, so far as is known, would be nothing like that. This town has natural advantages for drainage. From what levels have been taken there appears to be a fall of forty-five feet from the north part of the town to below the locks, and the work of excavation would be comparatively easy. If the work was pushed forward at once what is really necessary now for sanitary needs might be done this season."

"Any idea that the Council had dropped the matter would be a mistaken one?"

"Yes. Although the matter has not been heard of lately it has not been allowed to lapse. A great deal of information has been collected that will be useful when the town comes to face the question after the surveys are made. I am glad, however, to see that the people are waking up on the subject.

"As to the action of the Board of Trade," said the Councillor, "if that body had followed the action of the Town Council it would have seen that the resolution it passed was not necessary. The topographical survey is in hand and its completion must wait for a suitable season. No doubt even an energetic body of men like the Board of Trade would not care to proceed without such a survey. I would add that there are places adjacent to the town that need sewerage as much as the greater part of the town and in which some members of the Board might be expected to have more influence with the municipal council."

The Use of the Street.

The attention of builders is called to the following provisions made in section 25 of the Building By-law passed by the Town Council last year:—

"That no person about to build in any part of the town of Peterborough shall be entitled to use any part of the public street of said town, for the purpose of depositing building material or erecting scaffolding, until he shall have received a permit from the Building Inspector specifying the extent to which such street may be used (not exceeding one-third of the total width thereof in any case), and specifying also the work to be done, and the precautions to be taken by the person using the street to ensure the safety and convenience of foot passengers. That such permit shall not be issued in respect of any building to be erected within the fire limits until the applicant therefore has submitted to the Inspector the plans and specifications of such building or such part thereof as shall have reference to the requirements of this by-law, nor unless such plans and specifications and the character of the building to be erected, shall be found by such Inspector to be in accordance with the provisions of this by-law. That after the building shall be so far completed as no longer to require the use of such street for such building material or scaffolding, the same shall be removed by the person to whom such permit was issued, and the street and sidewalk restored to their former condition."

"After a varied experience with many so-called cathartic remedies, I am convinced that Ayer's Pills give the most satisfactory results. I rely exclusively on these Pills for the cure of liver and stomach complaints."—John B. Bell, Sr. Abilene, Texas.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

Negotiations Closed with a Biscuit and Confectionery Firm.

Peterborough is to have another new manufactory within a few days. The Manufacturers Committee of the Town Council met on Saturday night and closed negotiations with a firm of biscuit and confectionery manufacturers who have been looking upon the town with favorable eyes.

The firm is Messrs. Read, Gilmour & Co., and comes from Brockville. They have done business before and are confident that success will attend their operations here. In this they are not likely to be disappointed. They agree to employ at the start twenty or twenty-five hands and expect in a short time to double the staff. They ask no bonus, but simply wanted an exemption from taxation. This will be given them and the firm will have their machinery here as soon as it can be transferred.

The new industry will occupy the premises of the Peterborough biscuit works. Some additions will be made to accommodate the increased number of men and improvements will be made in the present building. Mr. Read and Mr. Gilmour were in town on Saturday and were present at the committee meeting on Saturday night. They like the town and are apparently enterprising and energetic.

A Serious Fall.

Mr. Jos. Phillips, of Ashburnham, was severely injured on Saturday by falling from a scaffold at a building where he was working on Gilmour-st.

The Wonder-Workers.

Zera Seman and his company of talented specialists closed a three nights' engagement at the opera house on Saturday evening. The performance, as on the other nights, was of a highly interesting character and delighted the audience.

Women's Work in the Church of England.

The first annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary since the amalgamation of that society with the Women's Aid, was held in St. John's school house on Monday, the 6th inst. The reports showed that the membership had more than doubled in the last year, that much more work had been done for parochial and missionary objects, also that a good financial standing had been secured. Encouraging reports were presented from the South Ward Division, Girls Gild and Mission Band in connection with the Auxiliary. The officers elected for the ensuing year were:—

PRESIDENT.—Mrs. G. A. Smith.

VICE-PRESIDENT.—Mrs. Weller and Mrs. James Best.

SECRETARY.—Miss Wallis.

PAROCHIAL SEC.—Mrs. George Rubidge.

TREASURER.—Miss Kirkpatrick.

PAROCHIAL-TREAS.—Miss M. Ribidge.

Church Notes.

A sermon on charity will be preached at St. Peter's Cathedral on Sunday evening next by Rev. Father Teefy, Superior of St. Michael's College, Toronto. The sermon will be given under the auspices of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, for whose aid a liberal offering is expected.

The evangelistic services which have been conducted with much success in the George-st. Methodist church during the past three weeks, will be continued this week.

At the George-st. church last evening the pastor, Rev. J. H. Locke, preached a sermon especially to young people. He based his discourse on Deut. xxxii. 47:—"For it is not a vain thing for you, because it is your life." The preacher's theme was the importance of religion, which gave a man longer life and happier days, was his comfort in death and gave him everlasting happiness. The choir sang three beautiful anthems during the service.

The anniversary services of St. Paul's church are to be held on Sunday, May 17th. Rev. Principal Grant, of Queen's University, will preach the sermons. The Principal will also deliver a lecture in the church on the 18th of May under the auspices of the Ladies Aid of the church.

A Terrible Tragedy in Dakota.

The following telegram was published last week:—"WINNIPEG, April 5.—From Pembina, N. D., comes the murderous tale. A Miss D. Bartlett had been seduced by one McConnell, who recently got married. Her two brothers, Fred and Tom, on Saturday drove out to where McConnell was staying and the latter shot McConnell twice. McConnell ran to the house, and a man upon attempting to disarm the infuriated brothers, received a shot in the breast and another in the arm. McConnell started out to run on the prairie, and another brother started after him in a buggy, followed by Tom Bartlett and a friend named Irwin. The latter was shot in the groin and afterwards McConnell was hit twice. After the shooting the Barlett brothers returned home, and while Tom attended to the horses Fred went into the house a shot himself through the head, dying instantly. Tom was arrested and it is feared he will be lynched. McConnell cannot live and Hill and Irwin are dangerously hurt." To this the Lindsay Post adds:—"The Bartlett boys formerly lived in Lindsay and are brothers of Mr. C. Bartlett, butcher. They were living on a farm in Dakota, some fifteen miles from Pembina, and McConnel, who comes from Bobcaygeon, had been living some time with them. The father and mother of the Bartletts returned to Ontario a year or two ago; and since then the young girl has been keeping house for her brothers. McConnel, who had taken up a neighboring farm, was quite at home in the house until last week, when he married another young woman. Some revelations were then made and the shooting took place. If the statements are correct the public sympathy in the Pembina neighborhood will go with the Bartletts, and there is not much danger of lynching. A telegram from the sheriff at Pembina states that Tom Bartlett is under arrest. There is much sympathy in this town for Mr. C. Bartlett."

—The much-needed work of scraping George-st. has been commenced.

—The Building and Savings Society meets this evening in Mayor Stevenson's office.

—In the absence of Police Magistrate Dumble, Mr. Chas. Cameron, J. P., presided at the Police Court this morning.

—Several cases of la grippe are reported around town. Fine, warm weather, however, will soon cause the racking monster to depart.

—A gang of men have been employed for the past few days cutting and clearing the ice out of the drill shed. It will be several days before the shed will be fit for use.

Another Police Court Dance.

Chief Roszel held quite a distinguished reception at the Police Court this morning, and, although the invited guests only numbered eight or ten, the Court room was packed to its fullest. On Wednesday night last a "social hop" or "dance" was held at the "Green Bush," that tall building on George-st., just south of Charlotte-st. which is already well known to those who read the newspapers. The "Green Bush" is not an hotel now, the proprietor not having a license to sell liquor. It is rather a boarding house, and the proprietor has given his dwelling for several society events this winter. The social entertainment held there on Wednesday night last promised to be a great success until after the gruesome hour of midnight, when two of the male participants got into a dispute, blows were struck and a general melee is said to have followed. It is said that this event was equal to the celebrated Murray-st. dance which marked the social season of last year, except that this time the chimney was not torn down. Judging from the names of those in this disturbance the personel of the party was just about the same as that of the Murray-st. event. The police took the matter in hand and ten young bloods were summoned to the police court this morning to answer to a charge of disorderly conduct. Mr. W. H. Moore and Mr. W. A. Stratton appeared to defend the crowd of young men, who were quite amused over the "stag dance" which they were about to have. Police Magistrate Dumble was out of town and Mr. Charles Cameron, J. P., who was on the bench, enlarged the case until to-morrow morning. As the enlargement was made, the soft strains of the National Anthem floated on the air of justice which prevades the police court room and the crowd which had assembled to hear "the particulars of the dancing class" dispersed to re-assemble to-morrow.

The Edison Company's Assembly.

The arrangements for the grand assembly which will be given on Monday night next by the Edison Company to mark the opening of their works here are now being make with all possible despatch and completeness. While the invitation list will be an extended one, of course the number invited will have to be more or less limited. About eight hundred persons will be included in the invitations that will be issued, and arrangements to cater to this number will therefore be made. It can easily be seen that no general public invitations could be given as arrangements could not be made to cater to them. The management of the event has been placed in the hands of a committee of local men, and everything will be properly attended to. The music for the occasion will probably be brought from Toronto, while local men will do the catering.

The Town Might Be Benefitted.

The building of the proposed railroad to Sault St. Marie, the preliminaries in which several local men have interested themselves, has been carried by its promoters to a point where it will likely stop unless more general interest is taken in the undertaking. Everything has been done to facilitate the work, the Grand Trunk has been interested and now the next move will be to secure a charter. The construction of such a road only as far as Bobcaygeon or Kinmount is a matter of interest to the town for it will bring trade to Peterborough which now goes elsewhere. The Board of Trade might find a subject for discussion and consideration in this proposed railway and see what influence or assistance it could give the enterprise.

The Only Strictly Cash House in Town.

W. J. Morrow's great cash sale is meeting with unbounded success owing to the great drop in prices. No bad debts to cause us to add a certain percentage on the cost of goods, we are sure of every dollar's worth sold. We are making it rather warm for other houses, but we can't help it. We must sell cheap and secure the trade of the town. d88-w15

A Chance for Buyers.

The sale of furniture on Saturday, 11th inst., at York & Lee's old stand, George-st. drew a large crowd and as the furniture offered was sold cheap, buyers were numerous. A number of parlor sets, lounges, easy chairs, oak bedroom sets and ordinary bedroom sets were left over and these together with other stock in process of finishing will be offered for sale, by auction, on Saturday, April 25th, at one o'clock. Housekeepers who require furniture should not fail to be on hand. 6d81w16

The publishers of Our Homes, a large, elegantly printed 32-page magazine, announce that in order to increase their circulation they are willing to devote their entire first year's profits to this end, and in order to do so, offer competitions in which they give large cash rewards to those taking part. One of these competitions is now in progress and closes on April 25th. In addition to the large amount given in cash on their general prize list, they offer as an extra inducement the following special cash prizes:—During the weeks ending April 11th and April 18th they offer daily cash prizes of $10, and a weekly cash prize of $50 for the first named week, and $100 for the latter. For the week ending April 25th they offer daily cash prizes of $25, and a prize of $150 for the week. These exceedingly generous prizes are in addition to the general prize list, and the person who gets one of the special rewards may also get a large prize in the general list. No other magazine publishers have ever made such a liberal offer, and as the competition remains open three more weeks you should avail yourself of the liberal offer at once. Send 10 cents in stamps for a sample copy of Our Homes and complete particulars of the competition. Address OUR HOMES PUBLISHING Co., Brockville, Ont. 6d48-7w

Is not only a distressing complaint, of itself, but, by causing the blood to become depraved and the system enfeebled, is the parent of innumerable maladies. That Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best cure for Indigestion, even when complicated with Liver Complaint, is proved by the following testimony from Mrs. Joseph Lake, of Brockway Centre, Mich.:—

"Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony, was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an improvement in my condition. My appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life."

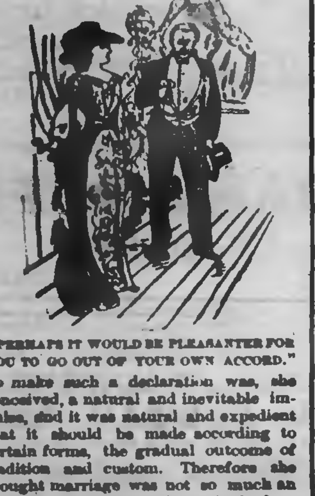
BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

Consider the immense number of divorces and scandals that were coming to light in all degrees of the social scale; what were they but the blind and inarticulate protest of the individual against the selfish injustice of the majority? What was the remedy for these abuses? Did it not lie in the hands of the superior persons in the world—of those who could see through the show of things, who were clear headed, and possessed the courage of their convictions? Let them lead the way. Doubtless they would be pursued by the sneers and slanders of fools and bigots; but fools and bigots had ever been the foes of progress and enlightenment. We who take the broader and profounder views can afford to disregard their clamor. We (said Jocelyn, taking the prima donna's hand in his, and stroking it gently) can set them the example of courage and independence, which will sooner or later be followed. It is not merely our privilege, but our duty, and it would be base for us to shrink from it.

The prima donna withdrew her hand as unobtrusively as she could, and asked her mentor what objection there was to marriage if people loved each other? He replied that if they loved each other what was the use of marriage? She rejoined that for two persons to love each other was for them to feel that they must belong to each other forever, and that marriage was simply their open declaration before God and man of the existence of this feeling in their hearts.



"PERHAPS IT WOULD BE PLEASANTER FOR YOU TO GO OUT OF YOUR OWN ACCORD."

To make such a declaration was, she conceived, a natural and inevitable impulse, and it was natural and expedient that it should be made according to certain forms, the gradual outcome of tradition and custom. Therefore she thought marriage was not so much an injustice of society to the individual, as a demand made by the individual that society be the witness and a voucher of his covenant.

But Jocelyn hereupon pointed out that a covenant always implied a binding promise, involving penalties if it were broken; that this again implied distrust in the power of pure love to hold its own, and that any outside pressure brought to bear upon a passion essentially so free as love must tend to promote the very reaction and revolt which it professed to guard against. She made answer that the covenant of marriage was not a bondage, and had not that effect upon the parties to it, but that to make one's happiness known to others endowed it with a reality and substance which were else wanting to it. That every person one met tacitly or explicitly confirmed it, reechoed it and assured it, and that the wedded state would consequently lose half its delight and security if it existed, for example, between two persons on a desert island, debarred from ever communicating the fact of their mutual relation to others.

Jocelyn had changed his ground, the better to convey his meaning, and put it to his interlocutor whether a large percentage of marriages were not notoriously unhappy, and this being admitted, whether it were not thereby demonstrated that a great many marriages were a mistake? She answered that even if all marriages which had ever occurred were mistakes, that would not prove that marriage itself was a mistake, but only that the wedded partner had been mistaken in each other. Upon his maintaining that every institution must be judged by its practical application, she rejoined that if there were no such thing as love, there was an end to all argument about it.

He said that love did unquestionably exist, and that it was the strongest and most enduring passion of the human heart, but that it by no means followed that we could always love the same person with equal fervor. Life was growth, and love, which was the essence of life, must therefore be subject to growth likewise. As we developed, as our minds and capacities expanded, we put aside the things of our less mature time, and embraced the interests and the loves corresponding to our larger sphere. There was one love for childhood, another for youth, another for the prime of life. The greater a person's inherent scope and energy, the finer his organization, the more often would he find it necessary to change the object of his affections. To do so was not in opposition to true morality, but in obedience to it; but society, consulting solely its own selfish convenience, had artificially and arbitrarily made such acts criminal, and had thereby bewildered and mortally injured myriads of innocent human beings.

To this the prima donna replied that love could grow illimitably without danger of ever outgrowing its object. The need was not of more to love, but to love more. God, who was love itself, loved the meanest of his creatures, and what God loved that, surely, is not unworthy the affection of the most richly endowed of mankind. As Jocelyn did not immediately confute this argument the prima donna arose and gently intimated that it was necessary for her to be alone in order to prepare for the evening's performance.

Jocelyn ought to have known the futility of argument with a woman about a subject in which the emotions are mainly involved. Even if he had demonstrated his proposition and obtained her assent to it, he would not have been a bit nearer his goal. A woman overpowered by passion will act in direct opposition to the most elementary dictates of reason; and the same woman will not swerve a hair's breadth from the path of rectitude if the most unanswerable logical demonstration do not tally with her emotional prepossession. The fatal flaw in Jocelyn's syllogism was Jocelyn himself. Men may sometimes be led by the intellect, but woman only by the heart—and by curiosity.

After the above discussion it became vaguely apparent to Jocelyn that the prima donna was drifting away from him. She parried his attempts at familiar intercourse gently but effectively

IN AN OPEN GRAVE.

Members of an Italian Society Must Put a Foot in It.

ROME, April 13.—Mala Vita, the name borne by the secret society the members of whom are on trial at Bari, is the title of a once popular novel. The trial was continued at Bari yesterday and during the proceedings the informers disclosed the curious initiation orders of the order in the dialect peculiar to members of the society. The applicants for membership must first satisfy the officers of the Mala Vita that they have never been policemen, gendarmes or excisemen. When the oath is administered to the novices they are required to stand with one foot in an open grave. They are sworn in the most solemn manner to abandon all ties of kindred for the interests of the order, and neophytes are informed that the most fearful penalties will be imposed on them for any betrayal of the societies' secrets or for any disobedience of its degrees, especially when they visited judgment on an intended victim. The booty which the society secured through brigandage and ransoms was to be divided among the members according to rank. Fantastic and obscene tattooings mark the members of the grade "Camorrista," the chief of which still contrives to correspond with the prisoners.

Two Good Things IN FLOUR!
1. Scale Weight.
2. First Quality.

If good flour makes good bread it follows that one sort of flour makes better bread than another.

Which sort makes best?

That depends. The best flour is the purest, the best ground, the strongest and containing the most health giving and nourishing properties.

These good points are all found in our Flour.

Have you tried it? Perhaps yes. Perhaps no. If you have not, do so, and you may find a better flour than you have been using, and we a customer.

TURNBULL'S
Display.

The Spring Styles shown this season are such a decided change and unusually pretty. We want all to see them to the best advantage and naturally to leave the impression, that for decidedly New and Cheap Goods, Turnbull's is the right place to go for a large selection. Since our store has been thoroughly renovated, the first thing that strikes you on approaching the George-st. entrance is the white front and large show windows handsomely decorated with Fine Millinery Goods, Printed Challies, etc. too numerous to describe, which is but indicative of the clean stock within and our clean and straight-forward manner of doing business. While passing through the store, even when not intending to buy, you are compelled to stop and price some of the articles on display. Pretty Print Blouses from 50c. each, up to those of Figured Wool Delaine at $1.75. Neat Patterns in Light Prints, narrow, but warranted to wash at 5c. a yd. Novelties in Pearl Bead Frillings at 5c. a frill. White embroidered Apron Lawns at 20c. a yd. Cream and White Curtain Nets, Taped Edge at 15c. to 25c. a yd.

Fine Navy Serges for Boys' Wear at 30c., 40c., 50c. a yd.; Handsome Patterns in Tweed at 50c. a yd.; Nice Cream Damask Table Linen at 20c. a yd. Black and Brocaded Flannelettes just suitable for baby at 15c. a yard. You pass the Dress Goods counter in a hurry, but have to ask what that shimmering, shining material is that is hard to describe. Still everybody falls in love with it, and no wonder the manufacturers call it Gloriosia. On reaching the archway leading into the Simcoe-st. store you are struck with amazement and almost think you have got into midsummer and begin to look around for the bumble bees and humming birds among the flowers. Some of the leading colors are the New Shades in Heliotrope and Lavender, French Grey, Buttercup and Black combined. Most of the Bonnets are small toque shapes, flat, and trimmed at the back with pretty little forget-me-not flowers, jewelled ribbon and lace to match. There is something very pretty for children in Leghorn Hats, trimmed with ruchings of Silk and Lace. We have received late this week a Choice Lot of very pretty Shapes in Hats and Bonnets, also the latest in Flowers from Glasgow. These styles will not be shown elsewhere. Come early and select your [illegible] before they get picked over.

MRS. JOHN L. SULLIVAN.

She is a Salvation Army Lassie, and Will Be Baptized To-day.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 13.—To-morrow afternoon will see a great gathering of the Salvation Army of this State, with delegations from Massachusetts and Connecticut, to attend the public baptism of no less a personage than Mrs. John L. Sullivan, the slugger's deserted spouse. Mrs. Sullivan's maiden name was Anna Eliza Bates, and her home is at Centerville this State, where she has lived since the failure of her divorce suit against the champion for brutal treatment. For the past two years she has ceased prosecuting John L. and devoted herself to religion, becoming finally a zealous convert to the Salvation Army. She at once began to be a revivalist, and under the direction of Captain Howland, of the Salvation Army, soon became famous. She soon brought a multitude to the rail of conversion, and her powerful voice, fluent tongue (which is on a pivot) together with her frequent actions, made her a wonder in the ranks. She does not feel, however, that she is safe from the devil unless she is baptized like our Lord in a river, and to-morrow, attended by the doughty captain, she will brave pneumonia and the grip, and wade into Long Pond and be ducked, according to salvation regulations. Special trains will be run from here to the dipping to-morrow, and there promises to be a gay old time.

RIOTING IN BRADFORD.

MINERS INJURED BY POLICE AND MILITARY

In a Fight in Which 10,000 Yorkshire Weavers Took Part—Many Seriously Wounded by Batons and Stones—Large Number of Arrests.

LONDON, April 13.—Ten thousand of the striking weavers at Bradford assembled there to-day for the purpose of protesting against the action of the municipal authorities in forbidding the meeting which the strikers had arranged for yesterday. The police tried to disperse the gathering, but their repeated charges on the crowd proved futile. Finally the authorities determined to take decisive action and after the strikers had for the last time been ordered to disperse and had refused, the riot act was read and the military were summoned. The soldiers joined the police and a combined charge was made upon the strikers. A fierce struggle ensued, but the strikers were compelled to retreat before the bayonets and batons. The police used their batons freely and many strikers were injured. Several of the police were also hurt. The authorities arrested seven ringleaders.

The streets of Bradford were in a ferment throughout the afternoon. At 6 o'clock the crowd grew rapidly despite the police efforts to disperse it. The police were met with showers of stones, which, however, inflicted only slight injuries. The constables' summoning of the military was the signal for a regular riot. Windows were smashed, lamps were extinguished and an organized rush was made to break the police ranks and capture the place of meeting. This effort, however, was ineffectual. The throwing of stones continued and the military, provided with blank and ball cartridges appeared at 9 o'clock. A score of arrests were made. All the prisoners had gashes on their heads from stones or police batons and many police were injured, but no one had bayonet wounds. The rioters were dispersed with difficulty by incessant marching and counter-marching on the roads converging at Town Hall-square. Detective Martindale received six cuts on the head and his horse was killed under him by a stab. Local opinion in regard to the dispute is divided. Citizens admit the square is a dangerous place for public meetings, but think the action of the authorities was injudicious and that the question ought to be tested in the courts.

Strike at Sheffield.

SHEFFIELD, April 13.—The employes of Wostenholm's cutlery works have struck against a reduction of 5 per cent. in wages. The reduction is due to the loss of American trade in consequence of the operation of the new American tariff law. This is regarded as a test case for the whole trade.

A ST. THOMAS SUICIDE.

The Assistant Trainmaster of the M.C.R. Blows Out His Brains.

ST. THOMAS, April 13.—Chester J. Weir, assistant trainmaster on the Michigan Central, committed suicide this morning by shooting himself. He had been attending to his usual duties during the night, returned to his home in Wellington-street about 11 a.m., and committed the fatal act about half an hour later. He leaves a wife and one boy aged 10 years. Mr. Weir has been suffering from an attack of quinsy lately, and it is supposed the disease left him weak and despondent.

ENDED HER LIFE.

A Crazy Girl Rises From Her Bed and Walks Into the Thames.

THAMESVILLE, April 13.—Miss Christie Simington, aged 29, of unsound mind, being with her aged mother about 5 miles from here, left her bed, dressed herself and unnoticed left the house about 3 o'clock Sunday morning. Her tracks were found leading into the River Thames. The river is being dragged for the body.

The Newfoundland Bait Question.

HALIFAX, April 13.—In the House of Assembly to-day a motion was passed embodying the hope that, pending a settlement of the questions in dispute between Newfoundland and the Mother Country, the Government of Newfoundland may be willing to relax its present regulations and permit the procuring of bait by the fishermen of this country on fair and reasonable terms.

Lost a Limb.

HAMILTON, April 13.—A train hand named Martin Foley, belonging to Hamilton, had his left leg badly mangled while working on the Grand Trunk Railway at Port Credit today. He was brought here and taken to the city hospital, where the injured limb was amputated.

Liquor Dealers' Vengeance.

BURLINGTON, Ia., April 13.—An open revolt against the prohibitory law occurred here to-day. Constable Green with three deputies began to search the place of one Herschberg. Before he had finished reading his warrant he was surrounded by 40 well-known liquor dealers, who gave him a terrible beating. Green's skull was fractured, his nose broken and one eye nearly destroyed.

Indians Murdering Settlers.

BLACKFOOT, Idaho, April 13.—Great excitement was caused here to-day by the discovery that Indians had killed two unknown white immigrants camped at a water tank one mile from here. Nothing could be learned as to the cause of the tragedy. The men were found dead and a number of Indians were seen taking to the hills. An uprising is feared.

On the High Road to Bankruptcy.

PARIS, April 13.—Apropos of the future increase of the effective of the French army and of the Minister of War's demand on the Budget Committee of the Chamber of Deputies for further appropriations, Senator Barthelemy St. Hilaire, Ex-Minister of Foreign Affairs, said to-day that it becomes more and more evident that France is on the high road to bankruptcy.

Preacher Balfour's Crime.

LONDON, April 13.—Frederick Balfour, the standard-bearer of the main body of the Salvation Army, and who has been regarded as one of the most persistent preachers and zealous soldiers in the force, was on Saturday sentenced to two years' imprisonment for wronging the 15-year-old daughter of one of the privates in the same detachment.

The Trial Postponed.

CAYUGA, April 13.—Joseph Lucia, the Italian who was taken from the Hamilton asylum to Cayuga to be tried for [illegible] and arson, was remanded until next session, because several of the witnesses have gone to the States. The crown prosecutor did not wish to proceed without them, as the evidence against Lucia is circumstantial.

Just now Berlin gossip has an interesting subject in the flight of the Grand Duchess Constantine with her two sons from [illegible]. The almost universal [illegible] official assurance can remove [illegible] sion.

DYING BY HUNDREDS.

Frightful Stories from Chili—No Equal in the History of War—High Officials Killed by Scores.

PANAMA, April 13.—Advices from Chili state that at Iquique vagabonds are robbing, plundering and murdering, violating women and committing all classes of atrocities, while incendiaries also are at work. The distress along the south coast, due to the revolution, is appalling. Gen. Urrutia, who commands in Iquique, has been selling flour at 23 cents per pound. Hundreds of men have abandoned the nitrate works, only carrying bottles of water, and accompanied by their families have trudged across the desert to Iquique. Many have died on the way. The scene hardly finds an equal in the history of war and revolt. The rebel forces, which fought around Pozo Almonte and near Iquique last month, numbered 4000 men, while the Government troops reached barely 3000. The dead in the different actions numbered 700 and include many high officials. The rebels finally won and captured 35 cannons and gatling guns.

Guillermo Matta, Chilian Minister in the Argentine Republic, and Senor Antunas, Italian Minister in France, have been declared traitors by President Balmaceda. Antunas placed Government funds at the disposal of the rebels.

A Wounded Man Eaten by Wolves.

DETROIT, April 13.—James Brophy, who arrived here to-day from Mullet Lake, Cheboygan County, tells a horrible story of a man being eaten by wolves. He says that James and John Gillespie were chopping wood about 3 miles from Mullet yesterday, when James, the older, cut a big gash in his leg. John attempted to carry him to the settlement, but could not on account of the deep snow. He made James as comfortable as he could and came to Mullet Lake alone to get him.

A party started out to bring James in, but on reaching the spot where he had been left, found a pack of wolves fighting over a lot of bones, all that remained of him. They chased the wolves away with axes and brought the few bones back to Mullet Lake.

A Postmaster's $400 Well Cooked.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 13.—Several months ago the postoffice at Seward, Oklahoma, was robbed. There being no safe convenient, the postmaster after that put his stamps and money in the oven of his cook stove. Yesterday he built a fire in a hurry and forgot to take the treasure out. When he thought of them the oven was red-hot and stamps and paper money were all gone. His loss was over $400.

Negotiated the Loan.

MONTREAL, April 13.—The news comes today by way of Quebec that Premier Mercier and Mr. Shehyn have succeeded in making the preliminary arrangements for the new provincial loan of [illegible]. The bankers are said to be French, German and Dutch houses.

Ned Hanlan's Shell with the Long Name.

TORONTO, April 13.—It begins to appear that American scullers are uniformly afraid to meet champion William O'Connor. His broad challenge has been left unanswered and several were hurled at him in return. These were scarcely serious documents. Now Hanlan and McKay declare that they want to row O'Connor and his partner a double scull race. It is just likely that Hanlan will step in the boat and the ambitious pair will be accommodated.

Waris has just completed a new shell for Hanlan, which is warranted to be one of the fastest boats in Toronto. There is nothing unusual about its appearance except the name painted on its bow. Notwithstanding its ponderosity Ned decided on christening it "Woolloomooloo," after a Sydney bay, and does not expect a loss of speed.

Five Boys Drowned.

ST. LOUIS, April 13.—This afternoon a boat with 13 young men started from the Missouri side of the river to cross to East St. Louis. When about three-quarters of the way across the boat ran into an eddy and was capsized. Five of the boys were drowned.

Incendiary Fire at Strathroy.

STRATHROY, April 13.—This morning a destructive fire caused by an incendiary occurred here. The losses and insurances: Mrs. B. F. Stevens' fancygoods stock $6000, insured for $3500; F. W. Meek, druggist and stationer, stock considerably damaged, insured for $4500; W. C. Moore, owner of building, insured for $3000; B. A. Case, tailor, total loss, no insurance; Misses McCandless, dressmakers, total loss, no insurance; John Barry, grocer, damage by water, covered by insurance; J. G. Raymond, damage by water, covered by insurance.

Took the Church Funds With Him.

ST. CATHARINES, April 13.—Palmer Stevenson, the Caistor township councillor, who recently deserted his wife and family and eloped with the widow Merritt, owes $7000. Before leaving he mortgaged his farm for its full value—$7000—and quietly sold off as much of the stock and implements as possible. Palmer was treasurer of the Methodist Church of the township. The congregation now mourns the loss of $70 of the church funds, which went with the treasurer and the widow.

Forgery and Murder Trials.

BELLEVILLE, April 13.—Chester W. Yourex, who was this afternoon placed on trial at the Assizes for forgery, pleaded guilty.

James Kane, the wife murderer, against whom a true bill was found, did not plead as his counsel was absent.

Judge Rose delivered a long argument against the proposal to abolish grand juries.

Husband and Wife Killed.

LANCASTER, Pa., April 13.—A terrible affair occurred in Cecil county, Md., near the Lancaster county line. Early this morning Granville Richards and wife were aroused by the presence of two men in their room. On Mrs. Richards arising she was shot in the neck and the husband going to her rescue was shot twice in the stomach. Both will die. The murderers escaped.

Drowned in a Pond.

HALIFAX, April 13.—A 7-year-old son of J. Moore, an employe of the Nova Scotia sugar refinery, was drowned in a pond in Mulgrave Park, Richmond, this evening. A companion with whom he had been playing picked up his hat near the pond and gave the alarm when his dead body was found in the water.

COLLIERY EXPLOSION.

ALL BUT TWO OF THE MINERS WERE KILLED.

A Staffordshire Horror—The Man who was Responsible for the Disaster Found With a Cut of Fuse in His Hand—Particulars of the Disaster.

LONDON, April 13.—A terrible explosion took place about 7.45 o'clock last night at the Gladderhill Mine, belonging to the Midland Coal, Coke and Iron Company at Chesterton. The [illegible] is [illegible] by the [illegible] out-of-twelve-men in the workings at the time only two have escaped with their lives. The Gladderhill Pit is an old mine, one of two [illegible] of which are worked [illegible]. The explosion occurred in the lower [illegible], the Bullhurst. This seam is [illegible] story [illegible] which have [illegible] shire have [illegible] stratum. The mine is connected with the famous Burley Pit, where many serious explosions have taken place in years gone by. The mouth of the latter is only about 100 yards away and on the same embankment. Work at the Gladderhill Pit as in many other pits throughout North Staffordshire, has been very slack. Had the disaster occurred when work was in full swing the death-roll would in all probability have been very heavy indeed. In ordinary times fully 200 men are engaged beneath the surface in coal getting and the necessary collateral labor. Very few men were about the colliery. It appears the scene of the explosion is in the top heading, and in a down thirling, which is about four yards down. This thirling was being driven down by a man named [illegible], who, it appears, had done his shotting, and it is thought his shot must have caused the explosion. The shot had not got the coal, but it blew out the [illegible]. The fireman, Warburton, was found with a cut of fuse in his hand. All the persons killed would have been out of the pit in a very few minutes, as some had done, and were already dressed. The number killed is ten.

THEY WILL BE HEARD.

Newfoundland Delegates to Appeal in Person to Parliament.

LONDON, April 13.—The Times, although the Newfoundland delegates will be allowed to appeal at the bar in Parliament, thinks it hardly likely they will be able to change the Government's intentions in [illegible] to the alleged grievances in connection with the convention with the United States. The Times thinks it would be wise for Newfoundland to make friends with Canada and amalgamate the interests of the province. It says possibly a convention between Canada and the United States, for the conclusion of which there seems a fair chance next autumn, will contain clauses of sufficient value to Newfoundland to be a balm for all wounds.

Indignant Liquor Dealers.

LONDON, April 13.—The [illegible] week in Parliament has been made notable in a special degree by a succession of blows which have been dealt the English liquor dealers and the traffic in opium in India. Never before have these two trades been so assiduously scored by the House of Commons. Deputations of spirit and beer traders have waited on Mr. Goschen demanding that the Chancellor of the Exchequer rescind the sur tax which he imposed upon them for local purposes in his last preceding budget, when the money thus raised and now suspended for educational purposes was deviated from that end for whatever he regarded as more immediate necessities. The delegates have urged upon Mr. Goschen's attention the fact that the liquor trade has always stood by the Conservative Government, and that, therefore, it has a right to claim to be treated as a friend. Mr. Goschen, with [illegible] accustomed and really [illegible], replied that he could not hold out any hope that the duty on their trade will be removed. Is not, he said, their trade prospering? The tax, he declared, has not decreased the consumption of spirits and beer. This tone was so novel and unexpected that the liquor men were enraged and held an indignation meeting, at which they vowed vengeance against the Government for [illegible]. The importance of Mr. Goschen's action in its effect on the electoral chances of Tories can scarcely be overestimated. It will certainly be tremendous. His colleagues are furious. They hotly denounce his response to the liquor dealers as a blunder of the grossest kind and utterly indefensible.

Another M.P. in Disgrace.

LONDON, April 13.—A sensation has been caused in political circles throughout England by the fact that a warrant has been issued for the arrest of Capt. Edmund Hope Verney, member of Parliament for North Buckingham. Capt. Verney is charged with procuring a girl for immoral purposes. The offence was committed last autumn, Capt. Verney giving the name of Wilson.

Verney is a magistrate and a member of the London County Council. It is believed that Capt. Verney, hearing of the application for the warrant, escaped from England and that he is hiding on the Continent. Capt. Verney is the eldest son of the Right Hon. Sir Harry Verney, bart. He was born in 1838. Capt. Verney [illegible] in 1868 to Margaret, eldest daughter of the late Sir John Hay Williams. He [illegible] in the navy and served in the Crimea and in the Indian mutiny. Capt. Verney is the author of "The Shannon's Brigade in India" and "Four Years of Protest in the Transvaal," "Village Sketches," "Last Four Days of the Eurydice." He is a member of the Travelers' Club, the United Service Club and the National Liberal Club. His estate at Rhianva, Anglesea, is a most enviable residence.

Committed Suicide at the Instigation of the Devil.

NEWCASTLE, April 13.—A youthful apprentice to a tailor, at Worksop, [illegible] shire, visited the [illegible] of the neighboring town of [illegible], and on Saturday night in a state of intoxication committed a serious assault on a woman. Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

The Daily Review.

TUESDAY, APRIL 14, 1891.

THE T.V.C. SCHEME.

THE Kingston News takes a peculiar course when it begins with a declaration of its belief in the prosperity of the Dominion and its faith in the future of Canada and winds up with what is intended to be a slap at the Trent Valley Canal. Says the News:—

> "At any rate, we have no particular need for the Trent Valley Canal; if there is any need for the canal at all, it must be a purely local need and it should therefore be furnished by local effort. A meeting of the Trent Valley Canal Association was held in Peterborough the other day and from the discussions thereat we are unable to see the slightest ground for asking the Government for a grant of a million dollars towards the project, as was resolved at the meeting."

If the information the News possesses regarding this canal is confined to what it read of the discussions at the meeting referred, its information is meagre indeed. The meeting was not held to discuss the benefits of the proposed work. The scheme is now beyond that stage, and the meeting was for another purpose. The News need not have taken its information regarding the report of the commission at third hand, as it has done, for the report was published a couple of months ago, and by reference to it the News will see that the commissioners' report was decidedly in favor of continuing the work of construction. The meeting did not ask for one million dollars for the canal, as stated in the paragraph quoted, but asked that the work recommended by the commissioners should be placed under contract at once. This may be a comparatively small point, but it shows how careless our Kingston contemporary has been in looking for facts to base its article upon.

The canal is needed as a local work—or, rather, as a work to open up and develop a large district of Ontario. Some idea of the advantages it would give may be inferred from the fact that the building of one short section would open an additional 150 miles of shore line to navigation. There are timber and valuable minerals of several kinds that would find an outlet by the canal, besides giving cheaper freights for importations. The canal would serve a district larger and with a greater population than some of our eastern provinces. If only the benefits that would be derived by the district immediately interested were considered, it would pay the Dominion to complete the canal. But it is not only as a local work that it would be o benefit. If the News will obtain access to and read the information gathered by the commission it will see clearly how, as a through route from the west, the canal would be of great benefit in giving an outlet and cheapening freights. The News may rest easy on the matter, for a commission of ability has reported and backed up the opinion of those conversant with the project that the canal should be completed, and the work will be done. The member for Kingston has given his word that an appropriation for the purpose will be placed in the estimates this session, and the Government should, and doubtless will, place the sections under contract as asked by the resolution adopted at the recent meeting.

An advance table from the American Newspaper Directory for 1891 gives the revised statistics of the number of papers now published in the United States and Canada. Canada has a total of [illegible], made up of 85 dailies, 7 tri-weeklies, 15 semi-weeklies, 677 weeklies, 5 bi-weeklies, 15 semi-monthlies, 119 monthlies, 1 bi-monthly, and 3 quarterlies. In the United States there are 16,888 papers, of which 1,700 are dailies and 12,420 weeklies. Newfoundland has a total of 6, including 3 dailies and 3 weeklies.

The existence of a most intimate offensive and defensive alliance between the Russian and French governments is no longer disputed. This means that the Czar virtually has at his disposal the immense naval armament of France as well as his own considerable navy. It follows that, had our state department cabled a word to St. Petersburg, French and Russian squadrons would have occupied all our important harbors before the Italian ironclads could have rounded Cape St. Vincent. The certainty that in a pinch we can rely on the interposition of the house of Romanoff is one of the pillars of our diplomacy, and for that reason patriotic Americans are slow to think or speak evil of that dynasty.—New York Sun.

It is not a little surprising to see the "greatest nation on earth" looking to another nation to protect it from the little kingdom of Italy, and the surprise is not lessened when both the protector and the might-be-aggressor are "effete monarchies" of Europe."

What it Costs

Must be carefully considered by the great majority of people in buying even necessities of life. Hood's Sarsaparilla commends itself with special force to the great middle classes, because it combines positive economy with great medicinal power. It is the only medicine of which can truly be said "100 Doses One Dollar," and a bottle taken according to directions will average to last month.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

THE NEW MINING REGULATIONS DEFINED.

Nickel Lands Will Cost $3 an Acre and Mines Will Have to Pay 3 Per Cent. Royalty—Prospectors Given a Chance.

TORONTO, April 14.—Mr. Marter's motion in the Assembly yesterday for a return of particulars of the Parry Sound election brought out a fact which is not generally known regarding these unorganized districts. They have no voters' lists. As Mr. Marter pointed out the only man entitled to say who shall vote and who shall not is the deputy returning-officer. This gives an opportunity for fraud.

Mr. Mowat agreed that these unorganized districts should have a voters' list if it could be done without entailing greater evils than at present. As for the irregularities complained of, Mr. Mowat treated them lightly, remarking some irregularities were inevitable.

The bills respecting the new mining regulations, of which Mr. Hardy gave a general explanation a few days ago, have been printed. The bill to amend the General Mining Act provides that after the passing of the act the price of all Crown lands sold as mining lands in Algoma, Thunder Bay, Rainy River and that part of the district of Nipissing north of French River, Lake Nipissing and Mattawa River shall be $3 an acre. The price of other Crown lands sold as mining lands shall be $2 an acre. Any locality shown to be rich in minerals the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may set apart and fix the price at any greater sum than that before mentioned or he may temporarily withdraw from sale. The grantee and owner of any mining location shall expend in actual mining operations $3 an acre during the first 10 years after the issue of the patent if the grant exceeds 160 acres, or $5 an acre during the first 10 years if the grant is 160 acres or less. In default of such expenditure the lands revert to the crown. All ores and minerals mined shall be subject to a royalty for the use of the Province of 3 per cent. on silver, nickel or nickel and copper and 2 per cent. on iron. All royalties shall be calculated upon the value of the ores at the pit's mouth. Ores taken for experimental purposes shall be free from royalty. Instead of granting any mining lands in fee simple they may be leased for a term of 10 years with the right of renewal. The rental for the first year shall be $1 an acre and thereafter 25 cents an acre per annum. The bill respecting mining claims is much the same as the one introduced last year. Any person having discovered a mineral deposit may obtain a mining claim for 80 or 40 acres by marking out the land and filing an affidavit before the local agent. The certificate of the agent shall authorize the claimant to enter into possession for 6 months, and during that term or within 30 days after to become possessor or lessee, provided that $150 or $200 worth of work has been done. If the work of development is not commenced within a month and continued the rights of the claimant shall cease. No person shall be entitled to hold more than one staked-off claim, or a joint stock company more than two staked-off claims.

ITALY AND THE DREIBUND.

How the Powers Will Stand in the Event of War.

ROME, April 13.—Premier di Rudini, in an interview to-day in regard to the Dreibund, held that the renewal of the triple alliance was of secondary importance as compared with a constant agreement with England. On many occasions he said the policy of the Dreibund harmonized perfectly with British ideas, yet Lord Salisbury, for special reasons, had never adhered to the Dreibund treaty. Italy's renewal of her contract with the alliance depended on the general situation in Europe, which was now changing every day. It was difficult to imagine that England and Italy would remain passive while war was being waged by Russia and France against Germany and Austria. Even if the Dreibund did not exist Italy might find it entirely to her interest to range herself on the side of Great Britain. Should Russia refrain from interfering in the affairs of the other powers, thus securing the absolute neutrality of Great Britain, Italy would not act except under the contingencies provided for in the Dreibund convention. If Austria attacked Russia or Germany declared war with France that action would not imply that Italy was to join in the movement. By the terms of the contract she was entitled to act as a neutral nation and to remain so. The case was different if any one of the contracting powers was made the object of the attack. Premier di Rudini declared he was convinced that France, despite her excessive armaments, would never alone wage a war of aggression while the Dreibund continued to act as the safeguard of Europe. In view of the prevailing temper in France it was perfectly idle to discuss the question of a dissolution of the Dreibund. Neither Austria nor Germany dreamed of making an attack.

Still Regarded as Absurd.

NEW YORK, April 13.—A Washington special to The Post says: "The letter from Secretary Blaine to Premier Rudini has not yet been sent, according to the best advices from the Department of State. The appearance of things at the Department is somewhat less tranquil than on Saturday, though the idea of hostilities is still pooh-poohed as absurd."

Death of an Australian Statesman.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., April 13.—The Hon. John Murtagh Macrossan, M.P., formerly Colonial Secretary for Queensland, and one of the delegates for that colony at the Australasia Federation Convention, is dead. The deceased, who was born in 1833, was one of the many Australian statesmen who originally came from Ireland, his father having been a farmer in Donegal. Mr. Macrossan emigrated to Australia in 1853. He was chosen in 1873 by the miners of Charters' Towers to represent the Kennedy electorate in that assembly. The new member at first linked his political fortunes with those of the Liberal party, but a few years later removed to the Conservative crossbenches, and co-operated heartily with Mr. McIlwraith, who, on forming his Ministry in 1879, gave Mr. Macrossan the office of Secretary for Public Works.

Too Hard on the Old Maids.

We firmly believe the true indications are, that not only maids, but every wife and mother in Canada will this year use more Diamond Dyes than ever before, as all have discovered their great superiority over all imitations now on the market. Diamond Dyes always become the favorites when once tried.

One of Montreal's Belles Rescued.

It is sad to think of a young and beautiful girl, accomplished and intelligent, popular and beloved, the light of a father's heart and the idol of a fond and loving mother, being laid low with pain and suffering. Such was the sad fate that befel Miss — —, of Montreal, in the latter part of December of last year. This bright, vivacious girl began to complain of a generally miserable feeling which she could hardly describe. It was observed that these feelings were affecting her mentally as well as physically. She became low spirited, nervous, lifeless, and complained of dimness of vision. Her parents and relatives were surprised and alarmed, and sought medical aid without delay. After weeks of treatment the young lady was a shadow of her former self and her days seemed to be numbered. Her aunt, who had used Paine's Celery Compound in her family, strongly recommended its use in her niece's case. The family physician tacitly consented, and the use of the great remedy commenced. The results were almost magical, and the family were overjoyed, at the end of the first week, to find an appetite returning, and a brighter and more natural light in the eyes. In a short time strength and greater vitality were observed, and a disposition to converse freely and joyously. Soon all traces of nervousness and weakfulness were banished, and the patient slept well and increased in weight, and to-day is almost as robust and bright looking as ever she was.

In this now happy home Paine's Celery Compound has made new friends who pin their faith to its mighty curative powers, and who are certain to recommend it, as it rescued their dear daughter from the dark grave.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

CASH HARDWARE STORE.

On and after 1st April we shall do business on a Cash Basis.

To cover the inevitable losses attendant upon a credit business, (which accrue from amount of time spent in keeping accounts, collecting, bad debts, interest account, and in numerous other ways, larger margins of profit must be asked.

In these times cash buyers ask, expect and are entitled to close prices. A careful consideration of the subject convinces us that the time has come for a cash business done on smaller profits.

The only customers who may be put to inconvenience are those who have had long credit. In more ways than one it will be to their advantage to pay cash.

For convenience of our old customers who consider their accounts due when presented, we will call 30 days cash and render all accounts the first of each month, and we wish to say that we will be happy to do business with them on these terms.

As the new departure is something of an experiment, what would be considered a close cash price will be made all through the stock. Not a few leaders only, but a general reduction in everything from the fourth flat to the cellar.

Our idea is to perform more than promised rather than promise more than can be fulfilled.

Our stock is large and varied, consisting of Builders', Contractors', Household, Mechanics', Painters', Shoemakers', Farm, Mill, Factory, Lumbermen's, Sporting, Threshers', Cabinetmakers', and other lines of Hardware.

An old saying:—"You should go to Kingan's where you can get anything from a Needle to an Anchor."

Card of Thanks.

Mrs. G. McGregor desires to return thanks to the members of Iron Moulders' Union No. 191 for the benefit paid her by the Union according to late Bro. Frank Hatworth, her brother.

Better than the Edison Works.

While it is a great boon to many to have plenty of work and good pay, it is still better to have neat, comfortable, solid leather shoes and save a dollar on each pair, by getting the J. D. King's make from Kidd, the booter. d32w15

Many people who pride themselves on their blue blood would be far happier with pure blood; but, while we cannot choose ancestors, fortunately, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, we can transmit pure blood to our posterity.

No Danger at School.

It is desired that a false impression which has caused the attendance at the West Ward school to dwindle down to almost a baker's dozen should be corrected. Many parents imagine that because there are several cases of diptheria in the neighborhood of the school that their children are liable to be infected. The attendance at the school yesterday was down to between thirty and forty and the junior class had to be dismissed altogether, there being only five present. The doctors who have the cases in hand stated to the Chairman of the Board, who consulted them to see if it was wise to close the school, that there was not the least danger of contracting the fatal diptheria by attending the school. The children would have to go to the infected houses to be in danger. It is hoped that this will allay fears and cause the pupils to return to school.

A New and Valuable Work.

That a training in business transactions should follow the theoretical study of accounts, especially if the student ever expects to make practical use of his attainments, is conceded by all experienced and successful teachers. With this end in view the principal of the business college in our town, Mr. G. A. Bean, LL.B., has thoroughly examined the systems of the best institutions of Canada and the United States, and the best features of all have been utilized in a new work, "Business Practice in Buying, Selling, Wholesaling and Retailing," which Mr. Bean has compiled and published. The front half of the work contains model business forms with short notes, hints and exercises, after which comes suitable material for practice in dealing with these forms as applied to business transactions. The sets for practice are without doubt the best that have appeared in Canada and form continuous work in the science of bookkeeping. The student commences as sole trader, afterwards admitting a partner, then a third partner, then one partner retiring, and so on, which gives as thorough and as actual work in opening and closing books, making out statements and invoices papers, as could be gained in large and well conducted business offices. The work includes buying, shipping, wholesaling and retailing. Correspondence between the various and clerks of the offices are done by letter, which gives excellent practice in letter-writing. The work, as might be expected, is thorough, even to an exceptional extent as an index, is a valuable one and will be found of great service by all who consult its pages.

If you decide from what you have heard or read, that you will take Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to buy any substitute instead.

FIRES IN OTONABEE.

House, Barn, Contents and Cattle Destroyed by Fire.

A disastrous fire last night about midnight destroyed the barns and outbuildings of Mr. Matthew Breckenridge, of Otonabee. All the contents, together with ten head of cattle, were destroyed by the flames. Full particulars were not to hand to-day.

Mr. John McDonald's dwelling house in Otonabee was also destroyed by fire about midnight on Monday night.

IT WILL BE ENFORCED.

The By-law Respecting Sanitary Precautions Comes into Force on May First.

In October last a by-law was introduced by Councillor Moore and passed in the Town Council respecting certain sanitary precautions. This by-law will be rigidly enforced and therefore we publish its most important clauses:—

After the passing of this By-law no new privy, privy vault or cess-pool could be constructed, erected or placed in the town, otherwise than of such material and so constructed and cemented that all leakage or escape therefrom shall be impossible, and then only when the approval in writing of the Medical Health Officer, has been obtained.

The second clause of the by-law is an important one. It reads:

"On, from and after the first day of May next, all privies, privy-vaults and cess pools within the said prescribed limits or areas of the said town, in the preamble hereto set forth, which are not covered and properly ventilated, and which are not made of such material and so cemented and constructed that all leakage or escape therefrom shall be impossible (all others of which are hereby declared to be, in the opinion of this Council, dangerous to health), shall be closed, cleared and cleaned out, and filled up with clean soil or other proper material by the owners, lessees and occupants of the real property whereon the same are respectively situate."

The prescribed limits are between Brock-st. on the north and Charlotte-st. on the south, and between the eastern limit of lot one east of Water-st. on the east and Aylmer-st. on the west.

After providing for the employment of scavengers and the disposal of night soil, clauses 6 and 7 enact:—

"6. All privies over or emptying into the creek in said town shall be closed and removed by the persons owning the same respectively, on or before the first day of May, next.

"7. All earth closets shall be caused to be emptied and their contents removed by the persons owning or using the same as frequently as may be necessary, and at least once in every month between the months of April and November in each year."

They Raided the House.

Several young men participated in a piece of rowdyism yesterday in Ashburnham which may cost them something. Down by the railway track there stands a square brick house which has been occupied for several days back by a Mrs. Walker and two or three girls. The general report gave the house a disreputable name, although nothing out of the way was ever noticed about the place. Yesterday afternoon a number of young men undertook to go to the house for the purpose of "having a time," but they were refused admission. Angered by this, they proceeded to get satisfaction by wholesale destruction. Stones were smashed through the shutters, the window sashes were broken, furniture destroyed inside and considerable damage done. Constable Adams happened to be in the neighborhood serving a subpœna when the young men espied him and made a hasty departure. The constable did not want them but gave chase and succeeded in frightening them badly. Last evening Mrs. Walker, who occupied the house, swore out warrants against three young men by the name of Hunter, Pogue and Adams. Constable Craig arrested Hunter, but the others were not to be found. Hunter comes up for trial at the village hall at three o'clock this afternoon.

Changes on George-st.

The next three months will probably see several changes on George-st., as several business men are contemplating removing to new premises.

Mr. James Stenson, boots and shoes, is going to move to the store lately occupied by Mr. M. R. Kidd, grocer. The store is being entirely refitted and will be made suitable for the reception of Mr. Stenson's stock. This removal will not take place probably until next month.

Mr. Stenson's old stand will be occupied by the Examiner Office, and will be fitted up suitably.

Messrs. LeBrun & Co. are also contemplating a removal across the street to Mr. Stethem's old stand, which will be vacated shortly.

Then Salisbury Bros. may move from their present quarters if arrangements can be made. The down town book and stationery store requires more room, and Mr. Salisbury will go into the store two doors north of his present stand, lately occupied by Mr. Lowry. Mr. Salisbury has been appointed local agent for the Ontario Express and Transportation Company and this will also require increased accommodation for this new department. The stand of Salisbury Bros. may be occupied by a down-town tailor. Other changes are also spoken of.

THE CATTLE TRADE.

Facts Taken from the Report of the Minister of Agriculture.

The annual report of the Dominion Minister of Agriculture gives some interesting facts regarding the cattle trade. The total importation of live stock into the Dominion was as follows:—Cattle, 1,386; sheep, 38,551; swine, 1,224; horses, 1,694; mules, 2. The importation of stock through the Point Levis quarantine has been, with the exception of sheep, again on the decrease, a fact which may be accounted for from the large number of pedigree cattle previously imported, filling the requirements for our Canadian cattle breeders. The only two neat cattle that came into quarantine in 1890 were two Polled Angus bulls, destined for Nebraska, U. S.

No disease of an infectious nature was discovered in any of the imported stock whilst undergoing the necessary quarantine detention. In the cattle quarantine for the province of Ontario, at Point Edward, 120 cattle and 162 swine were admitted, for breeding purposes only, from the United States, which, after undergoing the necessary detention, were forwarded to their respective destinations.

The exports to the United Kingdom for the year 1890 were:—

Cattle	122,182
Sheep	43,780

Hon. Mr. Carling says he has much pleasure in reporting continued freedom from disease of a contagious nature in live stock throughout the entire Dominion, a fact which is borne out by the inspectors at the British ports failing to discover a single case of contagious disease in the large number exported from Canada during the past year.

The following table gives comparisons of the last nine calendar years:—

	Cattle.	Sheep.
1882	35,276	75,916
1883	55,735	114,253
1884	61,843	67,197
1885	69,155	31,584
1886	64,555	94,297
1887	61,621	35,473
1888	60,828	46,167
1889	85,053	58,063
1890	122,182	43,780

Prof. McEachran reports that satisfactory progress is being made towards improving the breed of live stock of all kinds, the value of which is thereby considerably increased, and the animals thus produced are in much greater demand in the British markets.

The Minister would again urge upon all stock raisers the necessity of the improvement of their herds by the introduction of pure bred males, judiciously selected. The necessity for this is alluded to by Prof. McEachran in his report, when he speaks of shipments made from Montreal, which, although proving profitable to the shipper, could be made more so if the quality of the cattle of the Dominion was improved by using pure bred bulls, which are now reported to be easily and cheaply procured both in Manitoba and the eastern province.

Mr. Carling says he is informed that the shipment of what is known as "store cattle"—that is, cattle in an immature condition—continues to be largely carried on. This is a matter of regret, as it not only depletes the farm of manure producers, but also deprives the farmer of the profits to be derived from the consumption of coarse grain and other feed grown upon the land. Prof. McEachran reports the shipment of milch cows, some near calving, some with calves, has already tended to lower the quality and standard of Canadian cattle in the British markets, and he attributes the detention, on suspicion of disease, of two or three cargoes last summer to the fact that animals of that kind are more liable to contract pneumonia and bronchial affections during the voyage than other animals in a condition for market. During the latter part of the autumn very severe weather was experienced on the North Atlantic, and as a consequence the mortality at sea during that period assumed unusually large proportions. Prof. McEachran gives some valuable facts respecting the difficulties attending the shipment of cattle, and he refers to the need of stock-yard accommodation at or near Montreal. The exportation of cattle from the ranches is increasing, and the superior quality of the animals from the far west calls forth very favorable comments in Great Britain.

A Youthful Novelist.

Master Percy R. Johnston, of Lakefield, son of Rev. Mr. Johnston of the Methodist church of that village, is the author of a story in ten chapters entitled "The Earl's Son, a tale of the Crusades." The story has been printed by the REVIEW press and makes a neat little volume of twenty-six pages. For so young a writer the story is more than creditable, the plot being well conceived and the narrative connected and clearly told, while the habits, language and action of the characters are true to historical account. The story tells of the defence of a border castle by the son of the noble owner who had gone with Richard I to Palestine, ending with the triumph of right and return of the Earl. In a modest preface the young author says:—"This story is written solely to represent the character and customs of Old England, and the state into which England was thrown during the absence of their king, who was away with the Crusaders, and the strife that existed among the earls, barons, lords, kings, etc." Master Johnston purposes that his book shall pay the cost of publication and will offer copies for sale to friends and others and will no doubt meet with an encouraging response.

A Girl Was the Cause of It.

The "Green Bush" dance furnished business for the magistrate at the Police Court this morning until after eleven o'clock. Two of the young men who had appeared yesterday morning failed to materialize to-day, they having become mixed up in the Ashburnham affair in the meantime and left for parts unknown. Eight young men were on trial for their conduct at the dance. Messrs. W. H. Moore and W. A. Stratton appeared for the defence, while Mr. E. B. Edwards, town solicitor, assisted Chief Roszel in the prosecution. Much evidence was taken, but it was somewhat conflicting. It appeared that a young man who imagined his girl had been insulted by another young man sought an explanation and instead met with trouble and a fight ensued. The two were parted when someone struck the host and another general row ensued. The ladies immediately vacated the room and started for home. This broke up the festivities before supper had been served or the collection had been taken up for the fiddler. The host and "orchestra" therefore came out short. It was hard to find out who was to blame for starting the row, and an air of good humor which pervaded the bench itself, caused the Magistrate to look on the affair with a lenient eye and he allowed the crowd to go, telling them that bad language and such conduct was discreditable with ladies and in future they should keep order when having a dance.

Gorton's Minstrels.

Bran new jokes, excellent dancing and splendid music will form the chief part of the programme with Gorton's Minstrels on Tuesday evening, April 14th, with enough of the ridiculous, and pleasing specialties to make up an evening's entertainment. The Butte, Mont., Daily Miner says:—A full house greeted Gorton's Minstrels at Maguire's Opera House last evening for their opening performance. The troupe is small in numbers, but made up of the best material that can be possibly collected together in the minstrel line. There is nothing coarse or rough in the performance. Everything goes with the perfect smoothness of well oiled machinery, and the result is the perfect satisfaction of the audience. 1d87

The publishers of Our Homes, a large, elegantly printed 32-page magazine, announce that in order to increase their circulation they are willing to devote their entire first year's profits to this end, and in order to do so, offer competitions in which they give large cash rewards to those taking part. One of these competitions is now in progress and closes on April 25th. In addition to the large amount given in cash on their general prize list, they offer as an extra inducement the following special cash prizes:—During the weeks ending April 11th and April 18th they offer daily cash prizes of $10, and a weekly cash prize of $50 for the first named week, and $100 for the latter. For the week ending April 25th they offer daily cash prizes of $25, and a prize of $100 for the week. These exceedingly generous prizes are in addition to the general prize list, and the person who gets one of the special rewards may also get a large prize in the general list. Indigestion

Is not only a distressing complaint, of itself, but, by deranging the blood to become depraved and the system enfeebled, is the parent of innumerable maladies. That Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best cure for Indigestion, even when complicated with Liver Complaint, is proved by the following testimony from Mrs. Joseph Lake, of Brockway Centre, Mich.:—

"Liver complaint and indigestion made my [illegible] ending [illegible] four years [illegible] reduced [illegible] had strength [illegible] All kinds of [illegible] and only the most [illegible] digested at all. [illegible] I was persuaded to do [illegible] the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an improvement in my condition. My appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life."

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

He had in fact done her a service against his own interests. He had assisted her to formulate her instinctive recoil from the view which he sought to inculcate. It was incumbent upon him, therefore, to take some practical step. The close of the season was at hand.

While he was racking his brains as to what he should do, accident came opportunely to his aid. As he was walking about one evening behind the scenes, while the opera was in progress, a carpenter, who was tinkering a defective joint in the scenery upsomewhere in the wings, let fall a chisel, which struck Jocelyn on the head, inflicting a superficial but alarming looking wound along the right side of his forehead. He staggered and fell, and blood streamed down his face. A surgeon was sent for, and meanwhile Jocelyn was removed into the prima donna's dressing room. Just then the prima donna, warm and palpitating from her scene, came in with glowing cheeks and sparkling eyes, the thunder of applause still sounding in her ears.

Jocelyn's ghastly aspect filled her with compassion and tenderness. She knelt down beside him where he lay upon the sofa, dipped her handkerchief in water, and with soft murmurs of sympathy and truth washed the blood away from his wound. He recognized his good luck and lay still for a time, apparently in the dead faint that precedes dissolution. But watching his opportunity when they were left alone for a few minutes he faltered out an entreaty to be lifted to a sitting position, and when she clasped her strong young arms about him to accomplish his desire she found herself unawares entangled in his embrace, and before she could extricate herself she felt his lips on her cheek.

She placed him in the attitude he wished, and then got slowly and wearily to her feet, her face pale and her eyes dark.

"So," she said, with a perceptible intonation of contempt, "I was not mistaken!"

"Forgive me, Beatrix," he sighed out, still affecting to be overcome by weakness. "I could not help it. Darling girl, I love you so! I can fight against it no longer—"

"I might have known that you were like the others—or worse," said she, "but I could not believe it till now. I shall never be mistaken again."

"Oh, Beatrix! have you no pity—no consideration for—for my condition? Heaven knows how I have struggled! Take off this bandage," he continued querulously snatching away the handkerchief from his forehead. "Let me bleed to death—I will not live without you!"

"It will take you a long time to bleed to death, Mr. Jocelyn," returned she quietly. "I shall not be able to wait for you. Perhaps Madame Bemax will. Shall I call her?"

"You shall not speak to me in that tone!" exclaimed Jocelyn, raising himself on his couch in real or feigned passion. "I have not deserved it! Have I not done everything for you? Have you forgotten what you owe me?"

"You cannot have forgotten that I long since told you that I could never marry you, so how could you expect that I would pay you what I owe with myself?"

"I am not a man to make cold blooded calculations!" said he, getting impulsively on his legs. "If you had any heart you would understand, Beatrix," he went on, suddenly changing his tone and attempting to sieze her hands; "I do not ask an irrevocable compact—I do not hope that you can love me always. You will go on, I know, and leave me behind. But, oh! my dearest one, would you regret it in the future that is before you, and which my poor aid will have helped you to enjoy—will you regret, then, having made a man who loves you insanely—having made him, for a little while only, the happiest of human beings? You may be loved by younger men than I, and handsomer and richer, but never"—

"Mr. Jocelyn," she interposed, with a manner that indicated a lamentable hardening of her once sweet and gracious nature, "if you would look at yourself in the glass you would understand why I appear so unsympathetic. Even a prima donna, who holds herself at the beck and call of every good looking fellow who happens to take a fancy to her—even I cannot listen to you until you have washed your face. Perhaps you had better not use my washstand—people are so censorious, and your sensibilities are so delicate; but if you will go to your own place and get yourself in presentable condition then you may come to-morrow and we will talk over your proposal as quietly as your passion will admit. I will ask my father and Gen. Inigo to be present as witnesses and to offer suggestions; for you are so young and impulsive that perhaps I might otherwise get the better of you. I think I hear some one coming," she added, laying her hand upon the door latch; "perhaps it would be pleasanter for you to go out of your own accord, instead of waiting to be—assisted!"

Jocelyn departed, feeling sore outside and in. But he fancied he knew a way to make the prima donna regret his dismissal.

CHAPTER XII.

"TO BE HONEST, AS THIS WORLD GOES."

Mr. Wallie Dinsmore had been indulging in a good deal of casuistry of late, owing to a desire to reconcile his theory that human beings ought to help one another with his temperamental aversion to being mixed up in other people's affairs. He might have evaded the difficulty by handing over the matter which troubled him to Mrs. Cadwalader; but that would only have been an indirect way of forcing his own hand. He smoked a great number of cigars, seated in his study chair, and incidentally tried to stare his great white owl out of countenance; but he hesitated still.

One morning while thus occupied he heard a carriage stop at the door and a card was brought up to him. Contrary to his usual custom in such cases, he jumped up, tossed his cigar into the fire, gave a pull to his collar and a jerk to his coat, and bade the servant conduct Mlle. Marana upstairs.

By the time she appeared he had recovered his genial serenity. He shook hands with her with the quiet cordiality of a man constantly in the habit of receiving famous prime donne in his private sitting room, and at the same time gave the servant a look which intimated that he would be not at home while this visitor remained.

"You come in good season," said he, "the owl and I have just been talking about you."

"I did not ask for Mrs. Dinsmore," began the prima donna.

They Prefer Canada.

LONDON, April 13.—It is asserted that the best class of British emigrants show an increasing disposition to go to Canada in preference to the United States. The Australasian colonies' movement is due to the persistent propaganda carried on from the High Commissioner's office in London, and in connection therewith to the admirable plan of sending to Canada every year a delegation of tenant farmers to see the country and report upon its resources and capabilities. The various reports made by last year's delegates have been embodied in a pamphlet of which no fewer than 600,000 have been printed and are being circulated throughout the United Kingdom. It is thought the full effect of this missionary work will not be felt until next season, but every one concerned seems confident that 1893 will witness a great boom in Canadian emigration from this country.

The Death List Was 515.

LONDON, April 11.—Up to date there have been recovered the bodies of 461 passengers of the steamer Utopia, which had 700 Italian immigrants and which on March 17 ran into the bow of the British ironclad Rodney in Gibraltar Bay and sank. There are still 54 victims to be accounted for.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The Anchor Line steamship Angela arrived here yesterday from Gibraltar, having on board 153 steerage and two saloon passengers of the steamship Utopia, which was lost off Gibraltar.

The manufacture of arms in France for the Russian army is being hastened and the Russian forces will soon be completely equipped.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette

WOOED BY MAIL.

The Novel Love Affair of a New Jersey Damsel.

BRIDGETON, N.J., April 14.—Every girl within a dozen miles of Bridgeton is eager to learn all the details of the courtship by mail and the ultimate marriage of Miss Lizzie Edwards of this city and Lewis Arno, a weaver in moderate circumstances in Clinton, Mass., who came here to see his bride for the first time two days before the wedding. Though the bride and groom had never met until then, they had been courting through the postoffice for nearly two years.

It was two years ago that Miss Edwards, an attractive girl of 24, scanning the columns of one of those matrimonial papers, stopped on the tempting lines which Lewis Arno had cast into the stream in the hope of catching a wife. She wrote Arno. He replied. She wrote more. So did he. The missives came to be regular and full of ardor. The sequence was natural enough—marriage was suggested by Arno, who was readily accepted and yesterday the knot was tied.

A Photo Catches Millions.

NEWPORT, Ky., April 14.—Introduced only by photographs shown by a mutual friend a year ago, Miss Anna Coleman, a prominent Newport teacher, and Mr. John V. Nye of Livingston, Mont., will be married at Minneapolis to-morrow. They have never seen each other. The friend's advice led to a correspondence after the exchange of portraits, and Miss Coleman merely supposed Mr. Nye to be a well-to-do Western gentleman. Now, since a year of distant love has drawn the two so near to marriage Miss Coleman has been shown documents proving Mr. Nye to be a millionaire copper miner.

A Husband Sells His Wife for $50.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 14.—Henry W. Miller, a prominent young man of this city married Miss Annie Steil three years ago. The marriage was a failure. Three months ago Miller sold his wife to a friend, John Roberts. Roberts and Miller were rivals before the latter's marriage. Roberts paid $50 down and the balance he was to pay in monthly instalments. Miller left for the west and Roberts took up his residence in the Miller home. Roberts defaulted, however, in his monthly payments. Miller threatened to return and reclaim his wife. Roberts then left for parts unknown. Mrs. Miller, being deserted by both men, laid her case before Justice Donohue, who issued a warrant for Miller.

THREE ROMANTIC LOVE TRAGEDIES IN RUSSIA.

The Indian Opium Trade Again Discussed in the Imperial Parliament—Interesting Irish Items—Prompt Renewal of Assistance to Tenants.

LONDON, April 14.—In the House of Commons this evening William Henry Smith, the Government leader, announced that the Home Government would not advise the Indian Vice-Regal Government of the vote in the House on Friday, whereby a motion against allowing the opium traffic in India was defeated. Mr. Smith also stated that the Government would decline to appoint a commission to investigate and report upon the subject. The paucity of the vote which carried with it the action referred to was such, he said, as not to carry with it the weight of a division of the full house.

The motion to suppress the East India trade in opium was made by Mr. Pease, Gladstone Liberal member of Parliament for the Cleveland division of Yorkshire, and was carried by a vote of 160 ayes to 130 nays out of a total membership in the House of Commons of 670.

TWO STRANGE TRAGEDIES.

In Both Cases Wounded Honor Seeks Relief in Death.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 14.—The Princess Olga Feodorowna, nee Princess Cecile of Baden, daughter of Leopold, Grand Duke of Baden, committed suicide, caused by chagrin at the Czar's refusal to restore her son, Grand Duke Michael, to the honors that he forfeited through his recent marriage with Comtesse de Merenberg.

A young officer named Amenkoff, belonging to the regiment of the Grand Duke Nicholas, the younger, now stationed at Gatschina, committed suicide under very mysterious circumstances. A note was found on his table explaining that no other course was open to him, as he had been grossly insulted by a personage of such exalted position that it was impossible for him to demand satisfaction. It is reported that the Grand Duke Nicholas, the younger, was the cause of the tragedy.

PARIS, April 13.—Drowned in the Seine, tied together by the hands, were found the bodies yesterday of aged Lieutenant Armigoff and Madame Katrina de Fisher. They were members of families in the Russian colony here and loved each other in youth, but could not wed owing to the opposition from Katrina's father. In old age the lovers were reunited and committed suicide because they were to be forced apart.

Italy's Diplomatic Troubles.

ROME, April 14.—There is a serious misunderstanding between Italy and Abyssinia regarding the interpretation of Article 17 of the treaty between the countries. Italy contends that it means all the diplomatic relations of Abyssinia should be made through Italy, thus virtually constituting Abyssinia a protectorate of Italy. The mission of Count Antonelli to endeavor to reconcile the Abyssinians to this interpretation has been a failure.

In the Chamber of Deputies to-day Signor Marmuzzi gave notice of his intention to ask the Government what satisfaction had been asked for or obtained in the case of the Italians lynched in New Orleans.

No Tariff Changes This Session.

OTTAWA, April 14.—It is officially stated that the Government, broadly speaking, has decided not to amend the tariff at the coming session. Possibly something may be done with sugar duties, but the change, if any, cannot be determined until the Customs Department determines the working of the sugar clauses of the McKinley bill and their effect upon Canada.

The Commissioner of Customs informed a correspondent to-day that he discredits reports about American sugar being smuggled across the boundary.

Ald. Ryckman Resigns.

HAMILTON, April 14.—At the City Council meeting last night Ald. Ryckman, M.P., put in his resignation, which was accepted with many expressions of regret by the members of both shades of politics.

The Gray Mare's Final Kick.

BRANTFORD, April 14.—Last night a young lad named Willie DeMill was at the G. T. R. station assisting to load Dr. Smith's gray mare May on the train to take to Michigan. The boy was patting the mare and endeavoring to urge her forward when she kicked him in the face, cutting it severely and knocking him down. He was driven home and the wound dressed.

Killed at Indian Head.

INDIAN HEAD, Assa., April 14.—An Englishman named Fox, while driving on a trail near the railroad two miles east of here this afternoon, was killed by his horses becoming scared at a passing train and springing forward, suddenly throwing him under the back of the wagon on his head. Fox had only arrived Saturday from England with a large family of small children.

WISHED TO DIE IN THE TEMPLE.

So that He Would Be Certain to Be Buried With Full Masonic Rites.

ST. CATHARINES, April 14.—Richard Ratcliffe, the prominent Mason who committed suicide last week, it now appears attempted suicide in the Masonic Temple. He appears to have visited the rooms, put everything in order for his funeral, laying the paraphernalia out as was his custom when there was to be a Masonic funeral. He then took a piece of rope which he found in the ante room and fastened it over the transom of the door leading into the paraphernalia room. His whole weight must have been allowed to rest on this, either to test the rope or in an attempt to hang himself, as the marks of the rope are plainly visible on the wood. He took the rope away with him and with it successfully finished the awful deed in the store. The careful manner in which everything was arranged for the Masonic service shows that the suicide was coolly premeditated, no thought entering his mind that he would not be buried with full Masonic rites.

Arrest of a Clerk in the Kingston Post office.

KINGSTON, April 14.—Robert J. Gowdy, a clerk in the postoffice, was arrested this morning for tampering with Her Majesty's mail. For some time past, it is said, money letters have been disappearing and the postoffice authorities have been trying to solve the mystery. A decoy letter addressed to a citizen of Belleville was posted and a watch was set on Gowdy, who was seen to enter an outbuilding. He was watched through auger-holes by the inspectors, and it is claimed pulled letters out of his pocket and proceeded to investigate their contents. After he had torn the corner of one letter the inspector shouted from above, "Ah, there, I have caught you at last." He then jumped into the building and seized Gowdy. Three letters were found in his possession. Gowdy was then handed over to the police. Gowdy denies being guilty and says the letters that were in his pockets were addressed to himself. He said his arrest was due to spite.

Read Her Husband's New Wedding Notice

BRIDGETON, N.J., April 14.—The advertisement of the marriage of Leonard R. Jones to Maggie M. Husted by Rev. A. B. Flock of Cedarville caught the eye of Jones' first wife Emma, and she had him arrested. The constable found him living with his new wife. He was brought over to Justice Wells' court, in this city, and sent to jail in default of bail.

A ukase about to be issued by Russia withdraws the privilege given to Jewish workmen of residing outside the limits assigned to Jews, and orders the expulsion of those living without the pale. This will result in the expulsion of 14,000 Jews from Moscow.

Penitentiary Guards' Pay.

KINGSTON, April 14.—A large and representative number of penitentiary guards waited on Warden Lavell to have the warden's sanction for the guards to apply to Parliament for an increase of salaries. The men claim that the money now paid is not sufficient to keep them in a respectable way. The warden received the deputation courteously, and promised to do what he could to get the guards the increase asked for.

An Old Crime Recalled.

COBOURG, April 14.—The death of Clinton Lawson is announced. He was a brother-in-law of the notorious Dr. King, who died on the scaffold at Cobourg jail on June 9, 1859, for the crime of poisoning his wife. Clinton Lawson, brother of the murdered woman, with great patience and admirable skill, for which he won popular admiration at the time, traced the murderer to his hiding-place in the United States, brought him to account at the point of a pistol and escorted him back to Canada, where he handed him over to the authorities.

An Innocent Man Released.

OTTAWA, April 14.—His Excellency the Governor-General has remitted the sentence of George Scott, now in Welland jail on a charge of larceny. Scott, who was a Pullman car conductor, was convicted of stealing money and sentenced to two years' imprisonment. This happened last month. Scott pleaded that he was innocent of the crime and later developments substantiate the plea.

Newfoundland Bait Privileges.

OTTAWA, April 14.—It is reported that if the Newfoundland Government persists in its refusal to grant Canadian fishermen bait privileges in Newfoundland waters the Imperial Parliament will pass a bill restricting the bait bill in so far as it affects British subjects.

The Woes of Wage Earners.

The disturbances of the peace at Bradford, Eng., continue, and the military are kept confined to their barracks under arms. A number of men have been arrested charged with intimidating the weavers who are on strike. The directors of the mills refuse to settle disputes by arbitration and declare the weavers are perfectly willing to go back to work, but the men are terrorized by labor agitators. In the evening rioting was resumed. The mob numbered at least 10,000 persons. The street lamps were extinguished by the rioters. The military, police and special constables charged and dispersed the mob. Many persons were injured.

The Welsh tin platers will close their works for one month from July 1, being forced to restrict their output in consequence of the new American tariff law.

Interesting Irish Items.

The Dublin National Press (McCarthyite organ), referring to the suggestion of the American National League for arbitration as a means of settling disputes in the Irish parliamentary party, says: "The time for negotiations is past. The fight must now go on. It will be bitter but it is not likely to be long."

The McCarthyites have decided on the prompt renewal of relief to the evicted tenants.

Making a Face for a Woman.

He Wasn't Poisoned.

LONDON, April 14.—An investigation into the cause of the death of Herbert Lake, who was believed to have either poisoned himself or been the victim of foul play, was held at the residence of his brother, William, 130 Egerton-street, East London, yesterday. The evidence showed that the deceased was leading a life which an iron constitution could not withstand, having been drinking heavily of late and sleeping in an old C.P.R. shanty at night. The post mortem showed that death had been caused by congestion of the lungs, and a verdict was rendered accordingly.

G.T.R. ANNUAL MEETING.

SIR HENRY TYLER REPLIES TO SIR CHARLES TUPPER.

Considerable Excitement Occasioned by the Interruptions of Shareholders Opposed to the Present Board of Directors—The Position of the G.T.R.

LONDON, April 14.—The recent discussion in the press between Sir Henry Tyler, president of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, and Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner, was probably one of the causes of the exceptionally large attendance at the meeting of shareholders of the company this afternoon. The room was crowded. Sir Henry Tyler delivered a lengthy speech, the chief characteristic of which was its hopeful tone.

He believed, he said, that the United States Congress would again legalize the old divisions of traffic, a [illegible] of importance. He had also good reason to hope that the Canadian Government will remove the duty on coal, thus saving the Grand Trunk £160,000 sterling annually. Regarding Sir Charles Tupper's charges against the company, Sir Henry remarked: "Before the elections we were deserving of every favor from the Government of Canada. Since the elections no language is too bad, no misrepresentation is too monstrous, to be hurled at us by the High Commissioner." Sir Henry Tyler then proceeded to read to the meeting the private report of Mr. Seargeant, the general manager of the company, of the interview he held with Sir Charles Tupper.

Several shareholders, however, promptly interrupted the reading of the report and some confusion ensued. "This is a private affair," said one. "Sir Charles Tupper is not here to reply," said another. "It is a one-sided statement," said a third, amid cheers. However, Sir Henry persevered and declared that the board entirely believed Mr. Seargeant as an honorable man. The report declared that Sir Charles Tupper plainly bid for the Grand Trunk vote. Mr. Seargeant, however, declined to swerve from the position of complete independence. At this point Sir Henry was interrupted by a shareholder calling out, "This is all ancient history."

Sir Henry having requested silence said that Sir Charles Tupper had sent a late Grand Trunk stationmaster to Chicago as a special detective to endeavor to discover damaging facts against the Grand Trunk management. That gentleman was now in jail for debt. The laughter which greeted this statement having subsided Sir Henry proceeded to review Sir Charles Tupper's charges. He remarked that in details they were very strong but absurd. As to the manager of the Chicago and Grand Trunk, whose openly expressed annexationist sentiments had been [illegible] to by Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Henry said that Mr. Reeves was a very valuable officer, but the company regretted his statements as to the necessity to Canada of annexation to the United States and apologized to the Government for them. It was untrue, Sir Henry said, that a single pass had been given over the whole system to enable an elector to cast his vote for the Liberals. Sir Charles Tupper had said that the Grand Trunk had never forgiven the Dominion Government for building the Canadian Pacific Railway. "True," Sir Henry remarked, "the Canadian Pacific received six times as much subsidy as the Grand Trunk, but this company only complains at the subsidies to lines uselessly competing with the Grand Trunk. [Cheers. Sir Charles Tupper then charged the board of this company with extravagance, corruption and jobbery. It is hardly necessary to reply seriously to such general charges, but that came from the High Commissioner. Those who know Sir Charles Tupper better than most of the gentlemen present thought the charge recalled the spectacle of 'Satan Reproving Sin.'"

After considerable laughter and cheering Sir Henry continued. He said: "If the Grand Trunk was so guilty, why was I, as Sir Charles Tupper wrongly alleged, offered facilities by the Canadian Government to build the Canadian Pacific? Why was our late general manager, Sir Joseph Hickson, knighted? Why was the Grand Trunk before the elections such an excellent body, so well deserving of Government favor?

"Sir Charles Tupper having made charges now means to find something to prove them. Let him do so. I challenge the High Commissioner to bring any single charge of corruption or jobbery against us or Sir Joseph Hickson. I will meet him face to face, because I maintain that no line is more honestly worked than the Grand Trunk. No officials tried more than ours to do their best for the company." [Loud cheers.]

A noisy debate followed, during which hot words were used both by the friends of the management and their opponents. The report was finally adopted, with only five dissenting votes.

Mr. Hill moved and Mr. Cain seconded a motion that these gentlemen be not re-elected. The amendment was put amid breathless excitement and was carried by a vote of about 60 to 10.

After the excitement had been somewhat allayed Sir Henry Tyler demanded a poll and it will take place to-morrow.

Amid much excitement a motion was carried to adjourn for a fortnight.

Deer Butchers Convicted.

BELLEVILLE, April 14.—Thomas Stayner, John Stayner, Christopher Lake, William Lake and Norman Lake were charged before Police Magistrate Cleak at Bancroft with violation of the game law in killing deer out of season. The charges against Thomas and John Stayner were dismissed, but the offence was fully proved against the three Lakes, and a fine of $16.20 was imposed in each case. It is stated that about 15 deer, forming a drove, or as it is termed a "yard," associating together for the winter, were all destroyed, the majority being does and heavy with young.

Nearly Asphyxiated.

BRANTFORD, April 14.—Last night John Hunter, who boards at the Commercial Hotel, retired to bed about 10 o'clock. This morning about 11 o'clock the chambermaid noticed a strong smell of gas. It was found that the occupant of the room was nearly suffocated. Dr. Henwood was summoned and did all he could to relieve the sufferer, who was unconscious. He is a man of exceedingly strong constitution, and it is thought he will pull through.

A Love-sick Widow's Suicide.

LANSING, Mich., April 14.—The infatuation of Mrs. Ruth McCready for a man 16 years her junior led to her death by morphine yesterday. Mrs. McCready was a widow with four children and [illegible] years of age. Last fall she became acquainted with George [illegible], a fascinating fruit tree agent. Their wedding was fixed for April [illegible], but [illegible] the fruit tree knight [illegible] away. Mrs. McCready [illegible] her young [illegible] and with this despair ended her life.

THE LICENSE DEBATE.

Discussing the debate in the Legislature on the license question, the Hamilton Spectator says:—"Possibly it would not be correct to say that the Ontario Government yesterday had an uncomfortable time during the discussion of the license question. When men are so bad that they openly practise wrong, and openly make statements which they do not expect anybody to believe, it is not correct to say that they can feel uncomfortable when their evil practices are exposed.

Mr. Willoughby exposed the unblushing manner in which the Government coerced license-holders. He might have made his statements much stronger and have said that the license-holders were not only compelled to vote for Government candidates, but compelled to contribute money to Grit campaign funds. Indeed, rumor has it that in some localities the agents appointed to collect the voluntary contributions wrung from license-holders by threats that their licenses would be taken away, have not all been turned over to the campaign committees. Mr. Willoughby read an article from the Port Hope Guide, and showed that officials appointed to carry out the license law openly and shamelessly threatened license-holders with the consequences of refusal to vote for Grit candidates. And then an amusing incident took place. Mr. Stratton repelled with indignation the intimation that any official had written or inspired the article in the Port Hope Guide. That paper was wholly owned by George Wilson & Son, and the article in question was written by the ordinary writers for the paper. When he had quite ended his explanation, Mr. Willoughby quietly rose and read from the Ontario Gazette the appointment of Mr. George Wilson as license inspector for East Durham.

Mr. Meredith pointed out the great wrong done to the municipalities by taking from them the large sums collected from license-holders. Last year $110,000 was taken from five cities, of which sum Hamilton contributed $25,000. Licenses, he pointed out, are properly subject to taxation, and to taxation for local purposes. If this sum of $25,000 had gone into the city treasury last year the municipal rate might have been lowered by a mill on the dollar. If the sums taken from Hamilton by this license law had been paid into the city treasury, instead of being sent down to Toronto, Hamilton would not now be asking for power to fund $200,000 of floating liabilities. The expenditure would have been met by the license fees.

Mr. Mowat's explanation of this taking away of municipal funds is one of the funniest things of the century. "We do not take a cent from the municipalities," he says; "we only take it from the license holders." That explanation is lovely. We expect that when the Dominion Parliament meets Mr. Laurier or Sir Richard Cartwright will tell Mr. Foster that he takes the people's money in a tax on sugar. And then Mr. Foster will rise with a smile that is childlike and bland and reply: "My dear sir, I do not take a solitary cent from the people as a tax on sugar. I merely tax those wealthy men who import the sugar; and, in fact I find that the people have cheaper sugar than they used to have." A ten-year-old boy would be ashamed to use such an argument as that; but there is no abyss of inanity and stupidity too profound for Mr. Mowat. The license money is taken; it is sent to Toronto; and if it were left in the city treasury, it would relieve the people from just so much taxation. In this matter, as in so many other matters, Mr. Meredith stands up for the rights of the people.

Trashy Literature.

The world moves on, and so does the production of literature. Month after month new books and publications appear at astonishingly low prices. A very large percentage of these new publications are trashy and worthless, and are unworthy of a place in any respectable home. The works of many well-known and esteemed authors are now offered at the very low prices asked for worthless and badly written publications. Canadians are possessed of sufficient intelligence to judge rightly in this matter of home reading. The long-tested and reliable Diamond Dyes do not cost any more than some of the spurious and crude makes now offered for sale; and give to the consumers every guarantee of what is so much looked for, viz, brilliancy of color, strength and great durability. Therefore, which are the cheapest and best?

The Only Strictly Cash House in Town.

W. J. Morrow's great cash sale is meeting with unbounded success owing to the great drop in prices. No bad debts to cause us to add a certain percentage on the cost of goods, we are sure of every dollar's worth sold. We are making it rather warm for other houses, but we can't help it. We must sell cheap and secure the trade of the town. d53-w15

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

THE REMOVAL OF CENTRAL PRISON BURSAR WHELER.

Mr. Gibson Explains the Reason Why a Change Was Made—Dr. Cascaden Was a Disappointed Man—The Central Prison Expenditures.

TORONTO, April 15.—Mr. Tait's bill respecting undertaking, embalming and organic chemistry came before the Special Committee yesterday. J. B. McIntyre of St. Catharines, W. H. Hoyle of Cannington and others mentioned as the first council of the proposed college were in attendance and supported the bill. Albert Ogden, representing Humphreys and others who are opposed to the bill, urged that as the Undertakers' Association, which is to have charge of the college, was incorporated under the Benevolent and Provident Societies' Act it cannot engage in business; that by its act of incorporation the association cannot hold property worth more than $5000 annual rental and that the bill was simply to increase its power of holding land; that the association sought to be erected into a "combine" to the injury of the public; that the association was really a secret society and it would be against the public interest to allow a secret society to control the college, examinations, granting of diplomas, etc.; that the college should be under the control not of the Undertakers' Association but of the Provincial Board of Health. Further discussion was postponed until to-day.

Among the items of the estimates passed by the House was that for the expenditure required in connection with the Central Prison. Mr. Meredith asked for an explanation of the resignation of the bursar. Mr. Gibson said that his resignation was asked because of irregularities in connection with his treatment of money received from outside jails which received supplies from the Central. The checks were cashed by him and afterwards set off against what was coming in. His course was irregular and improper and there was no excuse for using the money even temporarily. At the investigation which followed, although no fraudulent intent was established, the irregularities were shown to be such that they could not continue to allow him to occupy such an important position.

Mr. Meredith: "How long was this going on?"

Mr. Gibson: "For some years."

Mr. Meredith: "Was there any shortage?"

Mr. Gibson: "All the checks used in that way were accounted for. There was a small balance of $300, which was in dispute between the late bursar and his predecessor."

The estimated expenditure in connection with the Mimico branch asylum led Mr. Wood (Hastings) to inquire into the resignation of Dr. Cascaden. Mr. Gibson explained that he found his duties were not as congenial as he had anticipated. He had expected that he would be independent and fill the position of an ordinary superintendent but he was disappointed. There were other reasons. His relations with the superintendent were not as agreeable as they ought to be. He resigned because there was no appearance of the improvement in his condition which he had anticipated.

Drank Twenty-five Glasses of Beer.

ALTOONA, Pa., April 14.—Alphonso Stiter, a middle-aged Frenchman, who came to this city from Philadelphia to work in the machine shops, drank 25 glasses of beer and several pints of whisky. He was taken sick and to-night died of hemorrhage of the stomach. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of death from alcoholism.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Child Drowned—Body Found in the Bay—Miners Protest.

TORONTO, April 15.—At a meeting of mining men held at the Rossin yesterday resolutions were passed protesting against the new mining act of the Legislature imposing royalties.

The 3-year-old son of Private Edwards of "C" School was playing on the embankment at the New Fort yesterday, and on a search being made his body was found in the lake near where he had been playing. The bank is high and steep at this point and it is supposed the child fell over unnoticed and was drowned.

The body of Michael Roch, an expressman, who has been missing since Feb. 9, was found yesterday floating in the Bay opposite the foot of Simcoe-street.

The annual general meeting of the members of the Ontario branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club was held yesterday afternoon in the Walker House, President Dr. Boucher of Peterboro in the chair.

A complete report of the Tankard competition was read by Secretary Russell, giving in detail the results in each of the 16 groups and the final victory of the Hamilton Thistles, Prospect Park being the last competing club.

The report of the match between the city of Toronto and all the rest of Ontario that never took place was read. Only 16 county clubs entered, and, coupled with the stinginess of the railways, the match was abandoned.

The champion Hamilton Thistles being entitled to represent the province for the Governor-General's prize were ready for the competition, but as Manitoba, the Maritime and Quebec branches fluked there was no contest, so the prize was withdrawn. In order to avoid subsequent postponements on account of distance and a difference in stones the Executive were instructed to investigate.

Mr. Badenach's motion, notice of which was given at the last meeting, that the allocation of district medals be discontinued and that a silver medal be awarded to the champion club of each group in the primary competition for the Ontario Tankard, was lost, chiefly owing to the vigorous opposition of Messrs. Vanzant, Paterson and Stephenson, and Mr. Pursell's motion to give medals to clubs that did not win them the past two seasons, instead of the past season as formerly, was carried. The branch will recognize the Hamilton Caledonians' change of name to the Victorias of Hamilton.

The committee were instructed to carry out their plans for the first international match between Grand National and Ontario branch clubs, to take place in Toronto next January. The meeting declared that the Crusaders of Portage and Frazers of Yonkers, who visited Toronto last season, were capital curlers and first-rate sportsmen. The motion of Messrs. Malcolm and Williamson, that the Executive Committee be instructed to revise the regulations and bylaws, was carried. After the handsome plush banner and gold medal had been presented to Delegate Simpson of the Thistles and silver medals to Delegate Carlyle of Prospect Park the meeting adjourned.

The Ossified Man Fractured.

NEW YORK, April 13.—The ossified man, Lucius Monroe, colored, whose bone body weighs 57 pounds, has a broken thigh bone or a broken left leg, all due to a fall down stairs, because the man who carried him on a cot let it tip so that he rolled off at the top of a flight of stairs.

CASH HARDWARE STORE.

On and after 1st April we shall do business on a Cash Basis.

To cover the inevitable losses attendant upon a credit business, (which accrue from amount of time spent in keeping accounts, collecting, bad debts, interest account, and in numerous other ways, larger margins of profit must be asked.

In these times cash buyers ask, expect and are entitled to close prices. A careful consideration of the subject convinces us that the time has come for a cash business done on smaller profits.

The only customers who may be put to inconvenience are those who have had long credit. In more ways than one it will be to their advantage to pay cash.

For convenience of our old customers who consider their accounts due when presented, we will call 30 days cash and render all accounts the first of each month, and we wish to say that we will be happy to do business with them on these terms.

As the new departure is something of an experiment, what would be considered a close cash price will be made all through the stock. Not a few leaders only, but a general reduction in everything from the fourth flat to the cellar.

Our idea is to perform more than promised rather than promise more than can be fulfilled.

Our stock is large and varied, consisting of Builders', Contractors', Household, Mechanics', Painters', Shoemakers', Farm, Mill, Factory, Lumbermen's, Sporting, Threshers', Cabinetmakers', and other lines of Hardware.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

Better than the Edison Works.

While it is a great boon to many to have plenty of work and good pay, it is still better to have neat, comfortable, solid leather shoes and save a dollar on each pair, by getting the J. D. King's make from Kidd, the booter. d28w13

Many people who pride themselves on their blue blood would be far happier with pure blood; but, while we cannot choose ancestors, fortunately, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, we can transmit pure blood to our posterity.

They Escaped the Court.

The police court was not held in Ashburnham yesterday afternoon to hear the complaint against the young man Hunter, who with two others was charged with damaging the house of Mrs. Walker in the village. The young man made a settlement with the woman, making good the damages and healing wounded feelings by a liberal application of money.

Powerful Dramatic Talent.

The Montreal Gazette speaks in the following flattering terms of the presentation of "Aunt Jack" as it will be presented in the Opera House here to-morrow evening, April 16th:—"The cast of Mr. Palmer's company is a powerful one, and many of the individuals deserve special mention. In the role of Aunt Jack Miss Ffolliott Paget's dramatic talent was fully appreciated. All the characteristics of an injured female, imbued with the knowledge of the full extent of her wrongs, is admirably depicted, and she also has that power of stopping exactly where another step would lead into the borders of exaggeration."

If the hair has been made to grow a natural color on bald heads in thousands of cases, by using Hall's Hair Renewer, why will it not in your case?

He is not Dead Yet.

Bartholomew Fox whose reported death at the hands of Italians was reported on two different occasions recently, appeared in the flesh at the police station yesterday afternoon. Although alive Fox was in a desperate state, his face had been blackened and then some kind creature had turned the hose on him. He was drunk and the police locked him up. At the Police Court this morning he was charged with being a vagrant without any visible means of support. "I'm no vagrant" said the prisoner going into his pocket, "I've got fifty-five cents, and was going to work with Thomas Humphries at Birdsall's, if I had not been locked up." The Magistrate fined him two dollars or twenty days and Fox pleading hard was given a week to pay the fine. "I'll send the money or my body up sure" said he as he thanked the Magistrate when leaving.

The Men With Dark Faces.

A good house greeted Gorton's Ministrels at the Opera House last evening. The audience contained a good sprinkling of ladies, who found nothing objectionable in the entertainment which was for so long enjoyed by men only. The show put on last evening taken as a whole, was good. The singing in the first part was perhaps not of sufficient merit to meet the fastidious taste of all, but, from the opening chorus until the "knock out" in the farce the audience was kept in good humor and had many a hearty laugh. The drill and dancing of the sextette clog was fine and Henry Yorkey and Hank Goodman were funny. The music of the band was also a pleasing feature of the entertainment, the programme of which was much the same as that given when the company were here last season.

ENCOURAGE THE SPORTS.

The P. A. A. A. Officers Elected—The Concert—The Queen's Birthday.

A meeting of the directorate of the P.A.A.A. was held yesterday afternoon, when the election of officers and discussion of Association business took place. The coming season must see a decided activity among local sports and all good citizens should aid the Association who have it in their power so to do.

At present a subject of live interest with the Association is their concert which is to be held in the opera house on Tuesday, 28th inst. A programme of rare excellence and attractiveness has been arranged and the public should support and aid the Association by giving this event a liberal patronage.

On the 24th of May the P.A.A.A. as usual will have a field day of sports, but what the programme will be has not been definitely arranged. One feature however, is certain, and that will be a lacrosse match. The local lacrosse men are preparing for an active season and many good matches may be looked forward to. As soon as the grounds have been sufficiently dried the boys will commence practice and the first match will be played on the Queen's Birthday. This will be a drawing card.

GOING TO OTTAWA.

The Deputation on the Trent Valley Water Route Preparing for Their Visit to the Capital.

The municipalities which are to be represented on the deputation which will interview the Dominion Government to impress upon them the necessity and desirability of the early commencement of active operations on the construction of the Trent Valley Canal should take immediate steps and have their deputations appointed.

Mr. John Carnegie, Secretary of the Trent Valley Navigation Association, is issuing a circular announcing that the deputation will wait upon the Dominion Government on Tuesday, 21st inst., and urging all the interested municipalities to appoint delegations commensurate with their interest in this important work. The deputation is to meet at ten o'clock at the Russell house, Ottawa, on the morning of the 21st to arrange finally for the interview.

It is desired to make the deputation as strong and representative as possible so as to lend all possible weight to the appeal for immediate action. Peterborough's town and county councils will be represented by good deputations and the Board of Trade and citizens will swell the delegation from here to impressive and imposing proportions.

A Meeting of the Board of Trade.

The suggestion made in the The Review that the Board of Trade should discuss and consider our northern railway connections is to be acted upon. A meeting of the Board of Trade is called for Friday evening for the purpose of taking into consideration the question of the railway to Bobcaygeon and the north. A deputation of local gentlemen who went to Montreal for the purpose of interviewing Mr. Seargeant have signified their willingness to appear before the Board and discuss the question. It is necessary for the members to be present in full force as if the scheme is to be successfully carried out it will mark a distinct and important period in the history of the town.

The Women's Annual Council.

The fifteenth annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society opened in Kingston yesterday. Mrs. and Miss Fairbairn and Miss Davidson are attending the meeting from Peterborough. Giving per member, so far as can be estimated from numbers in: From auxiliaries, over $2 50 per member; from mission bands, about $1 25 per member. Some 20,000 lbs. of new and second hand clothing, valued at $20,000, was forwarded to the Northwest. The letter leaflet is doing good work; 7,500 copies are issued. The literature committee handled a fine lot of missionary works and pamphlets. There were 100,646 publications sold and 25,752 issued gratuitously. The year's receipts were $1,104 16, and the expenditure only $46 47 less. The society has $20,034.21 on hand, besides $3,881.15 reserved for a boarding school at Indore. The year's expenses were only $777.82.

A Chance for Buyers.

The sale of furniture on Saturday, 11th inst., at York & Lee's old stand, George-st., drew a large crowd and as the furniture offered was sold cheap, buyers were numerous. A number of parlor sets, lounges, easy chairs, oak bedroom sets and ordinary bedroom sets were left over and these together with other stock in process of finishing will be offered for sale, by auction, on Saturday, April 25th, at one o'clock. Housekeepers who require furniture should not fail to be on hand. 6d851w16

At no season in the year is cold in the head and catarrh more prevalent than during April. To neglect either means misery and perhaps fatal results. THE EXCHANGE SYSTEM.

The Decision of the Millers to Discontinue the System.

A short time ago a meeting of the millers of the Midland district was held at Lindsay and the following report of a decision come to by the millers has been handed to the Review for publication:

"Gristing, as understood under the stone system of milling, is not done to-day. Under the present roller system the farmer brings his wheat to the mill, it is weighed and he gets so many pounds of flour and bran; he does not get the product of his own wheat, but makes an exchange of wheat for flour, etc., the operation being simply barter and nothing else. The millers are tired of it, as it entails a large amount of extra labor. Farmers complain, whether justly or not, that they are not well treated either in quantity, quality or attention, and for some time past the leading farmers have given up the custom and adopted the more business-like method of selling their wheat and buying their flour.

"Having carefully considered the whole question of exchange between farmers and millers, and believing as we do that it is an antiquated custom and has long ago passed its usefulness and that it is in the interests of farmers and millers that the exchange system should be done away with, and with it the unpleasant feelings that seem to be springing up in the minds of farmers against the millers,

"Therefore, the millers of Peterborough, Lakefield, Lindsay and Beaverton will discontinue exchanging flour for wheat on and after the first of May next and in lieu thereof will give the highest market price for wheat and sell to farmers at wholesale rates. No change will be made in chopping; it will be done as heretofore.

"The millers and farming interests are so identified that what is for the benefit of one is for the benefit of the other and vice versa. As it has been freely circulated amongst the farmers that there is a combine amongst the millers as against the farmers, we would emphatically deny the same. The Millers' Association was formed for the purpose of getting the American flour excluded from our markets, which was in the interests of miller and farmer alike. The Association is still kept together to look after the interests of milling in general, but more especially the freight and merchantile part of the business, leaving each individual miller to conduct his own particular business as best suits himself. But the unanimous feeling amongst the millers is to do everything possible to assist the farmers, consistent with a living profit to himself, and in giving farmers their flour at wholesale prices they think that they are doing what no other business does with their patrons."

It Was a Serious Loss.

The fire which was reported in last evening's Review as having destroyed the barns and outbuildings of Mr. Matthew Breckenridge of Otonabee, was an exceedingly hot and rapid blaze. It is supposed it was the work of incendiaries. Ten milch cows and seven yearling heifers and about 1200 bushels of grain were consumed in the flames. There was only $700 insurance on the buildings and contents. Eleven horses which were in the barn were only rescued with difficulty.

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c. and $1 at all druggists'.

The Regulations and the Creek.

With the first of May will come the enforcement of the sanitary by-law which was published in part in the Review last evening. The clause which abolishes all closets over the creek is likely to meet with some opposition from residents along that little stream of water. Speaking of this matter a prominent resident, who by the way does not live on the creek, said to the Review:—"I tell you what it is, I have walked that creek three or four times a day for years and never have I by eye or nose detected any taint in the creek. The stream is flushed three times a day and all deleterous matter is carried away. It may lie in the bay below, but there is no sickness among the residents in that part, and I am inclined to think that the vegetable growth down there is beneficial, if anything." Notwithstanding any such similar opinions the by-law has been passed and the police intend to enforce it strictly when the first of May comes.

La Grippe Causes the Greatest Mortality Ever Known in Brooklyn

New York, April 14.—The number of deaths from the grip last week and its indirect influence in producing fatal results with other diseases swelled the number of funerals in Brooklyn to-day far beyond the usual average, and there was a greater demand for hearses than could be supplied. Few could be secured from this city owing to the demand here from the same causes, and those owned in the Long Island towns were sent for. Even then some funerals had to be postponed until to-morrow. The streets of Brooklyn were filled with processions passing to the various cemeteries, and so many coaches were hired that in some cases the prices were increased. Extra forces of men were employed at grave digging in the cemeteries in spite of the storm, and many bodies had to be placed in receiving vaults on account of the lack of time to make graves ready. The number of deaths last week in Brooklyn was 611 and the largest number in one day was 114 on Friday. The number of deaths last week, which was 134 more than in the week before was the largest ever known in Brooklyn.

The publishers of Our Homes, a large, elegantly printed 32-page magazine, announce that in order to increase their circulation they are willing to devote their entire first year's profits to this end, and in order to do so, offer competitions in which they give large cash rewards to those taking part. One of these competitions is now in progress and closes on April 28th. In addition to the large amount given in cash on their general prize list, they offer as an extra inducement the following special cash prizes:—During the weeks ending April 11th and April 18th they offer daily cash prizes of $10, and a weekly cash prize of $50 for the first named week, and $100 for the latter. For the week ending April 25th they offer daily cash prizes of $25, and a prize of $100 for the week. These exceedingly generous prizes are in addition to the general prize list, and the person who gets one of the special rewards may also get a large prize in the general list. No other magazine publishers have ever made such a liberal offer, and as the competition remains open three more weeks you should avail yourself of the liberal offer at once. Indigestion

Is not only a distressing complaint, of itself, but, by causing the blood to become depraved and the system enfeebled, is the parent of innumerable maladies. That Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best cure for Indigestion, even when complicated with Liver Complaint, is proved by the following testimony from Mrs. Joseph Lake, of Brockway Centre, Mich.:—

"Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony, was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an improvement in my condition. My appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life."

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

"Well, I know," interposed Wallie. "I have often tried to persuade her that the morning is the proper time to receive calls, but she is still wedded to her superstitions. You must try to put up with me. I believe I should make a pretty good aunt."

The lady felt the kindness with which he endeavored to put her at her ease, and a faint color dawned in her cheeks. He went on:

"I see by the papers that you are soon to leave us. It must be pleasant to you to feel how much respect and regard, as well as renown, you have won since you came here. I hope it may soon bring you back to us?"

"Do you respect me, Mr. Dinsmore?" demanded she, fixing her eyes on him.

"You were an enigma to me at first," he replied immediately, "but I respected you involuntarily, even before I knew that I was right in doing so."

He met her look as he spoke, and she felt that he spoke what he meant.

"I came to ask you to help me respect myself," she said, with a pause between. "Did you know that I was an actress as well as a singer?"

"I knew what you refer to the first moment we met," answered he, with a friendly smile. "I had seen Mlle. Marana abroad."

She did not need to ask him whether he had kept her secret. Between persons of a certain order of integrity assurances of such a kind are superfluous. She breathed a sigh of relief. He had known, and yet had not withheld his respect, the respect of a gentleman. Her sad heart began to take a little courage.

"I think I know your father, Mr. Randolph," he resumed, with the slightest accent of interrogation. "You must not think me a Paul Pry, but Mr. Randolph is a gentleman of the old school, not a good dissimulator, and he accidentally betrayed himself to me one day without knowing it. Perhaps I ought to have confessed to him, but I am a wretchedly undecided mortal about such things, and I have been debating for the last month what I had better do. More than a month; in fact, ever since Geoffrey Bellingham went away."

As he carelessly uttered the last words his glance passed over her. She did not move an eyelid. Her breath stopped for a few moments, but that could not be seen.

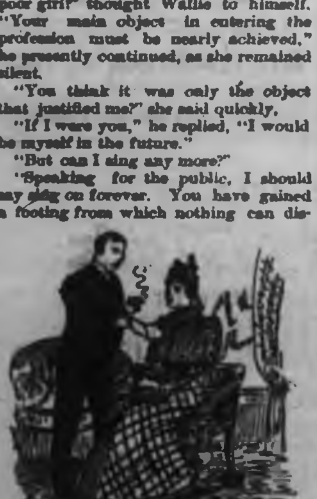
"She has already learned some things, poor girl!" thought Wallie to himself. "Your main object in entering the profession must be nearly achieved," he presently continued, as she remained silent.

"You think it was only the object that justified me?" she said quickly.

"If I were you," he replied, "I would be myself in the future."

"But can I sing any more?"

"Speaking for the public, I should say sing on forever. You have gained a footing from which nothing can dislodge you. You need no other woman's reputation, and the public will easily forgive you the ruse you have put upon them; indeed they have nothing to forgive."



"THERE'S NOTHING IN IT THAT YOU MAY NOT SEE; WILL YOU READ IT?"

"I would rather you found fault with me than made it easy for me," she said, with a tremor in her voice. "There is no one else I can go to."

"I don't think you need a scolding," returned Wallie, with his kindly smile. "The past is done with. I can imagine you have had an uphill time of it in many ways. But you have gone far to rehabilitate completely Mlle. Marana's character, and I should fancy she would be very reluctant to have it known that she cannot claim the merit of the vindication. Another reason you would probably be free from vulgar annoyance, even were you to continue your present disguise, but in your own name and with the outside protection which it would enable you to command you would be perfectly secure. However, I shan't pretend to advise you, Mademoiselle—Miss Randolph. In the first place I am an interested party—I want you to go on singing, for my own benefit; and, furthermore, I cannot tell how far the pleasures of the profession may seem to you to outweigh the drawbacks—or vice versa."

"It's the only thing I'm good for—that's all," said she, looking up at him.

"I wonder what Geoffrey would say to that?" thought Wallie. "By Jove! it's outrageous what fools these boys and girls will be. They will—they seem to like it! Well, then, they deserve to have their little miseries, don't they? Of course they do! I wish I were"—he checked himself and dropped his eyes, which had dwelt too long upon her loveliness. "Come, come," he said to himself severely, "this will never do. Attend to your business, old two-and-forty, and pay proper reverence to your daughter!"

He got up and said aloud:

"Miss Randolph, I'm going to ask you a great favor. I'm an old man, as I needn't tell you, and I am a slave to my habits. Would you permit me to smoke a cigarette? What small wits I have go hopelessly wool gathering if I don't keep them together with a little tobacco."

Miss Randolph smiled.

"My father always smoked," said she. "It would make me feel at home."

"Dear me!" thought Wallie ruefully. "She might have let me off as an elder brother! But she takes me at my own valuation—bless her heart! Now let us see what can be done."

He lit his cigarette, and sent the smoke curling through his nose. "Art is certainly a great resource," he observed, "and a noble one. It has been said, and it may be true, that it admits of no rivals. If one's affections are unoccupied—one's human affections, I mean—and are likely to remain so, I dare say one could not do better than to devote one's self wholly to art. You feel, you say, that there is nothing else you could possibly prefer to it; that you were made for music and for nothing else?"

"Nothing else!" she repeated in a husky voice, feeling as if, with those words, she had surrendered her last secret hope of happiness.

BRANTFORD, April 14.—The name of W. S. Campbell, county treasurer, has been added to the list of applicants for the vacant shrievalty. A BAD HUMOR CURED.

$5,000 Expended on Doctors and Medicine Without Avail. Gave Himself up to Die.

Good Wife Suggests Cuticura Remedies. Uses them 7 Months, and is entirely Cured.

I was in the war during 1863-64, and took a heavy cold at Gettysburg, from which I never fully recovered. In 1875 I broke out in sores all over my chest and shoulder, which seemed impossible to cure. I tried all the famed doctors I could find, and to no avail. I expended some five thousand dollars trying to find a cure, but could not, and finally giving myself up to die, my good wife suggested to me, one day, to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES which were so extensively advertised and used. I followed her suggestion, and am happy to say by diligent application of your CUTICURA REMEDIES for seven months I was entirely cured, after spending five years of time and money without avail, and am a sound and well man to-day. You may refer to me if you wish, as I will tell any one who may call on me my experience.

ATTRACTIONS IN DRY GOODS At TURNBULL'S.

The change in the weather has brought with it a great demand for millinery; also for spring shades in dress goods. Our store was never more attractive in these lines than at present. We have every New Shade of Dress Goods in Stock, with Millinery to match. If you are in town this week have a look at our Gray Dress Goods and Millinery window. Large Gray Checks for young people made up alone or mixed with Black, Small Black and White Checks and Stripes. Broken patterns for older people, goods that are hard to find in Neat Patterns. We justly claim to take the lead in our Tailoring department for Quality of Goods, Fit and Price. We get up a Splendid Suit in Halifax Tweed or Navy Serge for $12.00. Fine grades of Almento and other makes of Tweed for $13.00, $14.00, $15.00 and $16.00; Scotch Tweeds and Serges from $16.00 to $20.00 for the best. Fine All Wool Worsted, Venetian Finish or Diagonal Cords for Coat and Vest, with Black or Fancy Panting to match, at from $19.00 to $22.00 a suit. Remember our prices. Call and see our Stock and do not go and pay a great deal higher figure through force of habit. We have added this week to our already Attractive Stock of Boys' Clothing another shipment just turned out of the manufacturer's hands, Neat and New Styles. We have shown an Immense Range of Patterns in Cottonades and Shirtings in the Best Quality; we also keep all the lower lines, beginning at 5c. a yard for Shirtings and 12½c. for Cottonades.

TRAINS TIED UP.

A Strike on the Montreal & Sorel Branch of the Great Eastern.

MONTREAL, April 15.—The Montreal & Sorel Railway is tied up, the men having all quit work yesterday, broke into the engine-house at Sorel and took possession of the only two locomotives not undergoing repairs. Five of the ringleaders have been arrested. The men claim the strike is due to arrearages in wages, while the directors say it is an attempt to "steal the road" under a recent judgment.

That Protest Against Dr. Rainsford.

NEW YORK, April 15.—The public announcement of the protest against the policy of the Rev. Dr. W. S. Rainsford of St. George's did not create a particular sensation in Episcopalian circles yesterday, especially as it was well known that Dr. Rainsford would refuse to take cognizance of the matter until after Bishop Potter had considered it. The protest simply outlined the views against the liberal action of Dr. Rainsford in allowing speakers of other denominations to occupy their pulpits during the Lenten period. It is considered, however, that neither the Bishop nor the Episcopacy of the diocese is likely to remove from the ministry such an acknowledged light as Dr. Rainsford.

Insane From Religion.

BRANTFORD, April 15.—Solomon Moss, arrested on a charge of insanity, is in the county jail awaiting the development of his case. He continues to be religious, preaching all the time. He imagines that he owns the city of Stratford and desires to make some real estate deals. Moss is a Plymouth brother. His insanity developed very suddenly the other day while at work, and he began preaching.

Not a Bride, but a Corpse.

VOLUNTOWN, Conn., April 15.—Miss May Dixon, instead of being a happy bride, is a corpse. Frank Sherman, whom she was to have wed last Tuesday, is a maniac. Miss Dixon was but 23 years old, and her wedding was postponed by the death of her niece, which preceded her own but three days. Her lover could not stand the shock.

A Laceration Requiring $330 Balm.

QUEBEC, April 15.—Mr. Guillaume Belanger of St. Raphael has brought action for breach of promise of marriage against Dame Ursule Carrier of St. Heart. The plaintiff places the money value of his lacerated feelings at $331.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

THE FIRST DIVISION OF THE SESSION.

It Arose on the Question of Fees as Salaries—The Government Has a Majority of 21—Mr. Mowat Says Payment by Fees is Found More Advantageous than Salaries Would Be.

TORONTO, April 16.—In the Ontario Legislature yesterday Mr. Wood of Hastings moved:

"In the opinion of this House the system of paying provincial officers by fees is objectionable in principle and that the law ought to be so amended as to provide for the remuneration of sheriffs, registrars of deeds, clerks of the peace and county attorneys by salary instead of by fees, and a like change should be made in the mode of remunerating all other provincial officers now paid by fees, to whom the same could be satisfactorily applied."

Mr. Wood said in 1853 this matter was first brought to the attention of the House by the present Provincial Treasurer in a motion seconded by Mr. Thomas Murray declaring "that the system of remunerating sheriffs by fees is undesirable and unjust and that it would be in the public interest to substitute therefor a system of payment by salary." The motion was withdrawn after a discussion in which the Attorney-General intimated some change would be made. Nothing has ever been done. On the contrary the abuse has increased with the increase of population and business. The Government has abandoned the system in other offices. The official guardian of infants, Mr. Hoskin, formerly received as much as $20,000 a year in fees. He was given instead a salary of $5000 and he did the work equally well. Then, in the case of nine local masters, salaries varying from $650 to $3300 were substituted for fees, the salaries being arranged in proportion to the work done. If changes in these offices worked well they would in the offices mentioned in the resolution also. The Dominion pays postmasters and customs officers by salaries. Certain municipal officers, notably treasurers, were once paid by fees, but the system was changed with advantage. The principles upon which officials should be paid were:

1. That the salary should be ample for the work done.

2. That there should be no distinction of salary except as regards difference of work.

3. That previous social and political records should have no influence on the salary paid them.

4. That only capable men should be employed.

Turning to the actual results, Mr. Wood showed that in Muskoka, Dufferin, Thunder Bay, Prince Edward, Lennox, Prescott and Russell, Renfrew and Perth the average income of county attorney and clerk of the peace, both offices being held by one man, was $730. In eight other districts it was $1254. In eight others it was $2120. In York, Wellington, Wentworth, Bruce, Elgin, Middlesex and Lambton the average income was over $3900. There was the anomaly that in Leeds and Grenville one person held the offices of attorney, clerk of the peace, local master and deputy-registrar for $1367, while another in Essex holds the same offices for $2364, or nearly double, while in Algoma the fees for attorney and clerk of the peace amounted to $637, which was supplemented by a grant of $900.

The average income of 43 sheriffs was $3000, which was fair and not too large. But the sheriffs of eight districts averaged $1055 each, while the sheriffs of Toronto, York, Carleton, Leeds and Grenville, Simcoe, Elgin, London and Essex averaged $4000. The sheriff of Toronto received $361 more than the united incomes of the sheriffs of Dufferin, Lanark, Lennox and Addington, Ontario, Peel, Muskoka, Halton and Prince Edward.

The registrars of 63 divisions averaged $1610 each, to which must be added the sum paid to deputy registrars for work which should have been done by the registrar. The average net receipts of eight registrars were $1013. The average net receipts of Toronto, two offices, Lambton, Simcoe, Middlesex, York, Huron and Oxford was $5941. Or, eight offices average nearly $6000 over and above expenses and eight others average a little over $1000. Giving each Toronto office $6757, or one-half of the total received in both, each of the registrars received $548 more than the total net receipts of Durham East, Kingston, Glengarry, Lanark North, Northumberland West, Grenville, Parry Sound and Perth South.

Inquiry shows that many of these officials are seldom in their offices, leaving their work to be done by underpaid subordinates. If a change were made from fee to salary the result would be: 1, That the public would be better served; 2, that greater care would be exercised in matters of detail, because underpaid men now do the main part of the work; 3, that the men actually doing the work would get the pay; 4, that corrupt practices and excessive fees would be avoided; 5, that the work would be done in the interest of the public and not of the individual. As an example of abuses Mr. Wood said that in one county not far from his own the former county attorney got about $1000. His successor "worked up" the fees to $22,000 by forced interpretations of the law.

Mr. Wood believed that he had shown that the system was objectionable in principle, that there was a general demand for change, that it resulted in unjust inequalities of payment for the same services, and the payment of some officials for no services, that the remedy was to substitute a salary in proportion to the work done.

Mr. Mowat in reply said that a large part of the feeling throughout the country was due to exaggerated reports of the amounts of the fees. The fees actually received varied greatly from those published in newspapers. He was not prepared to say that the country would go to destruction if salaries were substituted for fees. At the same time the Government had studied the question and come to a conclusion the reverse of the motion—that the fee system was not inferior but preferable on the whole to the salary system. The motion referred to the principle of the payment and not to the incomes derived, which were entirely different things. Salaries or fees might be so regulated that the results would be the same. But the principle of the fee system is better in almost every way if the income is not too large. The fee system is the better because the reward is in proportion to the work done and the responsibility involved. It is a virtue in the fee system that there is a disparity between the incomes in different offices because the occupant of a small office should not get as much as one in a large office. There is no way to apportion responsibility and receipts so well as by the fee system. To give all officials the same salary would be indefensible and therefore the Government is opposed to it. If there are abuses it is the duty of the inspector to look after them. One registrar was removed because he insisted on overcharging. But such cases are rare. The money question influenced the press, which was not well informed. An officer paid by salary will apply himself to his office work only during office hours, whereas an official paid by fees often will work until 12 o'clock at night. This is a great advantage, because if work is required to be done the official is willing.

There is a misapprehension as to the result of a change. It has been said there would be a gain to the Province. Enquiries which he had made showed there would be a large reduction in fees and an increase in disbursements by the Province if there were a change. It was beyond doubt or dispute that the change asked would not result to the advantage of the country. He knew officially two facts illustrating this. Mr. Hoskin occupied a peculiar position, being largely a judicial adviser of the court. There was no corresponding office in England. For these reasons he was paid by salary and not by fees.

The newspaper which first gave rise to this discussion suggested $3000 as the maximum. But few officials have more. As for the sheriff of Toronto, he would not speak of the present officer. But the net income of the sheriff in 1883 was $3610, in 1884, $9705; in 1885, $8761, and in 1886 $9570. He never heard any complaint about that. The real estate increased the business of the registrar. The business fell off when the boom slackened. The fees of the registrar for the first quarter of this year were one-half of those for the first quarter of last year.

Financial institutions paid larger salaries. The cashiers of the Bank of Toronto and of the Bank of Commerce received each $15,000, the cashier of the Standard $12,000, of the Dominion $11,000, of the Ontario and Canada Permanent $10,000, the managers of the G.N.W. and of the Consumers' Gas Company $8000 each, of the Confederation Life $7000, and so on.

The conclusion of the Government was that the fee system was the better, that salaries were inapplicable to the office of sheriff, that where the fees of sheriffs were too high the excess should be taxed just as the gross earnings of the registrar now are. The Government had no scheme now but might have a measure next session.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Clancy, Baxter, White, Mackenzie C., Campbell, A. F., Awrey, Godwin, Bishop and Miscampbell.

Mr. Davis found fault with the last clause of the resolution, "where the change could be satisfactorily applied," which was too vague. He moved in amendment:

1. That remunerating sheriffs, registrars, clerks of the peace and county attorneys by fees is, in the public interest, preferable to a system of payment by salary;

2. That placing these officers on salaries would result in a general increase of the expenses and cost of carrying on the necessary business of these offices:

3. That it is very probable that the salaries to be paid to such officers and their necessary assistants would considerably exceed the total fees received, and by reason thereof the province would in most, if not all, cases be burdened with an increase of expenditure;

4. That as to registrars the result of such a change, if made, would in some instances wipe out and in others greatly reduce the amounts which under the present system are payable to counties out of the fees received in registry offices;

5. That as to sheriffs the system of payment by salary could not well be adopted, and, if adopted, the work of these offices generally would be apt to be less diligently performed, and thereby interests not alone of the general public, but of suitors, litigants and judgment creditors and others, would suffer and be greatly prejudiced;

6. That, having regard to the public interests and of persons having to transact business in or through the offices of clerks of the peace and county attorneys, the result would probably be the same as in respect of the business to be transacted in sheriffs' offices in a somewhat less degree;

7. That, having heard the assurance given that the Attorney-General proposes before next session to make special enquiry as to the remuneration at present actually received by such officers respectively and as to such other matters as would enable the Government to fairly and fully consider in what degree and with respect to what offices (if any) the said remuneration might be reduced, further consideration of the question during the present session is unnecessary.

Mr. Meredith regretted that the debate had assumed a party aspect. The amendment was simply for the purpose of placing a buffer between the followers of the Government and public opinion. He took the ground that the principle of the motion was sound in theory and practice and had often been assented to by the House at the instance of the Attorney-General. Within two years a separate office has been established in Toronto for the purpose of giving a place to a follower of the Government. The fee system involves putting in the hands of officials the temptation to exceed the legal fees. In order to have a square vote on the principle involved he moved in amendment to the amendment that:

Salaries should always be regulated according to the duties, responsibilities and work of the office.

Mr. Mowat said the debate showed that the fee system was the better one and the only one by which payment could be made proportionate to responsibility involved and work done. The suggestion of payment according to instruments registered, made by Mr. Meredith, was nothing but the fee system.

After short speeches by Mr. Whitney and Mr. Tait, the vote was taken at 12.40 on the Meredith amendment, which was lost on this division:

THE TURKS COERCED BY A RUSSIAN OFFICER

And a Russian War Vessel Allowed to Pass Through the Dardanelles—Doubts as to Whether Bismarck Has Been Elected to the Reichstag.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 15.—A Russian warship belonging to the volunteer fleet, fitted out by popular subscription, has been stopped by the Turkish authorities at the Dardanelles. The Russian vessel was proceeding through that passage on her way to Vladivostock. She was loaded with rail road material and had as passengers a large number of "military workmen," according to the term used by Russians who are detailed to construct the trans-Siberian railroad, which will make Vladivostock one of the most valuable ports in Russia. The officer in command of the Russian ship upon being brought beneath the guns of the forts of the Dardanelles immediately appealed to the Russian ambassador at Constantinople, Nelidoff, who entered the strongest protest possible with the Turkish officials of this city. Nelidoff claimed that the action of the Turkish officers at the Dardanelles was an indirect and flagrant violation of the terms of the commercial treaties existing between Russia and Turkey. After a considerable interchange of views the Porte concluded it would be inadvisable to detain the warship and she was allowed to proceed. The action of the Turkish authorities in stopping the warship is taken on the ground of the treaty of 1841, concluded by the five great powers and Turkey, by which it was decided that no ship of war belonging to any nation save Turkey should pass the Dardanelles without the express consent of Turkey, all merchant ships being also required to show their papers to the Ottoman authorities.

The Turks have almost entirely neglected the Black Sea approaches to Constantinople and that on the other hand the straits of the Dardanelles are being steadily fortified with heavy guns, which would be of use against any power but Russia. The correspondent adds that the autumn of the year will see concentrated on Russia's southwest frontier a Russian army sufficiently powerful to meet any eventuality which may possibly startle Europe from its present pacific slumber.

Bismarck's Election in Doubt.

BERLIN, April 15.—The polling at Geestemunde to-day for a member of the Reichstag was active throughout the 74 districts forming that constituency. A large number of votes were cast. The result will not be known before to-morrow evening at the earliest. The Socialists and members of the Freisinnige party are hopeful that Premier Bismarck will not be returned without a second ballot.

Partial returns indicate that a supplementary ballot will be necessary between Bismarck and Schmalfeld (Socialist).

Parnell's "National Cavalry."

DUBLIN, April 15.—It is expected that Mr. Parnell's meeting at Irishtown next Sunday will be the most imposing demonstration of his strength yet made. A striking feature of the occasion will be the presence of several thousand horsemen calling themselves the National Cavalry. Mr. Parnell encourages the formation of such semi-military organizations, and seldom fails in the course of his shrewd addresses to drop a veiled hint as to their possible future usefulness.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

HIGH SCHOOLS.

THE complaint has been made that in the management of educational affairs in Ontario the public schools have to some extent been sacrificed to the high schools, in the attention given to them and in the aid afforded from the Provincial treasury. The figures quoted showing the distribution of the funds largely bear out this complaint, while there can be no doubt whatever that the attention of the Department has been devoted almost entirely to the higher forms of education, and that is not the only trouble, for the action of the Department has not been entirely beneficial with reference to the high schools. There is a feeling in Ontario, and one so strong that it cannot be ignored, in opposition to the expenditure of money on the high schools, and this feeling is largely owing to the obstinacy and want of judgment of the powers that be at Toronto. The per capita aid given to the high is greater than that given to the public schools. People might allow that to pass without comment, as the higher forms of education are necessarily more expensive, but when in addition to that the Government forces communities to incur large expenditures for high school purposes, whether they desire to or not, it is too natural that a feeling of resentment should be aroused and that it should be turned towards the schools themselves. The manner in which the increased expenditures are forced upon the municipalities is in itself irritating. Peterborough has had experience in that matter. Several years ago the Department pointed out changes that it insisted must be made in the Collegiate Institute building here. The changes were made and the Board thought it had satisfied the Government. In a very short time, however, the Department found further cause for complaint and a bill of particulars was sent to the Board to be complied with or the Institute grant would be cut down. The eagle eye of the Department had roamed over everything, from the building and its surroundings down to hat pegs and door mats, and the demands made were numerous. Again the Board went to work, with the bill of particulars, and expended a considerable sum in alterations and improvements, and the grant came on. But once more the Government comes forward with demands, and the Board is again threatened if the changes demanded are not made. This treatment, to say the least of it, is exasperating, and it is owing to such methods of the Government that the feeling against high schools exists. It is regrettable that such a feeling does exist at all. These schools are a great benefit to the country and a necessary part of our educational system. The few who would cut off public aid from such schools on the ground that they are maintained for the benefit of the richer people make, we cannot but think, a huge mistake. It is as true to-day as it has been in years gone by that education is power, and if the educational system were changed, and no aid given further than to the public schools, only the rich could get beyond those schools, and the consequence would be that an educated class would be established, and that class would largely be the governing class. Our educational system prevents such an outcome, for by it young men with energy and perseverance can and do pass through the higher educational institutions entirely through their own efforts supplemented by the general aid given to the schools. It would be a sad misfortune if the time should come when this great boon, which is of great benefit to the country as a whole, should be taken away. The Government, however, would do well to restrain the bureaucratic spirit which controls it at present and cease to act the part of a school master holding a whip over trustees as if they were young pupils subject to its caprices and its lash.

Hood's Sarsaparilla has the largest sale of any medicine before the public. Any honest druggist will confirm this statement.

$7,000 WANTED.

The First Appeal for the Y.M.C.A. Building Fund—The Site Purchased.

This lot, 66x104 feet, has been secured by the Peterborough Young Men's Christian Association for the erection thereon of a building to contain reading room, parlors, lecture room, gymnasium, baths, etc. The proposed building with these necessary modern appliances will cost $22,000, towards which $15,000 of Mrs. Nicholls' legacy will be contributed and as soon as the balance, $7,000, can be raised by the friends of the Association the contract will be let. During the few weeks before a general appeal is made donations will be thankfully received by

G. J. EARLY,
Pres. Y.M.C.A.

The above notice which stands out in large letters on a sign which has been planted on the lot at the south-west corner of Murray and George-sts. explains very fully the position of affairs in regard to the proposed new Y.M.C.A. building. The fund required as stated is $22,000, of which $7,000 is yet to be raised. To raise this balance will be the effort of the next few weeks and it is hopefully expected that the citizens will aid the Association in their attempt to erect a building which will furnish suitable accommodation and by so doing help forward the work of the organization in an immense degree.

At Kingston the Association is making an effort to raise funds for a building and they are meeting with much success. The general verdict all over has been that the possession of a proper building has been the means in some cases of doubling, trebling and in all cases vastly increasing the membership of Associations and thereby, of course, increasing its usefulness and power for good.

Let the Peterborough Association have a handsome and suitable building now that the fund has received such a handsome start. Mr. Blackwell, architect, is working on the plans and a description of the building will be given the public shortly.

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that the people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick-headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It sell at 50c and $1 a package and is called Lane's Family Medicine.

SECRETARY FOSTER TALKS.

Why the Bonding Privileges of Canadian Roads Are to Be Withdrawn—Examination at the Frontier.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—In regard to the proposed new regulations governing the shipment of goods to points in the United States brought to the border by Canadian railways Secretary Foster said:

"We have settled the question of the manner in which we will treat goods coming in bond on Canadian roads. They must be treated in the same way as goods arriving from abroad at the port of New York. At present such goods are brought across the border under consular seal and are forwarded to their destination, where they are examined for the first time.

"While the volume of business was small it did not much matter, but now that it has become large this system has become a farce, as far as offering any safeguard against fraud. What examination is made is done by railroad officials, the manifest is approved and the goods come across the frontier without proper inspection by customs officials. It is alleged that large frauds have been perpetrated under the consular seal system.

"New regulations are being prepared and the manner of treating goods crossing the border will be materially modified, so that there may be proper protection against frauds on the revenue."

It is thought that the changes in the regulations will deprive the Canadian railroads of some of the advantages they have heretofore enjoyed, and that they will inure to the benefit of the American trunk lines.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Secretary Foster, speaking to-day of the status of the Canadian Pacific-New York-Central sealed freight transit question, said: The principle has been definitely agreed upon to restrict the present policy of the department which permits the Canadian railway to carry goods sealed in bond across the continent into our territory, for shipment from our ports to other countries. The goods which come to our frontier from Canada will therefore be treated precisely as if they had arrived at the port of New York. In other words, the policy will be to prohibit transportation of goods in bond across our territory. In adopting this policy there is no purpose to attack any particular railway or system of railway, but merely to protect our own revenue system against possible frauds and irregularities. It will probably take about two weeks to arrange the details and put the new policy into effect.

Extensive Preparations for Hostilities.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 15.—In spite of the peaceful utterings of Government officials in Europe and Russia everybody knows Russia is making extensive preparations for war and that her rivals are making greater preparations for the struggle, which must sooner or later take place. Russia has been spending enormous sums in the construction of strategic railways, and in this and other ways the arrangements for the transportation of large bodies of Russian troops to the Austro-German frontier.

Joyous Spring Time.

Spring time! What gladness and cheer in the words! We look around us and see nature changing and putting on a new garb. The grass is showing up in a lovely green, the trees are budding, the feathered songsters are hovering around us and flitting from tree to tree, pouring forth their musical welcome. The farmer is clearing his ground and putting things in order for a more bountiful harvest than last year's. Even the beasts of the field seem to be glad and rejoice at the coming of spring. Spring time, from a sanitary point of view, should be an important season to every man and woman in Canada. We should now seriously consider the state of our health. It is our duty to cast off all the impurities which the system has received during the winter season. From the impurities which the blood has received many suffer from nervousness, headaches and dizziness; the brain is clouded and wearied, and the whole body feels used up and tired. Dyspepsia is laying its hand heavily on many: At this season all should seek that fountain of health—that great brain and nerve food, Paine's Celery Compound. It is the only reliable and effectual remedy for the toning and bracing up of the nervous system; it builds up the body and strengthens the whole digestive organism. It gives new life, vim and energy to resist the enervating effects of a hot and sickly summer, and enables all to avoide disease and contagion.

FATAL RIOTS IN POSEN.

MILITARY RESERVES AND POLICE IN CONFLICT.

Three of the Reserves and a Large Number of the Combatants Wounded, Several Fatally—A Rigid Investigation to be Made Into the Cause of the Disturbance.

LONDON, April 16.—A terrible riot is reported at Bulain, Posen, between the military reserves and the police. The trouble appears to have originated in [illegible] on the part of the police toward the military. The latter resented, and a bloody fight followed, both police and soldiers using their weapons freely. The police got the best of the struggle, and three of the reserve men were killed and many seriously wounded.

A military investigation is being held as to the cause of the outbreak, and in the meantime all the soldiers and several of the policemen who took part are under guard. The trouble is believed to have its origin in the growing impatience of the populace, especially in Posen, which is not a German province, with the burden of military service and their consequent hatred of the police, who are looked upon as representatives of the military regime.

STRUCK MY LORD.

And the Latter Was Aghast at the Fellow's Impudence.

LONDON, April 15.—In Ireland the farmers are up in arms against fox-hunting squires and peers. The young Earl of Huntingdon, a captain in the Prince of Wales Regiment, was dashing to-day across Farmer Murphy's meadow after a fox and a pack of hounds, when the farmer unexpectedly appeared and seized the Earl's horse by the bridle. The Earl, who traces his ancestry to a steward of the Conqueror, was aghast at such a liberty on the part of a plebeian, and raising his whip struck a blow at the farmer. Murphy held the horse with one powerful arm, while with the other he struck and nearly dismounted the Earl.

Influenza Abroad.

LONDON, April 15.—The reappearance of influenza in the North of England, where it appeared in 1889 before anywhere else in England during that year, causes great apprehensions of a serious epidemic. In addition to the fact that influenza is already prevailing in an epidemic form in Sheffield, as already noted, the disease is also prevalent throughout Yorkshire and has reappeared suddenly at Hull, where the death rate has doubled during the last fortnight. In the Driffield district, 20 miles from Hull, nearly everybody is affected more or less with influenza and work has practically been suspended everywhere. There have been many deaths in the district from the disease there.

In Lincolnshire also the reports show that there is a general renewal of the influenza epidemic, and several other counties make similar reports.

In London there are many cases of influenza, but it cannot be said to have reached an epidemic stage in this city.

England Interferes in Chili.

LONDON, April 15.—The Marquis of Salisbury has sent a cable despatch to the British Minister at Santiago de Chili and another to the British admiral, Rear Admiral C. F. Hotham, C.B., in command of the Pacific station. In these despatches the British Premier says that the closing of the nitrate ports of Chili by order of President Balmaceda is ultra vires, in so much that the blockade of these ports had not been officially declared. Lord Salisbury has also notified the British shipowners who are interested in the trade with Chili that the British admiral in Chilian waters will protect their interests, and that England does not recognize the double exaction of duties now collected by the Chilian Congress party and by President Balmaceda's adherents. But the Marquis of Salisbury adds that he advises the British merchants to pay the double duty in order to avoid trouble and to do so under protest.

CASH HARDWARE STORE.

On and after 1st April we shall do business on a Cash Basis.

To cover the inevitable losses attendant upon a credit business, which accrue from amount of time spent in keeping accounts, collecting, bad debts, interest account, and in numerous other ways, larger margins of profit must be asked.

In these times cash buyers ask, expect and are entitled to close prices. A careful consideration of the subject convinces us that the time has come for a cash business done on smaller profits.

The only customers who may be put to inconvenience are those who have had long credit. In more ways than one it will be to their advantage to pay cash.

For convenience of our old customers who consider their accounts due when presented, we will call 30 days cash and render all accounts the first of each month, and we wish to say that we will be happy to do business with them on these terms.

As the new departure is something of an experiment, what would be considered a close cash price will be made all through the stock. Not a few leaders only, but a general reduction in everything from the fourth flat to the cellar.

Our idea is to perform more than promised rather than promise more than can be fulfilled.

Our stock is large and varied, consisting of Builders', Contractors', Household, Mechanics', Painters', Shoemakers', Farm, Mill, Factory, Lumbermen's, Sporting, Threshers', Cabinetmakers', and other lines of Hardware.

THURSDAY, APRIL 16, 1891.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

A Drunk Discharged.

Charles Wren, the deformed shoemaker, was locked up last night drunk. At the police court this morning after pleading hard and saying he had drank his last glass he was allowed to go by the magistrate.

Many people who pride themselves on their blue blood would be far happier with pure blood; but, while we cannot choose ancestors, fortunately, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, we can transmit pure blood to our posterity.

Masonic.

The Companions of Corinthian Royal Arch Chapter of Peterborough are looking forward with pleasure to a fraternal visit to be paid on April 21st, by the Ex. Z. of St. Paul's Chapter, No. 65, of Toronto, accompanied by a large number of Officers and Companions. The local members have in hand details of the reception and intend that the event shall be not only a pleasant one, but of special interest to the Craft.

Drunk and Moneyless.

Edward Flowes, a decidedly respectable and intelligent looking man well up in years, was in the prisoner's box this morning at the Police Court. He was charged with being a vagrant. He acknowledged that he had no money, no work or any place of abode but wanted to get out of town. He has respectable relatives living in Cobourg and the Magistrate allowed him to go.

Will be Here Again.

Mr. Thos. Dunn has received a letter from the manager of the Boston Symphony Club offering Peterborough another date in their next season's list. The musical treat which was enjoyed when this talented organization visited Peterborough last year was such that all lovers of music will receive with acclamations of pleasure this announcement when they learn that Mr. Dunn will accept the offer and bring the gifted musicians here again. The date will be in the latter end of October or early in November.

Canadian Flour in Sweden.

Mr. C. E. Sontum, the Christiania, Sweden, correspondent of The Canadian Grocer, writes:—"I would be much obliged to you if you would put us in connection with one of the largest millers in Canada. The mills in Minneapolis, U. S., are represented here and their agents are selling large quantities of wheat flour. If a Canadian miller would send us samples we could soon inform them if they could compete." C. E. Sontum & Co. now represent the Canada Meat Packing Co., Johnston's Fluid Beef and Walker & Co.'s whiskeys all Canadian firms.

A Wedding at Campbellford.

The Campbellford Herald has the following hymeneal, the bride being a sister of Mr. S. R. Armstrong, of the REVIEW:—"Two more young persons of Campbellford plighted themselves under the solemn obligation of marriage yesterday, April 15th, the crowning event of their lives having taken place at the residence of the bride's parents. The contracting parties were Mr. Howard Denike, eldest son of Rev. R. R. Denike, and Victoria, eldest daughter of Mr. W. W. Armstrong, Reeve of Campbellford. The interesting ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock in the morning, by the Rev. Jas. Anderson, pastor of the Methodist church, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Denike. The bridesmaid was Miss Dell Denike, while Mr. Fred Wood, druggist, served in the capacity of groomsman. Only the relatives of the two families were present at the wedding, and only a few printed invitations, on which appeared "No presents," were issued. Soon after congratulations were given, the united couple were driven to the station and took their departure for Trenton, their future home, Mr. Denike having secured the agency of the Sun Life Insurance Company for that town and locality. That "showers of blessings" may crown their lives is the wish of friends."

MANY PRACTICAL POINTS

ON THE TEACHING OF POETICAL LITERATURE.

An Able Paper by Mr. J. Jeffries, of the Collegiate Institute—Published at the Request of the Teachers Association.

The following paper is one written by Mr. J. Jeffries, of the Collegiate Institute staff, and read by him before the teachers Association here on Saturday last. So much excellent matter had been the result of his thought on his subject, "Poetical Literature," that a resolution was passed by the teachers of the Association requesting that the paper be published so as to allow all to peruse it at leisure and fully reap the benefit of its many helpful points so clearly and cleverly laid down. The paper is therefore published. By way of explanation it might be stated that in giving the latter part of the paper, viz., the plan for teaching the subject, Mr. Jeffries illustrated his plan by a selection from the poet Bryant.

The paper as read was as follows:—

Perhaps no subject placed upon our curricula requires greater tact or more painstaking effort on the part of the teacher than that of Poetical Literature. He has to overcome the difficulty of arousing interest in the study of a subject that to beginners possesses at first but little attraction. In fact, to that class and to all others who have not yet formed literary habits, it is quite distasteful. This seems to be due to two reasons. They find difficulty in grasping the meaning, owing to the peculiarities of poetic diction. But a stronger reason seems to be their failure to understand the leading traits of the poetic nature, the particular sphere in which the poet labors, the special gift he brings to bear upon the material he selects, the aim he has in view and the function he performs in human society.

Now the question arises as to how far these peculiarities may be simplified and made intelligible to pupils, and the difficulties connected with them thereby removed. We shall consider for a moment, first, how poetic diction diverges from the common usage of prose. The poet, in his endeavor to make his utterances more effective, takes the liberty of condensing and abbreviating, because poetry is naturally opposed to lengthiness. He cuts out conjunctions, adverbs and relatives, which, while they serve the useful function of connecting the important points, have a tendency to impede progress. He also shortens the form of many words and frequently resorts to word-compounding. He employs forms older than current use, words that are no longer employed in ordinary discourse and shuns, to a large extent, the language of common life. This is because language, unsullied by every-day associations, is more congenial to the elevated region in which poetry moves. In addition to these characteristics, and for similar reasons, the structure is made unnatural by frequent inversions. Now, if a child is led to learn that these numerous peculiarities may be brought together under two or three classes, and if he is made to understand the reason why they are resorted to, they will sooner or later grow to be a charm—a source of pleasure, instead of vexation and pain.

But this difficulty will be more readily solved by turning our attention to the several other points.

1. How does the poet, as a man, differ from other men? This difference is the very foundation of the appreciation of a poet's efforts. Make the pupil understand that the poetic nature is rooted in the heart, not in the head. Direct his attention to the fact, as the poem you are reading will prove, that his heart is larger, more open to impressions, more easily touched than that of his fellows, and that what he feels he feels more intensely than they. This is the reason why he takes a lively interest in many things others would pass unnoticed, and why he draws lessons from what others deem quite trivial. In dealing with feelings let there be drawn the distinction between emotions and sensations—between feelings aroused by an impression made upon the heart, and those aroused by an impression made upon the senses. A child may be easily led to see that a poet has not only a large heart with which to feel, but an eye, and an ear, and even a palate and a nose, for all that is beautiful, melodious and sweet about him. He will soon learn that the sensations play no unimportant part in the delight of a poet and in the interest of the reader.

We now naturally come to the second question, the sphere in which he works. From what has been said it would follow that any fact, truth or object that his soul comes vividly in contact with, and takes home to itself with intensity, will arouse in him a thrill, the expression of which is poetry. His material is adapted to his nature, and though apparently limited, yet covers a wide range of existence.

Third.—What is the special gift with which he works? The pupil will soon discover that the poet possesses a mental organ, which he uses to great advantage and which is quite distinct from mere understanding. This is imagination. He will see that matter of fact is heightened; that statements are made which do not correspond with the dictates of reason; that facts are not stated nor scenes described as they literally occurred or existed; that out of a mass of incongruous materials many things irrelevant to the purpose are dropped, and those selected are combined into a harmonious whole; that what is intellectual is given a tangible shape, and what is spiritual is given a visible body; and that to many ordinary things a higher meaning is given than mere understanding would dream of.

In these processes, we have mentioned those three attributes which assign to poetry, in some measure, its boundaries, and give to the reader so much pleasure, namely, concreteness, ideality and harmony.

Lastly, what are his aim and function? There is no doubt that a considerable portion of poetry is spontaneous in which case a conscious purpose is scarcely present. When strongly and deeply inspired he is wholly absorbed in his subject, and the desire to give due impression to what he feels is a sufficient motive. But when he does reflect as to the effect of his work, he no doubt aims at appealing to and developing the higher side of human nature, at ennobling men, and at affording them the most refined, the highest type of pleasure. The instrument the poet uses in attaining this end is language. One other step remains, therefore, in the view of poetry. That is the power language itself possesses as an instrument of emotion and pleasure. This phase of poetry may be made both interesting and easily intelligible, for children have a natural ear for the melody of verse. It is the duty of the teachers to indicate how this melody is attained, which will involve the treatment of rhyme, rhythm, alliteration, the avoidance of harsh and displeasing words, and the disposition of sounds in combination so as to produce the highest attainable melody. Lastly, we shall notice one of the most pleasurable artistic effects to be found in a poem—that of harmony. The crowning work of the poet is the adaptation of sound to meaning, to a limited degree in individual words, to a higher degree in the movement of the metre and the sequence of sounds. Ideas may be more clearly conveyed, impressions made more vivid and lasting, and the æsthetic pleasure enhanced by making the sound echo the sense.

The following outline might be taken as a plan of teaching a lyrical selection:—

1. Ask a series of questions based on the text, to draw from the class the contents of the poem and the circumstances connected with its composition as expressed or implied in the poem itself. Such an examination also presents to the pupil's mind the idea of a plan, and brings to his notice the relative prominence of ideas. Moreover possessing now a bird's eye view of the poem, he is able to see more quickly and clearly the full meaning, obvious or hidden, and the beauties deduced by the subsequent minute examination.

2. Deduce the subject or topic of each stanza as found in the leading thought, enlarged by amplifiers, or in the general impression made by a series of co-ordinate thoughts.

3. Then proceed to form an outline, or skeleton of the poem.

4. Now will follow a more or less minute examination of each stanza. The aim here should be to bring out all the meaning, to assist in a proper interpretation of the feeling and in an appreciation of all beauties. Lead the pupils, consciously or unconsciously, as the case may require, to consider whatever devices the poet may have employed to elevate the mind, to awaken the feeling, to vivify impressions, to aid the understanding, and to engage the fancy. This will involve some of the following lines of criticism:—(a) A discussion of the meaning and appositeness of words and phrases and of the various ways in which poetic language and arrangement diverge from those of prose. (b) The explanation or expansion of all figures of speech, and the determination of the effects produced by them. (c) A discrimination of emotional effects, such as pathos, or tender feeling—sublimity, elevation or power—humour and satire—fervor, or energy. (d) A view of æsthetic effects, such as beauty of pictures to the imagination, melody, harmony. (e) A study of the arts used to produce the most pleasurable results—for example, the departure from literality by exaggeration or by the selection and omission of certain circumstances, the harmonious grouping of details, picturesqueness, imagery, the avoidance of abstract terms, etc.

These modes of criticism, although laid out separately are, of course, not all separate classes of things. In some measure, they are the same things looked at from different points of view. But the repetition is useful in so far as it varies the manner of approaching a point to suit various occasions.

5. The stanza might now be taken as an exercise in oral reading, the aim being a precise expression of the thought and sentiment. At this stage the metrical structure might also be considered.

6. After this examination a critical estimate of the poem should be made, and the author's mood at the time of composing it ascertained.

Before leaving the poem the class should be required to quote it, or at least its more beautiful parts.

PETERBOROUGH'S LATEST.

Work Commenced on the Addition to the Biscuit Works—The Machinery to be Placed.

Work started to-day on the addition to the building of the Peterborough Biscuit Works which is being fitted up and enlarged for the reception of the new confectionery and biscuit firm of Reid Gilmour & Co. The addition will be pushed forward to completion with all possible speed and Mr. Reid, who is here superintending preliminary arrangements, expects to be running by the first of June.

The firm intend placing in new machinery throughout, and all of the latest and most improved make. A ten-pan reel oven will be placed in the works. This oven will have a 12-foot front, will be 17 feet deep and will stand 11 feet above the floor and 7½ feet underground. The cutting machine, mixer and other machinery will be of corresponding capacity to the oven. A 20-horse power boiler and 15-horse power engine will be placed in to supply the motive power. The oven, engine and boiler will be in the addition, while the machinery will be in the main building.

With this most improved machinery, all brand new, and a long experience in the business, the firm will undoubtedly have a successful career.

THE MEN QUIT WORK.

Some of the Men at the Carbon Works Demand an Increase in Wages and Quit.

Some dissatisfaction has arisen among the men at the Carbon works and as a result some dozen of the employees have quit work. Yesterday a demand was made for an increase in wages, but Mr. Taylor, the manager, would not entertain the question of an advance and the men therefore left the shop.

Mr. Taylor says that the company could not think of giving any increase in wages. The men he says are learning a new trade while working at the works, and during the past two weeks have made $1.00 a day and some $1.50. This he thinks is a good wage for a man learning a new trade. As to the effect of the strike, he says that the trouble is practically at an end as it will only necessitate the learning of the trade to new men. He will not meet the old hands at all.

The men on the other hand claim that they had to do an enormous amount of hard work in order to make their wages, which when they did get them were small.

The works were running to-day and the manager said new men were secured to fill the vacancies.

BURGLARS AT WORK.

They Cleverly Break a Safe, But are Poorly Rewarded.

Some time during last night the safe in the office of White's foundry was drilled and broken open, but no money was found and the only reward the midnight workmen received for their toil was a few postage stamps and postal cards.

The safe had been operated upon either by professionals or men well up in the business. A hole was drilled just at the combination and with one blow the bolts were freed and the doors swung open. It was a very clean and clever "gopher" job and was done without any noise reaching any of the residents in the vicinity. The burglars found no money in the safe, but carried away about seventy-five cents in postage stamps and a few postal cards. The papers in the safe were overhauled and left on the floor. A brace taken from the shop of the foundry had been used in drilling the safe, but the "bit" was taken away by the safe-breakers.

There is hardly any clue for the police to work on in their search for the burglars. Two men, strangers to the workmen, visited the shop shortly before six o'clock last night and some suspicion was attached to them. The police were given a description of these fellows. This morning Constable Adams accosted a man answering the description and found that the man had been at the foundry last evening, but was in search of work and by his account of himself satisfied the officer.

The Washington Mission.

The secret is out. Sir Charles Tupper did not secure reciprocity in Washington and the following letter tells why:—

"DEAR SIR,—You will see the force of our objection to reciprocity with Canada when I tell you that we feared to open our country to the excellent and cheap teas sold by Hawley Bros., of Peterborough. Our tea dealers would not allow us to do so, as their business would be cut off by that firm. Yours truly.

SPRING GARDEN SPRING,

1891. 1891.

WORK!!

Only live fish swim up stream and only live seeds will grow.

My seeds are tested so that their vitality is assured.

And when you sow them you know what you are going to reap.

It requires about the same carefulness in a seed store as it does in a druggists establishment.

A TRUTH.—Good seed is never cheap, in the way that men look upon cheapness.

My prices are as reasonable as those engaged in same business in Toronto and Montreal.

My Seed Trade is increasing every year but I want every man, woman and child that has a bit of garden, to get a part of it, at least planted with my seed.

I know they will grow and come up without the aid of a flock of chickens to bring them to the surface, provided of course you do not put them too deep and to avoid this, look for instructions in my Seed and Plant Reporter. Get one at Seed Store, corner of Brock and Water-sts.

Sick Headache

Is a complaint from which many suffer and few are entirely free. Its cause is indigestion and a sluggish liver, the cure for which is readily found in the use of Ayer's Pills.

"I have found that for sick headache, caused by a disordered condition of the stomach, Ayer's Pills are the most reliable remedy."—Samuel C. Bradburn, Worthington, Mass.

"After the use of Ayer's Pills for many years, in my practice and family, I am justified in saying that they are an excellent cathartic and liver medicine—sustaining all the claims made for them."—W. A. Westfall, M. D., V. P. Austin & N. W. Railway Co., Burnet, Texas.

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered stomach and liver. I suffered for over three years from headache, indigestion, and constipation. I had no appetite and was weak and nervous most of the time. By using three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured."—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kansas.

"I was troubled for years with indigestion, constipation, and headache. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, used in small daily doses, restored me to health. They are prompt and effective."—W. H. Strout, Meadville, Pa.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

"This will come out all right," thought Wallie to himself cheerfully; "if that ass Geoffrey were only here it might be settled on the spot." Aloud he said: "That being the case, I don't see how you could be more fortunately situated. With your circumstances, expediency and inclination all pull together. It was not so with a young friend of mine once who showed remarkable talent for the stage. She had got so far as to make her debut, with every prospect of success, when she was unlucky enough to fall in love with—and be fallen in love with by—a young gentleman of good family here, a lawyer. You will hardly believe it, Miss Randolph, you are so differently constituted in every way from her," continued Wallie, gravely; "but when she discovered that he would feel pained if she remained on the stage she actually gave up her whole career! And they were married, and she has never been heard of in a public way since. And she seems very happy too! But she could never have had the same single hearted devotion to art that you have."

"I can understand her being happy, though," said Miss Randolph, almost in a whisper. Then Wallie's heart smote him that he had played upon her. After all, what did he know about what had occurred between her and Geoffrey? There may have been a veritable tragedy instead of an ordinary lover's misunderstanding. As a matter of fact he had no suspicion of the tragi-comic mistake which was the immediate cause of their separation. He thought it probable that she had revealed her true name to him, and supposed that they had differed on the "public career" question, which he had just illustrated in his fable.

In order to give himself and her time for reflection he took up the conversation at another point. "In the event of your accepting another engagement," he said, "I suppose Inigo would be the fortunate man?"

"Nothing has been decided about that," she replied, falling with a sense of relief into the business tone. "I have been told—that is, it seems that there may be a difficulty I had not thought of—a legal trouble. This money that I have been receiving," she went on, after a pause, "has been paid, of course, to Mlle. Marana. The agreement according to which it is paid is signed by her—that is, not by me. So it seems that legally I am only her representative—her deputy, as it were, and she can, if she chooses, demand that I make over all the money to her. But of course all the money, or most of it, has been paid away for—to my father, so you see there would be trouble."

"Humph!" ejaculated Wallie, taking a pinch of his mustache between his thumb and forefinger. He meditated for a while, staring at the owl, which silently returned his gaze. "Who is your lawyer?" he inquired at length.

"I haven't any."

"Was is Inigo who"—

"No—he—I don't know whether it had occurred to him." The truth was that Hamilton Jocelyn, in requital of the injury to his feelings, had written the prima donna a letter, in which he had advanced the above suggestion; and he had further announced that it was his purpose immediately to acquaint the real Marana with the position of affairs, and to offer her his services in the event of a prosecution. It is doubtful whether he really contemplated any action of the kind, but it would not have softened the unloveliness of his present sensations could he have known that Beatrix was not in the least surprised or shocked at the position he had taken. It seemed to her quite in keeping with his character.

"She might give you some annoyance," Wallie admitted, after further consultation with the owl, "but I'm by no means sure she could obtain a verdict. I imagine she must have written to Inigo, definitely withdrawing from the engagement, and hence his substitution of you. Was that the way of it."

"Yes: and I believe she paid the forfeit."

"Then I don't think you need worry. There can at any rate be no doubt that you have done the singing, and as singing is paid nowadays, four thousand dollars a night is none too much for it."

"It was three thousand the first month, and thirty-three hundred afterward," put in the prima donna.

"Inigo certainly told me when he returned from Europe last June that he got Marana for four thousand a night," Wallie affirmed: "But probably he took advantage of your being a debutante to cut it down."

"Mr. Jocelyn—that is, I think not; I was told that I received the same that she was to have had."

"Hamilton Jocelyn? Is he mixed up in this affair?" inquired Wallie, with an air of dissatisfaction.

She had not intended to bring Jocelyn's name into the conversation, but as it has slipped out she now thought it best to say, "It was he who introduced me to Gen. Inigo, and he has been acting as my agent—paying me the money. And he said," she added, wishing to do her enemy justice, "that it was by his exertions that Gen. Inigo was persuaded to raise my salary after the first month."

Wallie threw away his cigarette and rubbed his nose. "Well," he said, presently, "I dare say Jocelyn knew what he was about. I should like to hear what he has to say in Inigo's presence. Impresarios and agents are human, and need looking after occasionally."

"What I thought was," she resumed, "that if it should turn out I had no legal right to the money, I should really have to make some more, whether I liked it or not. It would have to be made in some way, you know, and papa—and there seems to be no other way but for me to go on singing, if I can get an engagement."

"As to that," said Wallie smiling, "if I wanted to make a fortune I would turn impresario and make you my single investment. Let us assume, for argument's sake, that from the pecuniary standpoint you are perfectly free either to go on or not. Now, of course there are ways in which you might cultivate music without keeping in opera. You could sing at a church, or, when you felt in the mood, at a private or public concert. But there is something else in the profession besides the singing—there is the audience. Do you know what I mean?"

"Yes," said she, in a low voice.

"It is a magnificent stimulant," he continued. "There is no other to compare with it in the world. They say when you have once felt the delight of it nothing is so difficult as to give it up. There is nothing that you would exchange for it."

"That is not true!" said she, lifting her head. In a moment she added "But I have felt that it would be a great consolation." Wallie glanced up, and she blushed.

The Prince Willing to Testify.

LONDON, April 15.—Sir Charles Russell and Mr. Clarke, counsel for the respective parties in the Gordon-Cumming baccarat libel suit, had a conference to-day and agreed to ask the court to-morrow to fix the earliest possible date for the trial. All concerned show a desire to expedite the case. The defendants have decided not to call the Prince of Wales as a witness.

Sir William has not yet determined whether to call the Prince on his side or not. The Prince has signified his perfect willingness to testify to all the facts within his knowledge.

A Child On a Mad Cow's Horn.

SHAMOKIN, April 15.—The bright red frocks of 3-year-old Bessie Metaskie of Hickory Ridge attracted the attention of a vicious cow while the child was gathering arbutus yesterday. The beast rushed towards the child, knocked it down and then gored it with its horn. Frightened by men, the cow raised its head with Bessie impaled on one horn and ran into the underbrush. There the infuriated beast was lassoed and the bleeding little victim released from the horn. Though still alive, Bessie will die.

TO BE EXECUTED MAY 21.

WIFE-MURDERER KANE TO BE HANGED FOR HIS CRIME.

The Belleville Butcher Attempts a Defence of Insanity—McKinnon, the Goderich Fisherman, Acquitted on the Charge of Murder.

BELLEVILLE, April 16.—James Kane was to-day tried for the murder of his wife Elizabeth on March 23 last. The couple, who were both over 50 years old, had for some time lived unhappily, and after a married life of six years had separated about a week before the bloody culmination of their differences. On the day in question Kane, after inquiring the whereabouts of his wife, went to the house of her son, Alfred Skinner, in Church-street, where she was assisting in the removal of his effects, and entering at a moment when all were absent from the house stabbed his wife to the heart, being caught almost in the act by some neighbors. He admitted the deed and said he did not regret it.

For the defence it was urged that prisoner's intellect had become unsettled by an injury to his head received in a runaway accident last autumn. Several witnesses swore that Kane had changed in his demeanor since that occurrence. The jury after an absence of about an hour returned a verdict of guilty, and prisoner was sentenced to be hanged on May 21.

Did Not Kill His Wife.

GODERICH, April 16.—At the assizes today the case of Donald McKinnon, charged with murdering his wife, was taken from the jury and the prisoner acquitted on that charge, the evidence having shown that the woman herself must have inflicted the wound which caused her death. At the time of the alleged crime McKinnon attempted to commit suicide, and on this charge he was committed to jail for four months.

To Be Electrocuted Next Week.

SING SING, N.Y., April 16. — Warden Brush is preparing to electrocute murderers McElvaine and Trezza some time next week. The apparatus has been satisfactorily tested.

$250 For a Stamp.

LONDON, April 16.—Probably the rarest stamp in existence has just been sold by Mr. W. A. Palmer of 281 Strand for £250. It is an American five-cent stamp, issued at Brattleboro, Vt., in 1840.

Electric Wirelets.

Twenty thousand K. of L. employed in the Charleroi coal basin have decided to strike on May day.

There were 237 deaths in New York yesterday for the 24 hours ending at noon. This is the largest number for any one day this year. Twenty-five of these were caused by the grip.

A special from Pine Ridge states that Boss Farmer Sscoot arrived at the agency yesterday from Medicine Root bringing intelligence that a band of Cheyenne River Indians are now camped on Wounded Knee near the Big Foot battle ground. No further trouble is feared, however.

Rev. James McMahon, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, New York, yesterday gave the Roman Catholic University at Washington real estate valued at over half a million dollars. The property is situated at Long Branch. The gift is made for the purpose of founding a school of philosophy, erecting suitable buildings for the department and beautifying the grounds surrounding the university.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

THE EAST HASTINGS ALLEGED IRREGULARITIES.

The Government Decides That the Case Does Not Warrant an Investigation—The Telegraph and Telephone Bill Defeated.

TORONTO, April 17.—In the Ontario Legislature yesterday Mr. Mowat refused to allow Mr. Hudson's motion to refer the matter to the Committee on Privileges and Elections and moved in amendment that the legitimate purposes of investigation would be better accomplished by the ordinary tribunals provided by law, or by a commission under the authority of the act respecting enquiries concerning public matters, if a case for that purpose be made out hereafter, and that the House recommend that in case of a commission being issued any report that may be made be laid before the House at its next session. The amendment was carried by a vote of 51 to 31. Mr. Campbell of East Durham, Equal Righter, declined to vote as he did not hear the question put. But when Mr. Hudson's motion, as amended, was put to the House, Mr. Campbell voted for it, thus casting his first vote in the House with the Government.

The bill respecting the inspection of stationary engines and the granting of certificates to those in charge was discussed by a special committee yesterday. It is probable that the Stationary Engineers' Association will adopt the suggestion of Mr. Gibson, that instead of having the bill passed making examinations compulsory the engineers get a charter similar to that of the architects' association, giving diplomas, which secured a recognized standing for the holder.

The Municipal Committee knocked out Joe Tait's bill to amend the Municipal Act by compelling telegraph and telephone companies to place their wires in cables, and also by compelling telegraph, telephone and electric companies owning a line of poles on any street to permit any other such company to place its wires upon such lines of poles on paying reasonable compensation.

LOOK 'ERE YOU DRINK.

A Passenger Conductor Takes Arsenic for Medicine.

NIAGARA FALLS, April 16.—Andrew B. Brown, passenger conductor G.T.R., in mistake took a quantity of arsenic for a dose of medicine this morning at his home. The two bottles were on the same shelf. Proper emetics saved his life.

Strychnine in the Capsule.

ST. CATHARINES, April 16.—Isaac Haun of Port Dover, who is attending the Collegiate Institute, emptied a quinine capsule and filled it with strychnine to take to school for experimenting purposes, placing it with the others. Feeling unwell he took one of the capsules and in mistake picked up the one containing strychnine. Doctors who pumped him out had difficult work in saving his life.

"I Have Spited You Now, Mamma!"

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 16.—Willie Mendheim, the 13-year-old son of Mrs. Mendheim, an estimable widow became angry with his mother yesterday and told her he was going to commit suicide. The boy went out into the barn, procured an ordinary rawhide hamestring, returned and, before his mother's eyes, made his preparations for death. He fastened the leather to the ceiling with a large nail, cut a slit in the leather large enough to admit his head, got up in a high chair and jumped. Just before the leap he said: "I have spited you now, mamma!" His neck was broken. His mother saw him as he made the fatal spring.

Toronto Street Railway Arbitration.

TORONTO, April 17.—The arbitrators in the dispute between the corporation of the City of Toronto and the Street Railway Company finished their award Wednesday and it was made public yesterday. The arbitrators decide that the city on taking over the street railway plant and business shall pay the company $1,545,788. The company claimed over $5,000,000 and Hon. Frank Smith declares that he will not accept the award, but will fight the matter to the end. Mr. Samuel Barker, arbitrator on behalf of the company dissented from the finding, which was signed by the other two.

A Farmer and His Hired Man Have a Lively Time.

RIDGETOWN, April 16.—Joseph Baker, a farmer near Weldon, had in his employ a man named George Bird. Some days ago a dispute arose between the parties and Baker dismissed Bird, as he says paying him shortly after in full. Bird returned and demanded his money. Baker and Mrs. Baker assert that Bird on being refused the money pulled a revolver and began firing, and that Baker then resorted to his gun to defend himself against Bird. Bird says the shooting was all done by Baker, and that he had no revolver. Chief Tompkins arrested Bird, and on Mr. and Mrs. Baker's evidence he was sent to Chatham to stand trial.

Cremated in a Train Wreck.

BALTIMORE, April 16.—A freight train of 3 cars and 3 engines on the Maryland Central Railroad broke through a trestle to-day at Fallston, near this city. Nine were in the train, of whom 3 were killed and 3 badly injured. The others had time to jump and escaped. The cars were quickly ablaze and burned. Two of the killed were cremated.

Said to Evade the U.S. Law By Coming First to Canada.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The Treasury Department has taken steps to secure information in respect to reports that immigrants for the United States in many instances first land at Halifax, N.S., and then come across the border by rail to escape the operations of the new immigration law.

The collector at Portland says a large portion of those landed at Halifax ultimately reach the United States. He suggests that detectives be stationed in Halifax to trace the ultimate destination of any considerable number of those intending to cross the line.

Live Stock Cremated.

BRADFORD, Ont., April 16.—About 12 o'clock last night the barns, stables and out buildings belonging to Mr. James Lawson of West Gwillimbury were destroyed by fire. A large quantity of hay, seed grain, three horses, ten pigs and all his farming implements were destroyed. The fire was the work of an incendiary. Insured for $8800.

Cut His Heart in Two.

STRATFORD, April 16.—Joseph Weldon, a sawyer in P. Seibert's sawmill, Logan, three miles from Mitchell, slipped and fell against a circular saw. One leg was cut off and the upper part of the body was mangled in a horrible manner, the heart being cut completely in two. Deceased had only been employed in the mill for a short time.

Dead On His Daughter's Grave.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Crazed with grief at the death of a daughter, Joseph Zuckermann of No. 160 West Sixty-fifth-street, this city, a broker doing business at No. 20 Broad-street, shot himself at the grave of his child in the Salem Fields Cemetery, East New York, yesterday.

SUICIDE FROM GRIEF.

Funeral of One More Victim of the White Czar's Harshness.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 16.—The funeral of the Princess Olga Feodorowna, mother of the Grand Duke Michael, cousin of the Czar, took place to-day. The Princess is said to have committed suicide owing to the Czar's refusal to restore her son to his post in the army, from which he was dismissed because of his private marriage to the Countess of Merenberg. The funeral was a gorgeous pageant and attracted an immense concourse. The Czarina rode in a carriage and the Czar and the grand duke followed the cortege on foot. Fifty generals were in line. The whole route from the railway station to the cathedral, four miles, was lined with troops. Interment will take place to-morrow.

WORE ONLY NATURE'S GARMENTS.

On the Eve of His Wedding a Young Man Runs Amuck in the Costume of Adam.

DURHAM, April 16.—A most extraordinary and exciting incident occurred at Durham yesterday afternoon. A young man who lived at West Stanley came to Durham yesterday morning with a young woman, who came from Kimblesworth, for the purpose of being married at the Registry Office. Owing to some cause the wedding, it was found, could not take place yesterday, and it was put off till Wednesday. The young couple went from the Registry Office into the Banks and sat down on a seat. They had not been there long when the girl noticed something strange in the demeanor of her companion. He went away from where they were sitting, and having divested himself of all his clothing was running about Prebend's bridge completely naked. The police were sent for, and the young man, who was inclined to be violent, was removed to the police station in the ambulance cart. The young woman followed to the station, and said she could not account for the behavior of her sweetheart. The young man is stated to have been of a religious turn of mind for the last eight or nine years. He was detained at the police station.

The man was released and next day on the road near Kimblesworth he stripped off the whole of his clothes and proceeded to the village in a nude condition, much to the alarm of the inhabitants, who ran away in terror at the sight of the big, powerful young fellow in that state. When he got to the house of his intended wife's parents he knocked out of the window a pane of glass eleven inches by fifteen, and crept through into the house; then from the inside he knocked out the remainder of the panes and crept out again. By this time there was help at hand, and the poor fellow was taken to a neighboring house and attended to, a medical man being summoned at once. His two passages through the broken glass had inflicted frightful lacerations all over his body, and last night he was considered to be past recovery.

A HORRIBLE SUICIDE.

A Quarryman Places a Cartridge in His Hat and Lights the Fuse.

NEWCASTLE, April 16.—About 20 minutes past 5 o'clock the dwellers in the pretty little workmen's cottages, just a little below Addycombe, were alarmed by a loud report and violent concussion and found the body of William Ramsay, a quarryman, lying immediately in front of his door. He was lying on his back, his face rigid and his eyes staring. The wall and ground around were bespattered with brains, blood and bits of bone. Portions of what turned out to be deceased's hat were also found. On raising the body the constable found that the whole of the top and back of the head had been blown away. Ramsay, who was 61 years of age, after spending a somewhat restless night, got up and deliberately committed suicide. He had used an ordinary dynamite blasting cartridge to accomplish this end. He had in all probability lighted the fuse and placed the cartridge in a fold on the top of his soft felt hat and patiently stood awaiting the fearful result. Death must have been instantaneous.

DEATH IN A CIRCUS RING.

The Audience Loudly Cheered While a Woman Was Slowly Killed.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 16.—News of a most remarkable and horrible tragedy which has just occurred in the town of Polotsk in Russian Poland has reached here. A day or two ago a traveling circus gave a representation in that town. The manageress of the circus, a woman of remarkable beauty and popularity, who was herself an excellent horsewoman, was just on the point of leaving the ring after performing some daring feats with a spirited horse, when the animal suddenly attacked her in a furious manner. For a few minutes the audience, in spite of the woman's shrieks, did not appear to realize anything unusual occurring, but applauded and cheered the actions of the horse, thinking them a part of the performance. Not until the animal kicked her with such force that she fell to the ground did the people realize that something was wrong. The brute then trampled upon her with such fury that none of the public or the grooms in attendance had the courage to approach the spot. At last, by some means, the unfortunate woman managed to extricate herself from beneath the animal's hoofs, half stunned, with her dress all torn and her face and body streaming with blood. She had sufficient fortitude to salute the audience and stagger from the ring without any assistance. She, however, had hardly reached the dressing-room before she commenced to utter piercing shrieks, which were heard by the audience in the circus. After lingering several hours in great agony she succumbed to the terrible agonies she had received.

No Intention to Injure Canada Roads.

NEW YORK, April 16.—In discussing the order of the Treasury Department forbidding the transit of goods from Canada to the United States under the consular bonding system, Secretary Foster said: "We simply propose to treat all goods coming into this country on the same basis, no matter where they enter our borders. The same system will be followed on the Canadian border as is in operation at the seaports—New York, say. When a European steamer lands goods here destined for Chicago they are permitted to be sent forward to the West in bond under Treasury lock. The packages are not opened by the Customs officers, nor the duties appraised and paid until the goods reach the consignees in Chicago. The adoption of the same system on the Canadian border does not mean that there will have to be a reshipment or a change of cars.

"There is no politics in this matter—only a determination to treat all goods coming into the country on the same basis and to see that the revenue is duly collected. Nor is the new measure aimed at the Canadian railroads, or at anybody or any interest in particular. I cannot say just when the orders will be issued—just as soon as they are duly formulated. We shall enforce them with as little friction and as little trouble for the railroads as possible."

Mr. Foster added that there was no intention on the part of the Treasury Department to tax foreign cars.

BISMARCK IS BEATEN.

THE IRON CHANCELLOR WILL NOT SIT IN THE REICHSTAG.

Maurice Healy Taunts Parnell in the Commons with Reference to His Backdown—The Newfoundland Delegates Arrive in London.

BERLIN, April 16.—Returns from Geestemunde are still incomplete, but show that Bismarck must submit to a supplementary ballot unless, as is not improbable, he retires from the contest.

Schmalfeldt, the Socialist, seems to have been a much stronger man than was anticipated.

The O'Sheas Bringing Libel Suits.

LONDON, April 16.—Mrs. O'Shea has taken steps to sue The Liverpool Post and several other provincial dailies for libel. The alleged libelous matter was contained in a circular letter sent out from a London press agency, in which the lady's name was most grossly used. Capt. O'Shea also has a libel suit on hand. He has brought proceedings against John Deasy, M.P. for West Mayo, for asserting that the Captain allowed Mr. Parnell to defray his household expenses as the price of his wife's dishonor.

LONDON, April 16.—In the House of Commons yesterday the bill making permanent the closing of public houses in Ireland on Sunday, and including in its scope the cities of Dublin, Cork, Belfast, Waterford and Limerick, passed its second reading by a vote of 248 to 98. During the debate preceding the vote Parnell protested against applying the measures set forth in it to the city of Cork or other Irish cities. He said Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, was not inconsistent in supporting the measure against Irish opinion, because he (Balfour) always maintained that the Imperial Parliament ought to decide such questions. This, however, was not the case with the Liberals. The latter had been arguing for years that Irish members should decide Irish matters upon the elementary question as to how Irishmen ought to eat and drink. The Liberals might have shown a greater attachment to the principles they had proclaimed on English platforms.

Maurice Healy, one of the members for Cork city, assured the House that Parnell did not upon this or other questions represent the city of Cork, adding that if he wanted to test the truth of his (Healy's) words let him keep his promise made to his constituents and face him in a contest for re-election. [Cheers and laughter.]

The Feeling in Newfoundland.

LONDON, April 16.—The delegates from Newfoundland who are here with the object of impressing the Newfoundland side of the lobster fisheries question upon the British Parliament, during the course of a joint interview to-day, said there was no doubt that circumstances of comparatively recent occurrence had created a very friendly feeling in Newfoundland toward the United States, whose action had been an attraction to the colony. Newfoundland would deeply regret estranging the Mother Country, but nevertheless the existing impatience would, if followed by our failure to successfully present Newfoundland's views to the Imperial Parliament, deepen the alienation, the effect of which it would be difficult to foresee. Anyhow there would never be the same friendly feelings toward England as there had hitherto been.

Capt. Verney Will Return From Italy to Meet the Charges Against Him.

LONDON, April 16.—Henry Matthews, Secretary of State for the Home Department, in the House of Commons to-day said criminal warrants had been issued against two members of Parliament, both of whom had left the country. One of them, Capt. Edmund H. Verney, representing North Buckinghamshire, had telegraphed from Italy that he had started for London to meet the charge against him. The other member referred to is Edward De Cobain, representing East Belfast, who is charged with a heinous offence.

The Italian Question.

ROME, April 16.—In referring to the New Orleans question in the Chamber of Deputies, Premier di Rudini said if it was proved to be impossible to obtain a favorable solution of the problem grave complications would not arise, but he would deem it a matter of profound regret that the people of the United States, so advanced in civilization, should show themselves far removed from the principles of right and justice universally proclaimed and scrupulously observed in Europe.

The sentiments of the Premier were loudly cheered by all the deputies. At the conclusion of the address the interpolators expressed approval of the conduct of the Italian Government and said they were satisfied with the Premier's explanation.

Deaths from Starvation.

BELFAST, April 16.—A report reached Belfast yesterday of the death by starvation last week of an aged fisherman named MacManus and his sister at Kearney on the County Down coast. They had lived in an isolated cottage and the severe weather of the past few weeks prevented the old woman from following her usual vocation.

Grace Hawthorne's Bankruptcy.

LONDON, April 16.—The liabilities of Miss Grace Hawthorne, the American actress, who was recently declared bankrupt, amount, according to the official report, to $78,912, with no assets. Miss Hawthorne was forced into bankruptcy by two actors whose plays she produced at a great loss.

Mary Anderson's Infant.

LONDON, April 16. — A despatch from Bournemouth states that Mary Anderson-Navarro gave birth to a child, whether boy or girl not stated, on Monday night at the Metropole Hotel, West Cliff, Bournemouth, where she has been staying for several weeks.

The executors of the will of the late Prince Napoleon have formally asked the French Government permission to inter his remains at Ajaccio, Corsica.

The famous Castle Bouquet, near Namur, has been burned. The collection of paintings, including many rare and priceless works, perished in the flames.

Vladimir Korolenko, the talented Russian writer, is now a prisoner in the gloomy fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul. His arrest is due to a series of articles entitled "In Deserted Places."

Leslie Stephen, the well-known author and contributor to The Saturday Review and The Pall Mall Gazette, is suffering from pleurisy.

To Inspect Canadian Mines.

MONTREAL, April 16.—Professor J. D. Freeard, the well-known English mining expert, is on his way to Canada for the purpose of inspecting Canadian mining properties on behalf of English syndicates.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MOSHER, 80 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

COMPULSORY VOTING.

THE London Advertiser, the Canadian advocate of compulsory voting, has a disciple or fellow-worker in Illinois who has introduced a bill into the Legislature of that state to enforce his idea. His method, however, is a novel one. He proposes to provide, first, that all entitled to register as voters must do so. Then a complete list of the names of all who fail to vote is made and furnished to the county clerk, and from this list the jurors are to be drawn and they are to be compelled to serve without pay. How does this method strike the Canadian advocate of compulsory voting? As the scheme is of itself a fancy one, it is quite in keeping that it should be enforced by a fancy method such as that proposed by the Illinois legislator. There are two difficulties, however, in the way of carrying out his method. If all voters should cast their ballots there would be no delinquents to call upon to serve as jurors and the administration of justice would be at a standstill. Another difficulty is, that if men thought so little of the duties of citizenship that they would not take the trouble to vote, they would scarcely be proper men to serve the State, on compulsion, as jurors to administer the law. However, considering the manner in which Illinois jurors are selected or tested, perhaps the latter objection would have little weight over there.

New York City is still hedging on the census taker. The only means left for circumventing the federal government and avoiding the possibility of being distanced by Chicago before the World's Fair is over, is to annex New York to Brooklyn, Long Island City, Staten Island and other foreign countries. A bill has been introduced in the state legislature authorising the drafting of a charter for this purpose, the new city to be governed by a single administration. The enlarged corporation would contain over three million people. The citizens of Brooklyn and Staten Island strongly object to this compulsory alliance, but they are helpless to resist it. The leading agitator of the project is Erastus Wiman, of Canada, who has long been a victim of the annexation fever, and will try it on his own country as soon as he has constructed the "Greater New York."—Chicago Graphic.

Will he? Mr. Wiman may succeed with his schemes with legislatures or Congress on the other side, but when he crosses into Canada he has legislators and men of a different kind to deal with. His influence in "the greater half of North America" is very small at present, and some who yielded to him would be better pleased now if they had said "get thee behind me" when the tempter first appeared.

THE idea, entertained by some on this side of the line, that the United States Democrats are free traders is a mistake. Governor Hill of New York, recently declined an invitation to a Single Tax club banquet because he did not sympathise with the free trade ideas of the club, and the man who is said to at present stand the best chance of being the next Speaker of the House of Representatives is opposed to tariff reform.

A Hypocrite Will Often Pass Scrutiny.

The hypocrite often passes the scrutiny of the wise and those of ripe experience. His outward bearing and garb will often enable him to do this with success; but the time surely comes when the mask is torn away and his true character is revealed. Thousands in Canada know well that they have been deceived in appearances when buying package dyes for domestic dyeing. The deception only became apparent when these dyes were used; and then the wish was expressed, "Oh, had I but used Diamond Dyes, all these troubles could have been avoided." Diamond Dyes are always the same—safe, reliable, and unfailing; and the only dye that can assure all the satisfactory results.

The publishers of Our Homes, a large, elegantly printed 32-page magazine, announce that in order to increase their circulation they are willing to devote their entire first year's profits to this end, and in order to do so, offer competitions in which they give large cash rewards to those taking part. One of these competitions is now in progress and closes on April 25th. In addition to the large amount given in cash on their general prize list, they offer as an extra inducement the following special cash prizes:—During the weeks ending April 11th and April 18th they offer daily cash prizes of $10, and a weekly cash prize of $50 for the first named week, and $100 for the latter. For the week ending April 25th they offer daily cash prizes of $25, and a prize of $200 for the week. These exceedingly generous prizes are in addition to the general prize list, and the person who gets one of the special rewards may also get a large prize in the general list. No other magazine publishers have ever made such a liberal offer, and as the competition remains open three more weeks you should avail yourself of the liberal offer at once. Send [illegible] in stamps for a sample copy of Our Homes and complete particulars of the competition. Address OUR HOMES PUBLISHING CO., Brockville, Ont. 41d43-7w

A NAKED LAMP AND DEATH.

Another Frightful Colliery Disaster in Pennsylvania—Some of the Victims Burned to a Crisp.

TAMAQUA, Pa., April 16.—A terrible explosion of gas and fire damp occurred at No. 10 colliery, owned and operated by the Lehigh Valley Coal and Navigation Co., a few miles east of this place to-day. James Haggerty of Lansford was instantly killed and was burned to a crisp. William Recus of Tamaqua was fatally injured; John Davis, Frederick O'Donnel, Charles F. Lilly, all of Coaldale; Daniel Reese of Lansford and James Gallagher of Bearytown were seriously injured. The explosion was caused by a naked lamp.

MANITOBA'S RAILWAYS.

Both Bills Pass the Legislature—Work to Be Vigorously Pushed.

WINNIPEG, April 16.—The second reading of the bill to give $150,000 bonus to the C.P.R. for an extension to Souris coal fields passed the Legislature last night, but not until the Opposition unmercifully scored the Government for being compelled to seek assistance of a road they had denounced for years to carry out the principal object for which the Northern Pacific had been at a heavy cost introduced into Manitoba by them.

The bill granting $1,500,000 to the Hudson Bay Road was introduced and will likely pass to-night. One hundred and forty miles are to be completed by the end of 1893 on penalty of forfeiture of bonus.

Emma Abbott's Dresses Sold.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 16.—Emma Abbott's entire wardrobe, consisting of over 100 costumes, was exposed for sale to-day. It was the most gorgeous exhibition of gowns ever seen in Chicago, all being the work of Worth and Felix of Paris. The famous "Chickasaw" dress and mantel, covered from the top of the Abbott collar to the hem of the train, weighing 150 pounds; an exquisite combination of white crepe and white silk, a facsimile of the deshabille in which Anna Boleyn was executed, and a counterpart of the coronation robe of the Empress Josephine of white crepe embroidered in gold, are some of the most notable costumes. One hundred women were employed on the embroidery alone of this last named garment for several weeks.

Four Die on the Friesland and Five on the Garrick.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The Red Star steamship Friesland, from Antwerp, which reached here yesterday, had a most unfortunate voyage. While en route two female immigrant passengers died and were buried at sea. When the vessel got in sight of the Jersey coast a male passenger in the steerage dropped dead on deck, and scarcely had the steerage passengers been landed in Hoboken when another passenger died.

The steamship Garrick, Captain Grant, from Santos and Rio de Janeiro, was detained at quarantine yesterday as a "Yellow Jack" vessel. The steamer sailed from Rio de Janeiro March 17. Two days later yellow fever broke out among the crew, two of whom were stricken with the disease but soon recovered. When the deputy health officer heard of it he ordered the Garrick to be quarantined. The steamer will be fumigated for five days.

Big Fire Raging in New York.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Fire broke out at 11.45 in the Ross building, adjoining the big [illegible] square, destroying the first named building and setting the warehouse on fire. The warehouse will also probably be a total loss. The loss already exceeds half a million dollars.

Claimed to Own the Life-Giving Stream.

WELLAND, April 16.—No Welland assize is complete without the familiar figure of the Rev. George Tomkins. Having exhausted all the litigative vitality of his family connections he has now turned his guns in another direction. Mr. Tomkins claims an interest in the once wonderful burning springs and brought this action to assert his rights. The defendant, Mr. Milton Glasgow, takes a different view of the situation and says that he is the sole proprietor of the life-giving stream. The question at issue is one wholly dependent on legal points and His Lordship requested counsel to put in written arguments and reserved his judgment in the meantime.

Collision in the Channel Between the Glamorgan and the P. Caland.

LONDON, April 16.—The Dutch steamer P. Caland, Capt. DeVries, from New York April 1 for Amsterdam, was in collision in the channel at 9 o'clock last night with the British steamer Glamorgan, bound from Antwerp to Cardiff. The Glamorgan was so badly damaged that she soon filled and sank. The accident was due to a heavy fog which prevailed at the time of the collision. The crew of the Glamorgan took to the small boats and all hands were picked up by the P. Caland. The P. Caland arrived in Dover Roads with her bows badly stove. She was unable to come to anchor, owing to the fact that her anchoring gear was so badly damaged that it was impossible to use it. She was also damaged below the water line.

Smallpox on Vanderbilt's Yacht.

NEW YORK, April 16.—A despatch from quarantine states that the steam yacht Alva, belonging to William K. Vanderbilt, which has just arrived at quarantine, was detained there on account of smallpox on board. Mr. Vanderbilt and a party of friends have just returned from a cruise. All communication with shore is prohibited. Hugh Halpin, an oiler on the yacht, is suffering from the disease. He has been sent to the smallpox hospital.

Is This Another Innocent Man?

WALKERTON, April 16.—Important evidence has been elicited which will go far to prove the innocence of McLeod, who was lately sentenced to 14 years for barn burning. The evidence will be laid before the Minister of Justice this week. The probability is that the prisoner will soon be restored to liberty. Strong suspicion attaches to another man as the guilty party, and the case is being quietly worked up.

The Speech from the Throne.

OTTAWA, April 16.—It is reported that Hugh John Macdonald, M.P., of Winnipeg, and J. D. Hazen, M.P., of St. John County, will respectively move and second the address in reply to the speech from the throne in the Commons.

The Date Satisfactory.

OTTAWA, April 16.—The Government replied to-day to Sir Julian Pauncefote's note of yesterday stating that Oct. 12, the date fixed by President Harrison for the trade conference, was satisfactory.

OTTAWA, April 16.—The Canada Atlantic express, due here at 12.30 from Montreal, struck an unknown man at Ste. Annes this morning, killing him instantly.

OTTAWA, April 16.—Captain Streatfeild, A.D.C. to General Herbert, is, according to The London Morning Post, to be married to Geraldine, second daughter of the late Lord Fitzgerald of Kilmarnock.

A Fiery Visitor from Space.

QUEBEC, April 16.—A blazing meteor as large as a flour barrel fell at Levis about midnight. As it flew rapidly through the air it left a fiery streak behind. No trace of it has yet been found on the ground.

"That tired feeling" is entirely overcome by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives a feeling of buoyancy and strength to the whole system.

Sick Headache

IS a complaint from which many suffer and few are entirely free. Its cause is indigestion and a sluggish liver, the cure for which is readily found in the use of Ayer's Pills.

"I have found that for sick headache, caused by a disordered condition of the stomach, Ayer's Pills are the most reliable remedy."—Samuel C. Bradburn, Worthington, Mass.

"After the use of Ayer's Pills for many years, in my practice and family, I am justified in saying that they are an excellent cathartic and liver medicine—sustaining all the claims made for them."—W. A. Westfall, M. D., V. P. Austin & N. W. Railway Co., Burnet, Texas.

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered stomach and liver. I suffered for over three years from headache, indigestion, and constipation. I had no appetite and was weak and nervous most of the time. By using three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured."—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kansas.

"I was troubled for years with indigestion, constipation, and headache. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, used in small daily doses, restored me to health. They are prompt and effective."—W. H. Strout, Meadville, Pa.

The Ethics of Opposition.

A contributor, in commenting on Mr. Blake's letter, recites the clearly defined views of Sir Robert Peel, a famous English statesman of great ability and noble character, upon the true function of parliamentary opposition. At this juncture these views are well worthy of earnest consideration by the Canadian people. It may well be questioned whether an opposition, which aims by ridicule, invective and obstruction, to defeat the purpose of a government which is endeavoring to carry out its pledge made to the people before election, and on which it was sustained by the people at the polls, can be deemed either dignified or worthy of the traditions of the English speaking race. Honest opposition, in a just cause, from a party stand-point, cannot reasonably be objected to. Nor can it be expected that the Canadian Reformers would be fully contented with a measure of reciprocity with the United States if obtained by Sir John Macdonald's Government—when they demand unrestricted Reciprocity. But is the good of the country to be deemed inferior to the success of the party? Surely not. The serious consideration for Canadians is this: Is it dignified, is it fair to the honor and character of the Canadian people, that a government which represents in its negotiations for a reciprocity treaty not merely a party, but the Canadian people, who have made it their authoritative agent to secure a favorable measure of reciprocity with the United States government, should by the opposition journals be persistently hindered and obstructed, and treated with ridicule and contempt, in its effort to do its duty to the electorate of Canada?

We mistake the temper of the Canadian people if we think that such a course of opposition can have any other effect than that of causing them to disapprove of such conduct on the part of the opposition press. Would not the fair, the dignified, the patriotic course, be like that of the great British statesman referred to by our contributor—to place no obstacle in the way of the Government in its effort from its own standpoint to negotiate an advantageous trade treaty for Canada, and then, when the Government has either failed through its own inability to obtain such a treaty, or has obtained one that is objectionable and defective, to visit it with the criticism, which it is an oppositions's function to provide? We think the latter course is far better adapted than the former to make a government out of an opposition, and to maintain the dignity and advance the true interests of our common country.—The Week.

CASH HARDWARE STORE.

On and after 1st April we shall do business on a Cash Basis.

To cover the inevitable losses attendant upon a credit business, (which accrue from amount of time spent in keeping accounts, collecting, bad debts, interest account, and in numerous other ways, larger margins of profit must be asked.

In these times cash buyers ask, expect and are entitled to close prices. A careful consideration of the subject convinces us that the time has come for a cash business done on smaller profits.

The only customers who may be put to inconvenience are those who have had long credit. In more ways than one it will be to their advantage to pay cash.

For convenience of our old customers who consider their accounts due when presented, we will call 30 days cash and render all accounts the first of each month, and we wish to say that we will be happy to do business with them on these terms.

As the new departure is something of an experiment, what would be considered a close cash price will be made all through the stock. Not a few leaders only, but a general reduction in everything from the fourth flat to the cellar.

Our idea is to perform more than promised rather than promise more than can be fulfilled.

Our stock is large and varied, consisting of Builders', Contractors', Household, Mechanics', Painters', Shoemakers', Farm, Mill, Factory, Lumbermen's, Sporting, Threshers', Cabinetmakers', and other lines of Hardware.

The question of railway connection with Bobcaygeon and the north will be fully discussed and the deputation which interviewed Mr. Sargeant at Montreal last week in regard to the proposed railway have expressed their willingness to attend the meeting and discuss the question with the Board. Still After Butler.

Mr. Matthew Greenley, says the Herald, of Percy township, who got himself into trouble over a piano with one Butler, an agent of Peterborough, about a year ago, will ventilate his grievances at the Assizes in Cobourg. Mr. Greenley alleges the whole thing to have been a fraudulent transaction, and refuses to pay a note of $468, which he claims he was induced to give through undue influence and misrepresentation. Butler will be remembered in Peterborough as the manager of the Dominion Grain and Seed Company. He has figured in several alleged swindles.

For the Good of His District.

Mr. A. E. Bailey, of Campbellford, milk inspector for the Eastern Dairymen's Association of Ontario, says the Herald, last week returned home from a trip to Wisconsin and Illinois, where he has been on an official tour of inspection on winter dairying, having visited the experimental schools of those states. During his trip he received a valuable amount of information in the interests of dairying which will be communicated as it may be required. Mr. Bailey brought with him one of the new Babcock milk testers, a valuable instrument in the detection of watered or skimmed milk.

At the Opera House.

"Aunt Jack" was put on the boards at the Opera House last evening before a good audience. The play is a farce comedy in three acts, and although the plot, if such there was, was inclined to run into the extravagant, the company presenting it performed their parts well and caused much amusement for the audience. Many of the situations were ludicrous in the extreme. Fiddlott Paget in the title role is bright and vivacious and had the same charming effect in captivating her audience as she exercised over Barrister Bree and even the judge on the bench. Her support was good and the audience were well satisfied with the presentation.

CANADIAN CHEESE.

Hints to Makers and Shippers by the London Produce Exchange.

LONDON, ENG., March, 1891.

The Cheese Committee of the Home and Foreign Produce Exchange (limited), London, have under consideration the betterment of trade with Canada, and for mutual advantage of all concerned, have decided to address a few suggestions as to improvements which are desirable.

Whilst being able to congratulate the factorymen on the advance made during the past fifteen years, we cannot fail to recognise the fact that they have arrived at a stationary period, if not actually having entered on a retrograde movement.

The season's (1890) make has, as a rule, shown a tight, hard, unkind curd, and a dryness which has in some cases created a suspicion of skimming.

Also, it appears to importers, that throughout this season nearly all factories have marketed their unripe make; whilst we cannot exonerate shippers from all blame in taking an uncured article, still the factorymen are primarily at fault, as, though a temporary advantage may be gained by selling an extra quantity on a rising market, the consumers here have an article foisted on them which creates a lasting prejudice in their minds against foreign cheese. Whilst on the subject, we may point out that it is the exception for an English cheesemaker to "let go" until the cheese are, as they term it, "ready."

Of course the weather and the pasturage, producing a greater or lesser quantity and quality of milk is an important factor which practical (and not automatic) cheesemakers best know how to deal with.

Colouring has been most erratic, in many cases too high and red, whereas the outlet for such is more contracted every year.

The boxing in most cases shows a decided deterioration. We would strongly urge upon factorymen the necessity on their part of making this point a particular study: a valuable article like cheese is at least worth a good package. A well-seasoned wood made to fit the cheese more accurately is desirable. This complaint is especially applicable to sections east of Toronto.

Also, there is the serious matter of weights. Most of the leading houses here have been making (this season) a test in this matter. Immediately on arrival averages have been taken, and the discrepancy arising totally impossible to comprehend.

In submitting the above remarks, our sole object is the permanent improvement of our mutual interests.

By order of the committee,

G. J. ACOCKS,
Secretary.

THE CARBON WORKS STRIKE.

One of the Moulders Replies to Statements of the Manager.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I notice in your yesterday's issue a few statements from Mr. Taylor which I would like to deny. In the first place he says the men were making $1 80 and $1.90 per day for the past two weeks. This I say is wrong. Now in the Examiner he says "I told the men if they went out of the door they could stay out." This I say is false for he did not say that. But what he did say was that he (Mr. Taylor) would sooner let the men quit work than raise their wages. Further Mr. Taylor also stated in the Examiner that they trained the men in the business and gave them good wages when they were earning scarcely anything for them. This again I say is wrong. Does he call 60 cents a day a good wage for a man who had to work amid the dirt of the shop for ten hours a day. Not only did the men only get 60 cents a day but there were several weeks when they were laid off and for a month at one time and earned nothing. But this he does not take into consideration. Mr. Taylor also says that we were green hands and tries to justify the low wages by saying that we were making more money than moulders' apprentices. Now, Mr. Editor, I don't think it is fair to call us apprentices. We can and have turned out as much work in a day as any American moulders, and if the men are only apprentices, what are the helpers? I contradict his statement that we were making full wages and can state, on very good authority, that we were not making within 45 per cent. as much as the moulders in Cleveland. I agree with him when he says that a man can make more than 300 moulds in a day, but I consider it is a good day's work when the culls come out, and, besides, when we did put on speed in order to run up our make, the foreman came round and told us we could not sufficiently heat the carbons by handling them so quickly. He says that there have been as high as 365 moulds made in a day, and I want to make an offer to him on the strength of this. If Mr. Taylor will show by his books that any man ever made 365 moulds in a day in the shop here, I promise and agree to work for him for six months and will ask no wages. This same offer I will make as to the truthfulness of the $1 80 per day. I know that the largest number turned out in one day was 304 or 305, but we were not on piecework when that was done. There were 60 culls out of this number, leaving 248 which at 60 cents per hundred was $1.42 for the day's work. The difference between $1.42 and $1.80 is marked and needs no demonstration to be seen by the general public.

Now, Mr. Editor, in closing I will just repeat that when Mr. Taylor proves his statements in regard to the 365 moulds per day and the $1 80, I am ready to go to work for him. Thanking you, sir, for the privilege of trespassing on the space in your valuable paper, I am

Military News.

Col. Straubenzie, D.A.G., arrived here yesterday from Omemee and inspected the armories, arms and clothing of the 57th Battalion. He found everything in a satisfactory condition.

Several of the officers of the battalion are going in for revolver practice. Three Smith and Wesson 38-44 revolvers have arrived and are very improved and handsome weapons.

A meeting of the officers of the battalion will be held on Tuesday evening next when arrangements will be made for the commencement of the battalion drill.

THE ASPHODEL FIRE.

A Correspondent Seeks to Throw Some Light on the Burning of the School House.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—Would you please allow me space in your valuable paper to throw some light on the subject that has been presented in a very mystifying manner to the public.

In the fall of 1890, a school house in Asphodel, termed Birdsall's school house was consumed by fire. Said fire was believed by some to be incendiary in its origin, others held that it caught from the stove. The trustees then procured an old dwelling house from Frank Birdsall Esq., (one of the trustees) and fitted it up for a school house. On the morning of January 1st this also was consumed by fire. Of course feeling ran high, two fires occurring so close together and in such a short time. The morning of the fire a mitten was found near the old building which was burnt, said mitt being recognized as Mr. Charles Fox's, and at once all the capital possible was made out of the finding of the mitt. The Trustees procured from the Asphodel Council a requisition asking the coroner to hold an investigation as to the cause of the fire. The investigation was held; the witnesses were summoned the evening previous to the investigation; Charles Fox was not subpoened. At the investigation a lawyer was present, at whose call we need not say, the result being that the jury returned a verdict that seriously charged Charles Fox. The County Attorney did not act on the verdict of the coroner's jury. Mr. Fox then endeavored to have the matter sifted and, although he asked for a further investigation from the Council—offering to deposit part of the expenses—he did not succeed. He then went to the County Attorney and insisted on having a trial. When the Crown prosecutor arrived in Peterborough on the morning of Monday, 6th April, he concluded to lay the matter before the Grand Jury, which was done. The same witnesses were again subpoened with the result that the Grand Jury threw the case out, thus publicly vindicating Charles Fox on the very same evidence the coroner's jury rendered their verdict on. Now during all this trying time Mr. Fox was not allowed to bring forward his proofs of innocence. The facts are simply these. Mr. Fox lost his mitten at the annual meeting the day previous to the fire. Shortly after his arrival home he missed his mitt and searched for it in the pocket of his coat but could not find it. He then asked his brother to look for the mitten when he was going to the post office. His brother met a chum of his and with him went to a party which lay in another direction and did not look for the mitt. The hired girl is prepared to swear that on the Fox's arrival home from the annual meeting the day previous to the fire that he said he lost his mitt and she helped him to look for it thinking it was in the house somewhere.

To the innocent, investigation has no terrors, and the fact that after the coroners inquest at Westwood Mr. Fox had to persistently urge the matter on and demanded a trial is proof that the charge was all a myth.

Those who know Mr. Fox best did not for one moment believe the charge and feel that one worth of all honors and respect has been for a time subjected to a very great injustice and now rejoice that he has been publicly vindicated.

Yours respectfully,
JUSTICE.

A Farewell Supper to a Departing Doctor—The Water.

Correspondence of the Review.

FAREWELL SUPPER.—Mr. and Mrs. Kearney, of the Lakeview House, invited a few residents of this place to a supper on Monday, the 6th, in order to say farewell to Dr. Lanfear who is about to leave for Hastings county. Mr. C. Young, who was in the chair, expressed regret at the doctor leaving us, but, since it was to be, he wished him every success and advancement in his profession. Mr. Stewart, on behalf of the doctor who had been called away to a bed of sickness, returned his warmest thanks on his behalf. The company all expressed their regret at losing such a good citizen and hoped he would again return at some future time and take up his abode. He will be welcomed by all.

THE WATER.—The water is still rising and nearly all the cellars are flooded with back water.

THE POND.—The township council will really have to pay some attention to the pond that runs across the road in this village. The place will have to be dug much deeper to let the water off, and some means will have to be adopted to keep the place from turning into a nuisance and causing a pestilence in the summer months. It is very injurious to the residents who reside in the vicinity.

FRIDAY, APRIL 17, 1891.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

He rose again from his chair and took another cigarette from the box on the low bookcase. Then he went to another place for a match, which he scratched underneath the mantelpiece. Then he lit the cigarette and threw the burnt end of the match in the fire, after having shaken it rapidly to and fro to extinguish it. She watched him half absently, thinking what a good fellow he was, how quiet, how honest, how kind, how quick of apprehension. But through him, beyond him, in his place she was seeing another figure, which she never hoped to behold again in reality. Oh, the perversity of human affairs! The goodness that we meet with is not the goodness that we want; the evil that happens to us is not the punishment of our evil!

Wallie glanced at her through the smoke of his cigarette with a sympathetic interest, half sad, half humorous. The heavy fur lined cloak that she wore was thrown back on the chair her head leaned backward, showing the white throat; her richly made, close fitting black dress revealed the lithe beauty of her figure; there was a soft dimness about her eyes; a little strand of bright hair had strayed across her forehead. How mournful she looked! How easily she might be happy! How gladly he would make her so! But those who have the good will have not the power, and those who have the power—"I hope to gracious!" exclaimed Wallie to himself, "that he is suffering the torments of the damned! I may have been a fool in my time, but nothing should ever have made me turn my back on a woman like that!" And he reseated himself with a resentful vehemence that drew a creaking remonstrance from his armchair.

"Do you think, Miss Randolph," he asked, "that the time would ever come when you would prefer the consolation to the—thing it consoled you for?"

"A consolation is only—a consolation," she replied, with a little smile. "But you must not think that I am—was meaning anything except in a general way. I should only find it more tiresome than usual to have nothing to do now that I know what it is to do something."

"Speaking in a general way, however, don't you think it would be unwise to seek consolation as such until one was quite certain, beyond the possibility of a doubt, that consolation was the thing one needed?"

"Oh, of course there can be no doubt!" she answered. But there was in her tone, and in the sudden, inquiring expansion of her eyes, a feeling less of conviction than of misgiving and suspense, as if the earnest emphasis with which he had spoken had led her to suspect that he might know something of great moment to her. He had no such knowledge, but he had a strong persuasion that she was the victim of a misfortune that might be set right; and he perceived that the time was now come when he might speak to her openly on the subject which had all along been in both their minds. But as he opened his mouth to do so there was a knock at the door, and the servant came in with a letter.

"The messenger boy's waiting, sir," he said, "and wants to know if there's an answer."

"Tell him," said Wallie sternly, "to go to"— He stopped. The handwriting on the envelope had caught his eye. "If you will excuse me?" he said, glancing at his visitor, while he tore the letter open. He took in its contents with a look. "No answer—I'll answer it in person," he said to the servant, who withdrew.

"Miss Randolph," said Wallie, standing in front of her with the letter in his hand, and a peculiar smile on his face, "this is from a friend of mine whom you know. There's nothing in it that you may not see; will you read it?"

She took the letter, saw the signature, let her hand fall to her lap for a moment, then lifted it again and read as follows:

Dear Wallie—I returned this morning. In Ireland I met a young fellow named Randolph, with a lady, who turned out to be Mlle. Marana. I didn't know what to think, but came on at once in order to warn her namesake here. At the hotel I found Randolph and his father. It appears that the former and Marana had arrived a few hours before me on another steamer. Our Marana went out this morning, no one knows where. From something I happened to hear old Randolph say to his son I begin to suspect I have made an astonishing and wicked blunder. I will explain when I see you, which must be at once. The two ladies must not meet at present, if we can help it. If you get this in time meet me here at 1 o'clock.
G. Bellingham.

"Shall we go to the hotel together?" said Wallie, when she had read the letter.

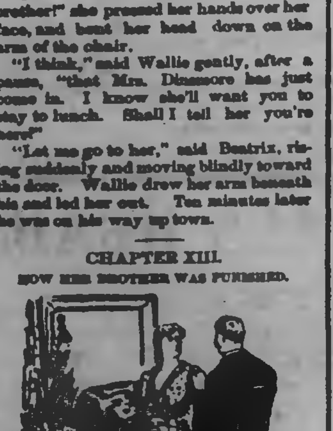
"No. I cannot see him. Oh, my brother!" she pressed her hands over her face, and bent her head down on the arm of the chair.

"I think," said Wallie gently, after a pause, "that Mrs. Dinsmore has just come in. I know she'll want you to stay to lunch. Shall I tell her you're here?"

"Let me go to her," said Beatrix, rising suddenly and moving blindly toward the door. Wallie drew her arm beneath his and led her out. Ten minutes later he was on his way up town.

CHAPTER XIII.

HOW HER BROTHER WAS PUNISHED.



"AFTER FIFTEEN MINUTES I AWAIT GEN. [illegible]"

When Wallie reached the hotel he met Geoffrey in the vestibule. "You had better have stayed at home and built my cottage for me," remarked the former, as they shook hands. "You don't do going-to-Europe well."

"I have something to tell"——

"I know all about it. I've been chatting with the lady the last hour. I'm disappointed in you. You should have married her first, and she would have left the stage of her own accord afterward."

"That was not the question. But how did you know"——

"That you wanted to marry her? I am only half north-northeast. When the wind is in the south, * * * But she's too good for you."

"The point is, that she is the daughter"——

"Great Scott! Do you mean to say you didn't know who she is?"

"Did you?"

"I? Of course. I knew the other one, in the first place. But didn't she tell you?"

"Do you suppose," said Geoffrey gravely, "that I would have gone to Europe if I had known that the man whom I saw * * * that there was all that mystery about was her own father?"

Wallie stared at his friend a moment and then laughed. "This is very sad," said he. "And, if I am not mistaken, you were with me that day when Randolph came in and gave himself away—However! What are you going to do?"

"The real Marana is here, or rather, at the Albemarle. I want to know what she is going to do. She may decide to make trouble."

"There is one obstacle in her way, fortunately."

"What?"

"Well, it would be awkward for her to prosecute the sister of her lover."

"He is her lover only in the sense that he wants to marry her."

"What about that hundred thousand dollars he got rid of?"

"It is as I say, nevertheless." And Geoffrey gave his friend a synopsis of what Helwise had told him on the subject.

"In that case there is all the more reason for her to keep quiet," said Wallie.

COPYRIGHT 1890

Two doctors of an Eastern town,
To learning much inclined,
Were called to see a gentleman,
Whose health was undermined.

The first one used his stethoscope
Upon the patient meek.
"I find," quoth he, "one lung is gone;
You cannot live a week."

To this the other wise M. D.
Vehemently objected.
"I see," quoth he, "as all may see,
Your kidneys are affected."

These wise men argued loud and long,
Yet the patient owes recovery
(Not to those doctors, but to—Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery).

There are some patent medicines that are more marvelous than a dozen doctors' prescriptions, but they're not those that profess to cure everything.

Everybody, now and then, feels "run-down," "played out." They've the will, but no power to generate vitality. They're not sick enough to call a doctor, but just too sick to be well. That's where the right kind of a patent medicine comes in, and does for a dollar what the doctor wouldn't do for less than five or ten.

We put in our claim for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

We claim it to be an unequaled remedy to purify the blood and invigorate the liver. We claim it to be lasting in its effects, creating an appetite, purifying the blood, and preventing Bilious, Typhoid and Malarial Fevers, if taken in time. The time to take it is when you first feel the signs of weariness and weakness. The time to take it, on general principles, is NOW.

It's the cheapest blood-purifier, sold through druggists, no matter how many doses are offered for a dollar.

Why? Because it's sold on a peculiar plan, and you only pay for the good you get.

Can you ask more?

SAVED BY A BUCKLE.

It Was Lucky For William Miller That He Wore Suspenders.

WINGHAM, April 17.—Peter Miller, son of James Miller, was fooling with a revolver when it discharged, the ball entering the breast of his brother William, penetrating the skin just below the nipple and taking a downward course for about two inches. The revolver was an old one, and it is thought the bullet that entered the young man's side must have come from the breech instead of the muzzle, as there were three chambers emptied and there were only two reports. The ball struck the buckle of his suspender, which broke its force, and thus the young man's life was saved, no doubt. Peter Miller's hand was also injured.

This Boy Will Die.

GODERICH, April 17.—At Kintail, William Murphy, aged 12, was playing with a loaded revolver when the contents were accidentally discharged in his right side immediately over the region of the liver, and caused a very severe wound. Peritonitis having already set in the case may prove fatal if the bullet cannot be extracted.

The Little Boy and His Gun.

BOWMANVILLE, April 17.—Fred. Burden, while loading the chamber of his revolver, exploded the cartridge. The ball entered his left hand at the base of the thumb, passing upwards toward the wrist and lodgin there.

Horrible Story of Juvenile Ferocity from Cape Breton.

HALIFAX, April 17.—A revolting story of youthful ferocity comes from Little Narrows, C.B.: A number of boys on their way home from school called in at the blacksmith's forge where the smithy's apprentice, whose name is Logan, was at work. The boys began playing and Logan becoming offended drew a red hot and sharp iron out of the fire and taking hold of a boy by the name of Matheson drove the iron into his abdomen. The victim, who is 13 years old, is not expected to recover. Logan after committing this act skipped at once and is supposed to be hiding in the fastness of Logan's glen between Little Narrows and Lake Ainlie.

TEXT OF THE PETITION.

PRESENTED TO THE QUEEN BY THE NEWFOUNDLANDERS.

Plea for the Rights of Settlers Against Arbitrary Restrictions Imposed by Naval Officers Employed to Protect French Fishery Claims.

LONDON, April 17.—Mr. William Henry Smith, the Government leader in the House of Commons, stated in that body to-day that the Government was not aware that the Newfoundland delegates who are now in London in order to present Newfoundland's side of the lobster fisheries dispute to the Imperial Parliament desired to be heard at the bar of the House of Commons, but in accordance with invariable precedent the delegates could not be heard at the bar of the House until after the second reading of the bill providing for the maintenance of the modus vivendi between France and Great Britain relative to the Newfoundland fisheries.

The delegation is composed of Premier Whiteway, an Englishman, who has spent most of his lifetime in the country and who has been successful in amassing from $100,000 to $150,000 by law and politics; Hon. A. W. Harvey, a colleague of Premier Whiteway in the Executive, is a Bermudian and is one of the most enterprising business men in the colony; Hon. Moses Monroe is a member of the Legislative Council and does an extensive business in general trade in fishery supplies and manufacturing; George H. Emerson is a native of Newfoundland and is Speaker of the House of Assembly. He is a lawyer of high legal attainments and an orator of great ability. The other member of the delegation, Mr. Alfred B. Morine, is a remarkable gentleman. Without means, without friends, he has forced himself to the front by industry, perseverance and natural gifts of tongue and pen.

The following is the joint address which has been presented to the House of Lords and Commons:

To the Right Honorable the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament assembled:

We, the Legislative Council and House of Assembly of Newfoundland, in session convened, beg leave to approach your honorable House, to appeal to you for protection and support under circumstances which have filled the minds of all classes in this country with profound anxiety and dismay.

Your honorable House is aware that the old-time difficulties consequent upon the treaties between Great Britain and France on the subject of the Newfoundland fisheries have of late years assumed even unaccustomed gravity, producing painful and ceaseless agitation among our people. Two delegations proceeded from here during last season to represent to Her Majesty's Government the exorbitant growth of the claims of the French under alleged sanction of treaties and the further injustice wrought to the community of Newfoundland. Their efforts for redress have been so far unsuccessful, and we are now confronted with a new evil essentially more intolerable than any of those with which experience has rendered us but too familiar.

We refer to the proposal of Her Majesty's Government by a bill now before Pearliament to re-enact the act of George IV., chapter 51, for the better conduct of the treaties between Great Britain and France respecting the Newfoundland fisheries, which act expired in the year 1834.

This act embodied provisions of an arbitrary and oppressive character, wholly repugnant to those principles of liberty and justice which are held to be the basis of modern British legislation. They conferred upon the officers of Her Majesty's ships engaged in fisheries protective service, who were intrusted with the settlement of treaty disputes, powers of summary adjudication independent of all the restrictions and safeguards which British law has devised for the defence of the inherent rights of British subjects. These powers extended to most severe penal inflictions and were beyond all appeal, and when it is remembered that they were exercised by persons unacquainted with legal procedure and whose peculiar training and habits of thought and action dictated unquestioning submission to their decrees, it must be manifest that extreme hardship and injustice were the frequent and inevitable results.

It may be alleged that while yet the act of Parliament in question was on the statute book it had been allowed to lapse into comparative desuetude, so incompatible with modern civilization would have been the application of this barbarous law. But, unhappily, the record of the years 1887, 1888 and 1889 gives instances of its enforcement under assumed authority with disastrous consequences to the property and industry of some of Her Majesty's subjects engaged in the fisheries of Newfoundland.

We submit that this law could not possibly be rendered applicable to the circumstances which it is designed to meet. All social and general conditions in Newfoundland, and particularly on those parts of the coast affected by the treaties, have undergone a radical and complete change in the many years that have elapsed since the law under consideration was enacted. There was then no resident population in those localities. Population has long since settled there in considerable numbers, and trade and various sources of employment have become developed and yield their contributions to our customs revenue. Several years ago Her Majesty's Government confirmed the occupation of the coast by acceding to the desire of the residents for representation in the House of Assembly and for the appointment of magistrates and police. They are periodically visited by the Supreme Court on circuit; they have regular communication with the rest of the country and with Canada by mail and passenger steamers—in a word, all the ordinary institutions of civil life to the extent to which the means of the colony enable it to provide them. The permanence of their position being thus conclusively assured and recognized, it can hardly be necessary to point out with what cruel severity, with what destructive effect, the proposed law would operate upon the trade, the industries and every appreciable interest of this section of our people. It must be clear, beyond reach of doubt, that to recall this instrument of coercion in [illegible] would be to outrage the feelings and the rights of the law-abiding and loyal inhabitants of this whole dependency of the British Crown.

We would, therefore, most earnestly implore your honorable House, by all your honored and revered traditions, to desist from inflicting upon the people of this country the calamity of such an enactment as that which is now in contemplation.

We would remind your honorable House that Her Majesty's Government and that of France have lately agreed on arbitration respecting the Newfoundland fisheries, such tribunal, however, proposing to deal with one question only; and this the recent question of the lobster fishery. This partial proceeding has been decided, not only without reference to the Newfoundland Government, but against their emphatic protest.

We, too, on the part of this colony, beg to present an equally emphatic protest against a course adopted in direct violation of the principles of that constitutional form of government which it is our privilege to possess.

We would, in conclusion, respectfully invoke the aid of your honorable House for the protection of the treaty rights of Newfoundland against the demand of the French for an exclusive fishery, including lobster fishing, on those portions of the coast where they hold acknowledged privileges. The rights of British subjects have on several occasions been declared and the pretensions of the French disallowed by some of the ablest of the statesmen of Britain, notably by Lord Palmerston, and only last year by the Marquis of Salisbury. We feel that your honorable House will recognize the justice of our prayer that the definitions of these high authorities shall not continue to be mere theoretic pronouncements which France is permitted to contravene, but shall be carried out in their true significance and to their full practical effect.

We beg to inform your honorable House that we have appointed the Hons. Sir William V. Whiteway, Augustus W. Harvey, Moses Monroe, George H. Emerson and Alfred B. Morine, Esq., as a delegation to present this remonstrance, and we pray that they be heard at the bar of your honorable House.

Newfoundland's Claims.

LONDON, April 17.—Mr. Morine, one of the Newfoundland delegates, in an interview yesterday declared that if France declined to submit the whole Newfoundland question to arbitration England would be justified in enforcing a proper interpretation of the treaties. "Why," he asks, "should France alone choose the points for arbitration! There is no real fear of war. If Lord Salisbury had treated France as he treated America in the Behring Sea question all this trouble would have been saved." Both Mr. Morine and Mr. Emerson admitted that the present position in Newfoundland was bound to lead to annexation to America.

IMPROVED TRADE.

Crop Reports Hopeful and Business in All Lines Brisker.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Telegrams to Bradstreet's indicate that more seasonable weather and improving country roadways have had favorable effect on general trade. Crop reports from the Northwest are very favorable, as are those affecting winter wheat, and merchants in the spring wheat region are discounting their bills to a noticeable extent. Exports of wheat from San Francisco have been very heavy this week at high prices, spot commanding 90c per bushel, with Europe a ready taker. Wool sales have been slow with prices tending downward. Telegrams from Ontario report the wheat crop doing well with an encouraging influence on general trade. In Quebec the outlook for spring trade is fairly good. Navigation at Montreal will soon be open. The Dominion reports 30 business failures this week against 37 last week and 29 this week last year. The total number, January 1 to date, is 672 against 687 last year.

GODERICH, April 17.—Donald McKinnon, who was acquitted at the assizes on a charge of murdering his wife, and was sent to jail for four months for attempted suicide, made another attempt to end his life yesterday. This time his implement was a small piece of wire, which he succeeded in forcing about an inch into his body two inches below the heart. His effort at self-destruction was discovered by Jailer Dickson and the wire taken away.

Scalped by a Limb.

MOUNT FOREST, April 17.—George Langdon of Normanby was at work cutting down trees in Ryan's Bush near Pike Lake. He had cut through a tree which in falling knocked a heavy limb off, striking his head with such force that the whole top of the skull above the ears was literally swept off. Some fellow-workmen saw the accident and gave the alarm, but death must have been instantaneous.

Mistress Murphy's Husbands.

HALIFAX, April 17.—A case of bigamy is attracting attention at Pictou. George Prentice of this town married a Mrs. Murphy, nee Mag. McLennan, about five years ago. They have been living together since that time. A few days ago husband No. 1, Thomas Murphy, made his appearance from Boston and had his wife arrested on a warrant.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

INTERESTING DEBATE ON THE IRISH LAND BILL.

Morley, Balfour and Parnell Participate —An Amendment by Morley Voted Down—Parnell Does Not Wish for Local Government.

LONDON, April 17.—The debate on the Irish Land Bill was resumed in the House of Commons last evening. Mr. Morley moved an amendment to the effect that an advance of money should not be granted under the bill except with the approval of the County Council in the districts in which the holding for which the advance was asked might be situated. Tenants excluded from the benefits of the bill, he said, were required to make good the default of favored tenants without having any voice in the matter. The provision was so indefensible that he understood that Mr. Balfour now consented to modify it. The objection to delay, pending the creation of the councils, confirmed his belief that the Government had no real intention to introduce a local government bill. If they had such an intention, the Ashbourne Act would fulfil all purposes until a local government bill was passed.

Mr. Balfour insinuated that Mr. Morley's speech was for electioneering purposes. He contended that the exceptional position of Ireland justified exceptional treatment. He referred vaguely to his suggested modification as tending to maim, though not to destroy, the bill, and said that it would therefore be only applicable in acute cases of difference.

Mr. Parnell agreed with the principal which Mr. Morley advocated, but he objected to waiting for local government. If the Liberals were victorious in the general election, as he supposed they intended to be—(laughter)—they would not be in a hurry to promote local government, which they had always promised for the last 25 years. He proposed to amend Mr. Morley's amendment by a clause making it operative whenever a Local Government Bill was passed.

In the House of Commons to-day Thomas Sexton, one of the members for Belfast who was loudly cheered by the McCarthyites and by the Liberals during the debate on the Irish land bill, strongly condemned Parnell's attitude last night when the latter attacked the Liberal policy. Sexton said the Liberal position was not changed, but it was Parnell's attitude which had undergone a change. Mr. Parnell's proposed amendment to Mr. Morley's motion making it operative whenever a local government bill was passed would prevent Morley's object from being attained, which object was to compel the Conservatives to give Ireland local self-government. Morley's amendment was to the effect that an advance of money should not be granted under the bill except with the approval of the County Council in the district in which the holding for which advance was asked might be situated. After further discussion Morley's amendment was rejected 247 to 170. Parnell's amendment to Morley's motion was also defeated.

Although Morley's amendment, introducing in the Irish land bill the principle of local control, was a point on which the Irish sections were expected to sink all differences the spirit of faction got the upper hand. Parnell's amendment to the Morley amendment, followed by Sexton's amending the Parnell amendment, produced a feeling of irritation in the ranks of the Opposition, inducing many members to leave the House without voting on the most important attempt to alter the bill in committee. After this defeat the battle against the measure will be guerilla warfare. No leader of the Liberals will make any further effort to alter the character of the Government proposals. The bill has virtually passed the committee stage in the form which the Government projected. An announcement of the most striking kind was Mr. Balfour's statement that the bill which he was preparing to give Ireland local government would be circumscribed in character. His allusions to the operation of the land bill under local elected bodies clearly point to a scheme of county councils similar in structure to the English county councils.

IT KEEPS HIM BUSY.

Parnell Replies to Tim Healy's Bitter Attacks Upon Him.

LONDON, April 7.—In the House of Commons to-night Tim Healy made a bitter attack on Parnell and his followers for there inconsistency spiced with references to the fox had lost its tail, etc., Parnell turned on Healy and Sexton. They were, he said, trying in an underhand way to destroy the bill. He taunted them upon days when they were under his protection and direction and regarded with contempt to pose as land reformers.

PARNELL ON HEALY.

Parnell Now Sends Out a Manifesto to the English Electors.

LONDON, April 18.—Parnell has issued a manifesto to the members of the National League of Great Britain. The manifesto declares the McCarthyites are under English influence and he calls upon his countrymen in Great Britain to ignore the convention summoned by Irish whips under the shadow of English influence and calls on them to assert the principle of national independence and to declare that Irishmen alone shall regulate the conduct of Irish business.

PACKED IN A TIN BOX.

A Postmaster's Shocking Discovery Near A Small Village in Wellington

GRAND VALLEY, Ont., April 17.—An inquest was held last night on the body of a child found on the side of the railway track about three miles west of the station here. Robert Dickson, postmaster at Peepsinoe, was walking along the track, and observed a parcel lying at one side of the track, about six feet from the rails, which at once aroused his curiosity. The parcel was done up with a sheet of grey paper on the outside and tied on by a cord. Mr. Dickson thinking that the package to be goods of some kind and probably dropped off the train at once began to investigate. He unfastened the cord, took off the paper wrapping and found a woman's garment surrounding a tin tobacco box, the box being about one foot in length. He then opened the tin, which was fastened with small nails, and a black woollen scarf or shawl appeared, and on lifting the covering was horror-stricken to behold the remains of a female infant, which was crushed into the box.

The evidence of the doctors showed that the child had been murdered. Whether the box was thrown from the train or was placed there is a mystery.

A Blow That May Prove Fatal.

MILTON, April 17.—William McKenzie's 7-year-old son, Kenneth, is dangerously ill from the results of a blow in the stomach from the fist of a schoolmate named Armstrong. His recovery is problematical.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system. I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

SATURDAY, APRIL 18, 1891.

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

In another column will be found the annual report of the Sun Life Assurance Company, a report which is worthy of perusal by all readers and one which will be a source of gratification to all who are interested in the company's welfare, whether they be shareholders or policy holders. The unbroken progressive movement which has characterized the Sun Life during the twenty years of its existence has been a matter of great satisfaction to its promoters, and this year the annual report which they lay before the public will commend the institution to all. Every year has seen a marked improvement in the standing of the company, until to-day it occupies a high position. The successful results of the past year have never been equalled by the company in any previous year. Early in the year the business of the Company was augmented by the taking over of the life branch of the Citizens Insurance company to the extent of 1,372 policies amounting to $1,707,000 assurance. But apart from this augmentation the new business of the company showed an increase over the increased business of 1889. The total number of policies written was 2,689 assuring $4,046,980, and the amount in force at the close of the year was $16,759,265 under 11,296 policies, an increase for the year of $3,421,272 in amount and 2,315 polices in number. There was a surplus over all disbursements of $558,718.74, which is a very satisfactory showing. The statement of assets is a most flattering one and will bear the closest scrutiny. The assets are shown to have increased and total $2,911,614, while the liabilities amount to $2,178,838, leaving a cash surplus to policy holders of $294,576. The investments of the company are of the best and safest character, two-thirds being on first mortgages on real estate yielding the largest result for the money invested. The success of the Sun Life is a matter for congratulation.

Old Friends are the Truest.

Men and women learn to appreciate and love old and true friends after they have passed through the ordeal of bitter disappointments, treachery, and betrayal by new found friends about whose antecedents they know nothing. It is just so with package dyes for domestic dyeing. The old and true friends, Diamond Dyes, are loved by all; but at times new friendships are cultivated through carelessness, and crude, common dyes are tried, only to cause regrets, anger and disappointments; strong resolutions are then made, that the old friends will forever be firmly adhered to, and continued confidence placed in them.

BRANT'S NEW SHERIFF.

William Watt, Jr., of Brantford Secures the Appointment.

BRANTFORD, April 17.—Mr. William Watt, jr., B.A., secretary of the Brantford Reform Association, has been appointed sheriff of Brant county in succession to the late William J. Scarfe. Sheriff Watt will enter upon his new duties within the next few weeks.

The new Sheriff was born in Brantford in September, 1845, and is the son of William Watt, merchant. He studied for the bar, but after practising his profession for a few years entered journalism, purchasing The Expositor in 1874. Early in 1890 he sold out to the present proprietor and again resumed the practice of his profession.

WAYS OF WOMEN FAIR.

FADS, FANCIES, AND FASHIONS OF THE GENTLER SEX.

A Difficulty Encountered by Many Married Women Which Seems to be Well Met in the Suggestions of "The Woman About Town."

The Woman About Town has received a letter signed "Dora Spenlow" which is too long to publish, but which amounts to about this. A married woman, who has boarded all the years of her married life, now finds herself, at her husband's earnest request, at the head of an apartment home. During the days of their boarding house life, she says, she had leisure to read and to dress well, and to make a not unpleasing figure in the life of her husband and her friends. Since their home-making experiment all these possibilities have faded away. They are not able to keep servants, and what with being cook and housemaid, the mistress finds herself unable to wear her pretty clothes, read the new books, or visit her friends. Her hands are swollen and disfigured, and, worse than all, she gets so tired that she has wholly lost her ambition and her pride. "It seems to me," she says, "that I must give up either our house or all my life outside our home, for as it is I am wholly absorbed, both mentally and physically, in my house and its cares."

This is a state of perplexity in which many a woman who marries a man of moderate means finds herself. It seems to The Woman that the cause of it is displayed in the lines which she has quoted—the absorption both physical and mental in the house and its cares. Here is a family of two persons and the care of six or eight rooms. Is it necessary that these should absorb one person's entire life for twelve or fifteen hours a day? It seems as if here there were displayed an over-nicety and exactingness that are very fine, to be sure, but are not worth securing at the price of all one's life. The great art of keeping house easily and well, consists in the ability to discriminate between what is important and what is not. For many housekeepers the duty of letting things go is greater than the duty of keeping things up. There is an art even in dusting a room—the art of knowing what pieces will bear to be neglected. It looks as if Dora Spenlow might be one of the over-nice housekeepers who, instead of taking their home duties rationally and easily, make a fetich of them and bow down to them and serve them, instead of making them render service unto them.

This condition of things is to be remedied only by a housekeeper's taking herself firmly in hand; by laying out so many hours a day in which her housework has got to be done or go undone, reserving certain hours for her old-time habits of self-care and self-cultivation. If she adheres rigidly to this and still keeps her conscience about her housekeeping, she will find that she will develop a way of looking at things in perspective which will readily distinguish the unimportant from the important. Suppose there is occasionally a spot on the kitchen floor, or suppose the china does stand round promiscuously in the china closet instead of being systematically packed away. That isn't going to mar your whole life. But to find yourself utterly worn out in mind and body at the end of a day; to see as you say you do, that you are losing your good looks, your interest in the outside world, your ambition and your pride—surely that is not a matter to take lightly. And this you see. Can't you see the other, and if you are given to that nicety of work which is no better, after all, than just pottering, learn to correct it?

And then there is doubtless just this to be taken into account in your case. It is very probable that your long boarding house experience, which gave you all your time for yourself, has led you to look with something like terror upon definite and imperative employment for every day in the week. But definite and imperative work for each day is just as good a thing for women as for men. It is probable that your husband spends seven or eight hours out of each twenty-four at his work. It is no less incumbent on you to spend four or five. You say you are not rich; then you have no right to a life of ease. Take your housework as your work in the world, to be done in a certain time, and done as well as it can be in that time. Then dismiss it and resume your habits of reading and caring daintily for your own person. Don't make a bugbear of your housework. You will only worry yourself into an untimely grave if you do. And the worst of that will be that nobody will appreciate your sacrifice.—New York Sun.

FADS, FANCIES AND FASHIONS.

For dresses there is a black pearl galloon, which carries an oval design made of colored stones and black oblong pearls.

White enamel low shoes are a novelty of the season. These are only suitable for housewear, at country house or seaside, and are only becoming to a small foot.

Sponge carpets occasionally with hot water in which either common salt or powdered alum has been dissolved. This not only brightens the carpet, but prevents moths.

A hat of black lace has a flaring ruche for a brim that is oddly stiffened. Dandelion flowers and blowaways brighten it and over these quiver gold and black butterflies.

Fringes of pearls with long, sharp ground pearl hangers are much seen, and so are fringes made with the above pearl balls. Fringes are also made with round and lengthy pearls.

A large hat of dark tan-colored straw has a brim that comes in a sharp point forward. Two bands of deep blue velvet ribbon are twisted around it and it is wreathed with blue myrtle flowers.

Many hats following the general style of the English walking hats are going to be worn for spring shopping and traveling purposes. Some of the swellest have only a single rosette or a single stiff quill for trimming.

A canton-flannel bag, made up with the downy side out, is a great convenience on sweeping day. Slip it over the broom and dust walls and wood-work with it. The bag is convenient also for dusting hard wood floors. For this purpose, dampen it slightly, and the floor may be kept clean a long time without washing.

Gaiters of cloth and suede are to be much worn, so say the dealers. And it will likely prove true, as it is an economical fashion. With a pair of Oxford ties you can have gaiters enough to match all your different costumes and so get the credit of having gown and shoes to match, which is a fancy of the present moment.

A very forest of fancy pins is seen. Two are used to fasten the high collar. One is a heart composed of three moonstones in a silver setting. The other is a flower, a cut silver daisy, perhaps, or a pansy in amethyst and gold. Gold and silver are frequently intermingled. A gold-pronged pin is seen with silver head. Amber and gold are still a favorite combination.

PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE.

Annual Meeting of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada—A Remarkable Report.

The annual meeting of the Sun Life Assurance company was held at its head office, St. James-st., Montreal, on Thursday, March 26th, at 2 p.m. There was a large attendance of gentlemen not only from the city, but from all sections of the Dominion. The following report was presented:—

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

It is with no little satisfaction that your directors present their annual report covering the transactions of the company for the year ending 31st December, 1890. An examination of the accompanying statements will show that while the progress of the company has always been steady and gratifying, yet in no corresponding period has such a marked advance been made in all the details that count for strength and general prosperity.

Early in the year arrangements were made with the Citizens Insurance Company of Canada, by which the life business of that company as it stood at 31st March, 1890, was assumed by us. It is hoped that the transaction will prove profitable in the ordinary course, while directly aiding our regular business by extending our connections.

During the year we received 2,834 applications for life assurance of $4,586,005.79, and 1,196 applications for accident insurance of $2,114,000, making a total of 4,030 for $6,680,074.79. These figures do not include the policies transferred from the Citizens company. After deducting the declined and not completed cases the policies written were as follows:—

	Policies.	Amount.
Our ordinary life business	2,689	$4,046,979.79
Re-assured from the Citizens Insurance Co.	1,372	1,707,810.23
Total life policies issued during year	4,061	5,754,790.02
Accident Policies Issued	1,186	2,079,050.00
Total new policies	5,247	$7,833,840.02

The directors have for many years been able to report that the new life business of each twelve months had been in excess of anything previously attained in the company's history; and the same gratifying condition is present this year also. The regular life applications alone, not including the reassurance contract, were 79 for $152,206.24 in advance of those of 1889, which again were ahead of those of all previous years.

The amount in force in the life branch at 31st December was $16,759,265.92 under 11,296 policies, being an increase of $3,421,272.84 in amount and 2,315 in number. There were in force, in addition, exactly 2,030 accident policies, covering $2,999,225 00.

The financial statements presented herewith are the best possible evidence of the rapidity of the company's growth and the flourishing condition of its affairs. The cash income for premiums and interest reached the large sum of $889,678.87, which is an advance beyond the figures of 1889 of $325,968.36. If we deduct the $187,906.26 received from the Citizens company, the increase in the regular business is seen to be $138,062.10. This amount alone is almost equal to the total income of the company ten years ago.

The assets also were increased by $677,601.47, bringing the total up to $2,473,514.19, or including subscribed capital, to $2,911,614.19. The progress here shown is remarkable and most gratifying. It has, moreover, been accompanied by the satisfactory addition of $75,639.06 to the surplus, which now amounts to $322,175 09 beyond all liabilities and capital. This large sum promises well for the division of profits which will take place at the close of the current year.

The sum paid for death claims, matured endowments and other payments to policyholders during the year was $149,132 43. The total amount thus returned to policyholders from the company's foundation, to the close of the year was $1,334,815 78. The benefit which the disbursement of this large sum has been to the widows and orphans of the land can hardly be appreciated.

The building which we are erecting as the head office of the company is now nearing completion, and your directors expect that those parts to be occupied by the Union Bank and ourselves will be in a condition to be entered upon by 1st May next.

The investments have as usual been carefully examined by a committee of the board and found in perfect order. They have pleasure, moreover, in certifying to the very high character of the assets. The auditors also, as in previous years, have made their usual thorough examination of the books and communicated with the individual borrowers and ascertained that the amounts charged against them in the Company's mortgage accounts are correct. Their certificate is attached hereto.

The Directors who retire this year are: Hon. A. W. Ogilvie, and Messrs. Robert Anderson and J. P. Cleghorn, all of whom are eligible for re-election.

The President explained some items in the report and moved its adoption. He was followed by a number of speakers who expressed in the strongest terms their satisfaction at the admirable statement now before them. Attention was particularly drawn to the high quality of the investments. They are first class in themselves, as is shown by the small amount of overdue interest on the mortgages, and in addition to this the company has for years followed the wise course of writing off annually various amounts, so that a contingency fund has been placed to the credit of various items in the assets. This does not mean that losses have occurred, but that the company in its prosperous years is quietly setting aside amounts to which any losses which may arise in the future can, if need be, be debited. The average interest earned on the investments during the year was 6.04 per cent., and the total amount of real estate owned by the company as the result of foreclosures is but 4 per cent. of the current mortgages. This is indeed a remarkable showing. The company now does as much business in one year as formerly in five, and while the growth of the institution in size of late years has been marvellous, it has at the same time been accompanied by a most gratifying increase in surplus, the accumulation of which in one year alone is now almost equal to the total surplus accumulated during the five years of the previous quinquennium.

The progress already made has been very great in every respect, and the company already stands among the most powerful financial institutions of the Dominion. But the indications are that it has but entered upon the tide of prosperity and that the future will eclipse anything in the past, great as the results already attained are.

How Long Must Our People Suffer?

It seems strange, after the thousands of years men have been living in houses, that they should not know how to build them,—and yet this is true, if we are to judge by the complaints and cries of despair which rise every now and then in the newspapers. Some of the weak points are: bad ventilation, imperfect drains and badly constructed traps. These three drawbacks or errors in connection with house building are responsible for an immense amount of sickness and disease in every community. We live in a polluted atmosphere and continually breath sewer gas and the vitiated air resulting from bad ventilation. While this stage of things is terribly dangerous to the perfect health, it is murderous and generally fatal to the weak and those predisposed to disease. Typhoid, Diphtheria and Blood Poisoning are seen on every hand, and are busy in hundreds of homes. Here a word of warning and advice to the weak, nervous, brain tired, weary and worn out man and woman is necessary. Those who are subjects of headaches, mental depression, dyspepsia, billiousness, despondency and imperfect digestion are warned of danger, especially if living in badly constructed dwellings. Paine's Celery Compound taken at regular intervals is the best known preventative of disease. It tones the whole system, giving to it strength, vigor, perfect cultivation, and fortifies the digestive organs. It gives a calm and peaceful feeling, and a tanquil mind, as well as a cheerful disposition. Paine's Celery Compound does all this, and will assuredly enable all to resist disease and suffering.

CASH HARDWARE STORE.

On and after 1st April we shall do business on a Cash Basis.

To cover the inevitable losses attendant upon a credit business, (which accrue from amount of time spent in keeping accounts, collecting, bad debts, interest account, and in numerous other ways, larger margins of profit must be asked.

In these times cash buyers ask, expect and are entitled to close prices. A careful consideration of the subject convinces us that the time has come for a cash business done on smaller profits.

The only customers who may be put to inconvenience are those who have had long credit. In more ways than one it will be to their advantage to pay cash.

For convenience of our old customers who consider their accounts due when presented, we will call 30 days cash and render all accounts the first of each month, and we wish to say that we will be happy to do business with them on these terms.

As the new departure is something of an experiment, what would be considered a close cash price will be made all through the stock. Not a few leaders only, but a general reduction in everything from the fourth flat to the cellar.

Our idea is to perform more than promised rather than promise more than can be fulfilled.

Our stock is large and varied, consisting of Builders', Contractors', Household, Mechanics', Painters', Shoemakers', Farm, Mill, Factory, Lumbermen's, Sporting, Threshers', Cabinetmakers', and other lines of Hardware.

SATURDAY, APRIL 18, 1891.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

Council Meeting To-night.

In compliance with the request of the Board of Trade a special meeting of the Town Council is called for this evening to consider the grant to assist in securing a charter for the Peterborough, Sudbury and Sault ste. Marie railway.

The First of the Season.

It is a trifle early to announce an excursion, but it is desirable to make a note of the fact that Peterborough Lodge S. O. E., No. 64, have completed arrangements for an excursion to Toronto per G. T. Ry., on Thursday, June 4th next. Full particulars further on.

Another Pacer for the District.

On Saturday last, says the Lindsay Post, Mr. J. J. Daly returned from a trip across the border, where he purchased the fast "side wheeler" Minnie Belle. This young mare is only six years old, and is strongly bred in pacing lines. Minnie is, we believe, eligible for the 2.25.

Evidently Like Lindsay—A Non-success.

The Lindsay Warder says:—"Peterborough wants a road-scraper. Of course that town is behind Lindsay in the matter of road scrapers, as in other things. But if Peterborough really wants to get a first-class, double-acting, self-ejecting, mud-plated road-scraper and road-making machine combined, they might hear of something to their advantage by applying to the chairman of the "Road Machine" committee of our local council." The "machine" was evidently like the town it went to.

Nervous headache, female weakness, pale and sallow complexions, suppressions, etc., speedily yield to Dr. William's Pink Pills. They enrich the blood, restore shattered nerves, produce rosy cheeks and the glow of health. Sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price—50c. a box, or five boxes for $2—by addressing Dr. Williams Med. Co., Brockville, Ont.

At St. Peter's Cathedral.

The Reverend J. R. Teefy, B. A., superior of St. Michael's College and member of the Senate of Toronto University, arrived this morning and is the guest of the Bishop of Peterborough. The immediate purpose of the reverend gentleman's visit is to deliver a lecture to-morrow (Sunday) evening in St. Peter's Cathedral under the auspices of the St. Vincent de Paul Society for the poor. Father Teefy is widely known and deservedly recognized not only in Toronto but throughout the Province as a most able and eloquent lecturer and pulpit orator. All are cordially invited. A silver collection will be taken up at the close of the lecture in aid of the Society's fund.

Y.M.C.A. Notes.

Mr. George Gilchrist will address the Young Men's Meeting to-night. Topic: "Daniel, a young man with a purpose." Lively singing. All welcome.

Mr. T. G. Anderson will lead the Consecration meeting Sabbath morning at 9.15 a. m. Topic: Sunday School Lesson, Jonah 1-1-17.

Mr. C. K. Calhoun, General Secretary, Lindsay, is in town and will be at all three services and take part.

Bible Class Tuesday evening at 8 p.m.

To Nervous Debilitated Men.

If you will send us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dr. Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances, and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system, and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, and manhood. Pamphlet free. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

THE BOARD OF TRADE DISCUSS THE RAILWAY TO THE NORTH.

The Promoters of the Peterborough, Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie Railway Have the Board to Support Them—$500 to be Asked from the Town to Secure a Charter.

A meeting of the Board of Trade was held last evening in the Council Chamber for the purpose of considering the proposed railway connection with Bobcaygeon and the back country. The road has already been brought before the public and from the action of the Board power has been lent to the promoters of the new railway and now the Town Council will be approached. Mr. R. Fair, Vice-President, was in the chair. Among those present were Messrs. F. J. Lewis, C. Taylor, J. J. Irwin, A. V. R. Young, Alex. Elliott, T. A. Hay, H. Phelan, Geo. A. Schofield, J. Fairweather, C. N. Brown, Geo. Hilliard, D. W. Dumble, E. Shortly, E. Green, W. H. Mulhern, R. Mulholland, A. Stevenson, W. Manson, R. McWhinnie, A. Clegg, C. Wynn, W. J. Sherwood, Jos. English, W. J. Minore, J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., R. Kingan, Councilor Kelly.

THE DEPUTATION HEARD.

The deputation which interviewed Mr. Sargeant at Montreal in reference to the proposed road northward was represented by Mr. John Burnham, Q.C., M.P., and Councillors E. H. D. Hall and Cahill.

The President opened the meeting and on motion the deputation was heard.

Mr. JOHN BURNHAM, Q.C., M.P., said he appeared as President of the Peterborough, Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie Railway. He briefly outlined the circumstances which had led to the formation of the company for the purpose of giving life to the proposed line. He told of the deputation's visit to Montreal and their interview with Mr. Sargeant. He produced a map showing the route of the road through the northern townships to Bobcaygeon. Mr. Sargeant had received the deputation courteously and had promised to have three surveys made of the line. The promoters had no other object in agitating the road other than to benefit the interests of the town. He spoke of the local importance of the road and said he thought the citizens of Peterborough should take an interest in the enterprise.

Councillor CAHILL also pointed out that it was important that Peterborough should have access to the back country, now that railways were being built all round us and we were liable to be cut off. Those connected with the promotion of the railway had no pecuniary interest and they thought that the Board of Trade might suggest some means by which it could be furthered. He hoped that they would help it along in the interests of the town.

Councillor E. H. D. HALL added a few words saying he thought they should get a bonus both from the Dominion and Ontario Governments. If the usual Government bonuses, Dominion of $3,200 per mile and the Ontario of $2,000, were granted they could build the road to Bobcaygeon with about $25,000 additional. What should be done at once was to take steps to secure a charter which would cost about $500.

THE COUNCIL TO BE APPROACHED.

The matter was then informally discussed by the Board.

Mr. GEO. HILLIARD discussed the route and thought the road was a desirable enterprise.

Mr. D. W. DUMBLE also favored the railway. He said that the road would be a benefit to the town, bringing to Peterborough the trade of the back country that now went to Lindsay and Trenton. He thought that, while the extent of the benefit could not be measured at present, there would be incidental benefits which would justify the town in assisting the gentlemen to obtain a charter. Mr. Dumble therefore moved that the Board of Trade respectfully request the Town Council to make a grant of $500 to assist the promotion of the Peterborough, Sudbury & Sault St. Marie railway in securing a charter and promoting the scheme of the proposed railway.

Mr. HILLIARD seconded the resolution.

Mr. J. J. Irwin pointed out that the Grand Trunk struck the navigable waters of the north at six different points and he asked what raw material was expected to come down by rail. The fruits of the forest came now by water.

Messrs. Dumble, Hilliard and Macklin replied by stating that the possibilities of the back country were unknown and that a traffic would be developed.

Mr. MACKLIN said that the Grand Trunk wanted to tap Bobcaygeon and head off its competitors and bring the traffic from the north to Peterborough. The Company thought the line feasible.

Mr. STRATTON thought the resolution a reasonable one. He said that he had pointed out to the Ontario Government, when the Bobcaygeon and Lindsay deputation had interviewed the Government, that the road from Chemong to Bobcaygeon would be shorter. He had also written Mr. Sargeant, and had reason to believe that the Grand Trunk wanted a line to the north. He could not say what the Government would do, although from conversation he thought they would consider it fully, and deemed a bonus reasonable to a road to Huntsville and on to Sault St. Marie.

The resolution was then put and carried unanimously.

On motion, the Railway Committee were appointed to wait upon the Council with the resolution.

It was also moved that the Mayor be requested to call a special meeting of the Town Council this evening.

THE DIVISION COURTS.

A petition, which had been forwarded by the Owen Sound Board, was read by the Secretary, asking the Local Legislature to extend the jurisdiction of the Division Court to include open accounts up to $200 and signed documents up to $500. The petition was referred to the Mercantile Committee to report thereon.

The names of Messrs. K. G. Lech, Albert Gilmour, W. H. Casement, J. P. Hurley and John R. Reid were added to the membership roll.

The Board then adjourned.

The "Eden Musee" Hurriedly Leaves.

The quiet commercial tide of George-st. was varied yesterday by the addition to the attractions of a dime museum which opened for business in Mr. O. C. Rowse's old stand. A giant boy and a fat negress weighing 487 pounds, were pictured on flaring canvas and were to be the bait for the capturing of those who will pay to see anything which is behind canvas. A colored gentlemen with black Prince Albert coat and shining silk tile and a white man were managing the show which the sign outside said was "The Eden Musee." Business did not rush during the day but when a couple of gentlemen went in one of the managers inside shouted "the afternoon performance is just over" and the sightseers were told they were too late to see the show. They demanded their money back but instead were given checks to return in the evening. In the evening the show business did not last long. The boys became informed that there was no fat woman or no giant boy and in short order proceeded to make life miserable for the two genteel show men. It grew so bad that business was suspended and Constable McGinty had to escort the pair in safety to the railway station while a hooting mob followed in the rear and, it is said, treated the visitors to a shower of decayed hen fruit. The pair left and decided to have a fat woman and big boy when they came next time.

Many people who pride themselves on their blue blood would be far happier with pure blood; but, while we cannot choose ancestors, fortunately, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, we can transmit pure blood to our posterity.

The Spring Medicine.

The popularity which Hood's Sarsaparilla has gained as a spring medicine is wonderful. It possesses just those elements of health-giving, blood-purifying and appetite-restoring which everybody seems to need at this season. Do not continue in a dull, tired, unsatisfactory condition when you may be so much benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies the blood and makes the weak strong.

TO ORNAMENT GEORGE-ST.

THE NEW Y. M. C. A. BUILDING AS IT IS TO BE.

The Outside Elevation Not Completed—The Plan of the Interior Arrangements Described—An Imposing Structure Well Planned and to be Well Finished.

Many interested citizens are living in hopes that before the death of the year 1891 that George-st. will be graced by a handsome and majestic pile at the corner of Murray and George-st., where the Young Men's Christian Association has secured a lot upon which to erect the proposed Association building. That their hopes will be realised there is good reason to feel sanguine, and with a little liberality on the part of the citizens the realization will be assured. The generosity of the late Mrs. Nichols has placed the long cherished desire of the Association workers to have a building of their own almost within reach, and a little effort will assure it. The Association officials when undertaking to erect a building for the home of their organization were desirous of obtaining plans that would provide for a structure which, while giving all the necessary accommodation and convenience, would at the same time combine elegance and beauty of architectural design. With this end in view sketch plans were asked for from Messrs. Gordon & Hellewell, architects of Toronto, and Mr. Wm. Blackwell, of town. After carefully considering and comparing the sketches submitted the plans of Mr. Blackwell were accepted as being the better adapted and more nearly meeting requirements of the Association. Mr. Wm. Blackwell, has therefore been engaged for some weeks upon the plans for the building. The plans for the building have been decided upon, but all the details of the outside elevation have not been altogether completed. The building, however, will be three stories high with a basement, and will be an imposing structure. The main entrance and front will be on George-st., where there will be a frontage of 60 feet. The facade will present a handsome and attractive appearance, there being no blankness or monotony in the style of architecture. The first story will be built of Credit Valley brown-stone, the second story of brick, and the third which will be gabled will be of ornamental tile work. From the street to the deck of the building there will be a height of 60 feet, while a tower, rising above the main entrance, will ornament the front elevation. To the south of the main entrance a window eight feet wide will look out from the library upon George st., while the same street will be viewed from the drawing-room on the north side of the entrance from three plate-glass windows with ornamental colored glass above. The windows facing George-st. in the second story will look out from the public hall.

On the Murray-st. side the building will stretch back a distance of 104 feet, and here there will be another entrance. The exterior appearance of the building will be decidedly imposing. There will be two balconies, one near the front entrance and one projecting from the Murray-st. side. The roof will be slated. Within, everything will be in keeping with the handsome appearance without. The first story will be 14 feet high, and the second and third 16 feet in height. The main entrance will be reached by a flight of stone steps leading into a portico. Upon stepping inside the visitors will be in a spacious reception hall 15 feet in width. On the left the visitor will enter the library, a room 16x15 feet with a grate. On the right a door will lead into the parlor or drawing room which will be 27x15 feet also furnished with a grate. Further on in the reception hall a wide archway on the right opens into the reading room, while a similar archway on the opposite side of the hall leads into the amusement room. The reading room is 25x17 feet and the amusement room 16x17 feet in dimensions.

On the left hand side of the hall in rear of this amusement room are the Secretary's office, 17x10, and his private room, 12x9. Crossing the hall again and in rear of the reading room will be the lecture room which is 25x27 feet. Folding doors will permit the drawing room, reading room and lecture room, which are on the right of the hall to be thrown into one when the occasion demands it, thus giving a room 57x27 feet. In the rear of these rooms will be the entrance from Murray st. opening into a hall 10 feet wide, where will be the stairway leading to the second story and another leading to the basement. This entrance will be used more especially on Sunday and will give access to the lecture room when the remainder of the building is closed up. From this hallway access is also gained to the gymnasium. This important adjunct to the building will be excellent in every particular. It will rise from the basement to the second story, giving a length of ceiling of 24 feet, thus allowing plenty of head room for the bars, trapeze and other gymnasium appliances. In dimensions this department will measure 57x30 feet, being the full width of the building. On this ground floor there is another room 16x16 feet, which will be the boys' room.

On the second storey the front of the building will be taken up by a large public hall, 57x30 feet, with a seating capacity for 220 persons. There will be a platform at the south end of this room, which will be admirably adapted to entertainments, concerts, etc. From the platform or stage access can be gained to a lavatory and closet, which will be fitted up with all the improved fixtures. The other rooms on the second story are a ladies' room 16x11 feet and three class rooms, 16x17, 22x20 and 16x15 feet respectively.

The third story will be laid out with rooms suitable for lodge purposes and for use of the caretaker. There will be a dumb waiter running from the caretaker's rooms in the top story to the basement.

Returning to the basement the visitor will find the gymnasium as stated on left of the stairway. To the right in the front part will be a lavatory, two dressing rooms and two shower baths each eight feet square. The remaining space on the north side of the basement will be used for lockers, which can be fitted up if desired for Turkish baths. The coal room and boiler room will be on the north side of the basement.

Extending from one end of the basement to the other directly beneath the hall on the ground floor will be a spacious double bowling alley, fitted up with all necessary apparatus.

The rooms and hall throughout will be well lighted and will be heated either by hot water or steam. The woodwork will be finished in oil and varnish and an innovation may be introduced in the ceilings.

There is no doubt that the possession of such a building by the Association would attract all the young men of the town to the organization and there would be a great increase in the membership.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

"Then why did she come to America?" Geoffrey inquired.

"Have you seen her on the subject?"

"I have had no opportunity yet."

"Well, leave it to me. You are not a diplomatist. This young Randolph has got himself in a nice position! If Miss Beatrix was not his sister; or if Marana were not his lady love, he could take a hand on one side or the other; but as it is he's helpless both ways. I should think he would feel tired. What sort of a fellow is he?"

"He seemed well enough the little I've seen of him."

"I see; you think of him as your future brother-in-law," said Wallie smiling. "But don't be too comfortable. That young lady is not to be played fast and loose with."

"Oh, I'm not comfortable!" said Geoffrey gloomily.

"Well, I won't hit you while you're down, but if you get up again, look out! Where is your young man?"

"Up stairs, I believe, with his father."

"I'll have a hack at him, to begin with. You may as well keep yourself to yourself until you hear from me again. We can't afford any more blunders."

He sent up his card, and was conducted to the room where the Randolphs, father and son, were. The latter was walking up and down the floor, while the former stood with his back to the fire, looking as high shouldered and dignified as possible.

"I am here," said Wallie pleasantly, after the formalities were over, "unofficially, on behalf of the lady who has been singing the past season under the name of Mlle. Marana."

"Mr. Dinsmore," said Randolph, Sr., twisting his eyebrow sternly, "you are perhaps not aware that the lady is under my especial charge."

"I have known for some months that she is your daughter, Mr. Randolph, but no one is aware that she is under your especial charge."

"I do not understand you, sir!" said Mr. Randolph fiercely.

"You told me several weeks ago, in the presence of my friend Bellingham, who remembers it, that you had but the slightest acquaintance with her. And your charge of her has amounted to so little that she has to-day come to me, who had no right to expect such an honor, for counsel and protection."

This was said quietly, but with a certain warmth and emphasis that abashed Mr. Randolph a good deal. He turned red, and opened his mouth once or twice, as though to speak, but no words came.

Hereupon Edward Randolph put in his oar. "Whatever may have been my sister's position before my arrival, sir," said he, "it's another thing now. I'll look out for her."

"If you do it will be but a tardy return for the services she has rendered you during the last few months," returned Wallie, with a peculiar brightness in his gray eyes.

"I don't recognise your right to meddle in our family affairs," cried Ed angrily.

"Your family affairs are liable to be public property before long. I intend for the sake of Miss Randolph to prevent it if possible," said Wallie composedly.

"Perhaps Mr. Dinsmore will explain himself," suggested Randolph, senior, in a less defiant tone.

"I wish to find out from you, before resorting to other means, whether Mlle. Marana means to take measures to assert any rights she may believe herself to have in this matter," answered Wallie, fixing his eyes on Ed.

Ed looked at his father, but made no reply.

"And in case she does," Wallie resumed, "I wish to know whether you, Mr. Edward, intended to act with her or against her?"

"He will act against her; I will answer for that!" put in Randolph, senior, with decision.

"I prefer to answer for myself, sir!" retorted Ed, frowning upon his parent.

"Answer for yourself, sir?" repeated the older gentleman excitedly. "You'll have enough to answer for then, I can assure you! You will have to answer for the fortune that you have dissipated sir—a fortune which belonged to you no more than it does to this gentleman here present. Where would you be, I should like to know, if your sister—your sister, who had never before been out of her father's house—had not paid your dissolute debts with the money which she earned with her own hands—voice, I mean—sir? How is a good for nothing fellow who robs his father of money to spend on a loose woman, and lets himself be supported by his sister"——

"Father, Mlle. Marana is not"——

"Hold your tongue, sir! Never mind what Mlle. Marana is not; I and everybody else knows what she is! And you stand there before me a beggar, without a cent in your pocket, except what your mistress may have had the compassion to give you, and tell me you will do as you please! By the Lord, sir—"

"I will not permit any man alive to slander that lady," called out young Mr. Randolph, in a white heat of wrath. "She is a lady, every inch of her. Whoever says the contrary lies! You may revile me all you like—I'll not say a word; though, as Mr. Dinsmore here told you, you abandoned my sister to the insults of all the blackguards in town, for the sake of the money she was putting into your pocket. Mr. Dinsmore," he added turning to that personage, "you are a gentleman and I'll speak to you. You see how I stand, and you can't wish me to feel more humiliated than I do. I love my sister—God knows it—in spite of all the trouble I've brought on her. She has replaced the money I spent, and not a cent of it will I ever touch, if I have to starve in the streets. But when I found on landing in New York to-day that it was my sister who had been taking Mlle. Marana's place, I knew I was done for. For the two women in this world whom I love and honor, by George! are set against each other, and I who would defend either of 'em with my life, can do nothing. After punishment like that it's not your shrieking and stamping that can make me feel any worse," he said, looking his father in the face.

At this point Wallie thought the time was come to interpose. He had less sympathy with the father than with the son, whose chief crime, after all, seemed to be that he had lost his head and his sense of personal responsibility for love's sake. It was no more than justice that both of them should be arraigned for their behavior, and it was poetical justice that the arraignment of each should come from the other. But it had gone far enough, and was not in itself agreeable for a third person to listen to.

"I think the best thing to do," he said, "is to go to Mlle. Marana at once and learn how she feels about it. The matter may perhaps be arranged quietly. If you'll come with me, Mr. Edward, we'll do what we can."

A BAD HUMOR CURED.

$5,000 Expended on Doctors and Medicine Without Avail. Gave Himself up to Die.

Good Wife Suggests Cuticura Remedies. Uses them 7 Months, and is entirely Cured

I was in the war during 1863-64, and took a heavy cold at Gettysburg, from which I never fully recovered. In 1878 I broke out in sores all over my chest and shoulder, which seemed impossible to cure. I tried all the famed doctors I could find, and to no avail. I expended some five thousand dollars trying to find a cure, but could not, and finally giving myself up to die, my good wife suggested to me, one day, to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES which were so extensively advertised and used. I followed her suggestion, and am happy to say by diligent application of your CUTICURA REMEDIES for seven months I was entirely cured, after spending five years of time and money without avail, and am a sound and well man to-day. You may refer to me if you wish, as I will tell any one who may call on me my experience.

WHERE WOMEN CAN VOTE

NEW SOUTH WALES TO ENFRANCHISE THE LADIES.

Bismarck Continues to Show Indomitable Opposition to the Government—Gladstone on the Opium Traffic in India—General European News.

BERLIN, April 17.—Prince Bismarck was interviewed to-day and says the Emperor would do well to desist from conceding further reforms and to revert to the Conservative policy maintained by his grandfather. Bismarck entered at length into matters of union of Germany. He said it was unnecessary to belong to a particular party to be Conservative, therefore in the last years of his official life he had the trouble to coalesce the Nationals Liberals and the Conservatives. He would much regret if that coalition fell to pieces. He hoped the Conservatives would distinguish between those with whom it was impossible to live in political concert and those who were honestly ready to do so.

Bismarck insisted upon his right to express an opinion on current affairs. His opinion might not agree with the ministerial opinion but would always be conservative. He would like the Government to attend to the motto "Quieta non Movere" as one of the highest principles of policy. Bismarck's speech presages his indomitable opposition to the Government.

Bismarck Still Has a Chance.

BERLIN, April 17.—The final returns from Geestemunde show there is a remote chance of Bismarck being defeated for the Reichstag on the necessary second ballot. He still gives no sign of retiring from the contest.

The danger will probably stimulate the National Liberals to poll a heavier vote in their effort to secure a Bismarck triumph.

Emperor William is somewhat anxious and is consulting Chancellor Von Caprivi, Count Von Moltke and other experienced men about the situation.

THE OPIUM TRAFFIC.

The Grand Old Man Tells What He Thinks About It.

LONDON, April 17.—In reply to letters and petitions from his Midlothian constituents in regard to the suppression of the opium traffic in India, Gladstone writes that he could not support Pease's motion made in the House of Commons on April 10 against allowing the opium traffic in India because he doubted that the House would support the measure dependent on the proposal of pledging parliament to compensate the loss to the Indian revenue consequent on such suppression. Gladstone says: "England's action as to the opium traffic until recently has often been indefensible, but she has happily altered her policy in the direction of restraint, for which I am hopeful of good results; though I await with anxiety and misgiving to learn what is the justification for the recent opening of opium shops in Upper Burmah."

TROUBLE IN HOLY CITY.

The Excitement in Benares Gradually Cooling Down.

BENARES, April 17.—The excitement in this city, originating from the demolition of a temple in order to provide a site for the new waterworks, has taken a change for the better in the aspect of affairs here, though the change was preceded by a serious riot. The mobs which filled the streets during the morning became more violent. In spite of the efforts of the local officials, the police and the military, the natives who were in a state of semi-revolt, cut the telegraph wires, looted the railway station and plundered the railway treasury chest of 3000 rupees. The local authorities summoned a large number of volunteers to their assistance, and succeeded in arresting a hundred of the most violent of the rioters. These arrests have resulted in quieting the disturbance for the present at least.

New South Wales to Give the Ladies Votes.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., April 17.—The Premier of New South Wales, Sir Henry Parkes, announced to-day that the Government would introduce a bill providing for the enfranchisement of women.

Gen. Booth's Farm Colony.

LONDON, April 17.—Gen. Booth, Commander-in-Chief of the Salvation Army, has agreed to pay £10,000 for 600 acres of land near Southend, upon which he will establish his farm colony—one of the agencies by which he expects to redeem "Darkest England." He will from time to time buy additional land, and will spend from £15,000 to £20,000 in buildings, drainage and other improvements. The taxes on the property will average £21 per acre. The land is badly situated, and in the judgment of experts the price paid is absurdly high.

Wives Cannot Be Imprisoned.

LONDON, April 17.—In the House of Lords to-day the Lord High Chancellor, referring to the Clitheroe abduction case, in which Mr. E. H. Jackson was by the Court of Appeal found to have no right to compel his own wife to live with him, stated that the Government would not introduce a bill giving men power to imprison their wives for refusing to comply with a magistrate's order restoring the man to his conjugal rights. Parliament, said Lord Halsbury, had abolished the power to imprison a wife for refusing to live with her husband, and the judges could not alter the law.

Further Fighting in Assam.

CALCUTTA, April 17.—A despatch from Rangoon states that Capt. Presgrave, who was reported to have reinforced Lieut. Grant at Fort Thabat, has met and defeated 800 Manipuris. Presgrave's mounted infantry pursued the Manipuris and killed 50. There was no loss of life on the British side.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

A Bill to Enable Public School Boards to Assist Industrial Schools—A Scarcity of Subjects.

TORONTO, April 18.—The Assembly was occupied yesterday with the motion of Mr. McColl, that in the opinion of this House, sheriffs, registrars of deeds, county attorneys, clerks of the peace, clerks of the County Court, Division Court clerks and bailiffs and other county officials now appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council ought hereafter to be chosen by popular election.

The motion was opposed by the Government. Mr. Fraser was particularly strong, speaking of the change as a most pernicious one. If these officers were elected, why should not also the judges, police magistrates, justices of the peace, etc.? He hoped the day would be far distant when the House would vote for any such resolution.

In the course of the debate Mr. Awrey quoted from newspaper statements attributed to Mr. Sol White favoring annexation. Mr. White said he was not a revolutionist but a loyal citizen. He preferred political union on fair terms to unrestricted reciprocity. If any political change was inevitable he preferred to make it now when the country could make fair terms. He denied that he had ever said anything against the interests of Canada in any way. The motion was withdrawn after a long discussion.

Mr. Ross has introduced a bill to amend the Industrial Schools Act by providing that Public School boards may aid Industrial Schools even if they are without their jurisdiction.

Dr. W. T. Aikins, dean of the medical faculty of Toronto University, and Dr. Geikie, dean of Trinity Medical School, interviewed the Minister of Education with reference to securing subjects for dissection of which there is a scarcity at present.

TORONTO TRUTH'S

New Spring Bible Competition

No. 22.

In these latter days there have arisen many false schemes and many scores of imitations of TRUTH'S Competitions, but one after another have failed and utterly perished, yet TRUTH remains, and makes good all its promises. Its reputation is now too well established to risk damaging it, and as it has cost a very large amount of money and many years of care and labor to build up, the publisher could not afford to fail in carrying out all his agreements to the letter. There are twenty-one divisions of the largest list of bona fide prizes ever offered and ever actually given away by any publisher in the world. The total value of prizes in this Spring list is about $16,000 00. The lists are so large it would cost altogether too much to give them in detail here. There are pianos, gold and silver watches, china tea and dinner sets, ladies' and gentlemen's bicycles, silver tea sets, silk dresses, books, money, and hundreds of other valuable rewards. You pay nothing for these prizes, as everyone concedes that full value is received for the dollar in securing TRUTH every week for three months. Send one dollar and answers to the five following questions. Where in the Bible are these words first found: 1, GRAIN; 2, CORN; 3, WHEAT; 4, BARLEY; 5, RYE. If your answers are correct and your letters arrive in time you are almost sure to get a reward, as there are so many and everyone cannot always find correct answers to all these questions. All the five answers must be correct to get any prize, but you will get full value for the dollar in TRUTH if you don't get anything else. If you want to see the list of rewards before sending in your dollar, mail TRUTH ten cents and a copy will be sent you containing the list of prizes. But there have been very few dissatisfied prize-winners in previous competitions, considering that he has given away during the past eight years scores of thousands of prizes. Some people expect a piano for every dollar sent, and are mad if they don't get it. He wishes it were possible to give every subscriber a gold watch or a piano or both, but says it can't be done. Some publishers intimate they will, but nobody can do it for any length of time. Send one dollar and correct answers and you wont repent it; and bear in mind that it is not guaranteed that everybody whose answers are correct will get a prize, but that all the prizes in the twenty-one different lists will be given away. The competition remains open only until the last day of June next, inclusive, after which the prizes will be immediately distributed to the successful ones. Ten days will be allowed for letters to reach TRUTH from distant points after the 30th June. All, however, must be postmarked where mailed not later than 30th June, or any time between now and that date. Address S. Frank Wilson, "Truth" Office, Toronto, Ont., Canada.

THE RIPPER IN NEW YORK

A MURDERER SIMILAR TO THE WHITECHAPEL BUTCHERIES.

A Disreputable Woman of Gotham Cut to Pieces and Shockingly Mutilated in One of the Worst Districts—Her Suspected Murderer in Custody.

NEW YORK, April 24.—About 10.45 last night a man and woman entered East River Hotel, Catherine and Water-streets. The man's entry in the register reads "Knickloe and wife." The man was a stranger, while the woman was a dissolute character who frequented the neighborhood. They were assigned to a room on the top floor. This morning a servant endeavored to awaken the couple, but did not succeed. The door of the room was forced and on the bed was found the woman dead and disembowelled. The man had disappeared. The murderer was a man 33 years old and shabbily dressed. It is believed he is "Jack the Ripper." The woman was cut in pieces in the same manner as the Whitechapel victims. She was lying naked on the bed, the sheet and her underclothing were tied tightly about the throat and head, and the abdomen was cut and slashed in a horrible manner by a dull, broken table knife which lay on the floor near the bed. The viscera had been cut and from appearances a part was missing. The woman had evidently been strangled.

The victim has been recognized as Carrie Brown, aged 60. Nearly all the detectives in the city are engaged on the case and every effort is being made to find a man known as "Frenchy," an acquaintance of the woman. The district where the murder was committed is similar to the Whitechapel district of London. The house where the murder was committed is known as "The House of All Drinks," from the big sign of the many kinds of vile beverages that are on draught there. The place is perhaps one of the worst of its class. In the very room in which this murder was committed another low woman was found dead one morning. The bartender has also been arrested for killing a man with a sabre.

Up to midnight four men and seven women had been arrested, who are expected to throw light on the case. At 1 a.m. Adolph Kaltenberg, whose description answers to that of the murderer, was taken into custody.

CUT HIS THROAT AT 18.

Tragic Suicide of a Young Lad in Dundas County.

MORRISBURG, Ont., April 24.—Herman Servin, aged 18, only son of Mrs. William Servin of Iroquois, committed suicide at his sister's. For some time past the young man has been working on a farm across the river and had been in low spirits. He retired to his room and shortly after was found with his throat cut.

Killed By a Cherry Stone.

LINDSAY, April 24.—The 10-year-old daughter of John Fowler of the 14th concession, near Janetville, died under very distressing circumstances. She swallowed a cherry stone, which lodged somewhere in the bowels. An operation was performed to relieve her pain and the stone taken out, but death put a stop to her sufferings.

THE SILENT ONE SLEEPS.

COUNT MOLTKE DIES SUDDENLY FROM HEART FAILURE.

He Had Attended the Reichstag in the Afternoon and the News of His Death Came Upon Berlin Like a Thunderbolt—The Child of Fortune's History.

BERLIN, April 24.—Field Marshal Count Helmut Von Moltke, the man who has so often led the Prussian eagle to victory, the man whose praises all Germany has universally sung, whose name has been on every tongue for half a century, and upon whom honors unique in the history of the Fatherland were showered on the occasion of the 90th anniversary of his birth, on October 26 last, died today in his castle at Kreisau, near the beautiful promenades of the Thiergarten, clad in the uniform which he always wore, and with the iron cross pinned on his breast. To the end he was the simple soldier—as modest and unassuming as when, an unknown lieutenant 70 years ago, he proffered his sword to Prussia's King.

Count Von Moltke attended the session of the Reichstag this afternoon. His death was very sudden and the physicians who were summoned announced that it was caused by failure of the heart. He died at 9.45 p.m., passing away quietly and painlessly. The news of the Count's death has caused great sorrow here.

Helmut Karl Bernhard Von Moltke was essentially a child of the century. Born in the village of Parchim, in Mecklenburg, on Sunday, Oct. 26, 1800, the son of Baron Fritz Von Moltke, he belonged, on his father's side, to one of the oldest families in the Empire. The Baron resigned his place in the army and took up his abode in Luebeck. In that historical city young Helmut made his first acquaintance with the "hereditary enemy" of Germany, the soldiers of France. Napoleon had made himself Emperor, had conquered Austria and Russia at Austerlitz, had dismembered the holy Roman Kingdom and by the battle of Jena had humbled and crushed poor Prussia. On Nov. 6 the city was besieged and the French soldiers soon sacked the place. Baron Moltke's home suffered among the rest. The tumult left a lasting impression upon the mind of the boy, who was destined, years later, to have such terrible revenge. By the war and the humbled condition of Prussia Baron Moltke lost his fortune and was obliged again to take up his sword in the service of Denmark. Young Moltke then entered the military academy at Copenhagen. His resignation was accepted in 1822, and after a creditable examination he was appointed a second lieutenant in the 8th Prussian Regiment of Infantry.

In 1835 he set out for Turkey and was for four years in the service of Turkey. His life in the far East was full of adventure. He traveled through Asia Minor and camped at the sources of the Euphrates and Tigris; he took part in the memorable and cruel campaign against Mehemed Ali, and acted as an escort to the Sultan in his journey through Rumelia and Bulgaria. He prepared an elaborate work on the condition of the Turkish army; he drew plans of the Dardanelles and surveyed both banks of the Bosphorus; he drew a map of Constantinople, inspected armies and built bridges, palaces and aqueducts.

In 1845 he was appointed adjutant of Prince Henry of Prussia, who was then living in Rome. He spent almost a year in Italy, when the death of the Prince brought him again to Prussia. He was again placed in the general staff, being assigned to duty at Coblenz. During the following seven years, he advanced rapidly up the military ladder until 1855, when he was appointed adjutant of the Crown Prince. At 58 years of age, he succeeded to a place in which he was destined to win immortal fame. King Frederick William IV., on account of sickness, was obliged to give up the reins of government in favor of his brother, Prince William, in 1857. General von Manteuffel had been summoned to the Cabinet and Moltke succeeded him as chief of the general staff.

Moltke's first duty in his new office was a reorganization of the army. This he completed in 1860, as well as plans for a war against France, which was then believed imminent. The war with Denmark, however, came first. Although his name was not heralded at its close Moltke was the real conqueror of the heights of Dueppel, and added to Germany the proud provinces of Schleswig-Holstein and Lauenburg. The sound of cannon had hardly ceased to reverberate when Prussia began preparations for another war. Moltke, Bismarck, Roon and the King foresaw trouble from the common occupation of Schleswig-Holstein by Prussia and Austria. On June 8, 1866, the tocsin of war was again sounded. Moltke's towering and prophetic genius asserted itself again. True to his great strategic principle, "March separately, attack in union," he sent the three army corps of Prussia toward Koeniggraetz. The brilliant victory laid the foundation for the union of the German States. In one night he was famous. His return home was a triumphal march, of which a Cæsar might have been proud. Villages were decorated in his honor, deputations were sent to meet him, cities gave him their freedom. "Prussia knows itself now," he said. "That is the greatest result of the war. Now Germany may say that it is Germany." The Prussian Landtag voted Moltke a donation of 200,000 thalers for his services.

But new, harder and grander duties fell to his lot.

Before the year 1870 had opened the plans for the mobilization and transportation of the troops and for operations on the field of battle were in the hands of King William. Every emergency was provided for, and Moltke fought over and over again the great battles of the Franco-Prussian war before a cannon had been fired. To his masterful foresight was due the wonderful success of the German arms. Seven days after the declaration of war, on July 19, the mobilization of the troops was complete. Eight days later the armies were drawn up between the Rhine and Saar. All are familiar with the history of that war. Its great victories—Mars-la-Tour, Gravelotte, Sedan and Metz—were, in a great measure, his victories. Metz, too, capitulated on his birthday, when King William conferred upon him the title and dignity of count. Upon his return home, the Reichstag voted him a donation of 300,000 thalers; Emperor William appointed him field-marshal general, a life member of the Herrenhaus and knight of the order Pour le Merite; universities conferred degrees upon him; cities gave him diplomas of citizenship; forts and men-of-war were christened with his name. He left Berlin on July 31, 1870, the subject of a king; he entered Berlin on March 16, 1871, the citizen of an empire.

SHELLED WITH SHRAPNELL

Manipur Villages Burned and the Rebels Shot Down.

SIMLA, April 24.—The British column advancing on the Manipuris under Gen. Lockhardt reached a large native settlement in the Bohagri Valley. The British force halted when within sight of the settlement, and sent scouts forward to inform the Manipuris that the British general was awaiting proposals of peace from the insurgent tribes. The rebels refused to answer, and the British troops were ordered to advance. The column pushed forward and burned twelve villages which had been occupied by the rebels. The latter in great force retreated to the hills. The British force then shelled the hills with shrapnel, killing and wounding large numbers of the enemy. The latter are now believed to be completely cowed.

Portugal Finds That Discretion is the Better Part of Valor.

LONDON, April 24.—As a result of the action of the Portuguese officials in firing on the steamer Agnes, which was conveying the expedition of Sir John Willoughby up the Pungwe, the British Prime Minister forwarded an ultimatum to the Portuguese Government declaring unless facilities were afforded to British subjects to open the Pungwe in accordance with the provisions of the modus vivendi now existing between Great Britain and Portugal, the British Government would resort to force to ensure respect on the part of Portugal to her treaty engagement, and the result would be disastrous to Portugal in that part of the world.

The Portuguese Cabinet to-day, under pressure of Lord Salisbury's ultimatum, gave consent to the free passage of the Pungwe River.

The King of Portugal signed six decrees yesterday, all aiming at economy in the different branches of the public service.

Andrew McKenna, aged 8, and Neil Moffatt, aged 11, stole from a delivery wagon a demijohn containing five gallons of whisky at New York yesterday. The boys drank immoderately of the liquor. McKenna soon died and Moffatt is dying.

The Italian Government has decided to allow orderly meetings on May Day of the workingmen in Italy. The Government, however, has issued instructions rigorously prohibiting the workingmen from marching in procession.

At a meeting of the Tenants' Defence Fund at Dublin it was decided, owing to the refusal of Parnell to release the Paris fund for the benefit of the evicted tenants, to devote the whole sum in the association's hands, amounting to $30,000, to relief.

The Newfoundland delegates have received many encouraging promises of support from peers and members of the House of Commons. Sir William Whiteway considers the prospect of the acceptance of the delegates' proposals favorable.

Mr. Gladstone has decided to support the divorce reform bill introduced in Parliament by Mr. Hunter. This fact has amazed the Liberals, who believed he would oppose any extension of divorce as a matter of religious principle. The bill entitles a wife to dissolution of the marriage tie in the event of adultery or four years' desertion on the part of the husband. The bill will be debated May 1.

The Calcutta Englishman says the suppression of the opium trade in India will provoke a revolt among the Sikhs and other warlike races, and suggests the restoration of the cotton duties, doubling the income tax, absorbing the famine fund and adding 8 annas (one shilling) to the salt tax, otherwise England will have to pay India £6,000,000 annually.

The miners' strike at Dortmund, Germany, is assuming alarming proportions. Ten thousand men are out and it is expected they will be joined by large numbers to-morrow. The strikers are greatly excited and beyond the control of their leaders. The men are encouraged by the result of the Paris congress and the action of the Belgian miners regarding a general strike. The employers are making tremendous efforts to stock coal in anticipation of the prolonged struggle.

April showers may be the forerunner of May flowers, and they are also certain to bring with them cold in the head, which if neglected, develops into catarrh, perhaps into consumption and death. Nasal Balm never fails to give instant relief, and will permanently cure the worst case of catarrh if faithfully used. Sold by all dealers.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

THE HOUSE TO PROROGUE END OF NEXT WEEK.

Morning Sessions to be Held Until Dissolution—The New Parliament Buildings—A Bust of Robert Baldwin—Assignments and Preferences.

TORONTO, April 24.—The House yesterday decided to meet on Tuesday next at 11 a.m. Morning sessions will be held for the balance of the term and a vigorous effort will be made to finish the work next week.

Mr. Gibson (Hamilton) found the opposition to his amendments to the Insurance Act so strong that he consented to drop the clause which provides that companies shall not be liable for loss occasioned by steam engines within 100 feet of a barn or stack.

The House resolved, on motion of Mr. Fraser, to add an additional sum of $120,000 to the money set apart for the new Parliament buildings, making the total sum appropriated for that purpose $1,200,000.

The legal committee amended G. B. Smith's bill respecting assignments and preferences by insolvents so as to make void any conveyance or assignment by a person within three months of insolvency. Mr. Meredith's bill to amend the Judicature Act to compel the examination by a medical man of any person on whose behalf compensation for personal injuries might be claimed was so amended as to make the examining physician an impartial witness.

The Municipal Committee dealt with Mr. Tait's bill to amend the Municipal Act in different respects. The clause permitting the expenditure of money on the celebration of national and other holidays and the reception of guests was amended so that cities of over 100,000 may spend $5000, cities between 20,000 and 100,000 may spend $1000, and cities and towns less than 20,000 $400. The clause giving police commissioners power to regulate and prohibit the playing of musical instruments in streets, parks or public places was adopted. It does not apply to military bands on duty. Mayor Clarke moved that police commissioners be given power to regulate and prohibit public speaking in streets, parks, etc. The committee was equally divided on this subject and it was defeated by the casting vote of the chairman. The clause providing for the proper erection and the inspection of builders' scaffolds was adopted.

Letters patent have been issued incorporating H. H. Sypps, Essex, G. J. Leggatt, J. A. Smith and A. H. Clarke, Windsor, and C. H. Delisle, Walkerville, as the Farmers' Natural Gas and Oil Company with a capital of $100,000 to carry on a general gas and oil business in the county of Essex.

Mr. Meredith introduced a bill at the instance of the city of Toronto to amend the act relating to public highways, so that the clause prohibiting traffic over bridges at a faster rate than a walk shall not apply to iron or steel bridges except at the option of the municipality.

There is on exhibition in the library a plaster cast of Robert Baldwin, executed by F. H. T. Dunbar. Those who remember the features and the attitude of the great Reformer when speaking say that the sculptor has done his work well.

THE DEATH-CLUTCH VISIBLE.

Strangled on a Train and Tossed Out of the Window.

GRAND VALLEY, Ont., April 23.—At the coroner's inquest on the child which was found on the C. P. R. track, Dr. Phillips testified that the babe had been murdered, as there were four finger marks, apparently made by the right hand of some person, on the throat and neck of the child and also other proofs of the child being violently dealt with. The jury decided that the child came to its death through the violence of some person or persons unknown, and that the box was dropped off the train.

KILLED AT PLAY.

Fatal Bout With Foils in the London Military School.

LONDON, April 24.—It now transpires that Sergeant John Nelson of Chatham, who died at the Military School here Wednesday, was not a victim of grip, as reported. It has since transpired that the young man was the victim of an accident, having been stabbed accidentally in a fencing bout with a fellow pupil, the button having, it is said, come off the foil.

HIS HEART WAS BROKEN.

A Son's Disgrace Causes His Aged Father's Demise from Grief.

KINCARDINE, April 24.—William Remington, father of the young man now in jail on the charge of murdering Agent Flett at Arthur, died at his farm near Hunter. Ever since the arrest of his son Mr. Remington has been in a very depressed state, and latterly has been confined to his bed, being much weakened by fits of weeping which overwhelmed him at the thought of the disgrace brought upon his honorable name. He has never seen his son since his arrest, and it is said that his family were afraid to let him visit Joe as he had threatened to shoot him.

A BOODLER CAUGHT.

Toronto Was Too Dangerous for the Texan and He Left for the East.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 24.—L. Piggott, the Texan who stole 15,000 sheep and 30 horses some time ago, sold them for $60,000 and skipped from San Antonio, was arrested here to-night. The woman with whom he fled and with whom he lived in Toronto for some days was arrested in Montreal this afternoon. Prisoner acknowledged his identity and said he was only waiting the arrival of the woman, when they intended to take the first steamer for England. Only $400 was found in his possession.

Signed the Transfer and Died.

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont., April 24.—J. B. Smith, proprietor of the Queen's Hotel, had just completed the sale of his hotel property to Mr. T. Edwards and after signing the papers he complained of a pain in his head and thought he would lie down for a few minutes. He did so, but in 15 minutes his life had left him. His sudden death is attributed to the bursting of a blood vessel in the brain. Deceased was known as a prominent sporting man, having been the owner of F. O. B. and Maud S.

Suddenly Summoned.

PRESTON, Ont., April 24.—Henry Hagey, ex-reeve of the village, returned from a walk yesterday apparently as well as usual. He entered an adjoining room to prepare for dinner. Shortly after Mr. Maurice Hagey, hearing a noise, entered Mr. Hagey's room, when he was shocked to find his grandfather lying on the floor quite dead. Mr. Hagey was born in Preston in 1808.

Maltese Batterymen Sentenced.

PORTSMOUTH, April 24.—Four artillerymen of the battery which on Monday last mutinied in order to call attention to the grievances and excessive duty from which the men claimed to be suffering, have been tried by courtmartial and sentenced to two years' imprisonment each.

KEENE CHRONICLES.

High Water in the Indian River—The Flag On the School House.

Correspondence of the Review.

HIGH WATER.—The water is very high in the Indian River and there is great danger of some of the bridges being carried away, especially the one on the base line near the station. The base line east of the station is impassible.

FALL WHEAT.—The fall wheat looks very good so far.

BUILDING.—Mr. Wm. Fife has Mr. Geo. Shearer at work on his new buildings just north of Mr. Kirby's residence.

HOISTING THE FLAG.—The Empire flag is to be raised on May 1st at 2 p.m. A varied programme has been prepared and a grand time may be expected. The children are preparing a number of patriotic songs and there will be a few speeches by clergymen and others. A very large number will no doubt be present on this interesting occasion.

A Remarkable Statement!

A gentleman largely interested in the Wholesale Drug trade recently declared, "that from his extended knowledge of the business in Canada he could assert without fear of contradiction, that the sales for Diamond Dyes in one month, were equal to the total sales of all makes of common crude dyes for one year." There is no doubt, we think about the correctness of this estimate. The ladies, who are the consumers, need not be reminded of the great superiority of Diamond Dyes. They are, as in the past, the only trustworthy and reliable dyes now sold for domestic dyeing, and never fail in their work, when properly used.

An interesting spelling match will be a feature of the evening. Tea and coffee will be served and all kinds of pies for those that are pies-ly inclined. Admission silver collection at the door. d97

Sales Worth Attending.

Mr. C. Stapleton, auctioneer, has booked for early in May two sales of household furniture, furnishings, etc. The goods to be disposed of are all new and in first-class order and of very desirable quality. The circumstances of the sales require that everything must be sold without reserve. Those who are proposing to buy furniture should wait for these sales and possibly secure what they require at prices very much below the average. 2d97

A New Industry.

Mr. Brock's Manufacturing Company are about to erect a large brick building near the Carbon Works for the manufacture of a kind of porcelain ware, largely used in connection with the electric plant. The demand is large and the manufacture will quite extensive. It is understood that the company already have very large orders on hand.

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that the people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick-headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sell at 50c and $1 a package and is called Lane's Family Medicine.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN.

HINTS OF VALUE TO APPLY ALL AROUND THE HOUSE.

Ideal Guests—Etiquette Writers Say Formality is Driving Them Away Along With Old-Fashioned Hospitality—How the Ideal Guest Should Act.

Some writers on etiquette, and more especially the etiquette of this country, complain of the lack of hospitality shown in the present generation, and predict that the time is coming when no one will entertain unless he can see some direct good to himself to be gained by so doing.

Formality does seem to be driving old-fashioned hospitality into very close quarters, but the world entertains more elaborately than ever before. We are now enabled to entertain people in a formal way, by means of receptions or teas or something of the sort, whom we could not visit for ten minutes without suffering from ennui or a severe attack of abhorrence, and yet not be obliged to accuse ourselves of deceitfulness.

There is a great deal said against the hollowness of society manners, but really the ladies of to-day make fewer meaningless protestations of friendship than their grandmothers did.

We were told that it was our duty to give a cordial welcome to whoever chanced to inflict us with his unsought company. We now demand that our guest shall give something in return for the extra time and labor he imposes, or place him on the list of those not entitled to more than formal recognition.

The ideal guest never has cause to complain of a lack of hospitality on the part of the host and hostess; his company is always in demand. If true hospitality dies out, it will be because the world is full of guests who act on the principle that they have a perfect right to expect something for nothing.

There is a woman in this city who has done more visiting than anything else, yet with all her experience she hasn't learned to do it well. She will make some woman's life a burden again this summer. She hasn't the slightest idea that anything is required of her. Her definition of visiting would be the art of being waited upon and entertained. She has nothing to offer in the line of bright or original ideas. Although she has travelled a great deal, she can tell no more about what she has seen than many women who have never been out of the country in which they were born.

"If one could extract any 'visit' from her," said a lady at whose house she is often seen, "there would be some comfort in waiting upon her; but there she sits, day after day, in the most comfortable chair in the most comfortable room, wholly engrossed with her fancy work. I like to feel that a guest comes because she wants to see me, not to be waited upon while she does up her fancy work for the year and makes mental comparisons between my way of living and her better way."

The above criticism contains a very suggestive lesson, which two-thirds of the guests of the present day might profit by.

No one can be an ideal guest who has not infinite tact, and the good breeding which is only perfectly acquired by the warm-hearted and unselfish. The ideal guest carries happiness with him and is a real benefit to the housekeeper who can seldom leave her home. He who cannot become an ideal guest might better confine his visits to formal calls, or to those entertainments where a large number of guests relieves the hostess of a part of his society.

There might be many more ideal guests than there are if they who like to visit would be more thoughtful. The ideal guest knows how to show appreciation of his entertainer's efforts. He makes himself one of the family so easily that the hostess never thinks of worrying for fear he is having a dull time, yet he never so forgets that he is not one of the family as to ask questions about what is none of his business. He entertains himself in his own room or out of doors part of the time, knowing that every family has things to say that a stranger may not hear.

If the guest is a lady she has numberless opportunities to make herself more welcome than troublesome, and by embracing them her visit would be much pleasanter to herself.

If you know a lady whom everybody likes to entertain, and whose visits are never long enough to satisfy her hostess, study her. Don't jump to the conclusion that Fortune has been particularly kind to her, or that her welcome is prompted by selfish reasons, or that there is no reason why she should be better loved than yourself; but study her to find out the reason of her attractiveness. You will doubtless discover that, other things being equal, her popularity is due to a greater freedom from selfishness, and a more kindly consideration of others than you have shown.—The Housekeeper.

A Woman's Philosophy.

To think wisely is the part of a sage; to act wisely requires a combination of man and angel.

To forgive when we have forgotten is easy; to forgive when we know we can never forget is noble.

It is easier to forgive a friend for the wrong he did us than for the lie he told to keep it from us.

The half thoughts of the foolish, put into words, are often the levers that move the wise to think in silence and then act.

To yield love for service is too much like a commercial bargain; but to serve for love is a monopoly of souls, and selfishness can never break the combination.

That we lost the race because we stopped to point out the right way to a wanderer will be remembered by him, though our names are not capitalized in the next day's newspaper.

Some Good Household Rules.

Cream and acids do not curdle, while milk and acids will.

In roasting meat turn with a spoon, instead of a fork, as the latter pierces the meat and lets the juice out.

If sponge-cake is mixed with cold water, it is yellow; but if the water be boiling hot the cake will be white.

If doughnuts are cut out an hour before they are fried to allow a little time for rising, they will be much lighter. Try cutting at night and frying in the morning.

Gravy will generally be lumpy if the thickening is poured in while the pan is over the fire. Set the pan off until the thickening is well stirred in, then set it on the fire and cook thoroughly.

Tact.

Some men have tact in different degrees; while others are wanting in it altogether. It is the outcome of intellectual and of temperamental qualifications, and implies the possession of clear perceptions, quick imagination and delicate sensibilities. It is these that give the tactful person his subtle intuition of another's mental processes and modes of feeling, and in the same moment show exactly the right method of action.

Bill Nye's Hotel Experience.

Bill Nye tells a good many funny stories, but he considers the following his best, because it is true and happened to himself:—

"I was barn-storming once in a small town in Texas and went to the leading hotel for dinner. The larder contained only a tough piece of steak, so I had that and a cup of boot-leg coffee. When the bill was handed me I asked the proprietor, who was also waiter and cashier, how much I owed him."

"Two dollars," was the calm reply.

"Two dollars!" I said; "what for?"

"For steak and coffee."

"But that is outrageous," I answered, "I can get a really good steak and coffee and other things, too, in New York for $1. What makes you charge so much?"

"Well, to tell you the truth, I need the money."

A DEADLY FOE NEAR OUR DOOR.

The people of Canada have lately been thoroughly aroused and, to a large extent, disturbed in mind, regarding an editorial article which appeared in the Montreal Star of April 1st.

The article referred to gives the opinion of a London, Ont., physician regarding the terrible after-effects of that dreaded disease, "La Grippe." This insidious disease is now raging in the United States and is of a more malignant form than has heretofore appeared on this continent. This year its ravages have been on a more extensive scale than in preceding years and the mortality and sad results more appalling than ever before. It has respected neither age nor condition and has siezed its victims from all ranks.

It has been clearly shown, from close observation and carefully gathered statistics, that "La Grippe," when not fatal, often leaves its victims in a terribly dangerous condition, and the greatest possible care is always needed to restore the ailing ones to perfect health again.

Those who have experienced the terrors of this unwelcome visitor know well the depressing influences and feelings which are experienced, as well as the torture of mind and body. The brain is heavy and confused, the mind is absent and terror-stricken and the whole body is weak, helpless and tortured.

Is it any wonder, then, that the keen and practiced eye of the physician is enabled to note a tendency to morbidness and melancholia, and even dreaded insanity?

Can any sane individual, therefore, deny the fact "that we have now in our midst a most dangerous foe and invader?"

It comes to all like a thief in the night, when we are unprepared and unguarded. It ruthlessly lays hold of fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters—those we love dearest and best—and too often snatches them from us.

It behooves us, therefore, to meet this dread foe when it appears, with our full armor girt on and with the proper arms of defence. Let us not under-estimate its power for evil; we must go into the contest for life or death.

Physicians in our land say, without hesitation, judging from the terrible effects prevalent where "La Grippe" has been on tours of devastation and death, as in Chicago and other cities, that its next visit to Canada (soon to come) will be a most fatal one, unless great precautions are observed and sanitary laws obeyed. All Canadians, old and young, all classes of society who are weak, nervous, sleepless, languid, worn-out and dyspeptic, and all who are naturally predisposed to disease, will certainly be among the first victims of this fell destroyer.

The question is naturally asked, "What means can we adopt to avoid this disease, or how prepare to successfully battle with it if attacked?"

Experience for the past eighteen months has clearly demonstrated the fact that all those who have maintained a healthy and active vitality, a clear and unclouded brain, a calm mind, cheerful disposition, good digestion and ability to enjoy sound, peaceful rest, will, in ninety-nine cases out of one hundred, entirely escape.

To secure the above mentioned blessings and complete disease-proof armor, physicians and others have found that that now well known and popular remedy, Paine's Celery Compound, has so far been the agent for protection and robust health. It has been found that whenever this grand remedy was used "La Grippe" with its terrors passed harmlessly by. This powerful and efficacious medicine prepares the weak and all predisposed to disease to resist the fiercest attacks, builds them up in flesh, bone and muscle, gives strength to the nervous system and a clearness to the brain and thinking powers that "La Grippe" can never cope with or weaken.

It was clearly proved recently in Chicago and other western cities and towns that those who had fortified themselves by using Paine's Celery Compound were almost the only persons who escaped the dreadful scourge.

What a lesson, therefore, for the people of Canada! Will the opinions of the ablest physicians go unheeded? Can our people, with safety, throw aside the most positive and convincing evidence ever offered?

Being armed is to be prepared. Let us not then stand idly looking on as doubters; let us remember that this most deadly of modern epidemics is almost at our very doors!

"A stitch in time saves nine," and if you take Hood's Sarsaparilla now it may save months of future possible sickness.

Flowers on a Glacier.

In 1888 Mr. John W. Kelly discovered on the northeast coast of Alaska, emptying into the Arctic Ocean, just above Cape Lisburne, a new river, which has been named the Pitmegea River. The river and its narrow valley are very winding, and the natives say they can ascend it for a distance of forty miles. This stream has not previously appeared on the charts. Mr. Kelly ascended the river for a distance of twenty-five miles, where he found a large glacier, emptying into the river. The glacier faces southward and receives the full benefit of the sunlight during the short polar summer. Gales have deposited on the glacier particles of soil and seeds of plants to a depth of from four inches to a foot. The snowfall of winter soon vanishes before the June sun. Then vegetation on the glacier is warmed into life, and in a remarkably short time the brown crust of soil is covered with a robe of green and with bright flowers, such as buttercups, dandelions, daffodils, and yellow poppies. There are also some hardy grasses, whose roots penetrate the light covering of soil. A few arctic willows are also seen, but they grow only a foot in length and trail along the ground.

Such a spectacle is not often witnessed in the arctic regions. This mass of green, diversified by the brilliant colors of arctic flowers, has only scanty depth of soil to flourish in, and covers, like a carpet or a brilliant robe, the great ice mass on which the soil rests. During the summer the ice front melts away, leaving the protruding soil above it like the eaves of a house. When it protrudes too far for the strength of the grass roots, it topples over into the river.

HE LENT HER A KNIFE.

How a Girl Appreciates a Courteous Thing Delicately Done.

"There are some lovely men in this world, even if they are scarce."

It was a pretty girl who was thus philosophically mingling optimism and pessimism in her view of the less assuming half of humanity. She proceeded to illustrate her position as follows:

"The other day I had to go down town by myself. I am not so very used to going down town, and there is a preponderance of masculinity down there that always scares me a little. This time I went on the elevated road and got off at Rector street. It was about 11 o'clock in the morning, and the train and the station were black with men. There was not a woman, a sister woman to be seen when the lace of my petticoat caught in something just as I was leaving the car, and with a loud, triumphant s—zig ripped off to the extent of about two yards. There was all this white stuff hanging, and I had to get rid of it some way. I stepped to one side and began trying to tear the lace across, but the lace was as strong as the sewing had proved weak; not a thread of it would give. Every one of the stream of men passing turned his head to look at me struggle, and I could feel my face crimson with exertion and mortification. That kind of a situation has a hasheesh effect, and though it seemed like hours I suppose it was only a minute, till a gentleman busily talking to a companion, passed close to me and hardly turning his eyes my way, held out an open pocketknife; then he walked on very slowly and apparently absorbed in conversation. It was the work of a moment to sever the lace, roll it up in my muff and return him his knife. My gratitude was too deep to express itself in what the plays call 'the smooth hollow phrases of society.' I am not sure that I opened my lips, but I am sure that I looked things unutterable.

"He took the knife with just the slightest bow, and touching his hat returned to his mutton with his friend.

"It was a little thing you may say, but it was just the kind of a little thing that tests a man's breeding exquisitely."

CASH HARDWARE STORE.

On and after 1st April we shall do business on a Cash Basis.

To cover the inevitable losses attendant upon a credit business, which accrue from amount of time spent in keeping accounts, collecting, bad debts, interest account, and in numerous other ways, larger margins of profit must be asked.

In these times cash buyers ask, expect and are entitled to close prices. A careful consideration of the subject convinces us that the time has come for a cash business done on smaller profits.

The only customers who may be put to inconvenience are those who have had long credit. In more ways than one it will be to their advantage to pay cash.

For convenience of our old customers who consider their accounts due when presented, we will call 30 days cash and render all accounts the first of each month, and we wish to say that we will be happy to do business with them on these terms.

As the new departure is something of an experiment, what would be considered a close cash price will be made all through the stock. Not a few leaders only, but a general reduction in everything from the fourth flat to the cellar.

Our idea is to perform more than promised rather than promise more than can be fulfilled.

Our stock is large and varied, consisting of Builders', Contractors', Household, Mechanics', Painters', Shoemakers', Farm, Mill, Factory, Lumbermen's, Sporting, Threshers', Cabinetmakers', and other lines of Hardware.

A very interesting and pleasant evening was spent by a large number of friends in the rooms of Carswell Lodge, I.O.G.T. last evening, C. T. Bro. Early in the chair. At the close a number of propositions were handed in for membership. A large and varied programme was given consisting of songs, readings, recitations, club swinging and instrumental music. Another open lodge will be given in about three weeks time. Grand Lodge meets here in June.

Building in the South Ward.

Extensive building operations are now going on in the south end of the town, every day new foundations are taken out, and at every turn one is surprised to see a new house which he has never seen before. The picturesque old stone cottage, so long the home of the late Captain Fraser, is already torn down and the stone is being built into the foundations of three or four new houses. On the spot Mr. LeBrun is erecting two handsome brick houses, close by Mr. Harry Stabler is putting up two new houses. On the "Priests" lot half a dozen houses are now in course of erection, a little south Mr. Hayes is putting up two houses, near by Mrs. Harvey is erecting a store and residence. Mr. Stephens is completing two houses. In fact, look where you will, building operations are being pushed with great vigor. Peterborough seems as if she cannot be stopped in her growth, her destiny is to be the brightest and best little city in the Dominion. No wonder the south end of the town is alive, for it is evident that the hives of industry will all be planted on the flat lands where the railway facilities are so great.

After suffering horribly for years from scrofula in its worst form, a young son of Mr. R. L. King, 706 Franklin-st., Richmond, Va., was recently cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. No other medicine can approach this preparation as a cleanser of the blood.

HAPPY GOOD WISHES.

Mr. H. LeBrun Presented With an Address and Handsome Silver Tea Service by Employees—His Approaching Marriage the Cause of the Pleasant Surprise.

Mr. H. LeBrun, the well-known and popular senior member of the firm of LeBrun & Co., was most pleasantly and, at the same time, most completely surprised last evening. It has been a rather open secret for some weeks past that Mr. LeBrun is about to leave the ranks of the bachelors and enter those of the benedicts. Knowing this the employees of his establishment wished to express their good wishes and congratulations to a gentleman who has ever been a kind and generous employer and a faithful and esteemed friend.

Accordingly a surprise of the most happy nature was prepared for Mr. LeBrun. Last evening when he returned to the store after supper he was called upstairs on an imaginary errand, when to his utter astonishment the entire staff of the establishment, numbering twenty-five persons in all, flocked around. The bright, happy faces allayed any fears as to the character of the unexpected gathering and before he had recovered from his first surprise, his partner, Mr. Joseph Picard, who has been with him for over eighteen years, stepped forward and read the address and Miss Maggie Clancy made the presentation. The address, which is given, expresses the relations that have existed between a successful business man and his staff and the well-wishes therein expressed will be echoed by thousands of citizens among whom Mr. LeBrun has always held a position of esteem and respect.

The address read as follows:—

Dear Mr. LeBrun.

It is with heartfelt pleasure that we your employees and friends assemble together to tender to you our congratulations on the happy event which is soon to take place in your life and to wish you every blessing that can increase that happiness. It has been the good fortune of some of us to have been associated with you in business from the commencement of you career as a merchant and during that long intercourse extending over eighteen years, we have daily experienced that urbanity and courtesy are characteristic of you. We have seen and appreciated that kindly interest you have always manifested in us. We have marked well your straight-forward and honorable career which it is our highest ambition to emulate. For these and your many other good qualities of mind and heart we have all learned to love you as a friend and will take a friend's interest in everything that concerns your welfare.

We beg, therefore, that you will accept this silver tea service as a token of our esteem and friendship and an earnest of our good wishes for the happiness of yourself and destined bride.

Peterborough, April 24, 1891.

Signed on behalf of staff of H. Lebrun & Co,

JOSEPH PICARD,
MILES FROATS,
PETER CORKERY,

Mr. Lebrun was unable to speak for a few moments, so complete was the surprise and so deep were the feelings that moved him. He replied briefly in the following words:—

DEAR FRIENDS AND EMPLOYEES,—I assure you I am taken altogether by surprise. I must acknowledge that I cannot do justice to my feelings of gratitude to you all in answering to your kind address and for the beautiful present before me to-night. Being taken unaware I am not prepared to answer to it at length. But, as you mention, some of you have been in my employ for over eighteen years; that alone, I believe, is a sufficient proof of our harmonious and favorable connection. It has always been my fervent endeavor to further your interest and welfare as well as my own, to help each other, and will continue to do so in the future as in the past.

Finally in closing, I repeat again I am exceedingly thankful to you all for your kind expression to me and my future bride, and rest assured that this evening will be a memorable event in my memory forever.

The tea service is an elegant and costly one, purchased from Mr. W. A. Sanderson. It comprises the tea service and a handsome waiter.

The happy coming event, the approach of which was the cause of the pleasant presentation, will be solemnized in Watertown on Wednesday next. The bride will be a most estimable lady, who has been a resident of Peterborough and who has a host of friends who will welcome her to Peterborough. Mr. LeBrun will leave for Montreal to-night and when he returns he will bring his bride with him.

Hiawatha Encampment I. O. O. F. gave a very pleasing entertainment in Otonabee Lodge room last evening. The attendance was large. The Peterborough orchestra opened the programme with some excellent selections and then Mr. R. M. Roy gave an evening's entertainment with his stereopticon views. He took his audience to Venice and gave them a week's exploration in the streets and among the sights of the city of beauties. He followed this with several humorous and miscellaneous views which were greatly appreciated. Mr. Roy has now attained a proficiency in this class of entertainment which cannot be excelled. He has a most powerful instrument and last evening the views he gave were some that had never been seen here before and were put on the canvas in a manner which, also, was never excelled in Peterborough. His audience were delighted. During a short intermission the orchestra gave some delightful selections.

JAPAN AND CHINA.

The Heathen Darkness of these Lands—A Letter from Mr. Saunders.

The following letter has been received by the Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. from Mr. F. G. Saunders, who left here last winter to do missionary work in China:—

CHINA INLAND MISSION,
SHANGHAI, CHINA, March 3, 1891.

MY DEAR BROTHER COLVILLE,—I feel as though I must write to you, although at present I can hardly spare time. Of course you will have heard from Mrs. Dillon that we arrived here safely and therefore I know that a good many of my friends will be expecting to hear from me. I wish I could tell you the real joy and blessing that I have had ever since my arrival here. If I remember right, I have written you of my movements until we left Yokohama.

The next place to tell you about is Kobe, Japan. We arrived there in good health and spirits on Feb. 19th at 5.30 p.m., and after having had dinner on board, Mr. Frost and I hired a Sampan and went ashore. On landing we got into Jimrikshas and started for a kind of market place called the Temple. It is a big open space with a lot of stalls in it, where there are all kinds of Japanese goods for sale. After walking through this place and buying some candy at one of the stalls we tried to see the Temple, but we could not see much of it because there was no service there that night. Then we got into the Jimrikshas again and rode off. * * * * *

We returned to the ship again feeling very sad and poured out our hearts to that dear Father in Heaven, thanking Him that we were born in a Christian land and beseeching Him to send forth more laborers into his harvest. For unless it were God that sent the laborers they had better stay at home. How much we need His sustaining grace here cannot be properly understood unless you see your own self of heathendom. Oh, what love was the love of Christ to die for such a wretch as I was and for such as these, and shall we, who have the light, be guilty of withholding it from those who have not? Is that the way to show our gratitude to Christ, who did so much for us? The Y.M.C.A would not suffer any loss if 20 of its brightest gems were to go out as foreign missionaries, but they would be repaid in the conversion of many more than 20 to fill in the gap left by those who had left. Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse? I will, Lord; here, take me; all I am and all I have is Thine. Pray the Lord of the harvest that He will send forth laborers into His harvest. I will, Lord. Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel. I will Lord. Has the master ever put such words to my dear friends in the Y.M.C.A. and have they ever from the heart given replies like these. If you have had such dealings with the Lord, you will not be long before you will be just in the place where the Lord would have you and you will find out that that is the place of blessing.

On the 20th Mr. Frost and all the rest of us went ashore and went for a ride to a place just outside Kobe called the Waterfall. The jimriksha's put us down at the foot of a high mountain and after we had climbed it for some distance up, we caught the first glimpse of the fall, which seemed to come out of the mountain at a great height above us. After we had rested and taken tea at a little refreshment house we again ascended until we reached another tea house and had another rest, then we went up higher again and had some most beautiful views of the city lying at the foot of the mountain, with the sea beyond. It being a delightful spring day we enjoyed the sight immensely, but there were also some very sad sights in that beautiful mountain, for every now and then we would come across a shrine erected to some heathen god and in one place there was an image of some god, I don't know what one, cut out of stone and placed in a niche at the side of the mountain. In all these shrines and in front of the gods there are little boxes placed for offerings of rice and money. After leaving the waterfall we went to see a Mr. Ballard and his wife, some good Christian people who are not missionaries but receive a missionary's blessing from the Father for their work done in Jesus' name. They keep a missionary boarding house where workers who are sick or want a change or rest can go and board for a season and then return to their labors. Fortunately there was room in this house for all of our party, so we made that our home while the ship was being unloaded. Mr. Ballard has lived in China for a number of years, but his health having failed him, last year he took this house at Kobe, and moved there with his wife and two children.

It is one of the best arranged and most beautifully situated houses there, it having been built for the governor, who, however, was removed from that city to some less important station because of his bad conduct. Mr. Ballard just happened to be in Kobe at the right time to buy this place and transform it into what the natives call a Christian hotel. After dinner we visited a school which is connected with the American Congregational church. Miss Brown is the Superintendent of it. There are three or four other American ladies there besides some native teachers. At present there are 145 girls in the school, who are taking a 4 years course, and Miss Stone, one of the teachers, told us that they are all Christians on leaving the school. Another visit we paid in Kobe was to a Missionary society, named the Rev. B. F. Buxton, who paid the expenses of a party of missionaries who arrived in Japan from England last year. He welcomed us by saying "Praise the Lord" and then invited us into the house. He is a splendid man and his wife is also very nice. In the room we entered there were several texts hanging upon the walls and the following motto placed over the mantleboard, "Christ is the Master of this house. He is the unseen guest at every table, the unseen hearer of ever conversation."

Another visit was made to the Seaman's Mission, which is in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Ludlow of the Christian Alliance, they having come from Simpson's College. They are doing a good work in Kobe and are much blessed of God in it. We had a little prayer meeting with them, in which they earnestly commended us to the Almighty for His blessing and guidance on our future work.

Before we left Kobe we were very much interested in visiting

and seeing something of their worship, or rather of their objects of worship. The different gods all have separate buildings set apart to them and the whole of these buildings are in one big enclosure. In the centre was the biggest building of all containing two images, which looked very much like what the boys in England make on the 5th of November to represent Guy Fawkes, only the English boys make these things to burn as bonfires, and these poor people make them to worship as gods. You, my friends, who know the true God, how can you rest at ease when two-thirds of your fellow creatures are living and dying in such darkness, with scarcely anyone to tell them the way of life? How those words that I so often heard in Canada, make my ears tingle, "There are plenty of heathen at home," when I see these sights. Another god we saw was a white horse with blue eyes. Near this horse are little wooden dishes containing about an egg cup full of beans each, which the people in their blindness consider it a meritorious act to buy and give to the horse. Another god was also a white horse about the same size as the first, only made of wood. Others are different objects made of different things. Some of these gods have a rope and bell hanging in front of them which the people ring in order to wake the gods. We also visited a Buddhist graveyard near by this temple. One very noticeable thing in Kobe is the number of beggars one meets. There are all sorts of conditions of them, and all sizes. There are the blind, the halt, the lame, and I was going to write the dumb, but I do not remember seeing any dumb, and if we had seen any I think I should remember it, because those we did meet kept up a continual whine, at the same time bowing themselves almost to the ground. There is, I am glad to say, a native Y. M. C. A. in this place, although I did not visit it.

We left Kobe at 4 a.m. on Sunday, the 22nd, and journeyed that day and the following morning through the beautiful Japan Island Seas, which with their numberless beautiful Islands reminded me of Stony Lake on a large scale. One rock in these seas is famous in Japanese history from the fact that several years ago a great number of Jesuits were thrown from it into the sea and drowned. The captain of our vessel pointed out this rock to us as we passed it.

We reached Nagasaki at 1.30 p.m. on Monday and had 28 hours stay here in order that they might coal the vessel. The people who coal the ships at Nagasaki, call forth many thoughts of pity from any missionaries who may be on board. Men, women and even children work at it like a swarm of bees. They place themselves in a long line beginning at the barge and ending on the steamer, and pass baskets of coal from one to another with the quickness of conjurers for hours at a time, those in the barge filling the baskets and those on the ship emptying them. At this port we visited a large school under the American Methodist Board. Before finishing telling you about Japan I must tell you about shopping as it is carried on here. If a person wants to buy a certain article, he will go to a shop and enquire the price, if the article is worth fifty cents it is probable that they would ask a dollar for it. The would-be purchaser laughs and offers forty cents for it, then the seller laughs and says he will take ninety cents, and so they proceed laughing at each other all the time until the price is fixed and the article disposed of. Our ship's doctor told me a little of his experience in

JAPANESE TRADING.

One day when the ship was at anchor in a Japanese port, the doctor was sitting on deck reading, when a man came aboard and wanted to sell him a pair of field glasses, asking $14 for them. The doctor, not wanting them and being interested in his reading, thought to get rid of the man by offering him $4, when, much to his surprise, the man said alright, he would take it. Because he had offered the $4 he felt bound to buy the glasses, much to the satisfaction of the man. But I must proceed. We left Nagasaki at 5 p. m. on the 24th of February, and after a very smooth voyage on the whole, considering the time of year, reached Shanghai at 5 p.m on the 26th February. It did not take us long to get from the wharf to the premises and the warm Christian welcome we received there had the effect of soon making us feel at home. Since last October 131 new workers have arrived in connection with the Mission. What an answer to prayer (131 in five months), and yet when they are distributed amongst 250 millions of people, they will appear very insignificant. Truly it may be said of China, the harvest is plenteous add the laborers few. Of course all my friends will be longing to know about the work in the field, but I do not know much about that yet, as I am still in Shanghai. The mission premises were built last year at an outlay of between two and three hundred thousand dollars, which money was given by one donor. This place is the mission headquarters and business centre. As a general rule, incoming members from England, America or Australia only stay here for a day or two, to enable them to repack their outfits in native boxes, put on the native dress, etc., and then they go direct to the mission schools at Gankin, Yang-chaw or elsewhere to study the language. Owing to the arrival of a party from England, a party of 35 Swedes from the United States and a party from Australia just previous to us, our schools are all pretty full and they have not as yet made the necessary arrangements for us to go to our places of study. Still there is abundant employment for all who are here now and as many more as the Lord will send. The Australian party, all but one, who is sick, the English party, with one or two exceptions, and the Swedish ladies, 18 in number, had been transferred to the schools before our arrival. There are at present 60 of us in Shanghai, viz., our party of 8 and Mr. Frost, 17 Swedish brothers, a few sick members of the mission, Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Taylor, the Mission Postmaster, those in charge of the household, a few members lately returned from well-earned vacations, some of the officers of the mission, etc. Last Saturday three young men arrived from Australia and there is a party now on the way from Australia, headed by a Church of England clergyman and his wife. There is also a party of at least 15 more Swedes from the States somewhere very near to China, and we do not know but what another English and also another American party may be also en route.

This week they are expecting to send a number of us who are here to the schools. I am not sure whether I shall be one of that number.

I have a very important work on at present, which prevents me from studying the language. Miss Geraldine Guiness, a member of our mission (daughter of Gratton Guiness) is engaged in writing a History of the China Inland Mission which will (D.V.) be published before the Mildmay Conference meets. After Miss Guiness has written and Mr. Taylor revised her work I have to copy the revision for the printers.

To-day I went into Chinese clothes and it makes such a change in me that you would hardly know me.

I would like to write you a lot more news but I really have not time, so I will now conclude, with love to all.

I remain,
Yours in service,
F. G. SAUNDERS.

P. S.—I have written this in my spare moments at several different times. So please excuse disjointed remarks, mistakes and bad writing.

How Great are the Goughs!

There is apparently no limit to the ingenuity and resources of Gough Bros., the wonderful cheap men. Though always making some startling advance on the prominent positions they take, the last great stride is after all, an astonisher. They have saved a great clothing dealer from bankruptcy. He was going to the wall for want of a large amount of ready cash. He offered his stock at a great sacrifice for cash, and Gough Bros united the resources of their several establishments in Peterborough, Toronto and Brantford (though for ordinary purposes they are absolutely separate and distinct), paid the wholesaler spot cash for a splendid bill of ready made goods, and that enables Gough Bros. to give the magnificent bargains hinted at in the following specimen brick of paralyzed prices—a few diamond pointed tips:

$16 00 $14 00 $12 00 $10 00	for $8.	$8 00 $7 00 $6 00 $5 50	for $4 90	$4 50 $4 00 $3 50 $3 25	for $2 90

The same sweeping reductions in shoes and boots, and in every line of the several departments of Gough Bros.' business. A special drive in fine wool hats. See to it that you do not miss this wonderful chance, for at the prices quoted Goughs' great stock of goods will go like snow in the midsummer sun, or like the man who "wants work," when you give him a job. 3196-2w18

The Spring Medicine.

The popularity which Hood's Sarsaparilla has gained as a spring medicine is wonderful. It possesses just those elements of health giving, blood-purifying and appetite-restoring which everybody seems to need at this season. Do not continue in a dull, tired, unsatisfactory condition when you may be so much benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies the blood and makes the weak strong.

BUOYANT

We have opened the batteries of trade from our staunch old fort and from the moment we opened in dead earnest, Spring Business started with a jump and we are now in the heyday of our glory, because we are told by everybody that we occupy first place in the galaxy of clothiers. Our store is filled to overflowing with a grand assortment and every department is jammed with elegance, every tablette filled with new styles and there is nothing cheap about anything except the price.

LOOK US UP,
LOOK US OVER.

We have a beautiful and elaborate range of new and elegant styles in Tweeds and Overcoatings for Spring Wear. These we make to measure in short order at short prices. Our efforts have always been directed to maintain the leadership in low prices and success and supremacy have crowned our efforts.

BUY A HOME!

Stop Paying Rent! Be Your Own Landlord!

We Offer For Sale by Public Auction on

MONDAY, 11th MAY, 1891, at 3 p. m., ON THE GROUND.

Lots on Romaine-st. Each lot is 33ft. by 220ft. Soil high and dry, sandy loam. 10 minutes walk from the Edison Works, Peter Hamilton Works, the Carbon Works and the Bridge Works. The new Electric Car Line will touch this street and George and Aylmer-sts. will be opened through to the Fair ground.

To secure a respectable street the deeds will contain a clause compelling the purchasers when they build to erect a uniform distance from the front, and that the houses when built shall not cost less than $600. These lots are double the depth of the ordinary town lot and are fine for gardening. This is the finest property in the market and one which will afford the best building lots to be had at low prices. These are only lots left on the south side of the street. Lots on Wescott-st. 90ft. in depth, sell at $8.00 per foot, while these lots are 220ft. deep and will be sold for what they will bring. These lots while sufficiently near the great factories, are close to George-st. and being off the muck are clean and healthy.

Ten years will be given for payment. $5.00 on the $100 down; $5.00 on the $100, in one month; $10 on the $100 in 3 months, then a free deed will be given and mortgage taken back for the remainder of the purchase money, payable in 9 equal annual payments with interest at 6 per cent. Five per cent. discount will be allowed for cash. For further particulars apply to

EVERY day makes more apparent the fact that the town is going ahead rapidly. Numerous changes have taken place in the way of the ownership of property. Many workingmen are buying houses and lots or lots on which to build. One of the most suitable locations is that known as the Fitzgerald property, at the west end, owned largely by Mr. Wm. Fitzgerald. This week he has closed the sale of a very desirable new house and lot, and has several eligible lots on this property to dispose of. Property in this neighbourhood is rapidly being built up, and it will be well to have a look at the situation if one is at all disposed to buy. The terms are very favorable and especially low for cash, though payment on time may be arranged.

CANADIAN LACROSSE LEAGUE.

MONTREAL, April 24.—The adjourned meeting of the Canadian Lacrosse League was held here to-day. The representatives were Messrs. Garvin, Toronto; Hughes, Cornwall; [illegible]; Cleghorn, Montreal; McKenna, Shamrocks.

The result of the deliberations was that Montreal and Toronto withdrew from the league. The whole affair did not take long, as both parties had their minds made up. The two big clubs refused to admit the Capitals and announced their secession when they were outvoted by Hughes, Dowling and Kent. After the Montreal and Toronto delegates withdrew those remaining, J. Kent, Ottawa, W. J. Hughes, Cornwall, J.K. Dowling, Capitals, and W. J. McKenna, Shamrock, proceeded to work. Mr. Hughes moved, seconded by Mr. Dowling, that Shamrocks, Cornwalls, Capitals and Ottawas play a series of matches and that these clubs refuse to play exhibition games with Toronto and Montreal. The motion was not pressed as some of the delegates wished to obtain instructions from their clubs.

In the evening the delegates met again and arranged a schedule, the season opening June 6 and ending Oct. 3.

THE CHILIAN BUTCHERIES.

Over 800 Government Troops and 800 Revolutionists Killed.

PANAMA, April 24.—Advices from Chili say 800 Government troops and 800 revolutionists were killed in the battle of Pozo Almonte, in which the Government forces were defeated. Five thousand men were engaged.

Provisions were recently so scarce in Iquique that $20 was paid for a can of preserved milk, and beef sold at $10 per pound.

It is reported that Government troops fired into 200 defenceless workmen, women and children at Negroyres and shot down all the men.

London financiers have declined to grant a loan of £1,200,000 to President Balmaceda of Chili. The president's envoy is confident that the latter will yet defeat the insurgents.

SNOW HER WINDING SHEET.

What the Melting of the Snow Revealed in Grey County.

MARKDALE, Ont., April 23.—While searching for a lost sheep yesterday, John Allan came across the dead body of a woman in a recumbent position, apparently in a peaceful slumber, the left hand partially thrust into the bosom of her dress and the right hand extended outward. The remains were those of Catharine Kennedy, aged 60, who lived on the Garafraxa-road, Glenelg, one mile north of the Rocky Saugeen. She had been missing since Feb. 3, and no doubt perished in the snowstorm which raged on that day.

Decker Discharged.

PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—Harry Decker, the baseball player, who was arrested in New Haven, Conn., some time ago and brought here on a requisition issued by the Governor of Connecticut, was brought into Criminal Court yesterday to answer to a multiplicity of charges of a more or less serious nature, and to all of which he pleaded guilty. Sentence was suspended and Decker discharged, having made restitution to all parties concerned. He has been in bail since March 31.

The Women and Girls Require Attention.

A noted professor of the Vienna University says that in the five principal manufacturing countries of Europe there are 20,000,000 of women employed, as follows:—Germany, 5,500,000; Britain, 4,000,000; France, 3,750,000; and Italy and Austria, each 3,500,000. In Canada a very large number of women and girls find work in the mills, factories, work shops, stores and offices. Hundreds of these hardworking, busy women and girls owing to badly ventilated and ill-constructed buildings, and the piece work system, are wearing themselves away. In their earnestness to make large wages, they overwork; they are worried; they become hollow cheeked and pale, the whole muscular system is weakened, they are nervous and generally dyspeptic. They require great care and attention, or their lives become uncertain and miserable. For such subjects, the great strengthener, restorer and life-giver is Paine's Celery Compound. With a moderate amount of gentle physical exercise in the fresh air, Paine's Celery Compound soon restores lost vitality, builds up the system and gives a healthy, natural appetite, and regular sound sleep. To every woman and girl who stands within the walls of a factory, workshop or store, we would kindly urge the use of this great scientific compound. It will do more for you than any physician can do, and at a very small outlay of money.

Good Wife Suggests Cuticura Remedies. Uses them 7 Months, and is entirely Cured

I was in the war during 1863-64, and took a heavy cold at Gettysburg, from which I never fully recovered. In 1876 I broke out in sores all over my chest and shoulder, which seemed impossible to cure. I tried all the famed doctors I could find, and to no avail. I expended some five thousand dollars trying to find a cure, but could not, and finally giving myself up to die, my good wife suggested to me, one day, to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES which were so extensively advertised and used. I followed her suggestion, and am happy to say by diligent application of your CUTICURA REMEDIES for seven months I was entirely cured, after spending five years of time and money without avail, and am a sound and well man to-day. You may refer to me if you wish, as I will tell any one who may call on me my experience.

Catarrh

IS a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

LIGHT CUT INTO CLOSED EYES.

Rare Optical Surgery to Give Sight to a Little Girl.

COLORADO SPRINGS, April 24.—Born with her eyelids firmly closed, 6-year-old Myrtle Higbee of Denver yesterday underwent a marvelous operation in optical surgery at State School for the Deaf and Blind here. After administering an anæsthetic the surgeons carefully dissected her eyelids, parting them with a scalpel and forceps until the eyeball was reached. It was found then that the eye was turned very much inward. The cornea was slightly opaque and flattened. The eyelid was firmly adhered to the surface of the eyeball by fibres of connective tissue, and these had to be cut one at a time until the eyelid could be turned back. If further adhesion can be prevented the child has a very favorable chance of getting much more light, probably enough so that she will be able to distinguish the larger objects and can avoid running into them.

THE VATICAN SHATTERED.

Precious Relics and Valuable Historical Windows Destroyed.

ROME, April 24.—The explosion of 265 tons of gunpowder yesterday in the magazine created great damage at the Vatican. All the windows of the Pope's library were broken and a number of precious relics were destroyed. In addition many valuable panes of colored glass in the principal windows of St. Peter's Basilica were smashed to pieces. The handsome stained glass window over the chair of St. Peter was also broken. At St. Paul's Church all the stained glass windows were damaged. In fact the damage done at this church was so great that the building has been closed to the public while the debris is being cleared away and the work of temporary repair inaugurated. Much of the destruction wrought by the explosion is irreparable, as the valuable works of art which have been destroyed cannot be replaced. Many of the stained glass windows shattered were the works of celebrated artists who flourished hundreds of years ago.

The Pope had just concluded the celebration of a low mass and was engaged in prayer when the explosion shook the Vatican building.

The investigation made by the military authorities into the origin of the explosion shows that it was caused by the accidental explosion of some shrapnell shell. A few of the people who were injured at the time of the explosion, who were taken to the hospitals, have died from the effects of the injuries they received.

BUSINESS IMPROVING.

As the Result of Good Weather and Promising Crop Reports.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's very generally refer to more settled weather and good crop prospects as causes of increased activity in general trade. Improved weather has not aided the general demand for drygoods materially, trade as a whole being quiet and unsatisfactory. Ginghams and woolen dress goods are most active. A drive in prints this week was at lowest prices on record. Low grade cottons are weak. Cotton speculation is active, but irregular. Actual cotton is 1-16c lower.

The industrial situation becomes more disturbed as May 1 approaches, that being the date set for a general demand for fewer hours of work daily by 175,000 bituminous coal miners. It is doubtful, however, whether that number will strike. No trouble is anticipated in the anthracite region. Steel rails have been very quiet this week.

Wheat has been excited and 4c higher during the week, chiefly on speculative operations, heavily backed for the time by cables from England, France and Portugal. Later a disposition to realize, together with rather more favorable crop reports from the continent of Europe, caused a reaction which swallowed up all the advance. More than 120,000,000 bushels were traded in at New York, against 45,000,000 bushels in the preceding week.

General trade throughout Ontario is rather better than in the province of Quebec. Sugars are said to be unsettled owing to expected tariff changes and "smuggling across the border." The Dominion reports 32 business failures this week against 30 last week and 38 this week last year. The total number January 1 to date is 705 against 673 last year.

EVERY MAN FOR HIMSELF.

From the Giddy Dance to the Eddy of Death.

ST. JOHN, N.B., April 24.—At low tide the water in St. John harbor runs out like a mill race, and just at Reed's point pier where the steamer Dominion lies are the swiftest eddies. A boatload of men and girls upset at this place this morning about 3 o'clock and two were drowned, the others being rescued with great difficulty. The young people had been attending a dance in Carleton. The gunwale of the boat struck the bow of the steamer and in a moment capsized. Lines were thrown from the steamer and the most terrible confusion ensued. The men fought amongst themselves for ropes and while the girls, seated in the stern, were shrieking for help, a couple of these stalwart cowards fastened lines to themselves and were hoisted up. Two of the girls, Ethel Allen and Nellie McAllister, were drowned.

Switchman Fatally Hurt.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 24.—William Martin, aged 24, switchman in the M.C.R. yards at Montrose, fell from a flat car and the train passed over him. Both legs were so badly mangled that they had to be amputated. Martin, who belongs to St. Thomas, will probably die.

The publishers of Our Homes, a large, elegantly printed 32-page magazine, announce that in order to increase their circulation they are willing to devote their entire first year's profits to this end, and in order to do so, offer competitions in which they give large cash rewards to those taking part. One of these competitions is now in progress and closes on April 28th. In addition to the large amount given in cash on their general prize list, they offer as an extra inducement the following special cash prizes:—During the weeks ending April 11th and April 18th they offer daily cash prizes of $10, and a weekly cash prize of $50 for the first named week, and $100 for the latter. For the week ending April 28th they offer daily cash prizes of $25, and a prize of $100 for the week. These exceedingly generous prizes are in addition to the general prize list, and the person who gets one of the special rewards may also get a large prize in the general list. No other magazine publishers have ever made such a liberal offer, and as the competition remains open three more weeks you should avail yourself of the liberal offer at once. "UP TO THE GAME."

Jealous of the great success and world-wide reputation of "Sunlight" Soap, unscrupulous imitations have been put on the market, and in order to further deceive the public, the directions for using "SUNLIGHT" SOAP have been pirated holus-bolus.

But the trick is "too thin," the intelligent housewife knows that "SUNLIGHT" SOAP is as much superior to these imitations as the light of the sun is to that of a farthing candle.

While it is flattering to "SUNLIGHT" SOAP to be imitated, it is none the less reprehensible for these imitators to attempt to cheat the public.

Remember there is only one "Sunlight" Soap, and it has been awarded 6 gold medal.

Two Good Things IN FLOUR!

1. Scale Weight.

2. First Quality.

If good flour makes good bread it follows that one sort of flour makes better bread than another.

Which sort makes best?

That depends. The best flour is the purest, the best ground, the strongest and containing the most health-giving and nourishing properties.

These good points are all found in our Flour.

Have you tried it? Perhaps yes. Perhaps no. If you have not, do so, and you may find a better flour than you have been using, and we a customer.

THE NEWS OF EUROPE.

REBELLIOUS MANIPURIS NOW SUING FOR PEACE.

A French Duel—One of the Combatants Shot in the Chest—The Queen at Grasse—Died of Starvation Although Worth Half a Million Dollars.

SIMLA, April 26.—British forces advancing on Manipur met and engaged a force of about 1000 Manipuris on the 23rd instant. The latter commenced hostilities by opening fire upon the British column. The latter replied with the fire of their field artillery and the enemy fled in disorder. Several messengers from the tribesmen have arrived in the British camp suing for peace for the insurgents.

The British forces continue their advance unchecked upon Manipur. As the British troops advance the rebels abandon their villages and retreat upon the first volley of the advancing columns.

PARIS, April 26.—Queen Victoria is one person in England, another person abroad. She keeps her pleasant manners for the foreigners. At Grasse she is the sweetest, kindliest and most unaffected of old ladies. Her sunshade is never before her face when she takes carriage airings. She often steps out on the balcony of her sitting-room windows, which look upon the high street, and she shows herself to the infantry band, which up to the day on which she received the intelligence of the massacre at Manipur came daily to play for her in the garden of the hotel where she is staying. The royal carriage is stopped when children on the roadside offer flowers for sale or country women for kindness. Little tea parties are given, to which the local officials, the officers of the regiment in attendance as a guard of honor and their wives are invited. Since the news of the Manipur affair the Queen's spirits are not so good. Her heart is in India. This is shown by the extraordinary favor enjoyed by her Indian servants, of whom she now has three. They attend her in the grounds of the hotel and wait in the anteroom when she is indoors. They are also constantly in attendance in the sitting-room.

A STRANGE CASE.

A Woman's Mind Turned by Her Great Good Fortune.

LONDON, April 26.—Driven insane by the joy that followed her knowledge of having fallen heiress to $500,000 left by a wealthy relative who had died intestate, poor Martha Spencer of East London, an indigent laborer's wife, was debarred by her mania from taking the fortune. Thus, while a lunatic, she actually died of starvation because her condition kept the wealth away from her.

Frightful Tragedy at Pransberg.

LONDON, April 26.—A Berlin dispatch tells of a horrible tragedy at Pransberg. The wife of Herr Kutzker, a member of the council of that city, became wildly insane, and having cut the throat of her daughter, she burned her body on the hearth of their dwelling, and then proceeded to set fire to herself with a view of destroying herself with her daughter. The neighbors were attracted to the scene by the shrieks of pain which the woman could not suppress, and they promptly extinguished the flames and handed her over to the police.

Death Due to a Wrestling Bout.

PRESTON, April 26.—Albert Rhode, aged 17, died Thursday from the effects of a blow received in the abdomen in a friendly wrestle some weeks ago.

LIKE LONDON'S FIEND.

THIS MURDER AND MUTILATION SUGGEST THE "RIPPER'S" WORK.

The Victim Old Enough to be Her Bloody Assassin's Mother—Strangled to Death and Then Horribly Hacked—The Knife Left in the Apartment of Death.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Police detectives, working under the personal supervision of Chief Inspector Byrnes, were straining every nerve yesterday in a search for the human butcher who murdered old Carrie Brown in the lodging house at Catharine and Water-streets, and mutilated her corpse as "Jack the Ripper" mutilated the bodies of his victims in the Whitechapel district of London. When asked if he thought that the murderer of Carrie Brown was the real "Jack the Ripper," he replied: "I can't say."

The murderer is believed to be a madman, with the cunning and nerve which often accompany insane delusions. There are now about 18 men and women in custody detained as witnesses, but the actual murderer is still at large.

Deputy Coroner Jenkins performed an autopsy upon the body of Carrie Brown at the Morgue yesterday morning. He found that the woman's death had been caused by strangulation. Her body had been mutilated immediately after death and the murderer evidently had carried away a portion of the viscera.

The dead woman was known among those of her class as Carrie Brown, alias Jeff Davis, alias Shakespeare. She first came to New York 15 years ago, taking up her residence in the Fourth Ward. She was a hard drinker, but was well liked by her associates because of her free-handed liberality and her superior intelligence. Her maiden name was Caroline Montgomery, and she married when quite young a sea captain named James Brown and lived in Salem, Mass., where Brown died, leaving his wife in comfortable circumstances. Two of her daughters, Ellen and Annie Brown, live there still. It has not been learned why Mrs. Brown left her home to take up a degraded life. When Mrs. Brown was not on the Island she was an inmate of an institution in the city where she sometimes went to recuperate from the effects of her sprees, and her expenses here were paid by a relative named Lawson, who resides in Salem. She returned from her last trip to the Island only a few days before her death.

Inspector Byrnes at 3 o'clock this afternoon arrested the second engineer of the Red "D" Line steamer Philadelphia lying at her pier on the East River at the foot of Market-street. The description of the man corresponds almost identically with the murderer of Carrie Brown.

Detailed Story of the Murder.

The scene is laid in a squalid, foul little room on the topmost floor of a vile resort known as the East River Hotel, on the southeast corner of Catharine Slip and Water-street. The entrance to the place is through a narrow hallway on the Water-street side. It was through this that a man and woman passed at 10.30 Thursday night. The woman was slight, with gray hair and small irregular features, appearing to be considerably past 50. Over her head was thrown a shawl and and an old black skirt and waist completed her attire. She was a typical specimen of the poor creatures that frequent the lower East side slums.

Her male companion looked not over 32. In build he was slight, about 5 feet 8, with light complexion, sandy mustache, sharp features and a prominent nose. He wore a high crown black derby hat with its top slightly crushed in, and was attired in a brown cutaway coat and trousers of some dark material. The couple were met at the door by the housekeeper, Mary Minter, who declares the man had a German accent. The old woman asked for a room, at the same time handing the housekeeper a dollar, receiving fifty cents in change.

"What is your name?" enquired the girl, addressing the man.

"Knick," he answered, without looking up, and this was the only word he was heard to utter. Mary Minter then passed into the adjoining barroom, where Clerk Sam Stine entered the names on the register and assigned the couple to room 31.

"Go and get us a pint of beer," said the old woman.

"Wouldn't you prefer ale?" asked the housekeeper.

"Yes, mixed ale—ale is the proper drink for ladies and gentlemen," she replied. The ale was procured, which the old woman carried, preceded by her companion, who held aloft a sputtering candle as they stumbled up the rickety stairs to room No. 31. It is a corner room, with a window facing Water-street and another looking out on Catharine-slip. Like the other forty apartments in the house, it is black with filth. In the southwest corner stood a narrow wooden bedstead, on which was a greasy mattress, a pillow and a torn coverlet. Near the bed stood a rickety little washstand. It was into this hovel of filth and wretchedness, that was soon to be turned into a slaughter pen, that the woman and her companion passed, and not a sound was heard there or a person seen to emerge from the room during the night.

At 9.20 Friday morning James Fitzgerald, the day clerk, pushed open the door of No. 31 to rouse the occupants. A sight met his horrified gaze that will not be effaced from his memory for many days. Lying on her right side, naked from the shoulder down, lay the old woman, dead. Her body, the quilts and mattress were soaked in blood, while a crimson stream had trickled down the side of the bed forming a dark pool that spread for some distance over the floor. The head and neck were wrapped in fold after fold of the woman's undergarments and apron. She had been completely disemboweled, the cut extending from the middle of the abdomen down through the length of the abdominal cavity, ending at the back. On the left hip the fiend, by a dexterous stroke of the knife, had carved a cross. The right arm doubled under the body, the hand standing out as if held there by the murderer while doing his brutal work. There was still another cut on the right breast, and from the discoloration of the face and bandages tightly bound round the neck it was plain that the victim had been strangled to death.

A messenger was dispatched to the Oak-street station and Captain O'Connor with two officers repaired to the scene. A careful search of the room disclosed the knife with which the crime was committed. It was an ordinary steel table knife, with the blade cut diagonally in the shape of those used by shoemakers. This with a small reticule made of cretonne and two pairs of spectacles, was taken to the station house. An officer was left on guard. Mary Minter was sent to the House of Detention as a witness. Mary Healy, a companion of the dead woman, who occupied room 12 during the night of the murder, was found there in a beastly state of intoxication and locked up at the station house, but was too drunk to talk late last evening.

Coroner Schultz, with his assistant, viewed the remains early in the afternoon. In removing the bandages from the woman's face and neck he was obliged to cut them, the knots being so firmly tied as to make it impossible to loosen them. The expression of the face was one of great agony and the knees were drawn up, while the gray hair was in tangles about the ghastly face.

The assassin must have done his work quietly, as the slightest noise can be heard through the thin partition that divides the room from the adjoining one.

It was noon before Police Headquarters appreciated the gravity of the situation. Inspector Williams then went direct to the scene of the murder, and the machinery of the Police Department began to move. The inspector characterized it as a crime without a motive. Captain O'Connor said it was a crime with a motive. He claimed to know the woman, saying that she had two daughters, one of whom was about 25. The dead woman was known among her associates as "Shakespeare," but had never been seen at the East River hotel until the night of the murder.

Detective McCloskey, who is detailed on the case, was in London at the time "Jack the Ripper" was terrifying that city, and went minutely into the details of the crimes committed, so that his work in the present case is expected to prove particularly valuable. Late in the afternoon the body was placed in a pine box, together with the clothing, which is said to be such as is worn by women on the Island, and removed to the morgue.

A doctor who viewed the corpse said some parts of the body were missing, which makes the resemblance to the Whitechapel crimes even stronger. The location, too, could not have been more aptly chosen. Within sight are the very worst dives to be found in the city. Outside of the house where the deed was done are the rickety buildings, the narrow alleys, the crowd of filthy men and women that characterized the Whitechapel district. A short distance away are the noted Cherry-street, Mullin's-alley and Blind Man's alley dives. In the hotel where the crime was committed murder was done some years ago, when a bartender named Thompson shot a man there. Since that time another man has been stabbed in the hotel, and minor crimes, almost without end, have been perpetrated behind its door. James Jennings is said to be proprietor of the bar and John Thompson of the lodgings.

The murdered woman was called "Shakespeare" because of her habit of correcting those who spoke ungrammatically. A reporter learned that she had been living at No. 49 Oliver-street with Mamie Harrington and two men, one of whom, a Greek, was known as "Frenchy." Mrs. Harrington said: "I have no doubt the murdered woman was the one who lived with me. Her name is Carrie Brown. She was born at sea and is 60 years old, and came from the Island three weeks ago."

The scenes in the streets on Cherry Hill last night very closely resembled those of the Whitechapel district when London was scared by the "Ripper." All night long crowds gathered in front of the East River Hotel, and the police were kept busily engaged in preventing them from taking possession of the place. Women of all grades in the quarter between Cherry Hill and Water-street, and of all ages, were in the streets curiously scanning everybody that passed, and particularly the detectives, who simply swarmed in the district.

In Bleeker-street, Little Twelfth-street and other notorious haunts of unfortunate women patrolmen were plentifully distributed. There was in some places a great falling off in the number of strollers, but whether or not the absent ones had been drawn away to Water-street by curiosity could only be conjectured. In the slums generally one heard at every step that one name of terror, "Jack the Ripper," and fears are entertained that if Inspector Byrnes does not accomplish a crowning work by effecting the capture of the assassin he will have still other victims in New York.

BEHRING SEA DISPUTE.

Hearing in the Supreme Court Postponed Until October.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The case of the schooner Hayward, involving the question of the jurisdiction of the United States over the seal fisheries in Behring Sea, set for hearing in the United States Supreme Court on Monday, has been postponed until Oct. 19 next. Counsel for both sides were ready to proceed Monday, but the court desired that both cases be heard by a full bench, which the illness of Justice Bradley at present renders impossible. The briefs of both sides have been made public. They are documents of nearly 200 pages each and there are also copious appendices. The argument on each side may be divided into two parts, viz.: First, legal argument involving the right to bring the case before the court in the rather unusual form of a writ of prohibition; and second, a politico-legal argument involving the relations between the legislative, executive and judicial departments of the Government and the binding force upon the judiciary of a decision by the Executive as to the jurisdiction appertaining to the United States.

The First Sod Will be Turned on Thursday Next.

WINDSOR, April 26.—At a meeting held in the parlors of the Crawford House yesterday, the Michigan & Canada Tunnel Company was organized and directors elected, and it was decided to at once proceed with the construction of a tunnel under the Detroit River from Windsor to Detroit. Among the shareholders present were James Ross of Montreal, D. O. Mills of New York and A. Onderdonk. The Michigan Central and Canada Southern roads were represented by their solicitors. The only information they would give to the public was that they had decided to begin work on the tunnel at once, and that many American and Canadian capitalists are interested in the success of the project. Chief Engineer Hawks of the Michigan Central announces that the first sod of the tunnel will be turned on Thursday next at 11 a.m. on the Canadian side of the river.

Opening of Parliament.

OTTAWA, April 26.—The opening of Parliament is fixed for Wednesday. The business that day will, however, be confined to the swearing in of members and the election of a Speaker. The former ceremony will take place in the morning and the latter in the afternoon. The Governor-General will not be present on Wednesday, but will be represented by the Deputy-Governor. The formal opening will take place on Thursday.

Mrs. Josephine Barnaby, widow of a Providence, R.I., millionaire, and Mrs. G. S. Worrell, wife of a prominent Denver real estate agent, have been poisoned to death by a small flask of whisky sent to them with this inscription: "With best wishes accept this fine old whisky from your friends in the woods."

April showers may be the forerunner of May flowers, and they are also certain to bring with them cold in the head, which if neglected, develops into catarrh, perhaps into consumption and death. Nasal Balm never fails to give instant relief, and will permanently cure the worst case of catarrh if faithfully used. Sold by all dealers.

ALL GERMANY MOURNS.

THE DEATH OF COUNT VON MOLTKE A NATIONAL AFFLICTION.

Sincere Expressions of Regret Throughout the Empire—Further Details of the Demise of the Great Field Marshal—Arrangements For the Funeral Thursday.

BERLIN, April 26.—Count von Moltke intended to leave this city this week for the baths at Kudowa, where he expected to recruit his health. The Count was working daily on the plans for the fortifications of the Island of Heligoland, all the most intricate of these plans being drafted by the field marshal himself. The Empress visited the death chamber at 10 o'clock this morning and laid a magnificent wreath of roses upon the bier on which the great general rested. The Empress spent a quarter of an hour in trying to console the family for the loss which they have so unexpectedly suffered. Splendid floral offerings are arriving at the dead field marshal's official residence from all parts of Germany.

Still further details in regard to the Count's death show that after enjoying his supper in his official residence on the Konigsplatz he sat down and listened to musical selections which were played on a piano. He then took a hand in a game of whist, but during the course of the game he complained of feeling unwell, and placing his hand of cards upon the table he left the room.

The Count was immediately put to bed, but in spite of the efforts made to relieve him of what was considered for some time to be nothing more than a severe indisposition he soon expired.

Great crowds of people, respectful and sympathetic, surround the Count's residence and throng the streets. Many of the stores in the leading thoroughfares are closed and the city throughout is commencing to display emblems of mourning for the death of Germany's favorite soldier.

In the Lower House of the Prussian Diet to-day the President of that body, in communicating Count von Moltke's death to the representatives, said that the high value of the deceased's services to the Fatherland would cause universal sorrow and mourning to be felt throughout Germany at the loss that the Empire had sustained. "This," added the President, "convinces me that the House does not desire to proceed with to-day's business. Therefore, I propose that we adjourn until Monday, as a mark of respect to the dead." The President's proposition was unanimously adopted.

In the Upper House a laurel wreath twined with black and white satin ribbons hung over Count von Moltke's seat.

The Emperor telegraphed his sympathetic condolence to Count von Moltke's family, saying the Field Marshal's death was a greater loss to Germany than the loss of an army corps would have been. The Emperor has summoned all the princes and the crowned heads of the different German states to attend the funeral, which will take place Thursday next and will be attended by imposing military ceremonies. The body will be escorted in state from the Moltke residence to the railroad station, whence it will be taken to Creisau for interment. The ceremonial at Creisau will be quiet and without display, in accordance with the late count's wishes.

The remains will lie in state in the apartment in which the Count died until Thursday morning. The coffin will be surrounded with battle flags and will be in charge of a guard of honor. During the morning, by the Emperor's orders, the imperial standard was conveyed from the ante-chamber in the palace adjoining the Emperor's apartments to the room in which the remains of the dead soldier will lie in state. This was done as a special mark of the Emperor's favor and as showing how deeply he feels the loss which Germany has sustained in the death of the Field Marshal.

During the afternoon Lessing, the sculptor, took a plaster cast of Von Moltke's face.

Count von Moltke died without showing the slightest sign of pain, a death which he had often wished for, remarking: "How beautifully men die that die in a syncope!"

The body of the late Count was viewed by the public to-day from noon until 5. The bier is of yellow oak and draped with white silk, embroidered with silver, and a coverlet designed by deceased for the purpose covers the body as far as the breast. The Emperor has ordered the army to go into mourning for eight days.

Purify The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditated and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive Your power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired Blood feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

A BROTHER'S REVENGE.

THE SHOOTING OF THOS. McCONNELL BY FRED. BARTLETT.

The Principals in the Terrible Tragedy were Victoria County Men—A Determined Race for Life.

The St. Paul's Pioneer Press, of April 16th, gives full particulars of the awful murder which resulted in the death of Thomas McConnel, at the hands of Fred. Bartlett, two men who at one time resided in Victoria County. The REVIEW has already mentioned the tragedy, but the following account shows the awful determination that characterized the deed;—

The most terrible tragedy that has occurred in the history of the Red River valley took place Saturday afternoon near Bowesmont, a small station on the Northern Pacific, about eighteen miles from this city. The tragedy is all the more terrible from the fact that the parties involved were all quiet, peaceful and respected citizens, and most of them were well-to-do farmers, to the most of whom the trouble was as unexpected and surprising as it turned out bloody and tragical.

The man who did the bloody work was a farmer named Fred. Bartlett. He has a brother, Tom, each of them have a farm in [illegible] They have usually farmed here summers and returned to Chicago in the winter. Last summer a young sister aged about fifteen, came out to keep house for them. She was petite, but quite pretty. Near by, about a mile away, lived Thomas McConnel, also a farmer, and at that time a bachelor. McConnell paid some attention to the girl during the summer, taking her to picnics, etc., but last fall married a young lady from Carlisle, a Miss Works. Miss Bartlett returned to Chicago last fall, where she has a married brother, and where she now is. During the months since the Bartlett boys have taken the matter very much to heart and the elder one especially has brooded over it constantly. They have tried to see if they could not call McConnell to account in the courts, but found under the circumstances, not being able to prove a promise to marry, that they had no case. Fred is reported to have then said, "That if the law could not punish him that he would do it himself."

THE TRAGEDY.

Last Saturday Mr. and Mrs. McConnel just after dinner went to Robert Irwin's, who lived about two miles away, to visit. Irwin and his hired man, W. Upton Hill, had a team backed up to the stable door and were busy cleaning and loading seed, while McConnel stood in a hall near by with his two horses. Fred and Tom Bartlett had come from Tom's place just across the road from Irwin's, where they were building a new stable. The Bartletts had been in the habit of putting their team in Irwin's stable and came over as usual for that purpose. Tom Bartlett remained outside while Fred brought in the horse; he spoke to Irwin and Hill but said nothing to McConnel. Passing into an adjoining stall he tied his horse, then stepping out and in between McConnel's horses, he drew a revolver and fired two shots at McConnel, both taking effect in the breast but not seriously disabling him. Bartlett then went back, passing through a door near by into a hay mow. Irwin followed him in and said, "What in the world are you doing, Fred?" Fred answered, "He ruined my sister; I've killed him and I am going to die for it." Irwin then tried to persuade him to put up his pistol and go home, and Fred put up the pistol. In the meantime McConnell had passed out of the stable and gone to a shanty outbuilding near, passing Tom Bartlett on the way. Tom Bartlett came in where Irwin and his brother were and said, "come on, Fred!" Irwin thought they meant to go home, and soon as they got outside the stable, Tom pointed to the small shanty outbuilding where McConnell was, and Fred started for the shanty. Irwin, who had followed from the stable, then realized that they were still on the shoot and seized Fred Bartlett by the arm. Hill grabbed him by the other arm, then Tom Bartlett seized Hill and flung him away from Fred. Fred then turned on Irwin and said, "Let go me or I'll shoot you!" and immediately fired, striking Irwin almost in the centre portion of the abdomen. Irwin then let him go, and Fred, running after Hill, fired two shots at him, saying "I'll shoot the whole lot of you." Hill, badly wounded in the breast, escaped to the dwelling house, where the frightened woman locked the door. Then Fred turned and went to the shanty where McConnell was, and meeting McConnell at the door, snapped the revolver at him, in his excitement evidently forgetting that he had emptied the five chambers already. The two men clinched and had a struggle but McConnell getting himself free, ran around the stable, Tom Bartlett trying to head him off with a revolver in his hand, and Fred following reloading his revolver from cartridges in his pocket as he ran. McConnell ran around the stable to where Irwin was, and Irwin told him, "run to the house, they are going to kill you sure." McConnel did as directed, but was delayed considerably by the door being locked, and by the time he got in the Bartletts coming around the stable, discovered where he had gone.

Irwin's horses, which had been standing at the door of the stable, had been frightened by the shooting, ran away and at this time came circling around near the building again. Irwin ran out and caught them and jumped into the wagon and drove over to Johnston's, near by, for help. While he was gone the Bartlett boys went to the house, forced open the door, and Fred pointed the revolver at Mrs. McConnell, but, lowering it, said, "I won't shoot you, but I will kill Tom." Then Fred Bartlett started upstairs to the open room to which Hill and McConnell had fled. Four steps up a door barred the way. Hill and McConnell tried to hold the door, until Fred Bartlett shot through the panels, hitting McConnell in the leg. McConnell then went to the window upstairs and, breaking out the sash, jumped to the ground. He then ran to the stable and concealed himself. Here he remained for a few minutes getting his breath, then getting frightened again, started off in a northerly direction along the track, across some breaking. In the meantime Bartlett forced open the stair door and rushed up stairs, found that McConnel had escaped, and in his blind rage again fired at the already wounded Hill, this time shattering his arm close to the shoulder. Tom then called to Fred to come down. They then hitched their horse to the buggy. Fred got in and Tom walked, both going in the direction of Tom's house, about two hundred yards away, across the road and in the same direction McConnel had gone from the stable. The frightened and dazed people at Irwin's watching them did not know where McConnel had gone, but saw Tom Bartlett coming out from the back of his house, pointing up the breaking, and Fred lashing his horse in pursuit of McConnel, who was running ahead and dodging first one side and then the other of the horse's head to avoid the revolver shots which Fred was firing at him. At last McConnel got one in the mouth ranging downward to the neck, taking out a couple of teeth; this knocked him down and Fred, jumping out of the buggy, came up to him. McConnel looked up and said, "Well, Fred, you have done me now." "Yes," answered Bartlett, "and now I'll finish you," and stooping down, placed his bull-dog revolver to McConnel's ear and fired. Then the two brothers (for Tom had by this time come up on foot) climbed into the buggy and rode away.

A Brilliant Player.

Daily Spectator, Hamilton, Dec. 10th, 1890, says:—"Mr. J. Churchill Arlidge, of Toronto, was the only performer who was a stranger to the Hamilton public. He is a flutist who plays not only with rare skill and brilliancy, but also with a discriminating delicacy of expression when such is required. There is evidently much music in his soul. His brilliant executive power was shown in his two solos, but the sympathetic support which he gave to the voices in his two obligatos betrayed a nonacquired musical instinct. He was twice recalled and responded both times—the first time with the last movement of the solo, and the second time with the simple, unembellished air, "Home, Sweet Home." Mr. Arlidge made friends of the audience last night, and everybody who heard him will be glad to hear him again." Mr. Arlidge plays at the P.A.A.A. concert, Tuesday evening, April 28th. Prices, 25c. and 50c. 1d96

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. EVERY day makes more apparent the fact that the town is going ahead rapidly. Numerous changes have taken place in the way of the ownership of property. Many workingmen are buying houses and lots or lots on which to build. One of the most suitable locations is that known as the [illegible] property, at the west end, owned largely by Mr. Wm. Fitzgerald. This week he has closed the sale of a very desirable new house and lot, and has several eligible lots on this property to dispose of. Property in this neighbourhood is rapidly being built up, and it will be well to have a look at the situation if one is at all disposed to buy. The terms are very favorable and especially low for cash, though payment on time may be arranged.

THEY HAVE MARCHED ON.

SEVENTY-SECOND ANNIVERSARY OF ODDFELLOWSHIP.

The Local Brethren at Church—One Soweth and Another Reapeth—Able and Appropriate Sermon By Rev. E. F. Torrance—Speeches at the Lodge Room.

Time as it ever moves on toward the ocean of eternity sees the retrograde or onward movement of all things, no person or organization remaining in an unchanged condition during the flight of years. In no organization, perhaps, have the fleeting years seen more advancement or greater increase than in the Independent Order of Oddfellows. Founded seventy-two years ago in North America on the 26th of April, 1819, by Thos. Wildey, who brought with him from England the seed which has grown into a mighty tree, until the Order is known everywhere as a benefactor of mankind, and the emblem of the tripple links is to be found in every clime.

Yesterday was therefore the seventy-second anniversary of the American Order, and the day was suitably celebrated all over Canada and the United States. In Peterborough Oddfellowship is vigorous and strong, and the brethren here commemorated the anniversary in an appropriate manner. To the number of over two hundred the members of the two local lodges and Peterborough Canton assembled in Otonabee Lodge rooms and at seven o'clock marched in procession to St. Paul's church, where Rev. E. F. Torrance preached an eloquent and appropriate discourse. Bro. W. J. Miller, of Otonabee Lodge, and Bro. A. McIntosh, of Peterborough Lodge, performed the duties of marshals, while among those in the procession were two Past Grand Masters of the Order in Ontario, Bro. Read, of Brockville, and Bro. Dr. Bell, of Otonabee Lodge. Canton Peterborough, in full uniform, headed the procession.

The service was a most interesting one. At the church the centre pews were reserved for the members of the Order, while the remainder of the commodious edifice was filled by the congregation and friends of the Oddfellows. The sermon was well adapted to the congregation, and not a word from the rev. gentleman's lips fell on inattentive ears. The singing led by the excellent choir under the leadership of the organist and choirmaster, Mr. Arlidge, was hearty and united. The choir also rendered an anthem in grand voice during the time the collection was being raised, and Master Arlidge, the boy soprano, sang "Abide With Me" in a peculiarly sweet and effective manner.

THE SERMON.

Rev. Mr. Torrance chose as the basis of his discourse the words:—

"And herein is that saying true, One soweth and another reapeth. I sent you to reap that whereon ye bestowed no labor; other men labored and ye entered into their labors."—John IV., 37 38.

These words, the rev. gentleman said, formed part of the reply which the Lord Jesus made to his disciples upon their return from Sychar. The preacher then followed up the conversation and circumstances as given in the chapter which had led up to the utterance of the words of the text, and asked his hearers to consider first, the saying he had just quoted, and, secondly, the application made of the saying to the disciples, and the application under the circumstances they had met that evening. "One soweth and another reapeth" was an utterance the truth enunciated in which was thought to be one of the anomalies of the world. While the truth might appear to be one of the anomalies of the world, it was inseparately connected with their existence here, so connected that some must reap the harvest others sowed. Fathers sowed seeds by their earnest attention to business and their children reaped the harvest in a superior education and material advancement. A patriot sowed seed and his country reaped the harvest in purer freedom and increased national prosperity. The general sowed seeds when he met the enemy and put him to utter flight, and the nation reaped the benefit. Not only in relations of men to one another was this true, but also of one generation to another. Each generation occupied the position both of sowers and reapers, sowers to those who were to come after them, and reapers to those who had gone before. This was the necessary result of the progress of the human race. In this respect was different from that of the lower animals. The lower animals remained the same as they were years ago. This principle of sowing and reaping, the rev. gentleman proceeded to show, was seen in scientific discovery, and he went on eloquently to point out that the scientist, school boy and illiterate man of to-day all knew many things that were unknown to those who had made discoveries in earlier times. This principle of sowing and reaping was also true in regard to the moral and political reforms. These reforms were introduced by one man, misinterpreted and misunderstood, and sometimes the reformers had obloquy heaped upon them and obtained no benefit from the reforms. But those who came after them reaped the harvest. Wilberforce and Clarkson persevered in their labors for the freedom of the slaves until those labors were crowned with success and the Anglo Saxon race as well as the negroes were now reaping the harvest from the seed these men had sown and a foul blot had been removed from England and the United States and the condition of the negro was improved. Cobden and his agitators for free trade had continued in their agitation until their efforts were also crowned with success and during the years that free trade had prevailed the wealth of England had increased at an enormous rate. The principle of sowing and reaping was true also in regard to literature, although this was not continually advancing as the moral and political reforms. The poets and writers of Greece such as Homer, Aristotle and Demosthenes and, coming down to a later age, those of the Elizabethian period stood out as stars in the firmament and the world was from the galaxy of bright lights. They to-day reaped the benefit, he went on to point out, by reading the thoughts of these men. This principle of sowing and reaping was also true in regard to little acts of every day life and the preacher impressed upon his congregation that as they were reaping the harvest of the seeds of scientific discovery, moral and political reforms and of the firmament of literature, they were also reaping the harvest of the acts of kindness, nobleness and unselfishness of every day life. As they were reaping they should seek to sow such a harvest as would benefit those coming after them. He dwelt upon the thought that it was the little things that aggregated great things and that it was attention to details and little things that had made great men. The preacher then passed on to show the application of the words of the text to the disciples, saying that the Old Testament prophets and the Saviour had sown the seed which had brought forth much fruit to the disciples who reaped the harvest. As to the application to their society he said he found in their constitution and by-laws a clause which said among were (1) to visit the sick, (2) to relieve the distressed, (3) to bury the dead, (4) educate the orphans and (5) to care for the widow. The rev. gentleman then took up each of these benevolent duties which is part of Oddfellowship and showed how each was laid down with special stress in God's Word and in the performance of which Oddfellows and other similar societies were setting an example to the Christian church, the members of which too often left the sick to be visited by the pastor and thought themselves fortunate when they had no poor or distressed among their members. In referring to the duty of relieving the distressed he said 2,964 persons had received sick benefits during the year, 197 widows had received benefits amounting to $15,886. He referred to the harvest which would be reaped from this sowing and in closing he urged them to so sow that those who came after them would derive benefit from that which they had sown. He hoped that they would so sow that they might reap as their harvest immortal life.

THE EXISTENCE OF MAN

AT THE LODGE ROOM.

At the conclusion of the service the brethren reformed in procession and returned to the Lodge room, where they went into open lodge, Bro. Chas. Huffman, N.G. of Otonabee Lodge, presiding.

Bro. Huffman made a few opening remarks as to the pleasant character of the service of the evening and the lessons that were to be derived from the discourse delivered.

Bro. Read, Past Grand Master, was called upon and made a short address. He expressed his pleasure at being present to commemorate the anniversary of the Order with the Peterborough brethren and referred to the advancement Oddfellowship had made during its existence of nearly three-quarters of a century. He impressed upon the brethren a thought brought out in the sermon of the evening in regard to the individual responsibility of men and the importance of little things. He spoke of the antagonism which had been exhibited towards the Order by the church not many years ago and rejoiced that things had changed now and the Church and Oddfellowship were going hand in hand doing a common work.

Bro. Dr. Bell, Past Grand Master, and Bro. J. D. Tully, N.G. of Peterborough Lodge, also spoke in a similar strain.

Bro. Early, P.G., of Otonabee Lodge, moved, seconded by Bro. Mulligan, V.G. of Peterborough Lodge, a resolution of thanks to Rev. Mr. Torrance for his eloquent and able sermon, to the officers of St. Paul's church for their kindness in granting the use of their church and to the choir for their excellent singing. The resolution was heartily carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

TO BE IMPROVED.

Mr. Thos. Kelly's Dry Goods Establishment to Undergo Extensive Improvements.

Mr. Thos. Kelly, the well-known dry goods man, is about to make extensive changes in his premises at the corner of Simcoe and George-sts. A large plate glass window will be placed on the Simcoe-st. side of the building at the corner making a fine double show window. Further west on Simcoe-st. towards the rear of the store another plate glass window will be placed, thus giving much additional light to the interior of the store.

Then inside the store will be refitted from cellar to garret. The shelving will be changed, the ceilings and walls decorated, and many improvements made. When the changes are made the store will have undergone a complete transformation and will be one of the finest dry goods establishments in the town.

These changes will be made as soon as Mr. Kelly can reduce his large stock of staple and fancy dry-goods. In order to do this he proposes to hold a great clearing sale, when he will lighten his stock by giving big bargains.

Simply Appalling.

It seems that an uptown housewife relates that she was about closing an engagement with a new help the other day and after acceding to several stipulations as to hours out, Sunday's off, etc., finally had to break off the prospective engagement, when the applicant inquired whose teas were used in the house, and learning that the article was bought from the regular grocer replied that she couldn't stay in a house and do justice to the table where they did not use Hawley Bros'. teas, the best and purest sold in town. d96tf-w16

The superior merit of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral as an anodyne of the most powerful ingredients. Nothing like it has ever been attempted in pharmacy, and its success in the cure of pulmonary complaints is unparalled.

How Great are the Goughs!

There is apparently no limit to the ingenuity and resources of Gough Bros., the wonderful cheap men. Though always making some startling advance on the prominent positions they take, the last great stride is after all, an astonisher. They have saved a great clothing dealer from bankruptcy. He was going to the wall for want of a large amount of ready cash. He offered his stock at a great sacrifice for cash, and Gough Bros. united the resources of their several establishments in Peterborough, Toronto and Brantford (though for ordinary purposes they are absolutely separate and distinct), paid the wholesaler spot cash for a splendid bill of ready made goods, and that enables Gough Bros. to give the magnificent bargains hinted at in the following specimen brick of paralyzed prices—a few diamond pointed tips:

$16 00 $14 00 $12 00 $10 00	for $9.	$8 00 $7 00 $6 00 $5 00	for $4.90	$4 50 $4 00 $3 50 $3 25	for $2.90

The same sweeping reductions in shoes and boots, and in every line of the several departments of Gough Bros.' business. A special drive in fine wool hats. See to it that you do not miss this wonderful chance, for at the prices quoted Goughs' great stock of goods will go like snow in the midsummer sun, or like the man who "wants work," when you give him a job. 2d96-3w16

Nature requires aid in correcting irregularities at this season, and for both men and women no other remedy equals Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a spring blood tonic. They supply all the constituents necessary to enrich the blood and build up the system. THE HEALTH OF THE TOWN.

It is in a Healthy Condition—Letter from the Medical Health Officer.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—The town has been so free from infectious disease in recent years that the occurrence of a few cases of diphtheria excites alarm and gives rise to many misstatements and exaggerations. Allow me, then, to give the exact condition of affairs as regards infectious diseases of the graver kind.

There is not a single case of scarlet fever in town or village. I am not aware of any case of pure typhoid fever. Diphtheria exists in only four houses and the patients are all nearly well; no new case has been reported for several days. Five deaths have unfortunately, occurred in the last month, but the majority—I may say all—were in families to whom no sanitary neglect, public or private, could be imputed. It is easy to say that the Board of Health should take active measures or that the Town Council should put in a system of drainage at once, but, as a matter of fact, diphtheria occurs in the best drained towns and in the best conducted families. It is a disease more similar to typhoid fever than to any other in its mode of propagation. It is not carried in the clothes—to use a common expression—like scarlet fever or small pox! Although not well understood even by the highest authorities, it seems to be due to the coincidence of certain conditions. During the present spring, throat affections have been prevalent, such as common colds, la grippe, quinsies, mumps, measles, scarlet fever, all more or less affecting the throat, and it has invariably been found that under such conditions some cases will take on the diphtheritic form, especially when the system is susceptible.

Regarding the West Ward school, about which so much has been said, the condition of the building and premises is not responsible for the cases in the vicinity. They would have occurred had the school been a mile away. I inspected the buildings and found them in a good sanitary condition. I analysed the water and found it very good. The privies are not at fault, although to make assurance doubly sure the board are about to construct others. There is very little water in the cellar, but the mere fact of its being damp is not dangerous to the health of the scholars. In private houses where there is decaying animal or vegetable matter in damp cellars there is a good deal of risk. Then as to the means taken to prevent the spread of the disease. Let anyone put his nose into one of the infected houses and he will soon find out whether anything is being done to check it. Never before have isolation and disinfection been so thorough. The question as to whether the father of a family should be allowed to go on with his work is an important one. I have always taken the stand that breadwinning should be interfered with as little as possible, providing no danger is incurred. It is bad enough for a poor man to have diphtheria in his family without being forced to remain idle for a month, but that is not the question. I do not think a man should work among children, and here let me correct another misstatement, namely, that the caretaker of the West Ward has continued his duties the same as before diphtheria occurred in his family. The truth is he was stopped at once and another man put on—his son, it is true, but who lives in another place altogether. I can see no objection to a man working—say in a foundry—provided he uses such precautions as he is sure to use for his own sake. Of course there are some nervous persons who believe that too much cannot be done when a case of diphtheria appears. They think schools and even streets ought to be shut up, and that furniture, clothing, and even the house itself should be burned to ashes. A few years ago a fatal case of diphtheria occurred at a leading hotel in town. The health officer was soundly abused because the house was not placarded at the front door and thus practically shut up. Think of the danger to the town and travelling public, people said. What was done was to put the child in a remote room, isolate and disinfect thoroughly, use all possible precautions and the result justified the means used for not another case occurred. When a case of smallpox appeared here some years ago the Board of Health rose to the occasion and soon stamped it out, but diphtheria is a totally different disease and cannot be driven out by so-called vigorous measures. It is the result of many conditions slowly operating together, and all that can be done is to keep the town up to the sanitary standard as far as possible and hope for the best. In Toronto the Board of Health spends $15,000 or $20,000 a year, and yet they have far more diphtheria and typhoid fever in proportion than we have.

Let me here give a hint or two to those who are bringing up small children where diphtheria is prevalent. Boil all water and milk. I don't mean to say that our supply of either is impure, but it is best to be on the safe side. Avoid depressing influences. A child is glad to get out in the early spring, and will play until he is fatigued, inhaling at the same time a good deal of irritating dust. He then comes in and lies down in a cool place. It is in these moments of languor and depression that the germs of disease make headway. At the same time everything about the house should be kept in good sanitary order, and I would here call attention to the provisions of the Health Act which require that all yards and premises be thoroughly cleaned out by the 15th of May. The inspectors will soon be on their rounds and will show no mercy to offenders.

At this point in the history of the town it is unwise to discuss health matters in the newspapers, as it gives the impression that the town is unhealthy, which is utterly untrue. At the same time when glaring misstatements appear in print it is important that they should be contradicted.

Yours, etc.,

J. CLARKE.

Peterborough, April 26, 1891.

P. S.—Since the above was written no new case of infectious disease has appeared up to the time of printing.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is on the flood tide of popularity, which position it has reached by its own intrinsic, undoubted merit.

The Diphtheria Cases.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—People naturally are asking for the cause of the prevalence of this disease. The answer is hard to find. Cases have appeared in different parts of the town, but all in the north western part. For years it was the custom with the people in the south end to cry out against Spaulding's bay as a prolific source of sickness, but the fact is, that the south end of the town has been peculiarly free from sickness, and on enquiring it will be found that fewer danger cards have been put up there by the police than in any other part of the town.

Most of the residents in the south end own their houses and in consequence they are more particular in keeping their premises clean than in the more largely rented premises at the centre and northerly part. Then again, very many of the wells at the south end are driven wells, which are most likely to give pure water. Here, then, may be a reason for the comparative freedom from disease, pure water, clean premises In the north west part of the town there is an extensive gravelly plain, where the water rises near to the surface and many cellars are wet in spring. These are conditions sufficient to account for disease. You have privy vaults, water in abundance, sunk wells. If the polluted water sinks to the wells can good results be expected? Some people blame the White dam for the sickness in its vicinity, but there are above that dam no causes for pollution. It is country from the dam all the way to the swamps from which it is fed. The rise of water in the dam does not affect the cellars, for the cellars on Donegal-st. which are now drained into the creek have become perfectly dry. If the cause is in the water it is because of the privy vaults which contaminate it. The remedy is in abolishing sunk pits. Let all closets be raised sufficiently high to take barrels. Let the scavenger have a legal right to go and remove the barrel, say four times a year, or oftener if needful. Let the scavenger be authorized to lay complaint against all persons who do not afford proper facilities for cleaning. It is an extraordinary thing that a people who are fastidious as to cleanliness in most ways are as to outhouses so utterly indifferent and criminally filthy.

Nothing but heroic measures will compel people to be clean and since we have no drainage the least that should be expected from the Council would be the passing of stringent by-laws to compel people to save their own and others' lives by such sanitary observances as decency and prudence suggest.

BUY A HOME!

Stop Paying Rent! Be Your Own Landlord!

We Offer For Sale by Public Auction on

MONDAY, 11th MAY, 1891, at 3 p. m., ON THE GROUND.

Lots on Romaine-st. Each lot is 33ft. by 220ft. Soil high and dry, sandy loam. 10 minutes walk from the Edison Works, Peter Hamilton Works, the Carbon Works and the Bridge Works. The new Electric Car Line will touch this street and George and Aylmer-sts. will be opened through to the Fair ground.

These lots are double the depth of the ordinary town lot and are fine for gardening. This is the finest property in the market and one which will afford the best building lots to be had at low prices. These are only lots left on the south side of the street. Lots in the neighborhood half the depth sell at $8 to $10 per foot frontage, while these lots are 220ft. deep and will be sold for what they will bring. BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

Her head was bent, her veil was over her eyes, the air was full of snow and the confusing dazzle of street lights; it was impossible that she should know who this man was, and yet she did know at once, and she even fancied that she had anticipated the meeting a moment before it occurred. And, first, a great wave of joy seemed to swell and murmur in her heart, and then she called to mind all manner of unwelcome and crippling considerations, and drew herself together in a defensive attitude. Physically she stopped, breathing quickly, and removing one hand from her muff to keep down her veil. She thought he would perhaps not recognise her. But a man can recognise the woman he loves by a glimpse of the movement of her shoulder far off in a crowd—nay, by the toss of the feather in her hat. The magic of love consists mainly in its stimulating us to use our senses; and then we are surprised to discover what a marvelous capacity and keenness those senses have. The heavenly intelligence of angels such only be the result of the depth and ardor of their power to love.

"Mademoiselle"—he began, and stopped, for he had never called her by her real name, and though he knew now what it was it had no personal association with her in his mind. "I was going to find you," he continued.

"I was not lost. So you have returned, Mr. Bellingham?"

"I must speak to you, Miss Randolph!"

"Is it necessary on this corner? A singer must be careful of her throat, you know."

"Take my arm. I'll get a hack for you."

"Thank you; I am doing very well."

She walked on and he walked beside her. The facilities for conversation were certainly not good, even had the readiness been there. He was six or seven inches taller than she, and he was obliged to stoop and speak loud in order to insure her hearing him, while he was in danger of missing or misinterpreting the muffled murmur of her replies. But there was in Bellingham a great deal of constancy and concentration of purpose.

"I don't expect you to forgive me," he said. "Only understand that I can never forgive myself. Such a blunder should have been impossible to a man who felt toward you as I did. If I had been worth your caring for I should not have made it."

"It was natural; you could not have done anything else; I do not blame you," said Beatrix through her veil. Geoffrey did not wholly catch her words; he understood her to say that such a mistake was only to be expected of him, and his face fell. She perceived the change in him, and faltered out, "I mean that I do forgive you!" But a Fifth Avenue stage, rattling by just then, drowned this sentence altogether.

"I don't mean to persecute you," he remarked, speaking in a monotonous tone, as they walked onward side by side, "I didn't return from Europe for that; I merely wanted you to know. I used to think that, whatever happened, I could always think and act like a man who believed in goodness and—purity. But I failed at the important moment, and you may be right—it was only natural in me. For a long time—many years—before I met you I had nothing to do with women, and thought as little as possible about them. You seemed to me, when I first saw you, at the same time, everything that I most disliked. It was the contradiction between what I felt you were and what I thought you were. That began with our first evening and went on exaggerating itself until the end. That's my story, Miss Randolph. After all it's only a long way of saying, 'I made a mistake and beg your pardon.'"

Beatrix heard all this, and the more she heard the more tormented she felt and the faster she tried to talk; but the sidewalks were slippery, and at last in crossing the street her foot slipped, and she would have fallen if Geoffrey had not caught her arm. She stopped, pressing her hands, which were clasped inside her muff, against her heart, and glancing this way and that, like a bird that knows not which way to fly. She was just in such a half frantic, half hopeless mood as often prompts women to acts which appear—and perhaps really are—insane. She knew that on the passing moment depended probably the failure or success, the happiness or misery, of her whole future life. She knew that everything was going topsy-turvy, absurdly and gratuitously wrong. And she felt paralyzed—wholly unable to utter a word to set everything right. A word would have done it. What prevented her? In part, perhaps, the very urgency of her desire, which tripped up its performance.

But what appeared to be the real obstacles were utterly trivial material accidents, such as being in the open street, being buffeted by the wind, being obstructed by her veil, being unable to see the expression of Bellingham's face, because it was in shadow. The more despicable small the hindrances were, and the more out of proportion with the thing they were hindering, the less could Beatrix prevail against them. So it often seems to be in this world; it is not only that the mountain in labor brings forth a mouse, but that a mouse prevents the bringing forth of a mountain.

Bellingham also was wretchedly aware that he had ruined whatever little chance he may have had; that he had spoken boldly and perfunctorily, with a frozen tongue, although his heart was on fire. He could not help it; he could have died for her on the spot, but he could not put into his voice or face as much life as would have kept a gnat in motion. It was all over.

"Will you stop this stage for me, please?" Beatrix had said as another of those gorgeous vehicles came swinging and lumbering along.

"With pleasure!" Bellingham replied, not ironically, but mechanically. The stage pulled up; he handed all he loved in the world up the step; he saw her fall into a seat, and then, with a jerk and a hoof clatter, stage and all disappeared in the gloom and snow. Bellingham remained for a few moments in the middle of the road like a policeman till, recollecting himself, he saw before him the hospitable entrance of Delmonico's, and went in there.

Catarrh

Is a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half pound tins, by grocers, labelled thus:

MANIPUR BURNED.

THE REBELS FIRE THE VILLAGE AND FLEE TO THE HILLS.

The Capital of the Disaffected Country Was to Have Been Assaulted at Daylight This Morning Unless it Capitulated in the Meantime.

SIMLA, April 27.—Despatches received here from the commander of the British columns advancing upon Manipur show that the British troops are now within 19 miles of Imphal, the capital of Manipur. A body of cavalry sent forward on reconnaissance has rejoined the main body of the British troops and reports that the troopers found the country ahead to be deserted. The British force will attempt to take Imphal by assault at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning unless the capital surrenders before that time.

It is reported that the Maharajah has fled from Manipur and that previous to his departure he caused the town to be set on fire. Manipur is said to have been destroyed.

LONDON, April 27.—It is generally believed here that England will annex outright the little State which is wedged in between the British possessions in India and Burmah, interrupting communications, barring the way to a development of commerce, and constituting, as the present sad experience goes to prove, a harboring ground for all that is most dangerous from the side of the fierce border tribes.

AN INSURGENT DEFEAT.

And the Witness Signed the Register With a Pen Held in His Teeth.

LONDON, April 27.—At the Registrar's office in South Shields yesterday a midget girl only 28 inches high was married to Prof. Hedley, a man 6 feet 1 inch tall. Humbert, the man without arms, gave the bride away, signing the certificate by holding the pen between his teeth. The bridesmaid was Miss Nina, the American giantess, who weighs 616 pounds.

The best man was Capt. Dallis, who is 7 feet 10 inches tall. Gen. Mettlesss, 29 inches high, was one of the wedding party. All were connected with a traveling circus going through the country.

A gang of robbers attacked the rail road station at Arad, 145 miles from Buda, Pesth, last night, killed the watchman, and breaking open the safe stole all the registered letters. The latter contained, in addition to money and postal orders, articles of jewelry valued at $6000.

Capt. Verney's conviction on the charge of procuration is almost certain. The Crown's evidence shows that for ten years Verney, under different names, has been carrying on this nefarious pursuit. He had actually rented a house in a quiet part of London, where his victims were [illegible]. It is believed he will not get above six months' imprisonment, two years being the maximum for his offence if convicted. If convicted he will be expelled from the House of Commons.

The N.Y. State Board of Mediation and Arbitration has submitted its fourth annual report to the Legislature. The number of strikes in the state during the year was much greater than in any previous year since the creation of the board. In the building trade particularly has this been the case, one or more strikes occurring on nearly every working day of the year. Special reference is made to the "sweating system" practised by the contractors [illegible] in New York.

BRITISH HOUSE OF LORDS.

KNUTSFORD'S COERCION BILL PASSES ITS SECOND READING.

Adverse Criticism of the Proposed Measure—Suggestions As To the Continuation of the Modus Vivendi—The Position of the Imperial Government on the Question.

LONDON, April 27.—In moving the second reading of his bill, known as the "Newfoundland Coercion Bill," in the House of Lords to-day, Lord Knutsford, Secretary of State for Colonial Affairs, contended that the bill did not interfere with local questions in Newfoundland nor with the independence of the colonial Legislature. He also said it was a matter of Imperial obligation that the arrangements affecting the fishing rights of France should be as binding upon the colony as upon the Empire. The Government, he added, desires to meet the wishes of the colonies, so far as is consistent with international obligations. Lord Knutsford added that the measure took the colony by surprise. The Colonial Government, he said, never held out any hope that they would consent to legislation on the basis of arbitration and they could not expect the French Government to accept general arbitration. If the colonists made that the sine qua non, the Imperial Government would go on with the bill in its present form. The second reading of the bill would not take place in the House of Commons before Whitsuntide (week of May 15), thus giving ample time to consider any amendment which might be suggested. Lord Knutsford hoped reasonable counsels would prevail and thus maintain harmony all around. He said that if before the bill reached the House of Commons, the Colonial Legislature passed an act which, in the Government's opinion, was sufficient to secure the observance of the modus vivendi of 1891 and to enforce the decision of the arbitration commission on the lobster question and in regard to the treaties existing between England and France the Government would not proceed with the bill. But if such an act was not passed by the Colonial Legislature it would be necessary to pass the Imperial Government's measure as rapidly as possible. The Government was ready to consider with the Newfoundland delegates the terms of the bill which they suggested might be discussed. But difficulties of an international character required careful handling, and the passage of the Colonial Act should not be delayed until the terms proposed by the Imperial bill were settled. The Government saw no difficulty in giving Newfoundland representation on the arbitration commission; in fact, the Government had requested the colony to name a delegate to act on the present arbitration commission, but the colony had refused to do so. "The colonists may be assured," said Lord Knutsford, "that we should not further press any of the subsidiary points referred to arbitration until the Imperial Government had fully consulted the colonists."

The Earl of Kimberley said the Newfoundland Government ought to have been notified of the Imperial intention in regard to Newfoundland. The present position of affairs demanded that the bill ought not to be carried further until the Newfoundland Legislature had further considered the matter. Lord Kimberley hoped Lord Knutsford's measure would never be required.

Lord Dunraven criticised the bill adversely. All the questions involved, he said, ought to be submitted to arbitration.

Lord Herschell thought Newfoundland was justly indignant, seeing that France pressed the treaties beyond legitimate grounds. The bill passed the second reading without a division.

FIRES OF A NIGHT.

A Village in Essex County Stands a Good Chance of Being Wiped Out.

COMBER, Ont., April 27.—At 10 to-night fire destroyed Harmer's hotel here. The residence of Moses Creighton is also in flames. The M.C.R. came to the rescue by sending an engine to aid with water. The big barn belonging to the hotel is in flames, and Lindlate and Ainslies planing mills, the elevator at the station, besides a row of houses, are in great danger. The northern part of the village is doomed as well as the station. Assistance has arrived from the neighboring towns.

The residence of Leonard Woolly of South Dorchester, near Springfield, was burned yesterday. Cause, defective chimney. Loss $800; insurance $600.

The dwelling of George Carr, a farmer, near Brussels, was destroyed by fire yesterday. Loss $800, insurance $400.

Fire occasioned $24,000 damage to the shops of McLaren & Co., woodenware manufacturers, 141 Frontenac-street, Montreal, last midnight.

At Hamilton yesterday Frank Rowlin's fertilizing factory was damaged to the extent of $7000 with $400 insurance; Prof. Hand's fireworks factory caught fire from a stove and $200 damage was occasioned and Charles Newberry's carriage house, Robert-street, was damaged to the extent of $150.

For Robbing His Mother-in-Law.

HAMILTON, April 27.—George Haskins, a clerk in the office of the E. & C. Gurney Company, is under arrest on a charge of embezzlement. The warrant was issued on the information of Mrs. Doyle of Brockville, his mother-in-law, who claims that when Haskins was living in Brockville Mrs. Doyle entrusted him with $3100, a piano and some household goods. Haskins afterwards skipped out. The prisoner claims that the goods were given him.

A Murder Over Marbles.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 27.—James Lenox, aged 7 years, to-day shot Benjamin Griffith, aged 9. The boys were playing marbles with Charles Bushell, aged 15. They quarrelled and Bushel handed Lenox the revolver, urging him to use it. The ball lodged in Griffith's brain.

Princeton's Mystery Unravelled.

PRINCETON, April 27.—A telegram has been received from Mr. Larmour, the Princeton station agent, from Bridgeport, Conn., where he has been laid up with the grip. He is with his wife and her friends. He promises to write more fully as soon as able.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

The Cost of the New Parliament Buildings Will Be $1,250,000.

TORONTO, April 28.—The Ontario Legislature is fast completing its labors.

Mr. Fraser, in moving a resolution to provide for the further expenditure of $150,000 in connection with the new Parliament buildings assured the Assembly most positively yesterday that the buildings would be completed for the sum of $1,250,000. Tenders had been accepted for 3 out of the 4 classes of work remaining to be done, namely, for lathing and plastering, for heating and ventilating and for plumbing. The tenders for roof covering, slating, copper work, etc., were refused because they were too high. New tenders for this work would be called. The tenders accepted amounted in all to $112,900. The names and individual amounts could not be given because the contracts were not yet signed. He was confident from the rate at which the structure was building that the work now under contract would be completed before the end of this season, that the departments would occupy the east wing before the close of next year and that the Legislature would meet there session after next. In reply to Mr. Meredith, he said he could not give any estimate of the cost of furnishing or of beautifying the grounds.

Patrick O'Brien, the efficient housekeeper of the Legislative buildings, was presented yesterday by Dr. Willoughby, on behalf of the Conservative members, with a beautiful set of gold studs and cuff buttons engraved with his initials in recognition of his services during the session.

A deputation consisting of W. G. Reid, contractor; S. R. Poulin, engineer; J. M. Ansley, secretary, and W. Beatty, director, of the Parry Sound Railway asked the Government yesterday for a bonus for four miles of their road additional to the 45 miles already bonused.

Jimmie Bruce Macdonald filled with grace and dignity last night the position of Sergeant-at-Arms during the temporary absence of Mr. Glackmeyer.

About 10 o'clock this morning the police at Wilton-avenue Station were notified that the body of a woman was floating in the slip by Sailor's boat house, foot of Sherbourne-street. The corpse was removed to the Morgue, where it now awaits identification. It is that of a woman apparently about 35 years of age, 5 feet 4 in. in height. The deceased has evidently been in the water some weeks. It is believed the body is that of Lizzie Fitzgerald, a prostitute, who has been missing about four weeks.

The wholesale and retail grocers of the city gathered at the Queen's Hotel last night and tendered a complimentary banquet to Hon. Frank Smith on the eve of his retirement from the grocery business after a lifelong connection therewith. The Senator expressed the sorrow the severance occasioned him, but as he was getting up in years and by frugality and industry had acquired enough of this world's goods to carry him through, he thought best to retire. He reviewed his career from the time when he was a penniless lad at Dixie, Ont., until last night, and it is indisputable that his life has been one of energy. A beautiful illuminated address was presented to Mr. Smith and thereon was engrossed the respect in which the trade holds him.

CARLING A SENATOR.

A Temporary Arrangement Under Which He is to Retain His Portfolio.

OTTAWA, April 27.—Hon. John Carling has been called to the Senate. He will retain his portfolio as Minister of Agriculture, the Parliamentary part of his work being carried on by one of his colleagues. It is understood that this is a movement not bearing the character of permanency, and the expectation is generally entertained that he will soon be in his accustomed seat in the House.

Hon. Alexander Lacoste has been appointed Speaker of the Senate.

As previously announced Mr. Peter White is to be Speaker of the House of Commons, and it is definitely settled that Dr. Grandbois, M.P. for Temiscouata, is to be Deputy-Speaker. Mr. Corbould, M.P. for New Westminster, and Mr. Hazen, M.P. for St. John city, will move and second the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

There are already over 103 applications for private bills, a greater number than for several years past.

The senators will have to hear seven divorce cases. They are as follows: Thomas Bristow of Collingwood, Mary Ann Beattie of Stamford, Mahala Ellis of Toronto, W. J. Murdock of Toronto, H. R. Mead of Pincher Creek, Adam Hamworm of Carrick and Isabel Carpenter of Hamilton.

Three times in all has Parliament met in April. In 1869 Parliament opened April 15 and prorogued June 22. In 1872 the date of opening was April 11 and prorogation June 14, and in 1887 the first session of the sixth Parliament was opened April 13 and prorogued June 23. Parliament has only twice sat well into the summer months, the first being the session of 1872, which closed August 15, and the second that of the long session of 1885, when Parliament sat from Jan. 29 to July 20.

Both houses of Parliament have been thoroughly renovated and put in readiness for Wednesday's proceedings. The precincts of both houses have already assumed a business-like appearance. Each train as it arrives brings an additional number of members and senators to swell the small contingent who have already arrived and taken up their quarters in the city.

The Federation of Belgian miners has decided to go on strike with the German miners in the effort to obtain the passage of laws making eight hours a legal day's work and grant universal suffrage.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN.

THE HAPPENINGS OF A DAY ACROSS THE OCEAN.

A Mother's Desperation and [illegible]—A Frank Wedding—The Russian [illegible] Treaty—Von Moltke's Will—Cable Between England and Germany.

LONDON, April 27.—The dispute between Actress Dorothy Dene and her dressmaker was brought into court yesterday. The judge ordered Dorothy and her sister to put on the gowns. Dorothy appeared in a beautiful brown and gold silk costume, while her sister wore one of heliotrope. The judge patted the ladies, turned them about, and after critically scanning the costumes, decided that they were not good fits.

Dorothy's sister declared that the collar of her dress was too tight. His Honor inserted his fingers between her neck and collar, and agreed in her view of the case.

BECAUSE HER HUSBAND WAS FALSE.

She Strangles Her Children and Burns Herself to Death.

METZ, April 27.—A farmer named Wishart, living with his wife and two children in the outskirts of this city, has of late been making love to a handsome young woman in the neighboring village of Preting. Heartbroken at her husband's treachery Mrs. Wishart locked all the doors, strangled her children, clothed herself in white and, having saturated a bed with oil, lay down upon it and set it afire. At the same moment she cut her throat with a razor to make doubly sure of death. The house was nearly destroyed by fire, and the bodies of the mother and two children were burned to a crisp.

A Terrible Scene at a Wedding.

HAMBURG, April 28.—During a wedding supper last evening at Strade, about twenty miles from this city, the bridegroom, named Ehlers, quarrelled with a former suitor of the bride, one Bohren, who was among the guests. A fierce fight ensued, Bohren attacking Ehlers with a tableknife. Mrs. Ehlers vainly endeavored to separate the men, and the struggle went on until Ehlers fell dead, stabbed to the heart by his unsuccessful rival in love. Bohren and all the guests were arrested.

Monte Carlo's Victims.

MONTE CARLO, April 27.—Great excitement has been caused here by a sensational suicide which took place last night. An English lady of fashionable appearance, who is supposed to have lost large sums recently at the gaming table, suddenly plunged headforemost into the sea from the top of the terrace. A sailor sprang into the water and brought her body to land. The lady's name has not been made public.

Reported Italo-English Compact.

LONDON, April 27.—Notwithstanding despite there appears to believe the report of an Italo-British alliance, present or prospective. It is stated on authority generally accurate that England has been asked to protect Italy from hostile approach by sea, Italy in turn placing her fleet at the disposal of Great Britain.

The only apparent reason for such an arrangement is that in the event of war a French squadron might descend upon the Italian coast and capture Rome and Naples, after defeating the Italian fleet.

Russia's Tariff.

LONDON, April 27.—The Russian customs commission proposes to tax jute, sulphur and other raw products, hitherto free, and to increase the duty on woolens, silks, dressed leathers, manufactured and some cast irons. Fifty per cent. of imports will be liable to duty.

The British Census.

LONDON, April 27.—The British census shows, as did the last German enumeration, an increase of population in the cities and a decrease in nearly all the rural and farming districts. Some of the cities are growing very rapidly. Glasgow has gained 53,260 in the decade.

The South African Convention.

LONDON, April 27.—Sir James Fergusson, Under Foreign Secretary, stated in the House of Commons to-day that the Portuguese Government had not yet accepted the convention regarding South Africa, but instead had sent counter proposals, which were now being discussed.

An Indecent Paper Seized.

LONDON, April 27.—The police have seized to-day's issue of Vie Parisienne, owing to indecent pictures.

Mrs. Henry K. Updegrave Enjoys a Unique Distinction.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., April 27.—The wife of Henry K. Updegrave, who keeps a hotel at Tower City, lacks over three months of being 48, but is a great-grandmother. She was married when only 13. The eldest of her children was born a year after her mother's marriage and was named Martha. She at the age of 15 married Jonathan Ramberger. Within a year Martha has a daughter whom she christened Maggie. A year ago Maggie, who was then 16, married Daniel Messner and to this pair a son has just been born. At 30 Mrs. Updegrave was a grandmother, and now as a great-grandmother at 47 is still remarkably comely in feature and graceful in figure with glossy raven hair and sparkling black eyes. Should the young Messner boy thrive and ultimately marry early, as there is every prospect of doing if he follows the traditions of his family, she may confidently look forward to being a great-great-grandmother and possibly a great-great-great-grandmother.

Death in a Mosquito Bite.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—James McDevitt, aged 37, of Chestnut-place, was bitten by a mosquito four years ago. He scratched the sore for some time until his face became greatly swollen and he was in danger of dying from blood poisoning. Yesterday he was admitted to the hospital and to-day he died.

Had His Leg Cut Off.

BELLEVILLE, April 27.—This morning about 3 o'clock John Millis, a freight conductor on the G.T.R., slipped whilst boarding a train at Mallorytown and had his leg cut off. Mr. Millis has been conductor between here and Brockville, where he resides, for the past 10 years. He was taken to his home.

A RIOT IN THE RING.

A Circus and Wild West Show Wrecked by a Mob at Knoxville, Tenn.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 19.—A circus and wild west show which came to this city last Monday has gone, and in future will leave this city off its route. Thursday night the large audience which was present began to jeer some of the performers. Finally a clown mounted a block and began singing a song. He had sung one verse when some one hit him square in the face with a brickbat. He fell senseless to the ground and was dragged away by his companions. By this time everything was in an uproar, women screamed and a mad rush for the exits was made. The police were powerless. Scores were knocked down and trampled on. Everything in sight was seized and wrecked. The band instruments were smashed flat. The seats were torn down and broken. Some one cut the ropes and the big tent came down with a rush, burying 200 or more people in its folds. A rush was then made for the dressing rooms, which were also torn down, leaving the actors and actresses half dressed in the open air. The side shows were next attacked and wrecked. After wrecking everything in sight the crowd went away. Some 20 people were hurt.

One of the Same Kind.

BUFFALO, April 19.—In the first part of last June the Scandia Bank of Minneapolis, Minn., was robbed of $[illegible] by one of its trusted employes and yesterday morning Detective Donovan arrested the thief, a man named Charles Benson. Benson was a bookkeeper for the Scandia Bank and was obliged to work late at night. One night as he was putting his books into the vault he came across a large roll of greenbacks. The temptation was too strong for him to resist and he shoved the money into his pocket. He then left the bank and the day after he disappeared. He came to Buffalo soon afterwards and opened a department store in Niagara-street.

Found Dead by the Roadside.

BOBCAYGEON, April 19.—The corpse of Elijah Brock, an old man belonging to Harvey, was found on the roadside near here. He had been deranged for some time. Brock had apparently been walking along near the fence, and coming on to a piece of ice that had been undermined, it broke with him, throwing him on his face, and being in an exhausted condition he dropped off into his final sleep.

An Awful Crime Charged to a Father.

TILSONBURG, April 19.—Solomon Parker has been committed for trial on the awful charge of having committed rape on the person of his own daughter, Victoria Parker. The offence is alleged to have been committed in May, 1890, and it is alleged that he has maintained an improper and unnatural relationship with her since. The daughter, who is the chief witness, was also sent to jail, not being able to furnish security for her appearance when called on.

"An Old Maid" Hangs Herself.

HAMILTON, April 19.—Fanny Robb, an old maid, who lives with her brother and sister a mile from Ancaster village, committed suicide by hanging at 12 o'clock to-day. She was found hanging in the barn by her sister. No cause is assigned for the rash act.

Found His Dead Body.

MONTREAL, April 19.—The body of Swenson, the Swedish watchmaker, who so mysteriously disappeared last winter, was found to-day in the bush. All his jewelry was found upon him, and he is supposed to have perished with cold.

BETRAYED A GOVERNESS.

A BRITISH MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT ON TRIAL.

Miss Beckett Testifies As To the Circumstances of the Attempted Crime Which the Accused Vehemently Denies—Arranged in Bow-street Police Court.

LONDON, April 18.—Capt. Edmund H. Verney, Liberal member of Parliament, against whom a warrant was issued on the charge of having procured a girl for immoral purposes, was arrested to-day. At the time the charge was made against Verney he was traveling on the Continent. When he heard that the English court had issued a warrant for his arrest he telegraphed to the Home Secretary stating he would return to England as quickly as possible to meet the accusation. He reached London this morning and was immediately taken into custody by the police. Capt. Verney was taken to the Bow-street Police Court, where he was formally charged with attempting to procure Nellie Beckett, a governess, for immoral purposes. The prisoner looked pale and careworn and his appearance was so changed that it was impossible for friends to recognize him. Miss Beckett was present and detailed at length the tactics that had been adopted to inveigle her into wrongdoing. She said she was seeking a position to instruct children; that she watched the advertisements in the papers of people who wanted the services of a governess. She finally saw one which offered a position she thought would suit her, and she answered it. She received a reply with instructions to call at a certain house. She went to the place and saw the woman who had inserted the advertisement. After several interviews with this woman, who wanted her to go to Paris Miss Beckett finally consented to go to that city as a governess. When she reached Paris she was introduced to a man who went under the name of Wilson. At this point Capt. Verney was requested to stand up, and Miss Beckett formally identified him as the man who had been introduced to her as Wilson. Miss Beckett then described in detail the attempts that this man had made to ruin her. Miss Beckett said that when she refused to accede to Capt. Verney's solicitations the woman who had prevailed upon her to go to Paris, and who turned out to be a procuress named Madame Floreat, who had accompanied her to Paris, gave her $10 and her fare back from Paris to London. Miss Beckett then returned to London and shortly after her arrival she informed a doctor with whom she was acquainted of all the circumstances in the case. Miss Beckett afterwards, at the instance of her friends, entered into correspondence with Madame Floreat, and was readily able to bring about her arrest and conviction on the charge of procuring women for immoral purposes. The hearing of the case was adjourned until Friday next. Capt. Verney's bail was fixed at $5000, with two sureties in that amount, and the further bond of $2500 to be furnished by himself. The bail was furnished and the captain left court with his counsel and a number of friends.

PRIESTS MAY MARRY THERE.

But in Escaping Celibacy They Suffer Many Other Ills.

BERLIN, April 19.—Advices from Poland state that the Russian authorities are prosecuting with great bitterness the priesthood and members of the Greek united branch of the Roman Catholic Church. The priests of this branch are the only ecclesiastics in the Roman Catholic Church who are allowed to marry, this being a special privilege granted to them by the Pope. The Russian church is endeavoring to drive them into the Russian orthodox church, and many of the priests and their flocks have been exiled to Siberia, while others have been forcibly converted.

A NEW DIVORCE BILL.

To Be Modeled in Future After the Law in Vogue in Scotland.

LONDON, April 19.—Dr. Hunter's bill in the House of Commons to assimilate the law of England to the law of Scotland on the subject of divorce is generally approved and likely to pass the House. The bill provides that a wife may obtain divorce on the ground of her husband's infidelity, and that either husband or wife may obtain divorce after desertion for a period of four years. This removes the discrimination which has so long existed whereby a wife could not obtain a divorce for infidelity unless accompanied by cruelty, and it also gives the deserted husband or wife a chance to be free.

The struggle on the bill will come in the House of Lords, where the prelates have their seats as representatives of the Church of England, which grants divorce for but one cause.

Murder and Suicide in a Church.

VIENNA, April 19.—While services were being conducted in the cathedral at [illegible] yesterday a shoemaker in the congregation suddenly drew a revolver and shot the priest, who fell dead before the altar. The man next fired at an acolyte, but failed to wound him. He then shot himself dead. The motive assigned for the double crime is a desire for revenge owing to overpowering jealousy.

Raikes on the Defensive.

LONDON, April 19.—The House of Commons by a majority of 70 rejected the proposal to inquire into the working of the post office. The motion was practically one of censure, and Postmaster-General Raikes defended the administration in a spirited manner.

Parnell on the Land Bill.

DUBLIN, April 19.—Mr. Parnell delivered a speech in Athlone on Saturday. He denounced Mr. McCarthy's opposition to the Land bill, which measure he asserted conferred great benefits on Irish farmers. He expressed his pleasure at the defeat of the Opposition in the vote on the bill.

A Proposed Imperial Zollverein.

LONDON, April 19.—Sir John Macdonald and Minister Tupper of Canada have become vice-presidents of the United Empire Trade League, which proposes to establish an Imperial Zollverein.

King Leopold to Visit Canada.

QUEBEC, April 19.—In a letter to Hon. Charles Langelier, Provincial Secretary, Hon. Mr. Mercier says King Leopold declared himself delighted with the Premier's visit, and hoped that he would prolong his stay, as he wished to speak to him regarding Canada, for which he felt great admiration. The King said further that he hoped soon to visit the country.

Destructive Fire in Montreal.

MONTREAL, April 19.—The Canadian Pacific Railway cabinet shops in connection with their works in Delorimere-avenue are now burning and likely to be totally destroyed.

Ele Bolt Like Shamus O'Brien.

BALTIMORE, April 19.—William Henry, convicted of the murder of his grandmother and aunt, escaped from jail Friday. Gov. Jackson the previous day appointed the day for his execution and the death watch had not yet been set. He was recaptured yesterday.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN.

Continued Reports of Wars and Rumors of Wars.

LONDON, April 20.—It is stated in military circles in Russia that the Government intends to increase the forces on the southwestern frontier by 30,000 men. There is a growing belief that the period of armed reserve in Russia is about to end.

SIMLA, April 19.—The British forces have engaged and defeated a large body of Miranzais. The victory was not obtained until after a stubbornly contested engagement had been fought and until in the heat of the fight the British troops, making a dashing advance, carried everything before them and completely routed the Miranzais. Several English soldiers and two English officers were severely wounded. A general advance of the British troops will be made to-day, the object of this movement being to break the enemy's lines and clear the Samana range of hills, which the Miranzais occupy by force. The enemy's loss in the engagement which has just taken place is unknown, but it is believed to have been heavy.

LONDON, April 20.—A telegram from Pretoria, South African Republic, announces that a Boer expedition, with the consent of Portugal, will establish a republic in either Mashonaland or Manicaland. This project, if carried out, will affect Manica territory claimed by England and will result in further trouble between England and Portugal.

PARIS, April 19.—The French are said to be in a bad way in Tonquin, their occupation being almost entirely confined to the military posts, and it being dangerous for Frenchmen to venture on a journey except with a strong military guard. The rebels are everywhere active.

LONDON, April 19.—The members of an artillery battery at Portsmouth mutinied. They complained of excessive drill and other onerous duties. The leaders of the mutiny were arrested and will be tried by court martial.

WILL GET THERE YET.

The Flea of Fate Has Bitten Bismarck But the Wound Is Not a Serious One.

BERLIN, April 19.—Prince Bismarck's failure to secure a majority in the Geestemunde election for the Reichstag on Wednesday gives equal pleasure to those who hate him and to those who hate Germany. The French, or at least the Parisian press, the German Socialists and the German Emperor all rejoice together. The best opinion seems to be that Prince Bismarck will be chosen on the second ballot. He polled nearly twice as many votes as his chief competitor, who is a Socialist (in Germany a majority vote is necessary), and can only be beaten by a coalition between the Socialists, Radicals and Guelphs, which will not be easy to bring about.

Prince Bismarck has tacitly consented to stand a reballot in Geestemunde, but he also consents to become a candidate in the Lehe district, where he is certain of return, the electorate being almost purely Conservative.

The Geestemunde district is situated in the province of Hanover, which formerly was a kingdom and was annexed to Prussia 25 years ago. The province is as loyal to German unity as any other portion of the empire, but has still a large element of people that entertain a sentimental attachment for the fallen dynasty and cherish the memories of the time when Hanover was an independent German state. This sentiment in favor of a lost cause has little practical importance, but it gives the name of Guelphs to a conservative opposition party confined to this single province.

The supplementary ballot in the Geestemunde district will be held on April 30.

PRIMROSE DAY.

The Anniversary of Dizzy's Death Celebrated in the Metropolis.

LONDON, April 19.—To-day is Primrose Day, the anniversary of the death of Disraeli, and the city of London is fairly yellow with the profusion of emblems brought out by the occasion. Hundreds of meetings of the Primrose League are being held all over the country, and a wave of Conservatism and anti-Gladstonianism is sweeping over the land. The statue of Lord Beaconsfield in Parliament-square is almost buried in primroses. Street vendors of flowers have done a rushing business in the genuine article, and having sold out are earning an honest penny by peddling artificial substitutes so deftly made as to be hardly distinguishable from the real primroses.

Foreign Money Markets.

LONDON, April 19.—There was a fair demand for discount during the past week at 3¼ for 3 months and 3 for short. Further orders for gold for the Continent, combined with the bullion requirements of Scotch banks and the usual May term payments will probably cause another increase of the Bank of England's rate within a fortnight. On stock exchange during the week business was active, yet values generally tend to recede. The uneasiness in the foreign department affects all other departments.

At Paris there was a general shrinkage of values on the Bourse, many weak speculators trying to unload on falling prices. Yesterday heavy parcels, chiefly foreigners, were offerred and everything closed at a decline.

At Berlin business on the Bourse was irregular. Foreign securities were depressed.

The Fool Policeman Again.

WINDSOR, April 19.—J. F. King, the young man sent to Sandwich Jail Thursday charged with drunkenness, but who it seems had not been drinking at all but was very sick, is dead. Saturday noon King's brother called on U.S. Consul Joslyn, and while they were discussing what to do with the sick man information came from the jail that the young man died at 12.30. King was a native of Hamilton, where his father now lives. The cause of death was typhoid pneumonia.

Killed in a Sawmill.

MAXVILLE, Ont., April 19.—John McRae, the 16-year-old son of Peter McRae, entered McDougall's sawmill to get a bag full of saw dust. He carelessly threw the bag down near a part of the revolving machinery, in which it became entangled, and in trying to disengage it he was pulled into the wheel, which was moving with terrific speed. The poor fellow's arm was torn from the body and about half an hour after he was taken out he died.

For Love He Fought; For Love He May Die.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Two Brooklyn young men, Bremar Kriede and George Fitberger, being rivals for the affection of one young lady, agreed to-day to fight it out. Fitberger was knocked out in the first round with such vigor that he is now in the hospital suffering from shock and concussion. Kriede was arrested.

A FRIGHTFUL WRECK.

MANY KILLED IN A LAKE SHORE COLLISION.

Six Postal Clerks and Two Engineers Among the Dead—The Passengers all Received a Shaking up but Escaped Serious Injury.

CLEVELAND, O., April 18.—A frightful wreck occurred on the Lake Shore Railroad at Kipton Station, 40 miles west of Cleveland, early this evening, in which six postal clerks and two engineers were killed. Fast mail No. 14 bound east collided with No. 21, the Toledo express, just as the latter train was about to pull on the siding to let the fast mail pass. The fast mail was running at full speed and the force of the collision was so great that both engines, three mail cars and the baggage car were completely wrecked.

List of the Killed.

EDWARD BROWN, engineer of No. 21, Toledo.
CHARLES TOPLIFF, engineer of No. 14, Toledo.
F. J. NUGENT, postal clerk, Toledo.
CHARLES HAMMILL, postal clerk, Elyria.
F. F. CLEMONS, postal clerk, Cleveland.
JOHN F. BOWERMAN, postal clerk, Elyria.
JAMES MCKINLEY, postal clerk, Conneaut, O.
C. H. McDOWELL, postal clerk, Elyria.

The injured include Staley, fireman of No. 14, shoulder dislocated and leg broken, and Dennison, of section foreman, struck by wreckage and badly hurt. None of the passenger cars left the track and none of the passengers received serious injuries. The scene at the wreck is indescribable. Iron rods, splintered fragments of lumber and debris of mail are scattered in all directions.

The accident was due to a conflict of orders. A despatch was sent that the trains should meet at Oberlin, seven miles east, and almost immediately it was followed by another announcing Kipton as the meeting place, but the latter was too late. No. 21 had come almost to a standstill when the collision occurred, while the other train was running at the rate of 40 miles an hour. The track was cleared some two hours after and the passengers on train 14 brought to this city.

The bodies of the dead were horribly mangled. Limbs were torn off and the bodies crushed out of almost all semblance to human beings. The accident is the most frightful that ever happened on the division of the Lake Shore road and the first serious disaster to the fast mail.

Remained At His Post.

Charles Topliff, the engineer of the fast mail, remained bravely at his post and was found with his hand on the throttle, dead. His hands and face were so badly scalded that the blackened flesh dropped from the bones when his body was taken out. Fireman Staley of the fast mail jumped from the train and escaped with a broken leg and dislocated shoulder. The doctors said he would recover. The poor postal clerks had not a chance to escape. They were caged like rats, and the telescoping of the cars crushed the life out of them without a moment's warning.

It is difficult to locate the blame for the accident, as both the engineers are dead. It is said, however, that No. 21 was ordered to stop at Oberlin but went on to Kipton and had not sufficient time to make the side track.

A Tramp Killed.

VICENNES, Ind., April 19.—A wreck occurred on the Ohio & Mississippi Railroad last night, when Nos. 1 and 2 lightning express trains collided. The passengers of both trains were badly shaken up, but none were seriously injured. A tramp who was stealing a ride on No. 2 was killed. Two mail clerks were injured.

RIOTOUS COKE STRIKERS.

More Fighting in the Connellsville Region —Sheriff's Deputies Attacked and One Probably Fatally Hurt.

SCOTTDALE, Penn., April 19.—The coke region is again the scene of lawlessness, and excitement is at fever heat. Last night a band of about 100 strikers, assaulted the Leisenring No. 3 plant of the Frick Coke Company. Shots were exchanged, and for a time the fight was waged furiously. The guards held their ground and finally compelled the mob to beat a retreat, but not until one of the deputies was dangerously injured, and it is thought he cannot recover.

Reports have just been received here that the strikers blew up the water works at the Kyle works of the Frick Company early this morning.

Throughout the region all Friday night the earth fairly trembled with a succession of shocks following the explosion of dynamite bombs at Leisenring No. 3 of the Frick Brothers' works. The crowd of strikers gathered on the hill, and at one time 20 bombs were exploded simultaneously, tearing great holes in the earth, breaking windows in many houses and frightening the people for miles around by the terrific roar.

At Leisenring yesterday morning Deputy Sheriff Crawford and a posse were serving writs of ejectment, when they were captured by an angry mob and harshly treated. Deputy Sommer was knocked senseless. It is feared he will die.

An effort will be made this week with a large force to evict the strikers and trouble will follow, as hundreds are to be turned out. Secretary Parker of the labor organization has ordered 1000 tents, which will be used for sheltering evicted persons.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 19.—Sheriff McCormick of Fayette county last evening wired Governor Pattison of the troubles in the coke region and declared he is unable to maintain order without aid of militia. He asked the governor to order out soldiers to his support.

The Riots at Bradford.

BRADFORD, Eng., April 19.—The striking weavers held an immense mass meeting to-day. It had been previously announced. The speakers addressed the crowd from three platforms, which had been erected in different parts of the Town Hall Square. Resolutions were adopted protesting against the action of the municipal authorities in forbidding meetings of the strikers. The assembly was quite orderly.

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Intense Suffering 8 Years

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy any other.

CANADIAN CHEESE.

Mr. Wm. Cluxton Writes and Gives Several Theories in Regard to the Deterioration in Cheese.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—The cheese trade is indebted to the REVIEW for the interest it is taking in this great industry. The article in yesterday's issue in regard to the quality of last season's cheese was timely and will have a good effect. It is true the quality of Canada cheese last year was not as good as the year before, and there were complaints from England. I have endeavored to ascertain the cause of this deterioration, and I have heard several theories propounded, as the following:—

1. Last year about thirty patrons in this county were exposed and punished for bringing skimmed and adulterated milk to the factories and no doubt there were other delinquents who escaped detection. That, I think, had a good deal to do with the complaints in England, the cheese being "stiff" and would not "break down" by keeping. What the English people want is a "meaty" cheese, close and well made.

2. Then some cheese makers said that owing to the excessive moisture in the atmosphere the grass was soft—too luxuriant—and that affected the quality of the milk.

3. But, I think the principal reason why the cheese was inferior was owing to the careless and hasty handling in the manufacture. This arose from the mistaken policy of the patrons in grinding-down the cheese makers to a price that made it almost impossible to do justice to their work. One factory gets 1½ cents per pound and another 1½ for making the cheese, drawing the milk from the farmers to the factory, supplying boxes and guaranteeing the quality of the cheese. This compels the maker to cut down his expenses by buying the cheapest and poorest boxes and employing the cheapest help. Such factories, when their cheese is boarded at the sales, sell among the second or third "selections" at from an ⅛ to ¼ of a cent. per pound under first selections. It would be wiser to give two cents per pound to the maker and sell the cheese at a higher price.

When the inspector rejects a factory, the cheese is thrown on the hands of the maker, and he has to pay the patron the full price of first selections and loose the difference of price.

4. But I think the weather has much to do with the quality of the cheese. In the autumn of last year, September make sold for half a cent per pound more than the October cheese, while it turned out that the October was the finest cheese. In September the weather was changeable with several hot days in the beginning of the month. October was a beautiful month, with mild, equable temperature. The October cheese sold for a higher price in England than the September make and gave better satisfaction.

Yours truly,
W. CLUXTON.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Startling Experience of Three Young Women in Strathroy.

STRATHROY, April 19.—As the Misses Moore and Miss Bacon of North-street, accompanied by Miss Waite, were leaving the Frank-street church door a ball of lightning burst just before them, and the quartet were thrown to the ground by the shock. One of the Misses Moore was burned on the left shoulder and arm and on the right foot, and Miss Waite on one of her feet, while the other two, as well as Mrs. Bowley, were prostrated for a short time. Medical aid was at once summoned and the injured ladies removed to their homes.

Arsenic in the Coffee.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 18.—From the effects of poison, taken at the Snooks-Harr wedding at Lyndon Wednesday evening, B. Frank Guthrie, one of the wealthiest and best known residents of Louisville, died this morning. Mrs. Guthrie and her sister, Mrs. Robert Gray, are down as victims of the same poison. The victims are suffering from arsenic poisoning and it is thought the drug was put in the coffee at the wedding dinner for the purpose of killing some one.

Flexible Glass Tubes.

A flexible conduit glass for conveying electrical conductors through buildings is one of the recent new ideas in electrical engineering.

This conduit consists of a tube of flexible glass inclosed in a stoutly woven envelope, the whole conduit being soaked in an insulating preparation and made thoroughly waterproof.

It is claimed that these conduits can be made cheaply and with a degree of flexibility sufficient to permit of their free bending, thus rendering it unnecessary to make new joints at every turn.

Padlock Combination.

The newest idea in locks is a combination padlock which is fitted with a numbered dial closely resembling those used for safe and vault locks. The internal arrangement is not greatly different from the usual principle in combination locks, but the parts are few and simple, and yet very efficient. These locks are little larger than a heavy watch, although considerably thicker, and they weigh about half a pound each. They are intended for use upon tricycles, boats, chests and boxes.

Scientific Notes.

A boiler alarm that keep automatic watch at all valves is a new invention.

A St. Petersburg druggist tips cigars with a preparation that lights, like a match, on rubbing against a hard surface.

Natural gas, it is stated, has been found near Middlesborough, England, beneath the salt, a depth of about 800 feet from the surface.

Experiment tends to show that the edges of the flame of a petroleum lamp give from 27 to 28 per cent less light than the flat surface.

The newest boiler represents a large heating surface and takes up little room. It is made of tubes. Things seem to run to tubes and tubercles these times.

• After suffering horribly for years from scrofula in its worst form, a young son of Mr. R. L. King, 706 Franklin-st., Richmond, Va., was recently cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. No other medicine can approach this preparation as a cleanser of the blood.

They Threw Boiling Water.

Mrs. Vought, whose name has become familiar in police circles, had another domestic broil on Saturday night. She has moved from McDonnel-st., where her tongue got her into much trouble, down to near the South ward school. On Saturday night she got into an altercation with her lord and master and before peace was restored the two were throwing boiling water on each other. The language was such that the neighbors sent for the police and Constable Stewart went down and restored peace and quietness.

The Best Result.

Every ingredient employed in producing Hood's Sarsaparilla is strictly pure, and is the best of its kind it is possible to buy. THE $500 IS GRANTED

TO PROCURE A CHARTER FOR THE RAILROAD TO THE NORTH.

The Resolution of the Board of Trade Discussed in the Town Council—Some Opposition but the Grant is Made—The Trent Valley Canal Deputation to Ottawa.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Saturday evening at the request of the Board of Trade which had passed a resolution requesting the Council to make a grant of $500 to assist in procuring a charter for the Peterborough, Sudbury & Sault Ste. Marie railway. The grant was made after much discussion. Mayor Stevenson presided and the ward representatives present were Councillors Cahill, Davidson, Winch, Kelly, Hall, Bradburn, Dawson, Moore, Meldrum, Langford and Dennistoun.

The MAYOR stated the reason why he had called the meeting in compliance with the resolution of the Board of Trade. It was well, His Worship said, that the meeting had been held as the deputation was to go to Ottawa to interview the Government in regard to the Trent Valley Canal on Tuesday. Other points were going to be well represented and it was for them to say who were to represent the town. He had arranged for a special car and a cheap fare.

THE GRANT FOR THE CHARTER.

The railway matter was introduced by the presentation by Mr. Wm. Manson of the Board of Trade, of the resolution requesting the Council to make a grant of $500 to assist in securing a charter and in promoting the interests of the Peterborough, Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie railway.

Town Clerk Macdonald read the resolution and then Mr. John Burnham, Q.C., M.P., President of the newly born railway company, was called upon to address the Council.

Mr. BURNHAM went over the same ground in outlining the railway to Bobcaygeon as he did at the Board of Trade meeting on Friday night. He impressed upon the Council that the new railway would be in the interests of Peterborough by bringing the trade of the back country that now went to Lindsay and Trenton to Peterborough. Other railway extensions in the back country threatened to cut off forever any trade for the town from the north. He had confidence in the back country, which would have been more settled had it not been for the opening of the Northwest. The gentlemen who had taken the railway in charge had no pecuniary interests in the project, but simply wished to advance the interests of the town. The Board of Trade had taken up the matter and had requested the Council to make a grant to assist in getting a charter. Since they had published their application for this road, there had been two other applications, one from some point west of Toronto and east of Pontypool and another called the Toronto and Sudbury railway.

A CITIZEN'S VIEW.

Mr. D. W. DUMBLE, who was in the audience gallery, was called upon and said he had no interest other than a citizen, but they all knew that railways had promoted the town's interests. He had wondered why the Grand Trunk was willing to build the road from here, but that was their own business and no matter who built it there would be incidental benefits to the town. If they could reach Sudbury and the mining country they would reach a country that was going to make demands for mining machinery and would therefore benefit the town. He did not think the town should be penurious in the matter and he thought the citizens generally would support the Council in assisting gentlemen in a scheme which had only for its object the promotion of the interests of the town. It was worth the money if it was only to block the efforts of other places.

THE COUNCILLORS CONSIDER IT.

Councillor DENNISTOUN asked if the charter was secured what would be the next step and would the company be prepared to take that step?

Mr. BURNHAM said they would, after getting the charter, organize a company and seek a bonus.

Councillor DAWSON wanted to know who were the gentlemen who were promoting this road. He did not think it was customary for Town Councils to make such grants.

Councillor HALL explained that the scheme had been discussed in all the town papers and the promoters had spent considerable money in doing what they had done. The promoters were Messrs. Burnham, President, Thos. Cahill, Vice-President, J. R. Stratton, the Mayor, R. S. Davidson, W. H. Moore and perhaps Mr. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon.

Councillor DAWSON still wanted to know if this grant would be customary. If the grant was made would the charter be the property of the Council? He thought the charter might be secured and then let the town bonus the road if the ratepayers saw fit.

Councillor HALL replied that the promoters were willing to let the Council control the charter or elect directors on the Board.

Councillor CAHILL said any person was welcome to his seat on the Board of Directors. The question was "Is railway connection with the north country desirable?" It had always been considered in the interests of the town to have connection with the back country, but no one had made a move until now. He briefly outlined the origin of the company and went on to point out the important connection which might be made by the projected road in the north and the danger there was of the town being cut off by outside lines. He did not intend to vote himself for fear it might be said that he had a personal interest in the matter, although he knew he would never get a cent from it.

FOR FURTHER CONSIDERATION.

Councillor LANGFORD said he was favorably impressed with the scheme, but did not like to act so quickly and wanted time to consider it. He moved that the matter be referred to the Manufacturers Committee to report thereon.

Councillor DENNISTOUN seconded this motion.

Councillor MELDRUM spoke in favor of the railway and said that as the deputation was going to Ottawa on Tuesday it was necessary that they make the grant at once. He spoke of the important trade which might be secured from the railway and moved, seconded by Councillor KELLY,—"That the Council hereby grants to the promoters of the Peterborough, Sudbury and Sault St. Marie railway to pay the actual disbursements to procure a charter a sum not exceeding $500, provided that the promoters enter into an agreement to return this sum if the charter is sold and that the charter for the railway contain a provision that the Town Council shall have the appointment of two members on the Board of Directors."

Councillor DAWSON could not vote for the motion as he thought the company should get their charter and then come to the Council. A public meeting of the ratepayers should have been held to discuss the question.

Mayor STEVENSON supported the amendment by going over the reasons that had caused the gentlemen to move in the direction of a railway to Bobcaygeon so that the town might secure some of the trade of the back country and the danger that had arisen of Peterborough being cut off. He did not think it would be fair to ask the promoters to bear the expense of getting the charter. He felt confident that a bonus could be secured for the road from the Government. He felt they would not be doing their duty unless they assisted this scheme, which was in the town's best interests.

Councillor DENNISTOUN explained that in seconding the motion he did so not in a spirit of factious opposition, but only because he wanted to obtain more information in regard to the matter.

Councillor KELLY thought the $500 would be well spent if it only delayed the building of the Lindsay line. He thought the road would be in the benefit of the town in every way.

Councillor LANGFORD wanted his motion carried so that they might obtain information and give an intelligent vote.

Councillor MOORE supported the grant and expressed his willingness to allow any of the councillors to take his place on the directorate.

THE GRANT IS MADE.

Councillor HALL was willing to allow the matter to go to the Manufacturers' Committee. In reply to a question, he and the Mayor answered in duet that it was a public speculation.

Councillor KELLY wanted a vote at once, as the Manufacturers' Committee was the whole Council.

After some further discussion Councillor Langford's motion was voted on as an amendment, which was lost.

Councillor MELDRUM'S motion was then put and carried.

Councillor LANGFORD called for the yeas and nays, which, on Councillor Meldrum's motion, were:—Yeas—Councillors Cahill, Davidson, Winch, Kelly, Hall, Bradburn, Moore and Meldrum. Nays—Councillors Dawson, Langford and Dennistoun.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL DEPUTATION.

The Trent Valley Canal deputation was discussed, but none of the councillors could say for certain whether they could go, while several said they could not possibly go.

Councillor MOORE moved, seconded by Councillor MELDRUM,—That the Clerk provide tickets for such members of the council as desire to attend with the deputation at Ottawa re Trent Valley Canal, and also provide tickets for the following members of the Board of Trade, viz., Messrs. Geo. Hilliard, Col. H. C. Rogers, R. A. Mulholland and John Carnegie.

Councillor DENNISTOUN wanted the town to be well represented and its voice to be heard as an important centre, and thought that a scanty deputation from Peterborough would be lost in the deputation that was going. He moved in amendment, seconded by Councillor LANGFORD, that the Town Council and Board of Trade go to Ottawa when the House is in session to represent the views of the town.

This amendment was lost and the motion carried.

The Council then adjourned.

THE ASSEMBLY TO-NIGHT.

Preparations Complete for the Edison Company's Grand Complimentary Assembly.

To-night Peterborough will be in a flutter of excitement as it will be the evening of the grand Edison assembly. The invitations have been extended to hundreds and it is probable that the largest assembly of people that ever attended a similar event in Peterborough will be witnessed in the mammoth machine shop. The preparations for the event have been extensive and complete. Workmen have been rushing the building to a state of completion and by working at night have succeeded in getting it in readiness. The building will be handsomely decorated and brilliantly lighted by seven or eight electric lights. Several dressing rooms have been erected on the ground floor and all conveniences will be attended to by several stewards appointed to look after the guests. The orchestra will arrive from Toronto on the eight o'clock train and will occupy a stand in the centre of the building. Another platform near the entrance has been erected for the officials of the Edison Company and the prominent citizens. All the head officials of the company will be here as well as several of the head men from the works in Sherbrooke. The refreshments will be served in one of the galleries. One thing those who attend should bear in mind, and be a little thoughtful for the convenience of others by not blocking any of the stairways or narrow passages in the galleries. Seats have been placed along the walls and in the gallery where a grand view of the floor can be obtained.

With the fine music and the elegant and commodious building a grand time may be expected by those who will trip the light fantastic, while the many hundreds who will go as spectators will have a sight presented to them that will be well worth seeing.

THE CAUSE OF CHARITY.

REV. FATHER TEEFY SPEAKS AT ST. PETER'S.

An Eloquent and Able Deliverance With Charity as its Theme—Annual Sermon of the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

Little is ever heard of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, but silently and earnestly this organization is doing its work among the poor and needy, ever extending the hand of charity to those who are entitled to relief. Once a year, however, the name of this Society is brought before the public when its annual sermon is delivered at St. Peter's Cathedral. Last evening this annual event took place, when after Vespers Rev. Father Teefy, of St. Michael's College, delivered a sermon, the theme of which was charity. Most appropriate were his utterances to the occasion, while his impressive eloquence gave him the undivided attention of his large audience, which filled the immense sacred edifice. The rev. gentleman is an orator of power and his address last evening was an able effort.

The musical part of the service was exceedingly fine, the choir rendering some excellent music. Lambillott's Magnificat was rendered in fine voice and during the offertory "Regina Coeli" was sung with impressive effect. The Misses Dunn sang O Salutaris in a pleasing manner and the choir rendered Lambillott's "Tantum Ergo." The singing was a most effective and impressive part of the service.

"I am the resurrection and the life." John 11-xxv.

These words the rev. gentleman selected as the basis of his discourse. In opening he referred to the question theologians had raised as to the second person becoming incarnate by the fall of man. He asked if they did not feel far more thankful and greater gratitude to Him, that man having fallen He should come down and stand by the grave and take the dead child by the hand and give back to fallen man the full vigor of life and place immortal youth on his brow. There was, he said, no more appropriate time for the pleading of such a cause than this holy Easter time. The resurrection was the restoration of that inheritance which man by sin had lost. It was appropriate because Christ Himself furnished the Gospel of peace to the poor. He raised up the poor and put them on high. He, by the doctrine and church He established, clothed poverty with riches and gave it the sceptre by which it could rule the rich and that night that poverty came to plead with them. If they wished to stand in the resurrection they should be generous to the poor; if they wished to share in the joys and riches of heaven, riches which neither moth could corrupt nor thieves break through and steal, they should be generous to the poor. Therefore, he said, it was appropriate in this holy Easter time that the St. Vincent de Paul Society came and asked them to give of their abundance. If they meditated upon the text they would see that the blessed Lord was alone holy. Death was the punishment of sin and when man fell death came upon him. Because Christ was the resurrection he was humanity's saint, and the power of God over the individual and over society. Because He was the resurrection, He was the exaltation of all. The church sang all these in the beautiful hymn in mass, Thou alone art holy, Thou alone art Lord, Thou alone art Most High. The rev. gentleman then in beautiful language developed this triple truth, dwelling upon each. In concluding he again referred to poverty and charity, speaking of what Christ had done for the poor and how the Catholic church was living and teaching the principles He had laid down. He depicted the scene of the monk dispersing the Roman populace that had gathered to see the gladiators meet in mortal combat, and used this as an illustration of the gladiatorial struggle which was to be seen in the world to-day between capital and labor, who stood armed to the teeth ready to spring at each other's throats. There was one power which would separate capital and labor, and that power was the Jesus Christ of the Catholic church and the Pope in the Vatican would be the monk who would speak peace and raise the poor to an equality with the rich. He closed with another appeal to the congregation to be generous to the poor and win a wreath of glory.

THE IDEAL OF MANKIND,

A liberal collection was taken up in aid of the St Vincent de Paul Society.

IT DIES IN COMMITTEE.

Dr. Willoughby's Bridge Bill is Thrown Out—Deputations Heard.

Dr. Willoughby's bill has been defeated in the Municipal Committee of the Legislature. Referring to its death the Empire says:—"Mr. Willoughby's bill, providing that bridges over streams of 100 feet in width within 80 chains of a county boundary line shall be treated as county bridges, was discussed at length by the members of the committee and deputations from the three counties particularly interested in the measure, the united counties of Northumberland and Durham, Victoria and Peterborough. The united counties were represented by Mr. J. M. Ferris, ex-M.P.P., and Reeve McCowan, of Seymour township; Peterborough by Mr. John Burnham, M.P., and Victoria by Warden Stabach, Solicitor O'Leary and Mr. McNellie, clerk of county council. Dr. Willoughby introduced the bill and spoke briefly respecting its merits. Mr. Burnham said that the county of Peterborough would be willing to contribute something to the cost of the construction and maintenance of the bridge over the river Trent in Seymour township, Northumberland, which it was said the bill was especially designed to affect, but they felt that the measure was too general in its application and would interfere with many of the interests protected by existing legislation. The representatives of Victoria favored the bill. It was thrown out, however, 20 voting for it and 28 against it."

Sick Headache

IS a complaint from which many suffer and few are entirely free. Its cause is indigestion and a sluggish liver, the cure for which is readily found in the use of Ayer's Pills.

"I have found that for sick headache, caused by a disordered condition of the stomach, Ayer's Pills are the most reliable remedy."—Samuel C. Bradburn, Worthington, Mass.

"After the use of Ayer's Pills for many years, in my practice and family, I am justified in saying that they are an excellent cathartic and liver medicine—sustaining all the claims made for them."—W. A. Westfall, M. D., V. P. Austin & N. W. Railway Co., Burnet, Texas.

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered stomach and liver. I suffered for over three years from headache, indigestion, and constipation. I had no appetite and was weak and nervous most of the time. By using three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured."—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kansas.

"I was troubled for years with indigestion, constipation, and headache. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, used in small daily doses, restored me to health. They are prompt and effective."—W. H. Strout, Meadville, Pa.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

"All right," returned Ed, whose fit of rage had left him in a very depressed and tractable state. "I'll do whatever you advise."

"And I wash my hands of you, sir!" exclaimed Randolph, Sr., to his son, as the latter moved toward the door. But Ed took no notice of this farewell shot, and he remained pretty much silent all the way down to the Abermarle, where they presently found themselves in the private sitting room of Mrs. Peters, as she still preferred to call herself.

She had been sitting at the piano, but as the gentlemen entered she rose and came to meet them.

"I have the memory of meeting you before," she said to Wallie, as she gave him her hand, whose softness contrasted with the bright hardness of the jeweled rings she wore. She looked at Ed, but made no remark to him.

"I had given up the hope of seeing you this season, Diva," observed Wallie with a smile. "You drove Gen. Inigo to his wit's end."

"That would be farther than I would like to go myself," she replied quietly. "I think he did not stay long there himself." Her beautiful face was calm and quite impenetrable. If she meant mischief, she meant it very deep down. She did not smile, but neither was there any sign of suppressed anger in her tranquil bearing.

"It is my fortune to be well acquainted with the lady who has been singing here in your stead," said Wallie, who perceived that it would be useless to beat about the bush with a woman of her caliber and temperament. "As she is the sister of your friend Mr. Randolph, I hope to see you friends with her also."

"It is my way to keep the things of business apart from the things of friendship," returned Marana with the slow distinctness that marked her utterance of English. "Edward," she continued, turning to that unhappy young man, "M. Dinsmore has your confidence? He knows of your—foolishness, yes?"

"He's all right," asserted the youth, with a heavy sigh.

"Be so good, then, mon cher, to go down stairs a little and smoke your cigar. It is not three who are company," said she, with a certain aroma of tenderness in her tone, which (Wallie fancied) was more involuntary than conscious.

"Now, monsieur," she continued when they were alone, "after fifteen minutes I await Gen. Inigo. Up till that I am all yours." And she leaned back in her chair and rested one hand within the other in her lap.

"The general will no doubt answer for himself—that is not my affair," said Wallie. "But I should like to know whether you perceive any distinction between his accountability and that of this young lady?"

"You would say it is his fault, but only her misfortune."

"To tell you the truth, Diva, the fault seems to me to lie between all three of you, but less belongs to her than to either Inigo or you."

"It is not I who apportion the fault, monsieur; but if I say the truth shall be known then the affair must turn out as it will."

"But you know that the only one to suffer would be the sister of Mr. Randolph."

A slight movement of the under lids of Marana's eyes showed that she appreciated the significance of Wallie's paraphrase for her rival. "In our profession, monsieur," she said, shrugging one shoulder and looking aside, "we have the necessity to each defend himself without regard of person."

"There are two reasons why people fight—one to inflict injury, and the other to get some advantage for themselves. Is yours the first?"

"Why should you assume it, monsieur?" inquired the Russian.

"Because in this case there is no advantage to be derived. And, besides, though I can imagine Mlle. Marana wishing to crush a rival, I cannot imagine her condescending to make a question of money."

"I had begun to think that M. Dinsmore was too truthful to make any compliments," said Marana with a leisurely smile that enhanced the beauty of her face.

"There may be more respect in what one leaves unsaid than"——

"Ah! I comprehend that also. But—consider it; if I have spent all my life in trying to sing well, and then I find that her singing is thought to be mine—then all that I have done in my life is for nothing. We singers, monsieur, have only our voice; when that is still there is no more of us. If it is taken from us we have nothing left. We put into it all our souls and our hearts, and we work many years—it is work and not play, monsieur—and we have many hard things, many struggles, sometimes we lose everything that other persons love, even love itself. Well, you see, I would more gladly give to some lady all the money that I have earned in my life, and my jewels, and my dresses, than I would permit that, when she sings, the audience should say, 'That is Marana!'"

Wallie looked down, and made no answer.

"You have reminded me," she went on after a few moments, "that this lady is the sister of Edward. Yes, he has very often told me of her, and that we were a little alike—poor boy, he means of one aspect; one presentment; as for the rest, he knows of me only what I have been to him. My other history was not of interest to him; perhaps he would not believe it, even if I told it to him: but, at least, he asked me to be his wife, and though I said no it was not because I feared that he might cease to love me because of what he might afterward come to know. You may laugh at it, monsieur, but I think he would still love me, notwithstanding all of it."

There was something noble and touching in the way Marana said this. Wallie did not feel at all inclined to laugh, and his face perhaps showed it.

"I said no," she resumed; "but later, when I found what he had done, I said yes, so that I might help to make right, and also because it is pleasant for a singer like me to think she can give something to her husband in return for being his wife. But then he would not; in that he was like other men who wish in every way to be the master. But yet, monsieur, there is time to think again," she added, suddenly altering her tone, and looking at him keenly; "a woman has much power over the man who loves her, if she will use it!"

Election Petitions—Absconding Swindlers Caught—A Contractor's Death.

TORONTO, April 20.—John Elliott, the senior member in the firm of Elliott & Neelon, who have the contract for the masonry work on the new civic buildings, died at his residence in Spadina-avenue on Saturday morning. Mr. Elliott was born in Yorkshire in 1822, and came to this country in 1843. He was one of the best known and most extensive contractors in Canada, and among other contracts he erected the post-office, Lieutenant-Governor's residence, custom house and central prison in this city, the county buildings at Brantford, and the Parliament buildings at Quebec.

Three election protests were filed this morning against the return of Conservatives. The members protested are W. F. Roome, West Middlesex; J. H. Marshall, East Middlesex, and Col. Tisdale, South Norfolk.

There are two very mad women in the Albion Hotel and two very disconsolate Yankee sports behind the bars at Police Headquarters. This is how it came about. On Saturday evening at 7.30 Detective Inspector Stark received a telegram from the chief of police of Cleveland asking him to locate and arrest if possible two men named Joseph H. Du Broy and Louis M. O'Dell of that city, wanted on a charge of grand larceny. Detectives McGrath and John Cuddy were detailed to get on the trail, and it was not long before the men were traced to the Albion. There it was found that they had registered as L. M. Howard and J. H. Driggs, and were accompanied by their wives.

The hunt was kept up until 12 o'clock when the officers discovered that Du Broy and O'Dell had spent Saturday night in one of the leading hotels up town, and after breakfast had hired a cab and driven east. They were followed step by step along Queen-street east until the officers sighted the cab and their men near Greenwood's side line. They were in a cab as well as the strangers, and by putting on a spurt soon came alongside. With their hands on their revolvers Cuddy and Porter stopped the other carriage, and scrambling in made prisoners of the two occupants before they had time to recover.

On Du Broy was found $1000 in American bills, a receipt for $340 paid to Charles Kerman for his tobacco store, 355½ Yonge-street, four gold watches and two diamond rings. O'Dell had a few dollars on him, but to all appearance it seemed Du Broy was cashier. The story of the crime for which the men were arrested has some peculiar features. Du Broy was a clerk in the Euclid-avenue National Bank of Cleveland. On Tuesday of last week he was given $6000 to express to a western firm. Instead of doing so he kept the package, and with O'Dell, O'Dell's wife and O'Dell's wife's sister skipped for Canada. Miss McNere, the sister-in-law, was engaged to be married to Du Broy's brother, but she forsook him for Du Broy, whom she married in Windsor on the Wednesday succeeding the theft. This little bit of business accomplished, the party came on to Toronto, arriving here on Thursday and putting up at the Albion.

ALGOMA NOMINATIONS.

Both Parties Nominate Residents of Port Arthur—Candidates Nominated.

SAULT STE. MARIE, April 19.—The nomination of candidates to contest Algoma for a seat in the House of Commons took place yesterday. George H. Macdonell of Port Arthur was nominated by the Conservatives and D. F. Burke of the same place by the Liberals. There was a large attendance of electors from all parts of Eastern Algoma.

SUPPOSED MURDER.

Two Men Quarrel in Hamilton and One of Them is Found Dead in Bed at Winona.

HAMILTON, April 19.—T. J. Woods and William Foster, two young men from Winona, came to Hamilton on Saturday morning, and after drinking considerable got into a quarrel in Roache's Hotel, near the station. The quarrel started over paying a boy for carrying a valise. After the fight Foster went back to Winona on the 5 o'clock train and Woods remained on a later one. This morning Foster was found dead in his bed. He has a nasty bruise on the side of his head and suspicion points strongly to Woods, with whom he had the quarrel. Woods is a farm hand and has lived in Winona for a long time, while Foster, known as "Yankee Foster," has been in Winona only a few days, coming, it is said, from the States. Woods has been arrested and an inquest will be held to-morrow.

The Public Demand Safety.

Three competing lines of railway run to a large and important commercial centre. Two of these lines run poorly finished coaches; their bridges are not as safe as they should be, and they make poor time. The third line is noted for its very complete equipment, its safe road-bed and bridges, and its fast time, and fares are as low as the poorly equipped roads. Does it not naturally follow that all sensible people must travel on this latter road? In Canada, several makes of package dyes are now offered to the public for home dyeing, many of them being unsafe, unreliable and worthless; causing loss of time, money and vexation of spirit. Diamond Dyes offer every guarantee of security and success in the dyeing operation. The Diamond Dye manufactory is a thoroughly equipped institution, and the only concern of the kind in Canada possessing the necessary means to successfully protect the consumer. Which are the safest?

SCIENCE AND PROGRESS.

INTERESTING PARAGRAPHS CULLED FROM VARIOUS FIELDS.

Valuable Information About the Best Way to Ventilate—Electricity in Train Service—Flexible Glass Tubes—Electrical Industry—Popular Science Notes.

Eight persons out of ten will endeavor to rid a room of its noxious gases by making an outlet for the air near the top of the inclosed space. The result is that the room is cooled, but the impurities remain practically where they were. The reason is this: As the air of a room is heated it rises, but the impure gases, being generally heavier than ordinary air, settle to the bottom of the room. A great amount of harm has been done, in schoolrooms particularly, by lowering the upper sashes in windows, thus causing cold drafts upon the overheated heads of the pupils. A room is best ventilated when the heavy and impure air is drawn gradually away from the lower part of the room through an opening into a chimney, the heated walls of which cause an upward current. An open fireplace is thus one of the best ventilators known. When this is not convenient, an opening covered by a grate should be made in the chimney near the floor. Low rooms frequently become so overheated as to require an outlet near the top, but this should be used simply to cool the room, not to ventilate it. In close buildings occupied by animals, ventilation can be secured by a close shaft six or more inches square, according to the size of the room, extending from within about twelve inches of the floor up through the roof of the building. The wind blowing across the top of this will cause an upward current, which will draw off the impure air.

Interesting experiments can be made by testing the effectiveness of various kinds of ventilation. Let the doors of a room be closed to keep out drafts; then with delicate tissue paper cut in long strips and held by one end, or with a lighted candle, note the outward current of air through an opening near the floor into a heated chimney, or from the room into an open fire. Note also the outward current of the upper air when a window is lowered, and at the same time the downward rush of cold air to the floor near the window. If a sleeping room has been closed all night, as too many sleeping rooms are, go out into the pure air for fifteen minutes; then go back into the closed room and note the unpleasant change. The first seeds of disease are too often sown in unventilated bedrooms.

ELECTRICAL INDUSTRY.

Some of the New Things Both in Fact and Theory.

The first electric cable in London was laid on February 2.

At the present time there are twenty-six and one-half miles of electric railways in actual operation in the United Kingdom.

The expenses of the municipal electric lighting plant in Paris last year were $69,937.36, and the receipts during the same period were $39,122.80.

The German Government has reduced the tariff for inland telegrams from 1 cent and 4 mills per word to a cent and 2 mills, with a minimum charge of 10 cents.

The municipal authorities of Berlin have decided that no more concessions shall be granted for elevated electric street railways or for electric railways requiring overhead conductors.

In the ordinary Morse method of telegraphy the average duration of the signaling current is about .125 second. With the Wheatstone automatic instrument, when transmitting at the rate of 60 words per minute, 22,000 currents are sent per minute or 366 per second, giving an average duration of .003 second.

Electricity in Train Service.

Electricity for passenger service, steam for freight trains. That, so some good authorities declare, will be the apportionment of the rival energies on the railroad of the future. Steam at high speed requires quantities of coal and water, thus largely increasing the weight to be carried, while the wear and tear of the generating apparatus is thought to be almost doubled when continuously forced. With electricity on the other hand, it is quite otherwise. The faster you go the greater is the economy over steam. Indeed, as the speed increases, the relative value of electric propulsion increases enormously, an expert before a recent meeting of the Institute of Electrical Engineers declaring that at 120 miles an hour it is something like six times economical than steam. "If," said he, "you can get 90 per cent efficiency out of your electric service and have a frequent service at 20 miles an hour, electric propulsion is even then slightly more economical than steam propulsion." One of the best known electric motor manufacturers recently declared it to be his belief that in the future express trains between populous centres like New York and Philadelphia would consist of two electric cars, to be started every ten minutes, and running at a speed of a mile a minute.

Suicide in a Cell.

BUFFALO, April 19.—Nellie Spaulding alias Jessie Gilmon, who had been arrested for drunkenness, committed suicide in her cell Saturday. The dead woman was born at Watertown, Jefferson County, N.Y., March 17, 1862. She was a widow, and leaves a beautiful little daughter about 5 years of age.

A HOBOKEN TRAGEDY.

AN ITALIAN USES A STILLETO WITH DEADLY EFFECT.

He Carves up All His Relatives and is in Turn Shot Dead by His Brother-in-law—A Sanguinary Scene of Bloodshed—The Assassin a Lawless Loafer.

HOBOKEN, April 20.—This morning Angelo Gabotha, an Italian, murdered his mother-in-law, stabbed his father-in-law almost to death and was slain by his brother-in-law. Gabotha slept in his father-in-law's house with his father-in-law last night. In early morning he arose and going to the bed in which his mother-in-law and wife were sleeping drove his stiletto into the elder woman's abdomen, killing her instantly. He then went back to his father-in-law's room and stabbed the old man in the neck. His aim was bad and the victim shrieked. Thereupon Coquito Coniquito, the old man's son, awoke and a desperate fight with knives ensued. It was finally ended by Coniquito stabbing Gabotha to the brain through the eye. There have been no arrests.

Another account states that the tragedy was the result of insane jealousy on Gabotha's part. He was 20 years old and his wife 17 when they were married two years ago. Eight months afterwards Gabotha drew a knife across his wife's abdomen, making a horrible wound, because he imagined she was unfaithful. It is not now known what became of Gabotha at the time, but after she recovered his wife lived with him again, he having promised to behave himself. But he became a lazy, shiftless loafer, depending on his wife for support. He believed his wife was untrue to him, that she was the mistress of a man she had met at her mother's house and that her mother shielded her in her wrong-doing. He went to the house last night with a stiletto and revolver prepared to do mischief. After killing his mother-in-law he stabbed his wife three times and left her as he thought dead. Covered with blood the murderer entered Coniquito's room and fired at Coniquito, who returned the fire. Although wounded in the breast several shots were exchanged. Gabotha then tried to leave the house, but was intercepted by his father-in-law, who struck him with a chair. Gabotha thrust his stiletto several times into the old man's body, but did not touch a vital part.

Coniquito here appeared again on the scene and fired the last shot in his revolver, striking Gabotha in the forehead and killing him. Coniquito and Mrs. Gabotha will recover. Their father may die.

BAYHAM'S COUNTERFEITERS.

Another Arrest Effected—Bogus 25 and 10 Cent Pieces.

ST. THOMAS, April 20.—Sanford Long of Bayham, arrested on the charge of uttering counterfeit money, was arraigned before Judge Ermatinger and elected to be tried by jury, and his trial will therefore take place at the June Sessions. The counterfeit money passed was 25 cent and 10 cent pieces, and the district between Aylmer and Tilsonburg is said to be flooded with the coins. The 25 cent pieces are a good imitation of the genuine and would be readily accepted if one were not suspicious. They are a counterfeit of Canadian coinage of 1881.

Another man, named Crane, has been arrested for the same offence and will have a preliminary hearing before P. M. Glover at Aylmer to-morrow.

BRITISH AND AMERICAN.

PORTUGAL CREATING TROUBLE IN SOUTH AFRICA AGAIN.

Additional News from Manipur—Justin McCarthy's Sunday Theatre—Starvation in Ireland Owing to the Failure to Grow of the Potatoes Recently Planted.

LONDON, April 20.—Despatches from Durban, South Africa, show that the Portuguese are taking a high hand in Mashonaland. The latest instance of their hostility to British interests in that district is likely to cause a further tension in the relations between the governments of Great Britain and Portugal. There are a number of British colonists who have settled in Mashonaland, and mails are carried via Biera, a Portuguese settlement. A short time ago, upon the arrival of the British mail sacks at Biera, the Portuguese authorities held them and refused to allow them to be carried to their destination. Great indignation on the part of the British colonists has been aroused by the high-handed proceeding.

Col. Willoughby has reached Delagoa Bay. He reports that on arrival at Beira he applied for permission to proceed to the Pungive River and offered to pay the prescribed duties, but as he received no answer after 48 hours he started without permission, when the Portuguese opened fire upon him, seized his two steamers with mails and provisions, and imprisoned 16 of the crew. Willoughby says the lives of the British at Beira are in great danger.

The Portuguese declare that the British are excluded from the Pungive River, which the boats were navigating when seized, and which is the chief water route about Mashonaland, and several of the British colonists have been imprisoned and most of the British employes have returned from Mashonaland on account of the arbitrary action of the Portuguese. There is every evidence that a serious rupture is impending between the Portuguese and the British authorities.

The Situation in Manipur.

SIMLA, April 20.—A despatch from Rangoon says the Jobray, the younger brother and heir of the Maharajah of Manipur, who deposed the latter in September last and who has been proclaimed regent, has with 2000 Maniparis occupied the strongly entrenched position held by Lieut. Grant until the latter was ordered to evacuate it. It is presumed this position is Fort Alongtaing near Thobal (previously referred to in despatches as Fort Thobal), where on April 4 Lieut. Grant repulsed 4000 Maniparis, killing the commander-in-chief of the Maniparis, who was the third brother of the Maharajah, and also two Manipuri generals and a number of soldiers.

To Satisfy the Croakers.

LONDON, April 20.—Owing to the persistent agitation of the question of military defences it has been decided to strengthen the fortifications of the Thames and to erect a new heavy battery at Sheerness. All the river forts are to be supplied with new guns of late and approved patterns. It is hoped that these precautions will silence the "croakers" who do not believe in the ability of England's floating "wooden walls" to protect the country from invasion.

A City to be Fortified.

BERLIN, April 20.—The Government has determined to strongly fortify the important commercial city of Osnabruck, Hanover. Besides the defences of the city itself, three forts will be erected outside the lines.

A NOVEL ELOPEMENT.

The Prospective Bride was a Clever Schemer but the Groom was Not.

LONDON, April 20.—An elopement with some novel and exciting features has just occurred at Alfreton. Pretty Annie Gough, daughter of the coachman of Judge Morewood at that place, dressed herself in her brother's clothes, stole the judge's horse, rode to the neighboring city of Nottingham and there joined her lover. The cupidity of the prospective bridegroom, however, proved stronger than either his honesty or his discretion. He attempted to dispose of the horse by selling it and the delay thus incurred enabled the emissaries of the angry father to overtake the fugitives. The girl was arrested and taken back home, but her lover managed to escape.

Newfoundland Delegates Satisfied.

LONDON, April 20.—The Newfoundland delegates express themselves as well satisfied with the result of their conference yesterday with Lord Salisbury. The particulars of the interview, however, have not transpired. Mr. Emerson, speaking for the delegation, says that Lord Salisbury requested that the negotiations be kept secret until a decision shall have been arrived at in the matter. He received the delegates graciously and all the phases of the question at issue were talked over. It has been decided by the Government to allow the delegates to present before the House of Lords on Thursday the address adopted by the Newfoundland Legislature. Mr. Emerson will be the spokesman of the delegates on that occasion.

How the Queen's Housemaid Died.

LONDON, April 20.—A singular death from blood poisoning occurred at Grasse recently. One of the Queen of England's housemaids was sewing and accidentally pricked her finger with a needle and inflammation set in. Two doctors were called and her arm was lanced. Matters seemed to be going better for a time, but fever set in and she died almost immediately. Queen Victoria selected the site and she will be buried in a lot that is portioned off from the Catholic cemetery for the burial of those of other faiths who may die at Grasse.

McCarthy's Sunday Theatre Project.

LONDON, April 20.—The scheme for the Sunday theatre, which is the pet project of Justin Huntley McCarthy, M.P., is assuming a more definite shape. It has been proposed that in order to start it the use of the theatre of the Lyric Club should be obtained. The performances will in no wise interfere with church-going, because it is not intended that they shall commence earlier than 9 o'clock, and it is very likely that it will be even later before the curtain is rung up.

A Moslem Marriage in England.

LONDON, April 20.—The first marriage with Moslem rites ever known to have taken place in England has just been recorded. The bride is the daughter of the late Judge Fitch of Liverpool and the groom is a barrister practising in London, who is a full-fledged Mohammedan.

From Stage to Cloister.

PARIS, April 19.—A good deal of stir has been caused in artistic circles by the news that Mlle. Depadie, the well-known prima donna, had left the world and has begun her novitiate in a convent.

Will Continue to Sell Bait.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 20.—It is reported the fishermen at Bay de Nate are determined to sell bait to the French from St. Pierre and have resisted the government officers. Reinforcements have been sent to assist the authorities.

UNDERNEATH THE GROUND.

A Coal Mine Cage Was Suspended While 200 Miners Buried Alive Below Momentarily Expected Death.

LONDON, April 20.—Two large cages or cars used for hoisting and lowering men and material in a colliery in the Longton (Staffordshire) coal district, while one of them was being hoisted and the other was being lowered, came into violent collision and were smashed to pieces. The result was that the shaft was badly damaged and choked up with debris, thus cutting off communication with 200 miners whom the accident imprisoned in the mine below. For 14 hours the miners were shut up in the mine, practically buried alive. This was a period of terrible suspense for their families and friends, who crowded about the pit in a state of great agitation and distress. Eventually a small hole was pierced through the mass of wreckage and earth clogging the shaft, and it was found possible to lower food by means of a rope to the imprisoned miners. Further work upon the passage enabled the men engaged in the work of rescue to haul the 200 miners one by one out of the mine by using buckets, to which ropes were fastened.

Miners Killed and Injured.

BERLIN, April 20.—The walls of the Germania pit near Gelsenkirchen collapsed yesterday, burying a large number of miners in the ruins. Four men were killed outright and several injured. Many of the men are entombed in the mine and their fate is uncertain, though it is thought they will be rescued.

Heavy Glasgow Failure.

GLASGOW, April 21.—Arrol Bros. of this city have suspended payment. Their liabilities are heavy; assets not known. The Arrol Bros. are not connected with Sir William Arrol, the builder of the Forth bridge. The firm was concerned in the Buenos-Ayres transactions. The failure is attributed to non-receipt of remittances from Buenos Ayres and to the suspension of the Renfrew Forge and Steel Company.

Why Davitt Was Ineligible.

LONDON, April 20.—William Henry Smith in the House of Commons to-day, replying to a question in regard to Michael Davitt not being made a member of the Royal Labor Commission, said Davitt's evidence before the Parnell special commission, with the fact that he had been convicted of treason and felony, unfitted him to sit on the commission.

Watched Fields Fail to Sprout.

CORK, April 20.—Considerable alarm prevails among the small farmers and poor people of the Skibbereen district on account of the discovery that the seed potatoes recently distributed as one of the relief measures of the Government have practically proved a failure. Many lots of these potatoes planted weeks ago have as yet shown no signs of life.

MANSLAUGHTER.

Returned Against Timothy Wood of Winona Yesterday.

HAMILTON, April 20.—An inquest on the body of William Foster, who was found dead in his bed at his residence in Winona yesterday morning, was commenced this afternoon in Winona village before Coroner Wolverton of Hamilton. The jury brought in a verdict of manslaughter against Timothy Wood. Wood has been arrested and his case will come off at the assizes, which opened here before Judge Armour this morning.

The Strike in the Coke Regions.

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., April 21.—At 2 o'clock this afternoon the coroner's jury announced its verdict in the Morewood riot case as follows: "That the deceased came to his death at Morewood on Thursday morning, April 2, 1891, about 3 o'clock by a bullet discharged from a gun or revolver in the hands of the deputies of the sheriff of Westmoreland County." This applies to each man killed in the riot.

Labor Troubles.

Three hundred coalheavers at the Cleveland docks have struck for an increase of wages.

Six hundred of the 950 laborers engaged in grading Jackson Park for the World's Fair at Chicago yesterday struck for an increase in wages from $1.50 to $1.75 per day.

The trainmen on the Indiana Midland at Lebanon, Ind., who went out on strike Saturday on account of non-payment of wages overdue, have induced every man on the road to join them and not a wheel is being turned except an engine and mail car. No passengers or freight are allowed to be carried.

Protests Against Cabinet Ministers.

HALIFAX, April 20.—To-day F. T. Congdon, representing the petitioners against the return of Nathaniel White for Shelburne, Sir John Thompson for Antigonish and Hon. C. H. Tupper for Pictou, filed petitions. In the petition against the return of Hon. C. H. Tupper it is charged that for the purpose of procuring the election of defendant the railway service of Canada was made use of; also that Government officials were influenced. Similar grounds are given in the petition against Sir John Thompson, including the use of the Intercolonial Railway, and it is alleged that the defendant and agents directly and indirectly were guilty of practising intimidation by spiritual and temporal threats upon certain voters to compel such and against others to compel them to refrain from voting.

DIED IN EACH OTHER'S ARMS.

Tragic Suicide of Two Lovers in a New York Hotel.

NEW YORK, April 20.—A young couple registered at the Grand Union Hotel Sunday morning as P. Behrend and wife, and were assigned to room D 8 on the third floor. To-night at 8.30 they were found dead in the room from gas asphyxiation. They were in bed wrapped in each other's arms. They had inhaled the gas through rubber tubes held in their mouths. On the woman's breast was a large and beautiful bouquet, evidently purchased for this very occasion. The man was about 25 years old and the woman 20. They left four letters, two of which were to a Mrs. Miller of 200 East Ninth-street. Mrs. Miller was seen late to-night; she admitted virtually that she was acquainted with the couple, but gave the impression that the name given by the young man was correct, but that the young woman was not his wife.

THIS NUMBER OF ONTARIO SEATS TO BE CONTESTED.

Sir John Macdonald's Among the Protested Seats—Only Thirty Conservative and Seven Reformers Escape—Still Another Batch Confidently Looked For.

TORONTO, April 21.—Yesterday was a big day in the matter of filing election petitions against the return of members in the recent Dominion elections.

Each petition requires $1000 in cold cash to be deposited with the officers of the courts and apparently no trouble seems to have been found on either side to raise the money.

A few minutes after the petition was put in against Sir John Macdonald the petition against Hon. Alexander Mackenzie in East York was filed in the Court of Queen's Bench.

There is practically no difference as to what court the petitions are filed in as the different chief justices meet and assign certain of their colleagues to try the election appeals irrespective of the courts they are entered in. It is not likely that any of the cases will be tried before the fall.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

The Country Not Yet Prepared for the Single Tax Idea.

TORONTO, April 21.—Yesterday Mr. Tait moved the second reading of his bill involving an approach to single tax. The bill provides that any municipality may declare that improvements upon real property shall not be estimated for the purpose of assessment in excess of 50 per cent. of their actual cash value.

Mr. Hardy said the country was not prepared for the single tax idea, or even to go half way. If the country were ready, such a measure would be entitled to more explanation than was given. If such buildings as the Canada Life, Bank of Commerce, Rossin House were assessed at half their value while a poor man was assessed at the full value of the land on which his cottage was built, it would be a very serious thing. In bringing the question before the House, the promoter of the bill had accomplished all he desired or wanted to accomplish—(laughter)—this session. Many of the single tax ideas were not tolerated a few years ago, but are now adopted. Their popularity was increasing. But he doubted whether at this late period in the session the bill could receive the consideration and attention which it demands, and he therefore asked Mr. Tait to withdraw it, which was done.

In moving the second reading of his bill to amend the Election Act Mr. Whitney explained that one clause provided that the county attorney shall attend election trials and institute proceedings for violations of the law. This was simply following the law elsewhere. In England there is a director of prosecutions, and the Dominion Election Act provides that the Attorney-General shall instruct counsel to commence proceedings. Another clause provides that the penalty for bribery shall include a term of imprisonment as well as a fine. Mr. Whitney said Sir Richard Webster wrote that he was surprised that the penalty in Ontario did not include imprisonment and that the penalty of imprisonment had exercised in England a beneficial and a deterrent effect. This amendment was demanded by the best interests of the province, and if the Government did not favor the bill he would re-introduce it next session. The Attorney-General might at least assent to the principle of the bill, that imprisonment as well as a fine should be the penalty for bribery, and allow the bill to go to committee.

Mr. Mowat said he was afraid the result of the bill would be injurious rather than beneficial. The great difficulty is to prove acts of bribery and corruption. Not one case out of a thousand corrupt practices is proved. It is well known that the severity of a punishment often prevents a conviction. The Government was afraid that if the law was made more severe there would be fewer convictions. In spite of the provisions of the Dominion Election Act there is ten times over the amount of corruption in Dominion elections that there is in the Ontario elections, showing that Mr. Whitney is entirely mistaken in the effects of the change he proposes. It is the duty now of the county attorney to institute criminal proceedings whenever his attention is called to it and therefore that clause is unnecessary. Mr. Mowat said he proposed to consolidate the election laws before the next general elections and he would endeavor to do something to lessen corruption.

After some further discussion the bill was defeated by a vote of 36 nays to 25 yeas. The division was on party lines except that Mr. Balfour supported the bill. Mr. Campbell, the Equal Righter, also supported it. Mr. Conmee spoke in favor of the principle of the bill but voted against it.

The motion of Mr. Campbell (East Durham), respecting separate schools, was reached, but it was allowed to stand. He stated that he was not prepared to go on yesterday and that certain members whom he expected to support it were not present. It will probably be reached again Wednesday.

Once More Postponed.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Owing to the illness of Attorney-General Bradley the Bayward case was again postponed for a week to-day. Argument will be proceeded with next Monday, however.

A DICTIONARY OF PRINTING.—An admirable publication of which the first part has been issued is the "American Dictionary of Printing," published by Howard Lockwood & Co., of New York. The firm are noted as the publishers of several technical and business publications, one of which is the American Bookmaker, a high-class trade journal. The Dictionary will be published in numbers and they expect to have it completed in a reasonable time. It will comprise all that is known of the art from the earliest to the present time—technical, historical, and biographical and promises to be the most comprehensive book of the kind ever published. To the printer the pages of its first number afford a genuine pleasure in perusing the clean and well printed columns, the ample yet concise manner in which the subjects are treated, the numerous illustrations and the genial, careful and thorough treatment. It may be added that this valuable work will be issued in quarterly parts and is presented, without cost, to all subscribers to the American Bookmaker, the parts will be sent [illegible] until the volume is completed, when the price will be $12.00 per copy. Better subscribe for the Bookmaker, addressing the publishers as above.

Little Things Speak.

"What a little thing I am! It is hardly possible to realize the fact that my usefulness extends from ocean to ocean; that I am always a welcome visitor to every home where I am used to give new life, new usefulness, and fresh, lasting looks to what was once cast away as worthless. I am a life preserver, a renovator, a messenger of joy and pleasure; and I daily instruct in the science of economy. Ah! reader you have guessed my name, have you? Yes, I am indeed Diamond Dyes, and intend to follow up the good work I so long ago commenced in Canada. Some poor competitors are endeavoring to displace me from my high position by stratagem and false representations; but the verdict everywhere is in my favor.

INTERESTING PARAGRAPHS CULLED FROM VARIOUS FIELDS.

The Bone Grafting Experiment in New York—The Actual Results Attained—Reason for Hope, Although this Trial was not an Unqualified Success.

In the New York Charity Hospital, in November last, as described in these columns early in December, Dr. A. M. Phelps grafted a bone from a dog's leg in the shin bone of a boy, under circumstances which attracted general attention. Both boy and dog were bound side by side on a cot, where they might be kept as comfortably as possible for several days, anaesthetics were administered but moderately, and a piece of the bone about an inch and a half long was taken from the dog's limb and inserted in that of the boy, where it was ingeniously secured in position, care being taken not to injure the arteries or any important portion of the circulatory system of either. It was designed that the vitality of the dog should contribute to the growth of the bone in place in the boy's leg, which, it was estimated, would require about thirty days, and an artery of the dog was, therefore, conducted to the grafted bone, and muscle was stitched to muscle and skin to skin, to promote, if possible, a mutual growth. After three days the boy and dog became apparently comfortable together, and at the end of six days the wound was naturally healed, but at the end of eleven days there was an apparent shrinkage of the dog in the dressings, allowing of motion, and endangering the pulling of the graft from position, and the bond of union between the boy and the dog was then, on this account, severed. The operation had not been successful, but the bone graft was covered with an irregular new growth, and circulation was shown to have been established between the boy and dog. At the end of five weeks the graft was removed from the boy's leg, but the stimulation it had caused is said to have set up a reparative process, which gives hope that the original fracture may reunite. The boy now walks with the aid of one crutch or a cane, and the dog was carefully treated after the separation. Dr. Phelps is confident that the bony union would have taken place with the graft if actual contact could have been maintained for a longer period, and says that "the operation is a success in so far as it establishes the principle that it is possible to grow large masses of tissue from an animal to man, and to establish the circulation until the union takes place between opposite species without danger to either. It also demonstrates that a growth of new bone takes place when a section of bone is transplanted and its nutrition maintained by the artery of the animal. This, if continued for four or five weeks, would probably unite a fracture."

LAUNCHED.

Now, Elsie, bring his comforter;
the thread and needle, too;
His worsted mitts have sprung a leak;
his little thumb is through.
His rubbers, Georgie—quick, my boy,
you'll find 'em 'neath the sink;
He can't be late to-day you know;
the clock is fast, I think.

Now get the whiskbroom Elsie, child;
the ulster mamma made
Will keep the cold out famously;
the cloth's a trifle frayed,
But I did the best I could with my old brown cloak, laid aside
A year ago Thanksgiving Day, when your poor father died.

How proud he'd be of Teddy now,
if he could only see
His eldest son a marching off a business man to be!
Perhaps he does—perhaps—(my eyes are getting weak, I think;
These things so filled my thoughts last night
I couldn't sleep a wink).

And now he's ready—goodness me,
you're not a going to cry!
Just think of all the money you'll be earning by and by!
And only think how fine 'twill be to sit there in the store
A signing checks at a great big desk six feet above the floor!

But ere that time arrives my dear—and come it surely will—
There's many a rugged road to plod,
and many a rocky hill;
There's many a flagging wayfarer
in envy to misguide,
And lead your trusting footsteps down
Success' mountain side.

Poor boy, my words are Greek to you;
well, kiss me, then, goodby;
Another—and another! what,
is mamma going to cry!
She's thinking of the path through life
she fondly planned for you;
Your college years—the lovely dreams that never can come true.

Launched!—God of winds and waves and tides
and calms and ocean strife,
Oh, pilot this, my precious bark,
safe o'er the sea of life;
And plant in my rebellious heart
this bloom from wisdom's store—
'Tis only when we dare not hope that we are truly poor!

Astonishing But True.

The following story can be vouched for by four persons in the City of Montreal, as well as by the family of the subject of this article. According to promise we withhold all names, but give to the public and those interested the plain and truthful facts of a most remarkable case. Mr. ——, a well-known hardware salesman, was for over eighteen months terribly afflicted with nervous prostration, and twitching of the muscles. Mental depression ensued, which brought with it a failing memory, a forgetting of facts. Two of the best physicians were consulted, but after weeks of attendance the sufferer's condition was not improved. The family were recommended to try Paine's Celery Compound, which, after having been used for about eight weeks, produced a most decided change for the better. The nervousness was banished, and their was no more twitching of the muscles. Sound and refreshing sleep was found, instead of nights of wakefulness; and in four weeks more a retentive memory and clear brain was obtained. This is not an isolated case. Paine's Celery Compound has done and is still doing what ordinary physicians are unable to do. There is hope for all who suffer like this hardware salesman, when this great and effective remedy is used in time.

Over 15,000 Manuscripts.

Mr. Bok, the editor of The Ladies' Home Journal, recently gave some interesting figures relative to the manuscripts received by his magazine during 1890. Owing to its departments and peculiar character the Journal probably receives more manuscripts than any magazine published. Mr. Bok says that he received at his office a total number of 15,205 manuscripts. Of these, 2,260 were poems, 1,746 stories and 11 179 miscellaneous articles. Of the poems, 66 were accepted, of the stories only 21 and of the articles 410, of which latter, however, over 300 were solicited articles. Thus, it will be seen that of the entire 15,000 manuscripts only 497 were accepted, a trifle over three per cent. Deducting from this the 300 accepted articles written at the editor's solicitation, the net percentage of unsolicited manuscripts accepted is brought down to 197, or a little more than one per cent. Statistics such as these show how much utter trash is being written and the number of persons writing who ought to be employing their time at something else and better.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease consumption. Ask yourself if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. d16w4-6m

Gone To Ottawa.

The deputation left for Ottawa on the midnight train last night to interview the Government to urge the necessity of the immediate commencement of the Trent Valley Canal. The local deputation is only a small part of an immense delegation from all along the line of the proposed water route that will be in Ottawa to-day. A full report of the proceedings of the deputation at the capital will be printed to-morrow.

After suffering horribly for years from scrofula in its worst form, a young son of Mr. R. L. King, 704 Franklin-st., Richmond, Va., was recently cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. No other medicine can approach this preparation as a cleanser of the blood.

"Bobby" Panter Goes to Gaol.

"Bobby" Panter, the simple youth who is familiar on the streets of the town, was locked up last night for his incorrigible conduct and persistence in trying to attend the Edison ball. "Bobby" tried every way to get in and then was going to stone the Chief of Police. At the Police Court this morning "Bobby's" father appeared and after some consideration with the Magistrate the unfortunate youth was sent to gaol for three months. In the meantime his father, who now works out of town, will try and get work in town so that he will be able to look after his boy.

Threatened With a Frying Pan.

Mrs. Vought will appear in the Police Court to-morrow morning to answer to a charge of assault on Thomas Smith, the son of a neighbor. Mrs. Smith appeared in the Court this morning and told the Magistrate a pitiful story. Mrs. Vought has made herself the terror of the neighbors around the South Ward School, so Mrs. Smith says, and on Saturday she threatened to disperse Mrs. Smith's brains with a frying pan and called her rather inelegant names. Thomas Smith, the youthful son of the complainant, was also the object of much abuse and had some boiling water thrown on him. Mrs. Smith wanted Mrs. Vought put away out of the neighborhood. She said the woman had said she would take an axe to the policeman that came near her house, but a summons was issued for her notwithstanding.

[illegible] Up On the Hill.

The American aristocrats who toil not neither do they spin—in other words the tramps—had better give Peterborough a wide berth hereafter, for Chief Roszel is bound to rid the town of this class of nuisance. At the police court this morning three sun-burned, rather tough-looking personages were charged with being vagrants. Thos. McDonald had an arm in a sling and said he came from Quebec. Wm. Reynolds and James Curtis, two stalwart men, were going to Sarnia to get a berth on a sailing vessel. They each pleaded guilty to the charge, but wanted a chance to get out of town. It was shown by evidence that two of them had been begging on the streets, and the magistrate gave them each one month in gaol at hard labor. The last two words seemed to grate hard on the tender nerves of the prisoners.

Wanted.—A good appetite. You can have it easy enough by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. It tones the digestion and cures sick head ache.

TWO YEARS HAVE GONE

Since the St. Paul's Christian Endeavor Society was Formed—The Anniversary.

The Christian Endeavor Society of St. Paul's church commemorated its second anniversary last evening by an interesting open meeting held in the church. Organized two years ago the Society has thrived and is doing a vigorous work among the young people of the church who are being interested to a great degree.

The attendance was fair. Mr. Alf. J. Johnston presided as chairman. The opening exercises consisted of a hymn, a prayer by Rev. R. F. Torrance, followed by a responsive reading. After another hymn Mr. J. Connal read an able paper on the topic for the evening "Thou God Seest Me." After prayer by Messrs. R. J. Colville and Anderson, Miss Sophy Cameron rendered a vocal solo in most pleasing voice, and Mr. W. Nelson read another paper on the evening's topic. Master Arlidge then sang a vocal solo and Mr. A. McCallum gave a decidedly interesting and well prepared address on the topic for the evening. Miss Vair followed with an excellent vocal solo.

Rev. Mr. Torrance then gave a short address in which he said it was two years since the society had been organized and it had continued to increase both in membership and interest during that time. The members felt the helpfulness of belonging to the Society and he hoped that other young people of the church would become members. He referred to the development of the talents of the members which was encouraged by the Society, which had been the outcome of the Crossley and Hunter revival and had proved of a most permanent character.

A hymn and the benediction then closed the meeting. The choir and Mr. Arlidge were present and added to the interest of the service by their music.

In Ashburnham the following licenses were granted:—

An Hotel at Stony Lake.

Mr. Wm. Kenneally has secured a license for the hotel at Julian's Landing, and this season intends to run a first-class house. This will be welcome news for the campers and summer residents at Stony Lake, and Mr. Kenneally will probably do a good business this summer. He intends to refit the house and supply the best of board and accommodation.

Improper and deficient care of the scalp will cause grayness of the hair and baldness. Escape both by the use of that reliable specific Hall's Hair Renewer.

Personal.

Mrs. Barr, wife of the district manager of the Edison Company attended the assembly last evening.

The Misses Parkinson, Oakwood, nieces of the Hon. S. C. Wood, are attending the Peterborough Business College and are taking complete courses in book-keeping and shorthand.

Mr. T. E. Boddy, of the C. P. R. office, was on the street to-day, having sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to be out.

Mrs. B. Hudson, who last week accompanied the young ladies from here to the Demill Ladies' College, Oshawa, after getting them settled has returned. Mrs. Hudson speaks very highly of the college, having taught the Art Department for six years in that institution, she is quite conversant with the teachings of the school, which she highly approves of.

He Struck the Chief.

Fred Minor was a young man with a rather surly expression on his face who came from Harwood yesterday and went down to see what was to be seen on the outside of the Edison building last night. There was quite a crowd of young ruffians outside the door making themselves disagreeable to everyone and Chief Roszel and Constable Stewart were keeping them in order. Someone in the crowd threw a stone and struck one of the doorkeepers. The Chief went out and drove the crowd back when a heavy stone struck him in the middle of the back. Constable Stewart saw the man who threw the missile and pointed him out to the Chief who arrested him. At the Police Court this morning he was charged with assaulting an officer in discharge of his duty and pleaded guilty to the offence. The Magistrate referred to the serious nature of the offence but said he would deal leniently with the prisoner. He fined him $10 or one month in gaol. Minor went up.

Merry Wedding Bells.

The Cloquet, Minn., Pine Knot of April 11th contains the following reference to the marriage of Miss Annie Graham, daughter of Mr. Joseph Graham, formerly of Ashburnham:

"When the people of Cloquet received their mail Monday morning last they were pleasantly surprised to receive a very handsome card which announced that Mr. Fred Dowling and Miss Annie Graham, two of our most popular young people, would join hands and assume the matrimonial yoke on Wednesday, the 8th inst. The recipient of the card was also invited to witness the ceremony at the Presbyterian church at 3.30 in the afternoon, a reception at the residence of the bride's parents at 7.30, and a ball at the Nelson Opera hall later in the evening. Accordingly at the time mentioned standing room could not be had at the church, and when the happy couple, supported by Mr. Ed. Wright and Miss Louise Clark, arrived, they found great difficulty in entering the holy edifice. Rev. McClelland performed the ceremony with great solemnity, and when the word which made the young couple one was pronounced, Mr. and Mrs. Dowling left the church and were driven at once to the home of the bride to which place also repaired a large circle of friends who were profuse in their congratulations and expressions of future happiness. In the evening at least 200 friends gathered at the Opera House and assisted in the celebration of the glad event. The presents tendered Mr. and Mrs. Dowling are numerous and a list will be published next week. In the general expression of joy over the happy culmination of the affection of two happy hearts the Pine Knot joins and further wishes for the young couple their full measure of happiness and prosperity."

Brevities.

—At sunrise this morning Mr. Thos. Telford's thermometer stood 2 degrees below the freezing point with white frost.

PETERBOROUGH PEOPLE

MINGLE IN A SCENE OF SPLENDID GAYETY.

The Opening of the Edison Works by a Grand Assembly—All Past Similar Events Eclipsed—Thousands of Citizens the Guests of the Company—Superb Costumes, Graceful Dancers and Entrancing Music—Some Speeches at the Formal Opening.

The Edison Company's grand assembly is now a thing of the past, and the event which stirred all circles of society in Peterborough during the past week proved to be a most unqualified success, unmarred by one unpleasant feature and lacking nothing which would add to the enjoyment and convenience of any of the thousands of guests.

It is safe to say that no event will remain more green in the memories of the citizens of Peterborough of all classes than the advent to our town of the Edison General Electric Company, marked as the opening of their works was by an assembly which eclipsed all other similar gatherings ever held in the town. In point of numbers no former society event ever embraced one-quarter the number of guests and probably no floor of the same area has ever echoed to the measured tread of graceful dancers in the Dominion of Canada. It was a grand success and to the Edison Company who gave the splendid evening of unalloyed pleasure the thousands of citizens who participated can only express their appreciation in inadequate language.

Never again in all probability will the mammoth machine shop with its 27,200 square feet of area present such a scene of resplendent grandeur as it did last evening. Early in the evening citizens began to wend their way towards the south, where the gigantic building stood like a dazzling monument of light as the brilliant electricity within sent its rays of white light out through hundreds of windows into the blackness of the night. A steady stream of pedestrians continued from eight o'clock until long after nine to flow towards this rendezvous of brilliancy, while hundreds of others arrived in carriages, private equipages and hacks. When the strains of the first waltz floated on the air and filled the immense building the scene was one of grandeur. On the floor hundreds of handsomely attired graceful forms were gliding over the beautifully waxed floor while thousands of eyes gazed on the scene from the galleries above. It was a sight which was well worth seeing and in the oft quoted and familiar lines of Byron is found a true description of the scene with a slight adaptation:—

> And Peterborough had gathered there
> "Her beauty and her chivalry and bright,
> The lamps shone o'er fair women and brave men;
> A thousand hearts beat happily; and when
> Music arose with its voluptuous swell,
> Soft eyes looked love to eyes which spake again
> And all went merry as a marriage bell."

When the floor was covered by the rich and varied costumes of the lady dancers, combined with the sombre dress suits and white gloves of the gentlemen, and the bright colored bunting and flags overhead, the scene was indeed one of entrancing beauty and splendor. The majority of the costumes of the ladies were superbly rich, while all were of an elegance which spoke well for the prosperity of the residents of the most prosperous town in Canada. To attempt any description of the hundreds of costumes or to venture the publication of anything like a complete list of the guests present would be something which is beyond the power of a newspaper. Suffice it is to say that never before did so much grace, elegance and richness appear on any floor in Peterborough. Many strangers, both ladies and gentlemen, from outside centres were present and enjoyed the hospitality so generously and magnanimously offered to all by the Edison Company.

The REVIEW is probably within the mark when it says that between three and four thousand persons entered the building as guests of the company. But let it not be understood that all these participated in the gayeties or tripped the light fantastic, although a spirit of happy amiability seemed to pervade all. The majority among those who attended the assembly were spectators and viewed the scene of gay splendor from the galleries. And they had plenty upon which to feast their eyes and entertain them. Marvels of beauty and richness in the dressmaker's art were constantly appearing and disappearing before their vision, only to be followed by the equally beautiful costumes of other lady dancers.

The interior of the building had been most artistically decorated and presented a grand appearance. The massive pillars that rose from the floor to support the gallery were hidden behind a mass of evergreens, while bunting and flags were draped and festooned with effect along the front of the gallery and across the lofty roof. Above the main entrance, which was at the north end, was the motto "God Save the Queen." Near this entrance a platform had been erected, carpeted and seated with parlor furniture where the officials of the company and prominent local men were stationed during the brief formal opening. From the wall behind this platform an engraving of Mr. Edison himself smiled upon the scene. In the centre of the floor was the platform occupied by the orchestra, while across the south end were stretched the refreshment tables. Corlett's orchestra from Toronto supplied the music which was inspiring and entrancing. The refreshments were served by Mr. H. Long, and when the extensive character of his contract is considered, he is to be congratulated on his success as a caterer.

And the arrangements were most complete. As the guests arrived they were met at the door by the most courteous of stewards, and the ladies shown to dressing rooms on the west side, while the gentlemen found all necessary accommodation in similar quarters on the east side. Within the dressing rooms were attendants to check all the wraps and cloaks and ensure their safe return to their owners.

THE FORMAL OPENING.

The Fire Brigade were present and before any orchestra music was rendered, opened the evening with "God Save the Queen" followed by "Yankee Doodle." A couple of the numbers of the programme had been danced before the formal opening took place. This was a pleasing feature of the evening, being brief yet comprehensive in its character. Mr. Martin, the superintendent of the local works, who has established himself in the good graces of the Peterborough people by his uniform courtesy and attentiveness, performed the duties that fell to his lot in an exceptionally happy style. On the platform with him were Col. H. M. Francis, Canadian general auditor of the company, Mr. D. Barr, district manager, Mr. R. D. Francis, sales agent, Rev. J. C. Davidson of St. John's, Mayor Stevenson, M. P., Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.PP., Mr. A. V. R. Young, American Consul, and Councillors Moore, Dawson, Dennistoun, Davidson, Winch, Meldrum, Cahill and Kelly.

Mr. Martin said he would be brief. He had two duties to perform—one an unpleasant one and the other a pleasant one. The unpleasant one he would perform first by calling upon Col. Francis to read a telegram that he had received.

Col. Francis stepped forward and read the following telegram:—

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., April 20.

Important business engagements prevent our being present at the opening of the Peterborough works to-night. Please express to the guests our regrets, with best wishes to all participants and hoping the same amiable relations will continue, we remain,

SAMUEL INSUL,
JOHN KRUESI.

Mr. Insul is the Second Vice-President of the company, and Mr. Kruesi is General Manager of the works at Shenectady. Mr. Langton, the General Manager of the works at Sherbrooke, was also unable to be present.

Mr. Martin, after the above telegram had been read, referred with regret to the absence of Mr. Jules Meyers, through whose energy, he said, they were largely indebted for the completion of the building that night. Mr. Meyer's name was received with applause. Mr. Martin said Mr. Meyers had in a letter spoke in words of the keenest regret that it was utterly impossible for him to meet his friends. Mr. Martin said when he told them that Mr. Meyers had before the first of June to construct five miles of electric railway they would see that his excuse was a good one. He said a telegram of regret had also been received from Mr. John A. Barron, M.P., of Lindsay, at his inability to be present. The speaker then proceeded to perform what he had termed his pleasant duty. He thanked them for the many kind services that had been rendered to him. He thanked the ladies and gentlemen of Peterborough for the kind sympathy and interest that had been manifested in the company's works and for the general hospitality that had been extended to him. He expressed his pleasure at meeting so many that night and said he was proud of his staff of men who had labored through the severities of a winter to erect that building. In conclusion he extended all a hearty welcome in the name of the Edison General Electric Company and thanked them for their kindness in coming to celebrate the completion of the building. He hoped they would all enjoy a pleasant evening.

Mayor Stevenson then stepped forward and on behalf of the citizens of Peterborough most heartily thanked Mr. Martin for his kind words and expressed the gratification all felt at the completion of the building. This was only the formal opening of one building which was the precursor of many others. The Mayor said he knew the citizens were in hearty sympathy with the company as were the Council and His Worship promised that all the agreements with the company would be faithfully carried out.

Councillor Dennistoun when the speaking had concluded stepped forward and proposed three cheers for the Edison Company which were given with a vim.

THE PROGRAMME.

Then the music rose again and the dancing was renewed. The words of Byron were again the expression of the prevading spirit:

> "On with the dance; let joy be unconfined.
> No sleep till morn when youth and beauty meet,
> To chase the glowing hours with flying feet."

And the dancing was continued with vigor, the happy faces of the gay gathering evidencing the pleasure they were enjoying. The following is the programme of dances:

WALTZ.

1. Quadrille
2. Waltz
3. Polka
4. Waltz
5. Lancers
6. Waltz
7. Polka
8. Waltz
9. Lancers
10. Waltz

15. Waltz
16. Polka
17. Waltz
18. Lancers
19. Waltz
20. Polka
21. Waltz
22. Lancers
23. Waltz

This programme was concluded shortly after two o'clock, by which time the galleries were pretty well emptied of spectators, and the assemblage dispersed, all with words of praise and congratulation on their lips.

To Mr. Martin, the Messrs. Francis and other gentlemen of the company too much praise cannot be given for the complete arrangements that had been made, arrangement to which alone the grand success of the event can be attributed. Much time and effort was given on their part, while the company which they represent is to be thanked for their generosity in allowing the people of Peterborough to participate in such an enjoyable opening of their works here.

Mr. Jackson supplied generously one of Heintzman's upright grand pianos for the use of the orchestra.

CASH HARDWARE STORE.

On and after 1st April we shall do business on a Cash Basis.

To cover the inevitable losses attendant upon a credit business, which accrue from amount of time spent in keeping accounts, collecting, bad debts, interest account, and in numerous other ways, larger margins of profit must be asked.

In these times cash buyers ask, expect and are entitled to close prices. A careful consideration of the subject convinces us that the time has come for a cash business done on smaller profits.

The only customers who may be put to inconvenience are those who have had long credit. In more ways than one it will be to their advantage to pay cash.

For convenience of our old customers who consider their accounts due when presented, we will call 30 days cash and render all accounts the first of each month, and we wish to say that we will be happy to do business with them on these terms.

As the new departure is something of an experiment, what would be considered a close cash price will be made all through the stock. Not a few leaders only, but a general reduction in everything from the fourth flat to the cellar.

Our idea is to perform more than promised rather than promise more than can be fulfilled.

Our stock is large and varied, consisting of Builders', Contractors', Household, Mechanics', Painters', Shoemakers', Farm, Mill, Factory, Lumbermen's, Sporting, Threshers', Cabinetmakers', and other lines of Hardware.

Sick Headache

IS a complaint from which many suffer and few are entirely free. Its cause is indigestion and a sluggish liver, the cure for which is readily found in the use of Ayer's Pills.

"I have found that for sick headache, caused by a disordered condition of the stomach, Ayer's Pills are the most reliable remedy."—Samuel C. Bradburn, Worthington, Mass.

"After the use of Ayer's Pills for many years, in my practice and family, I am justified in saying that they are an excellent cathartic and liver medicine—sustaining all the claims made for them."—W. A. Westfall, M. D., V. P. Austin & N. W. Railway Co., Burnet, Texas.

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered stomach and liver. I suffered for over three years from headache, indigestion, and constipation. I had no appetite and was weak and nervous most of the time. By using three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured."—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kansas.

"I was troubled for years with indigestion, constipation, and headache. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, used in small daily doses, restored me to health. They are prompt and effective."—W. H. Strout, Meadville, Pa.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

"I do not doubt it at all," said Wallie, meeting her look.

"Do you think I would have power to make him say, 'Well she is my sister, but she has done what was not just? You shall treat her as if she were any other woman, and I will say nothing; I will help you?'" continued the Russian, with a subtle smile.

"I really believe you might," Wallie answered. "But I can't conceive that you would care to have him do it, or care for him if he did do it."

"Ah! but with us singers it can be different," rejoined Marana, bending upon him a gaze of dark, ambiguous brilliancy. "It is much for us to know, and to prove it to the world, that we are loved beyond measure; yes, beyond honor. It is a triumph, and we love triumphs—ah! who knows how dearly? Men do all they can to ruin us, monsieur, and the world laughs and gives us no mercy. Do you not think it might be sweet to make one man your slave, so that he would do your bidding in all things and worship you?"

"Are you so much in need of a triumph of that kind?" demanded Wallie. Now, whether he intended it or not, Marana evidently interpreted the question as a covert but bitter satire. She gave a little soft laugh and arose.

"At last, then, we understand each other!" she said. "It is much easier so, is it not? You are too clever for me, M. Dinsmore; you are not a man to be deceived. Yes, in this world, as the French say, il faut accepter les hommes pour ce qu'ils sont—des moyens! We singers especially must use all things for our protection or profit. Tiens * * * drole! Did you think, for your part, you should persuade me to forgive Ma'm'selle Randolph because I make a fool of her brother? Bah! I am a business woman. Business is not sentiment, I think! Enfin, m'sieu', I have enjoyed very much the honor of your visit; foi de Marana, vous etes ambassadeur parfaitement accompli! But your little Ma'm'selle Randolph has a future already happy in the protection of a man like you; she will not grudge me the little that belongs to the true Marana! Au revoir, cher ami!"

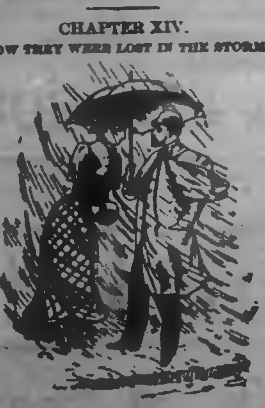
And laughing once more, she gave him her hand with a free gesture, and Wallie bowed over it with a mingling of admiration and vexation such as he was seldom kindled to. He had recognised his mistake the moment after it was irrevocable.

"Well?" said Ed, getting up with a haggard face from his chair in the smoking room as Wallie entered.

"Well," responded Wallie, "there is no doubt about one thing—she is the great Marana! I think you may as well come with me and see your sister."

CHAPTER XIV.

HOW THEY WERE LOST IN THE STORM.



"SO YOU HAVE RETURNED, MR. BELLINGHAM?"

From the Albemarle to Wallie's house was not a long distance, but it had begun to snow, and the keen northerly wind drove the flakes straight into the faces of the pedestrians and afforded Wallie a good excuse for keeping his mouth shut, or opening it only for monosyllabic answers to the questions which Ed from time to time addressed to him. With all his pains he had undoubtedly bungled the interview with the Russian star—just at the juncture, too, when he was beginning to entertain the best hopes of success. How swiftly and effectively she had turned the tables upon him! What terrible versatility and self command she had! With what a wicked roguishness had she fired that parting taunt at him about his motive in espousing her rival's cause! "At any rate I'm glad I let her have the last word!" said Wallie to himself; but that was somewhat cold comfort.

He left Ed in the drawing room and went to find Mrs. Cadwalader and Beatrix. He sent the latter to her brother and remained in conference with the former.

Beatrix came softly into the drawing room and saw Edward standing near the farther end of it with his back toward her. She paused, and remained motionless, gazing at him. Her heart went out toward him, and yet she shrank from him. She wished to be in full sympathy with him, but Marana seemed to stand between them. For when she had learned from Geoffrey's letter to Wallie that Marana was Ed's companion she had been forced to the conclusion that the relation between them must be an unlawful one, and the circumstance that Marana, rather than any other woman, should be the person holding this position had affected her with a peculiar horror. There seemed to be something wantonly repugnant in it. She might have prevented herself from definitely realizing the fact had a stranger to herself been involved; but Marana!—she had lived under her name and occupied her place so long as to make her feel that she was in some way personally mixed up in the catastrophe.

In a few moments Ed turned round and saw his sister.

VERY LIKE A MIRACLE.

An Essex Man's Lightning Cure by Faith in God.

WINDSOR, April 21.—About a year ago Francis Sweet, jr., a farmer at Gosfield, was thrown from a rig by a runaway team and sustained serious internal injuries. Latterly he was taken to his bed suffering terribly from his injuries. The attendant physician told him plainly that if his spine became affected there would be no hope for him. Last week the suffering man was so bad that his friends and family gave up all hope. His will was made and his brother James of Kingsville sent for. On Wednesday he was converted. That night and all Thursday he suffered terribly. On Thursday evening his friends and the poor man himself had given up all hopes. All thought he could not live till morning. The disease had reached his spine. His family had gathered around his bed to bid a last farewell. His wife and his brother were kneeling at the bedside praying. He was also praying. It was just 7 o'clock. Mr. Sweet says the thought struck him that surely if the Lord is able to save me He is also able to heal me. He at once put the eleventh-hour thought into practice. He prayed to God to heal him and quick as a flash he felt he was well, and he dumfounded those present by raising himself up in bed. Five minutes before he could not raise head or limb. More surprising still, next afternoon he got up, dressed himself, washed and combed unassisted and went about his regular labors around the farm, apparently as well as ever.

THE TOTTEN PREDICTION.

How He Made His Calculations as to the Second Coming of Christ.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 20.—Prof. C. A. L. Totten of the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale, who has made a mathematical calculation, founded on Biblical truths, which he says proves beyond peradventure that the Messiah will come again in 1899, said to-day:

"Some newspapers have published that I predict the end of the world within this century. That is their error, not mine. I don't think that the end will come for a million years, and I haven't made any prophecy about it at all. My remarks were neither comprehended nor even apprehended. But here is what I do declare—not prophecy, for the prophecy is already told in the Bible in the parables of the laborers in the vineyard and the virgins with their lamps.

"A generation, in its true Biblical sense, is three score and ten years—70 years—and so the 37 generations, traced through the genealogies in the Old Testament, equal 2590 years, and hence the 38th generation begins with 2591 (year of the world). The hours mentioned in the vineyard are each 133 years. So, multiplying these by the 12 hours, we have 1596, which, added to 2591, equals 5827 years of the world and the completion of the vineyard parable. Then, as the work naturally concluded at sundown, the parable of the virgins and their lamps properly follows. And this parable, according to the text, represents one generation—70 years—which, added to the 5827, makes 5897.

"Now, this 5897 A.M. (year of the world) corresponds to March, 1899. Why? For these reasons: Caesar pushed the beginning of the old Hebrew year from the autumnal equinox (in September) ahead to March. England pushed the year ahead from March to January, and Pope Exiguus mistook the beginning of 4001 for 4000 in computing the birth of Christ. We thus gained six months plus three months plus one year, which equals one and three-quarter years. Deduct from 5897 thus and we have 5895¾, the time at which the bridegroom will come and will find some of the virgins with their lamps untrimmed.

"The 5895¾ year since the birth of Adam will see the bridegroom, who of course is none other than Christ himself. Now, what is 5895¾ A.M. in our A.D. years? Herod ordered all the innocents of two years and younger to be put to death, and in a very short time after that the eclipse of the moon took place. It took place in the year 3998, according to Josephus, and Herod died in that year, too. Now Herod limited his order to children of two years, because about two years before the magi informed him of the birth of the Saviour. So Christ was born two years before the eclipse and the death of Herod took place two years before 3998, that is, 3996. So now subtract 3996 birth of Christ from 5895¾ A.M. to find the A.D. year, and you leave 1899¾ A.D., or in March, 1899, the bridegroom will come and awaken the foolish virgins.

"When you see the buds bursting you know that harvest will follow in time as a natural consequence, and he who notes the signs of the times will see that the appearance of the bridegroom is not far off. He will come again to correct the abuses of nations and individuals. He will cast out customs that conflict with his teachings. He will expurgate the nations and will establish a better order in the temporal and spiritual concerns of this world. I don't mean by this that I believe the millennium will begin in 1899. I think that is a thousand years away. I say simply that at His second coming Christ will make the world better, as He did at His first."

Touched a Live Wire and Died.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 20.—A horrible accident occurred in this city to-night in the presence of several thousand persons who had gathered at Ninth-street and Georgia-avenue to witness the Fire Department put out a small blaze in the European Hotel. Charles Werner, head hoseman of the Lookout Fire Department, was at the top of the long ladder playing a hose in the third story window, when he got a shock from a live electric wire and dropped dead to the ground before the thousands who were looking on at the fire.

A Naturalist's Fall to Death.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 20.—P. J. Cabom, a naturalist, lowered himself by means of a rope from Shag Rock, Cape Shore, in order to obtain a crow's nest. He found it impossible to regain the surface of the cliff and fell 80 feet, being killed instantly.

Arrested on a Capias.

GUELPH, April 20.—George Hutchinson, a moulder, was arrested on Saturday on a capias. It is alleged that the defendant seduced the daughter of William Goshen of Milton and intended to leave for the United States. The capias was therefore issued in order to compel the young man to remain here and stand his trial.

Death After a Lifetime in Bed.

MOUNT HOLLY, N.J., April 20.—Mrs. Mary White died here yesterday after an illness of more than 30 years, during which long period she never arose from her bed. A physician administered to her every day during her illness.

Perished on the Prairie.

WINNIPEG, April 20.—The son and daughter, aged 8 and 6, of Mr. Reimann, who went about 10 days ago from Winnipeg to a new settlement north of Calgary, were lost on the prairie. Having gone out one evening to hunt for cattle they didn't return, and though thorough search was made next day they could not be found. As a prairie fire was raging it is feared they perished.

Suicide At Port Colborne.

ST. CATHARINES, April 20.—Dolly Zavitz, 20 years old, son of a farmer living a few miles from Port Colborne, placed the butt of a rifle against the wall in his room and the muzzle to his face and touching it off with a stick, blew his brains out. Illness had affected his brain.

Where is Mr. Larmour?

PRINCETON, April 20.—The people of this village and surrounding country are much exercised over the continued absence of our G.T.R. Agent Frank Larmour, who left here some two months since with a well-filled purse for a two weeks' holidays in Uncle Sam's dominions, and to his most intimate friends his long absence is wrapt in mystery.

Accidentally Shot.

KINGSTON, April 20.—James Elliott and a few companions were walking near the cotton mill, when one of the young men began fooling with a revolver. In some way the cylinder was struck and a chamber discharged. The bullet lodged in the thigh of Elliott, lacerating the flesh seriously.

$2000 for Insisting Upon 10 Cents.

MUNCIE, Ind., April 20.—Frank Mayo, traveling salesman, who was ejected from a Lake Erie and Western passenger train for refusing, in default of a ticket, to pay 10 cents more than the regular fare, has just recovered a verdict of $2000. It is a test case.

Tried to Kill the Judge.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 20.—Sim Johnson, the negro who ravished Eva Bailey, a white girl, was sentenced to-day to be hanged. After Judge Snyder had pronounced sentence Johnson made a desperate attempt to kill the judge and was only overpowered after a desperate struggle.

Two Good Things IN

FLOUR!

1. Scale Weight.

2. First Quality.

If good flour makes good bread it follows that one sort of flour makes better bread than another.

Which sort makes best?

That depends. The best flour is the purest, the best ground, the strongest and containing the most health-giving and nourishing properties.

These good points are all found in our Flour.

Have you tried it? Perhaps yes. Perhaps no. If you have not, do so, and you may find a better flour than you have been using, and we a customer.

THOUGHT HE WAS A PORCUPINE.

The First Time He Hit It He Missed It—Other Accidents.

BELLEVILLE, April 21.—Jacob Brant and Isaac Powles, two Indians from the Mohawk Reserve, in company with others, have for some time been hunting out at Silver Lake. One of the party was shooting at a porcupine when Brant, who was near by and unobserved, received one of the shot in his leg, inflicting an ugly wound. It was necessary to travel nearly 40 miles before the injured man could be treated by a medical man, he in the meantime enduring untold agony.

A Minister Injured.

WALKERTON, April 21.—The Rev. Mr. Fatt, rector of St. Thomas Church, was thrown out of his gig, and becoming entangled in the lines was dragged some distance through the street. One of his legs was broken below the knee, other injuries being also sustained.

Defective Braces Cost a Life.

LONDON, April 21.—Owing to defective bracing an old building which was being removed at the Imperial Oil Works collapsed to-day, and a man named Nugent was struck on the head by the falling timber and probably fatally injured.

It Went Off.

SPARTA, Ont., April 21.—While Charles Miner, son of Jordan Miner, was examining a revolver yesterday it discharged, the ball striking Herman Douglas, aged 17, in the ribs, 1½ inches above the heart. He will die.

TORONTO TOPICS.

TORONTO, April 21.—Seven toll-gates in York Township were closed yesterday, the municipality having purchased the roads.

Chief Justice Galt yesterday set aside a by-law passed by the municipality of London West under the recent Local Option Liquor Act. The ground of his decision is that the Dominion, and not the Ontario Government, have the power to pass such a bylaw.

Yesterday morning on the C.P. express from the east Major General Herbert, accompanied by his aide-de-camp, Capt. Streatfeild, arrived in the city. After registering at the Queen's and breakfasting they were joined by Col. Otter, D.A.G., and Col. Dawson. The quartet visited the Drill Shed and in the evening attended the reunion of army veterans.

One of the prisoners at the assizes yesterday was Maggie Mullin for forgery. After the jury had retired to consider their verdict the young woman was seized with pains of approaching maternity and by order of the judge was sent to the hospital, where she gave birth to a babe a few hours later. She will have to be again tried on the forgery charge.

Murdered the Whole Family.

LEIPSIC, April 21.—A gardener named Damm, living in the village of Albrechtshain, murdered his wife and 4 children with a hatchet to-day and then hanged himself. He is supposed to have been made insane by financial troubles.

A Steamship Company's Collapse.

BORDEAUX, April 21.—The steam navigation company whose vessels ply between this port and New York is going into liquidation because of loss of money due to reduction of traffic, resulting from the duties imposed upon French articles of export by the McKinley Tariff Act, the French Government's virtual prohibition of American products and the increased duties placed upon American grain.

A GIGANTIC STRIKE.

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF MEN TO GO OUT MAY 1.

Labor Day Will Be a Remarkable Occasion—France, Austria, Spain and the United States to Witness a Fierce Conflict of Capital and Labor.

LONDON, April 21.—Anarchists are busy throughout Europe organizing for a general strike. In Paris, Vienna and Madrid they are distributing fiery circulars. Fifty thousand of these circulars are said to have been distributed in the barracks of Paris surreptitiously during the past week.

Meetings of workingmen were held on Sunday throughout Austria and Hungary to arrange for demonstrations. In Spain the workingmen are agitating in Barcelona, Valencia, Cadiz, Valladolid, Saragossa and other places, but the trades unions deprecate a strike on the ground that the men are unorganized and lack funds, and that by striking they will only play into the hands of the employers, besides creating a hostile feeling in the Cortes after the Government has projected important remedial measures.

All the European governments have decided to prohibit outdoor demonstrations. The employers are combining to refuse a holiday in Spain, and insist that every indoor meeting must be attended by a Government delegate.

On This Continent.

NEW YORK, April 21.—In the United States the situation is just as deplorable. The bituminous coal trade has suffered a terrible blow from the coke strike and will suffer a greater one on May 1. As far as is known up to this time the eight-hour strike of May 1 will be joined in by the 15,000 bituminous miners of the Clearfield, Huntingdon and Broad Top region and the 10,000 men in what is known as the Pittsburg district of railroad miners. The latter are distributed along the Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania and Pan Handle lines within a radius of 75 miles of Pittsburg. The 50,000 coal miners of Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Illinois are also in the movement, and most of them will make a stand for the eight-hour day.

In New York the situation is alarming, and half-a-dozen trades unions will go out of work on the refusal of an eight-hour day. At St. Louis the outlook is black. Carpenters, marblecutters, carriagemakers and others are in line with the army of strikers, and will listen to no compromise. In Baltimore the stonecutters have set their teeth in the face of employers, and unless their requisition is heard before May 1 they will, to a man, march in the fight of the idle. The situation in New England is far more bright. Boston workmen want a nine-hour day and more pay, and the smaller cities are in sympathy with the Hub. Excepting the miners the trouble does not appear to be dangerous in the cities of Ohio, Cincinnati and Cleveland.

Where the Strikers are Located.

The following table shows in figures the workmen in leading cities who will go out May 1:

Western Coal Mines:
Estimated in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and West Virginia	75,000
New York:
Bricklayers' helpers	20,000
Bricklayers	5,000
Housesmiths	3,000
Marble polishers and stone sawyers	1,500
Furniture workers	3,000
Varnishers	2,000
Machine woodworkers	600
Baltimore:
Stonecutters	2,000
Pittsburg:
Carpenters	5,000
St. Louis:
All trades (estimated)	15,000

Street Railway Employes' Strike.

DETROIT, April 21.—Conductors and drivers on some of the lines of the city street railway company struck early this morning, refusing to take out their cars. The service has been considerably crippled during the day, but little violence has been used so far and only two arrests made. Cars are running under police protection. The men hope to be able to induce those who have not yet left their cars to do so.

DIED FROM EXCITEMENT.

The Sight of His Buildings Burning Was Too Much for a Campbellford Farmer.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 21.—Fire destroyed the barns and outbuildings of John Snarr, lot 22, concession 7, township of Rawdon, yesterday afternoon. Origin unknown. In addition to the buildings there were burnt three horses, six head of cattle and six hundred bushels of grain and hay, etc. The shock proved too much for Mr. Snarr, who was aged 71, and he dropped dead between the house and barns.

P.E.I. GOVERNMENT RESIGNS.

Will Its Successor be a Liberal or a Coalition Government?

HALIFAX, April 21.—The Local Government of Prince Edward Island has resigned, but the Lieut.-Governor declined a dissolution on the advice of Premier Yeo, and sent for Frederick Peters, one of the Liberal members, for a consultation. Mr. Peters has called a meeting of the Liberal members of both Houses of the Legislature to discuss the situation.

NEWFOUNDLAND QUESTION.

The Delegates Arrive at an Amicable Understanding With Salisbury.

LONDON, April 21.—It is reported that the conferences between the Newfoundland delegates and Lords Salisbury and Knutsford have been satisfactory to all concerned and are leading the way to an agreement. It is added that Lord Salisbury has been as vacillatory towards the delegates as Great Britain's engagements with France permitted him to be. Lord Knutsford is also said to have received the delegates' suggestions in a liberal spirit.

The Newfoundland delegates are understood to have submitted proposals which have tended to greatly diminish the tension in the relations between the colony and the British Government. These proposals, it is said, while demanding the abandonment of the Knutsford Coercive Bill, show that the delegates realize this could only be done in the event of the adoption of an alternative means of insuring the faithful performance of the obligations existing between France and England.

It was also found impossible to accede to the delegates' demand for abandonment of the arbitration proposals. The ground for this refusal was that Great Britain was unable to do so on account of the definite engagements she had already entered into with France. But it is added suggestions are under consideration which it is hoped may have the effect of modifying Newfoundland's objections to the action of the British Government.

It is believed the differences between Canada and Newfoundland have been also adjusted and that Canada is supporting the policy of Newfoundland in connection with the bait question.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

A MUTINY IN THE GUARDS.

The Grenadiers Refuse to Obey Their Officers When Ordered Out On Parade—Complaints of Tyranny.

LONDON, April 21.—There is renewed and great excitement in military circles caused by a mutinous demonstration in the 3rd Battalion Grenadier Guards, in almost every particular similar to that which caused the second battalion of Grenadier Guards to be sent to Bermuda in disgrace. The Guards, who are at present at Chelsea barracks in this city, were ordered to parade in full marching order at 8 o'clock this morning. The men, who have been in a sullen frame of mind for some time, refused to obey. Then the officers consulted with the non-coms. and the latter appealed with some effect to the men, for a little later four companies formed up on the parade ground. The remaining companies, however, remained in their barrack rooms. The War Office officials were communicated with and the oldest members of the more discontented portion of the battalion, the men having the longest terms of service, were placed under arrest and an investigation into the cause of the mutiny was commenced, in order that a preliminary report upon the subject might be placed before the Duke of Cambridge, the commander-in-chief of the forces. The discontent has been growing for a long time. The men declare that they have been long subjected to a series of excessive and annoying drills for which there was no cause or reason. They assert that these alleged excessive drills were not ordered with the view of perfecting the battalion in military manoeuvres or in the manual of arms, but the men say that these drills were ordered solely for the convenience of their officers. In addition the Grenadiers say that owing to the absence of their second battalion in Bermuda all the recruits of the Grenadier Guards are sent to the first and second battalions, thus necessitating continued extra drill and consequent hard work for large numbers of well-trained experienced soldiers, who might be spared the extra trouble and annoyance if their officers exercised a little more judgment and a little more feeling for the men under their command.

The Outbreak Premeditated.

The outbreak appears to have been a premeditated affair. It was at first supposed the trouble was confined to the Guards quartered at Chelsea Barracks. It is now announced that there was also a serious display of bad feeling upon the part of a detachment of Grenadier Guards quartered at St. George's Barracks. This morning, as usual, they were ordered to parade, and after some delay did turn out, but when they appeared on the parade ground it was evident they were depressed and discontented. Three Guardsmen, however, refused to parade in spite of all arguments and were placed under arrest.

$300 DAMAGES.

Emily Jane Secures a Verdict Against an Adelaide Farmer.

SARNIA, April 21.—At the Lambton Assizes to-day a jury returned a verdict of $300 for Emily Jane Hendrick in her suit against William R. Cheney for breach of promise and maintenance of child. The parties reside in the township of Adelaide, county of Middlesex. Plaintiff is a handsome, attractive young lady and the defendant is a well-to-do farmer. The plaintiff in her evidence stated the defendant had asked her to marry him two or three times before she consented. Defendant pictured to her a brilliant future and told her about the nice home they were going to have, and she commenced to prepare her trousseau. On cross-examination Mr. Lester asked the plaintiff why it was she jilted her first lover, G. Munro, who was a very handsome, affable fellow, and why she took to the defendant. After some hesitation plaintiff admitted that part of the reason was that defendant had more money, and, she added, "He told me he liked me so much."

Secured $50 Damages.

HAMILTON, April 21.—At the assizes today A. D. Gough of Toronto sued Smith, the clothing man here, for damages for advertising a stock purchased from him as a bankrupt stock, when in reality he was quite solvent, though he disposed of his stock to Smith at 70 cents on the dollar. Plaintiff secured a verdict of $50 and costs.

LACROSSE MEN IN SESSION.

Annual Meeting of the Canadian Lacrosse Association in Toronto.

TORONTO, April 21.—Probably the largest meeting of lacrosse delegates ever held in Canada took place in the reading room of the Rossin House yesterday. Representatives were present from all sections of Ontario.

A. H. Baird, Paris; George Thompson, Orillia, and W. C. Kennedy, Toronto, the Nominating Committee, reported that new clubs, as follows, had applied for admission, recommending their election: Junior Hurons of Goderich, Gravenhurst, Puzzlers of Simcoe, Ætnas of Georgetown, Walkertons, Mechanics of Toronto Junction, Mildmays, Beauties Juniors of Clinton, Junior Beavers of Seaforth, Kingstons.

The election of officers resulted:

Hon. President—H. J. P. Good.
President—James Vance, Ingersoll.
First Vice-President—F. W. Garvin, Toronto.
Second Vice-President—M. S. Mitchell, Milton.
Secretary-Treasurer—Harry O'Loughlin, St. Catharines.

Council—C. A. Kendall, Toronto Athletics; W. Baikie, Barrie; J. A. McFadden, Stratford; S. Thompson, Orillia; A. H. Baird, Paris; W. Ross, Madoc; W. C. Kennedy, Capitals; F. Glendinning, Lornes; W. Coulter, Mechanics; A. J. Bampfield, Niagara Falls.

There are now 13 championships in connection with the C. L. A. as follows:

(a) Senior, (b) Intermediate, consisting of 11 districts, all, except two, of which were contested last year, the Excelsiors being in the Niagara and Gerry districts, where there are no district clubs at present in affiliation with this association. The council expects to witness a revival of the game there during the season.

The championships are held as follows:

Senior—Athletics of St. Kitts.
Intermediate—Excelsiors of Brampton.

District champions:

Southern—Lingars of Tilsonburg.
Southwestern—Kents of Blenheim.
Saugeen—Walkertons.
Western—Stratfords.
Southern Junior—Stratford Juniors.
Central—Excelsiors of Brampton.
Northeastern—Orillias.
Northwestern—Lornes of Mount Forest.
Eastern—Beavers of Beaverton.

Stratford was admitted to the senior series after considerable discussion. Seaforth, also of the Western district, vigorously opposed the admission, but strong speeches by Messrs. Hunter, Ross, Ballantyne and Baird with Stratford's good record caused that club's election.

Very little alteration was made to the constitution. Senior clubs must put up $100 security, while intermediate and junior teams go untaxed.

The most important change made to the playing rules was the one giving the referee the same control over field captains as players. Their removal from the field for a sufficient offence may therefore be looked for this season.

IN A HEAP OF TROUBLE.

PORTUGAL HAS A SERIOUS REVOLT ON HER HANDS.

The Officers of a Garrison on the West African Coast Murdered—King Carlos Must Also Answer to England for Firing Upon British Steamers.

LONDON, April 21.—The annual meeting of grand habitation of Primrose League (organized in honor of Lord Beaconsfield and with the purpose of propagating Conservative doctrines) was held at Covent Garden Theatre this city to-day. An immense assemblage of Conservatives, which included many of the best known men and women in England, was present. All the leaguers and their friends wore badges of primroses. Lord Salisbury, who presided, was greeted with loud and enthusiastic cheers.

The Countess of Radnor opened the meeting with singing "God Save the Queen," the audience joining in the refrain.

Lord Salisbury then addressed the meeting. He sketched the origin and growth of the Primrose League, saying it now numbered 1,000,000 members, a statement which was warmly applauded.

Referring to the political situation Lord Salisbury said that though the present aspect of affairs was encouraging the Conservatives must not doff their armor. The Irish question was one which this generation must solve. He, however, did not believe the coming general election would solve the question. Whichever way the elections went he could promise that the other party would have no rest so far as the Irish question was concerned. [Great cheers.] Lord Salisbury said that, thanks to Mr. Balfour, there had been five years of resolute government in Ireland, which country was now enjoying a state of peace and prosperity which it had not known for years. The speaker declared that he would regard Parnell's success as one of the greatest blows which the Empire could receive and the success of the anti-Parnellites would be not less injurious. They knew, said Lord Salisbury, that Parnell had the sympathy and received the support of American conspirators, while Mr. McCarthy, they were also aware, represented the secular efforts of some people who had high spiritual rank in the Romish Church. [Applause.] He thought the reverence and respect due to the bishop would disappear when they had behind them the familiar features of Mr. Schnadhorst (the organizing chief of the Central Liberal Association). Could they imagine, continued Lord Salisbury, the Archbishop of Canterbury summoning the Protestant clergy to resolve upon a change in the leadership of the Conservative party? [Laughter.] He would certainly demur at such an exercise of influence, and he would not be alone in demurring. Imagine an English clergyman denouncing from the altar every Liberal in his parish, and the London clergy leading their submissive flocks to the polls under threats of spiritual consequences in case they refused. In Great Britain this was impossible, yet the English electorate were asked to place Ireland under this hybrid secular-ecclesiastical power. In so doing they would place their brethren of the north of Ireland under a novel monstrous power from which they would receive no mercy. [Cheers.]

Lord Salisbury advised a courageous, unflagging pursuit of the objects and aims of the Primrose League. He said there were times of great danger before them. The society had a great cause to maintain. It had been raised up at a critical period of England's necessities to defend principles having the sanction of centuries and thus defeat the wild, fantastic imaginations which were leading astray many communities in many parts of the world.

THE FRENCH FLAG.

Serious Revolt in a Portuguese Dependency on the West Coast of Africa.

LONDON, April 21.—The Press Association announces that Lord Salisbury has directed the British Minister at Lisbon to demand from the Portuguese Government an immediate explanation of the seizure of British vessels at Beira, and that if the response is not satisfactory Lord Salisbury will insist upon reparation.

LONDON, April 21.—The natives of Portuguese Guinea, west coast of Africa, have revolted and have hoisted the French flag. The garrison on the island of Bisao has been overpowered and all the Portuguese officers and soldiers massacred.

The rebels on the Island of Bisao number 6000. They have had two battles with the Portuguese and have completely routed them, 400 native levies and four Portuguese officers being killed and 21 men wounded. In addition 71 men are reported missing. Reinforcements will be sent from Lisbon to the scene of the revolt.

Grave Fears of the Result.

LONDON, April 21.—A correspondent at Madrid says grave anxiety is felt there over the state of affairs in Portugal. He expresses fears that a revolution is about to break out, in which event, he says, the lives of foreign subjects will be endangered.

MORE FIGHTING IN ASSAM.

British Forces Continue to Punish the Manipuris.

SIMLA, April 21.—On Sunday the Manipuris approached near to camp and throughout that night kept up a desultory fire upon the British force without, however, doing much harm. The next morning the British force made a rapid, skilful advance upon them. The engagement was short, sharp and decisive, and the enemy was completely routed. The Manipuris had 100 killed and a number wounded; only one Englishman was killed and four were wounded. All the villages in the vicinity of the camp were burned.

Attributed to Bismarck.

BERLIN, April 21.—An anonymous pamphlet, of which Prince Bismarck is supposed to be the author, has been published in Dresden. The pamphlet is entitled "The Ruin of Austria," and among other things it suggests that Germany's truest policy is an alliance with Russia and Italy. Prince Bismarck, this publication adds, would unhesitatingly allow Russia to pursue her historically mapped-out route to Constantinople through Bulgaria if that would avert a crisis.

A Poll Tax Riot.

PALERMO, April 21.—There was a serious riot at [illegible] yesterday growing out of the opposition to the poll tax. Two thousand peasants protested against the tax and, invading the prison, released a comrade confined there. Then they marched to the communal offices, where they destroyed the records. Many [illegible] were arrested. Troops have been despatched to the scene.

Failed for $3,500,000.

LONDON, April 21.—R. & A. [illegible], [illegible] bankers and merchants of [illegible], have failed, with liabilities of [illegible] a million pounds. The failure is due to wild speculation in exchanges.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

Mrs. Vought Goes to Gaol.

There was amusement in the Police Court this morning for the crowd that always attends this seat of justice. Mrs. Vought was charged with assaulting Thomas Smith, the young son of a neighbor. It was alleged she threw boiling water on the youth. This charge was afterwards changed to that of disorderly conduct and using indecent language. Mr. and Mrs. Smith went into the witness box and told how Mrs. Vought had made herself the terror of the neighborhood and the South Ward school. She had bad names for passers-by, abused the children, had threatened to knock Mrs. Smith's brains out with a frying pan or failing in this to scald her. The Magistrate listened to the story and told Mrs. Vought that she would have to bridle her tongue. She had been in the court before and was complained of on all sides. He sent her to gaol for one month and promised the reformatory if she did not do better when she got out.

A MASONIC VISIT.

A Number of the Toronto Members of the Craft Visit Corinthian Chapter—Officers Elected.

The Masonic hall and suite of rooms on Water-st. were the scene of a most pleasant fraternal gathering last evening. A number of the members of St. Paul's Royal Arch Chapter, of Toronto, came down to pay a fraternal visit to Corinthian Royal Arch Chapter, No. 36, on the occasion of the installation of officers. It was a pleasant, happy gathering and will stand out as one of the bright spots in the history of Corinthian Chapter.

The Toronto gentlemen came down in a special Pullman attached to the 7.50 evening train on the C.P.R. They were met at the station by a deputation of the local Masons and taken to the Oriental where they had supper. The visiting Masons from Toronto numbered sixteen in all as follows:—Ex. Comp. W. G. Eakins, Z; Ex. Comp. G. F. Shepley, H.; Ex. Comp. C. Dempsey, J.; Ex. Comp. Ben. Allen, P.Z.; Ex. Comp. R. W. Hull, P. Z.; Rt. Ex. Comp. Bernard Saunders; Comp. R. C. Donald, Geo. Kapple, John A. Ross, H. Saunders, H. R. Howson, H. B. Howson, John McKnight, W. E. Clarke, F. Sparling, Geo. Keech and W. T. Deckles. Rt. Ex. Comp. Dingle, Grand Superintendent, and Ex. Com. Hallett, of Lindsay, were also present.

The installation of the officers of Corinthian Royal Arch Chapter was the principal business for the occasion. The installation was performed by Rt. Ex. Comp. E. H. D. Hall, assisted by Rt. Ex. Comp. Shortly, V. Ex. Comp. Morrow, V. Ex. Comp. O'Donnell, Ex. Comp. Winch and Ex. Comp. Rush. The officers are as follows:—

Ex. Comp. R. E. Wood	Z
" D. Spence	H
" A. St. A. Smith	J
Comp. T. E. Bradburn	Scribe E
Comp. Geo. McWilliams	Scribe N
Ex. Comp. H. Rush	P S
Comp. Chas. Wynn	S S

" R. M. Dennistoun	M 2nd V
" John McKee	M 3rd V
" John Shaw	M 4th V
Ex. Comp. D. Belleghem	Janitor

After the installation the members of the craft sat down to an excellent spread prepared by the veteran caterer Mr. W. H. Bowman. Ex. Comp. R. E. Wood presided as chairman of the feast. Speeches, songs and recitations formed a programme which made the hours speed swiftly by, the gathering being of the most happy character. Mention might be made of the songs of Comp. R. C. Donald, of Toronto, who is one of the best amateur singers in the Queen City.

When the gathering dispersed the Toronto gentlemen were escorted to their Pullman at the station, and returned immensely pleased with their visit to Peterborough. The car was attached to the early train this morning and carried the visitors home.

Encore, Encore.

Last night the school room of St. Andrew's church was prettily decorated with flowers and flags, and an excellent programme by amateur local talent was given to an attentive and appreciative audience. Rev. F. W. Paton occupied the chair. The first number was an excellent rendering of C. A. White's quartette entitled "The wolf is on the Hill," by Miss Houbeck, Miss Wrighton, Messrs. Ketcham and Ross. Miss Code followed with a pianoforte solo which was given with great taste. A "Bee Story" by Miss Gray elicited an encore because it was excellently told. The next number, a quartette by Mrs. Jones, Miss Baillie and Messrs. Jones, with orchestral accompaniment, was so well rendered that it received an encore, and was replied to by an equally beautiful quartette. Mrs. Dr. Goldsmith, with her usual good humor, gave some excellent advice against the use of tobacco. The closing number of the first part of the programme was a quartette by Miss Houbeck, Miss Wrighton, Messrs. Ketcham and Ross, entitled "Moonlight will come Again," and was encored with such marked appreciation that the quartette had to "come again" and give a comic selection which convulsed the audience with laughter. Mr. Rowse opened Part II of the programme with a well-rendered reading entitled "Trouble in the Amen Corner." A spirited vocal solo, entitled "Norman's Tower," was given in excellent voice by Mr. Knowles, who replied to an encore with "Come to My Heart." Mr. Pakenham followed with a comic reading which was so well appreciated that he had to reply with another comic selection. The next number was a beautifully rendered solo by one of Peterborough's favorites, Mrs. Daly. Then followed a brilliantly executed pianoforte duet by Miss Wrighton and Mr. Clark. Mr. Drope sang "Love's Old, Sweet Song," with great taste. The closing number on the programme was a fine chorus excellently rendered by the choir. The musical committee desire to thank those who so kindly lent their assistance, and also Mr. Jackson for the use of the piano. This excellent entertainment will at some future date be followed by another of a similar character.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 22, 1891.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

Sincere Sympathy.

Georgie Mabel, the only daughter of Mr. John McKee, druggist, died yesterday afternoon, a victim of diphtheria. The child was a bright little girl of eleven years, and her parents will have much sympathy in their bereavement.

Was Given a Chance.

Wm. Simons, another begging tramp with a scar on one of his hands which he used to work upon the sympathetic public, was locked up last night. At the Police Court he pleaded hard and was given three minutes to leave town or he would go up to keep his fellow wanderers' company who went to gaol yesterday.

An Irish Delegate.

Mr. Wm. Redmond, M.P., one of the Parnellite delegates to America, was in Ottawa yesterday and a number of the Peterborough gentlemen who were at the capital on Trent Valley canal business had the pleasure of meeting him. Mr. Redmond was paying a short visit to Canada, and he may return later with his colleagues.

Changed Hands.

The confectionery business of the late Fred Hall has been purchased by Mr. John Watt, formerly of Hall's Biscuit Works. The premises have been thoroughly overhauled and newly painted and presents a very inviting appearance, while the stock is new and tastefully arranged. Mr. Watt is an adept in the manufacture of confectionery, etc., and will no doubt be successful in his new venture.

After suffering horribly for years from scrofula in its worst form, a young son of Mr. R. L. King, 706 Franklin-st., Richmond, Va., was recently cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. No other medicine can approach this preparation as a cleanser of the blood.

Military Matters.

The officers of the 57th Battalion had a meeting last night, but no business was transacted, an adjournment being made for one week.

Major Hodgins, of the Governor-General's Foot Guards, Ottawa, will be here on Saturday to make some preliminary arrangements in regard to the visit of the Foot Guards to Peterborough on the 24th of May. Several of the companies are ready for drill, and it is probable that next week battalion drill will be commenced. It is expected that the ranks in all the companies will fill up rapidly this year.

Thin and impure blood is made rich and healthful by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. It cures scrofula, salt rheum, all blood disorders.

Weather and Crop Notes.

Mr. Thos. Telford sends the following weather notes for publication:—During the past six days the weather has been fine and uniform, taking morning 2 p.m. and night added, making from 125 degrees to 131 degrees. But again yesterday morning at sunrise crystal jacket made his appearance as saying "aha, I am here again," with the thermometer at 4 degrees below the freezing point. But, as every dog has his day, so had he. At 9 a.m. it stood at 40 degrees in the shade, 11 at 50 degrees, at 1 p.m. at 64 degrees and 3 p.m. at 70 degrees. Exit my fine white fellow. Inquiries are often being made regarding the spring and early sowing. On the 16th of April, 1888, I commenced sowing wheat in a new fallow. On the 15th of April, 1889, I commenced sowing wheat on one of my oldest fields and some of my neighbors had a few days start of me and on the 24th of April, 1890, I commenced sowing. I am satisfied none have sown yet, although no doubt on the 1st of June our crops will be as far advanced as during any of the above years.

Do you wear impermeable and tight-fitting hats that constrict the blood-vessels of the scalp. Use Hall's Hair Renewer occasionally, and you will not be bald.

THE CANAL TO BE BUILT.

IT WILL BE COMPLETED.

A LARGE DEPUTATION WAITS UPON THE DOMINION MINISTERS.

A Large Section of Ontario Sends Representative Men to Ottawa—The Case Ably Presented—An Encouraging Reply From Sir John Macdonald.

A large deputation from the Midland District waited upon the members of the Dominion Government at Ottawa yesterday in regard to the completion of the Trent Valley Canal. The deputation was a most representative as well as a large one. The case for the canal was ably presented by delegates, and the reply of Sir John Macdonald was encouraging, for he voiced the opinion of the Government that the canal must and will be built, and that Parliament should be asked at the coming session to go on with the work. The members of the deputation were pleased with the affable manner in which they were received, and with the result of their visit.

The representatives from Peterborough town and county, together with delegates from the north, left Peterborough in the morning on the 12.12 Canadian Pacific train. At the Central Ontario Junction they were reinforced by a large delegation from Trenton, who had come out on a special on the Central Ontario Railway. After arriving in Ottawa, other delegates from the north joined the deputation.

At Mr. Stevenson's suggestion Mr. McCarthy was appointed as one speaker, and the others selected, on motion, were Messrs. John Carnegie, W. H. Bennett, D. R. Murphy and E. F. Pepler.

INTERVIEW WITH THE MINISTERS.

The interview with the Ministers took place at four o'clock in the afternoon in the office of the Minister of Railways and Canals in the western departmental block.

The members of the Government present were Sir John A. Macdonald, Premier and Minister of Railways and Canals, Sir Hector Langevin, Minister of Public Works, Hon. John Carling, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Customs. Mr. T. Trudeau, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, was also present. The deputation was introduced to the Ministers by Mr. Stevenson, M.P.

THE DEPUTATION'S VIEWS.

Mr. D. R. MURPHY, of Trenton, first addressed the Ministers. He said that the Premier was probably acquainted with the greater number of the members of the deputation, which was one that was eminently representative of the district from Georgian Bay to Trenton. He assured the Ministers that the deputation came in no hostile spirit, but the strength of the delegation showed that the people took a deep interest in the completion of the canal. Another object they had in being present was to thank the Government for the interest they had taken in the project in the past and for its promises of work to be done. He outlined the history of the canal, from its commencement as a military work, until the Order-in-Council was passed in 1870 to hand over the works to the Provincial Government. He complimented the Premier and the Government for rescinding that Order-in-Council, an act that was an evidence that the Government favored the construction of the canal. He referred to the visit of Sir Charles Tupper to the canal district in 1882, when he promised the construction of the canal and to the work which had since been done in carrying out that promise, which showed the friendly interest the Government took in the work. The canal would, he pointed out, be of great benefit to the through traffic from the Northwest in shortening the distance to the seaboard. He also referred to the report of the commissioners appointed by the Government to enquire into the project, which had completely met the objections that had been urged against the canal and which would justify the Government in going on with the work. He thought the section between Trenton and Frankford would be a good one to take up first, and reminded the Ministers that the district interested deserved consideration from them.

Mr. W. H. BENNETT, of Midland, was the next speaker. He dwelt upon the great advantage the canal would be in carrying grain from the west to Lake Ontario. This canal, he said, was the only great work that Ontario had asked from the Government. The lumber industry would also be benefited by the waterway, and another advantage would be that the barges which took down lumber would bring back coal. That would benefit the Nova Scotia coal mines and also the manufacturing interests in the towns on the line of the canal, such as the important industries in Peterborough that used a great deal of coal.

Mr. JOHN CARNEGIE, of Peterborough, referred to the natural advantages of the route. For the greater part it was a natural waterway requiring only comparatively trifling work in deepening shallows and removing obstructions. On the completed Trent Valley route there would only be 150 miles of canal, while there was 350 on the Erie, and on the Hudson route there was 145 miles open water as compared with 280 on the Trent. The canal would be in an advantageous position for securing the trade of the great lakes as compared with Buffalo. The ports on Georgian Bay were deep enough to allow any vessel on the lake to enter. For the last three years grain was carried from Chicago, Duluth and Port Arthur at a less rate than to Buffalo, and in that particular this route would be in as good a position as Buffalo. The rate was under two cents a bushel. The locks already constructed were 50 per cent. larger than those on the Erie. Judging from the traffic on the Erie canal, what, he asked, could be expected from this canal? On the Erie a steam barge was used that cost $7,500, and barges on which $2,000 was paid and $2,000 in instalments. The steam barge shoved one barge and towed two. The fleet would carry 45,000 bushels and the capital invested would be 80 cents per bushel capacity. The life of a barge was from twelve to fifteen years, and allowing for provision for a sinking fund for replacement and for all expenses and interest on investment, by carrying freight one way at one dollar a ton there would be a margin of $815 for contingencies. Two cents a bushel on grain would give a reasonable margin. And besides carrying out freight the barges would bring in freight at water rates. The gain in freight rates would be $2.40 a ton on pig iron, and six cents a bushel on every bushel of wheat grown in the Trent Valley district. One estimate placed the quantity of grain grown in the district at 16,000,000 bushels and another at 24,000,000. If the gain should be only three cents a bushel on 20,000,000 bushels, it would equal a gain of 6 per cent. on $10,000,000. He had made a calculation, and from the most antagonistic point of view, of a barge going from Peterborough or Lindsay with 250 tons of freight down and 150 back, and it could be carried at $1.50 a ton instead of up to $2.50 as was paid now. There would be no difficulty in these barges going to New Haven and bringing back coal, which was an important item to the people of the district. Another important point was that he believed the barges would bring as return freight the lower province coal, and the coal of Nova Scotia would by that means find a market that much farther west. The canal would also have a great effect on the timber resources. The evidence of Mr. Boyd showed that there was an immense quantity of timber, now a burden to the settler, that would become valuable and give employment to a large number of men when the canal was built. He combatted the notion that the days of waterways were over, and pointed out that the whole capital for a fleet of barges would not be as great as for a large lake vessel. The Trent route was a necessity for the development of the Welland route. The vessels in the dull season would bring the grain by the Welland and in the busy season would discharge their cargoes into the Trent barges, and the Trent route would give an outlet for the traffic. They ought to have a Buffalo up on Georgian Bay, and a waterway through the country that would develop it. He was satisfied that when the members of the Government examined the evidence given before the commission they would be convinced that a good case had been made out for the canal. Even as a local work it would pay well for the $10,000,000 it was said it would cost.

MAYOR PEPLER, of Barrie, said the commission had reported on the feasibility of the canal, its local aspect and its national aspect, and was favorable on all three points, and he did not, therefore, propose to say much on the general work. This canal was not a small matter. Nine counties adjoined its route, there would be 1,000 miles of shore line, and the population tributary to it was half a million. It was a Dominion work, a through route for traffic, and the whole Dominion was interested in it. It would cheapen the rates on wheat from the west and on coal from Nova Scotia. Montreal should be interested in the work, for it would be of benefit to that city. It cost now to ship grain from Barrie to Toronto, a distance of 60 miles, seven cents a bushel, and if the canal were built they could send grain to Liverpool for the same sum, this estimate being based on the ocean and Erie canal rates. The rate on lumber was $2.00 per thousand, while lumber was carried from Buffalo to New York by the Erie canal for $1.25, and the rate on iron from Montreal was over 60 cents per 100 lbs. on less than a car load. These were startling facts and a remedy was required. A railway commission had been proposed, but a more practical remedy would be to provide water competition. With reference to the section between Balsam lake and lake Simcoe, they were anxious that, while the Government should do the whole work, a portion of that section should be done concurrently with the other sections. Four counties were adjacent to the Simcoe waters and it sent out an immense quantity of lumber and other produce annually. One suggestion was to take up one section first, and another was to take up the whole work at once and of every million dollars expended to appropriate $375,000 for each of the eastern sections and $250,000 to the western. He had no idea of suggesting to the Government what they should do in that regard, but he mentioned this to show the line of thought of the delegates. The Georgian Bay section was a very important one, but he felt the force of the commission's recommendation of a survey of that section before work was done upon it.

Mr. DALTON MCCARTHY, M. P., said he simply desired to impress upon the Government the importance of the work, though that was probably not necessary because the Government had taken up the work and it was not too much to assume that it was a work the Government was committed to and that it would be constructed as rapidly as the finances would permit. He had been one of those who thought the days of canals were past, but an examination of the question had shown him the great importance of the Erie Canal to the trade of the United States. Over thirty per cent. of the grain and of the heavy commodities that reached New York went over the Erie Canal, while sixty per cent. of the western grain that reached that port went by the same route. Canada had, no doubt, spent a large sum of money on its canal system, and the canals had operated as a check on railway freight rates. He submitted with the greatest confidence that this canal had many advantages, notwithstanding the Welland, and that it would reduce through freight rates. Apart from that, the evidence demonstrated that merely as a local work it should be built. He had supported the Government in opening the Northwest. He did it from a national standpoint, and no one would wish it undone, but it had diminished the value of grain here, and the Trent Valley route was supportable as a great Ontario scheme that would give better rates for the export of grain. What they asked was to have the canal built in the same way as the Canadian Pacific railway had been constructed, by commencing at both ends and pushing it rapidly to completion.

THE PREMIER'S REPLY.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD was warmly received on rising to address the deputation. He was very glad, he said, to meet this important delegation from an important part of Ontario. That the canal was of great importance he was certainly not in a position to deny, because his vote had been given in favor of the grants made. The work that had been done was not useless, as had been said, without the whole canal being constructed, for it had been of large local benefit. The scheme, however, was altogether imperfect until the whole line had been constructed. The votes that had been obtained for the canal had not been obtained without a great deal of difficulty, for rival interests had been aroused to activity to oppose the grants. An argument used against the canal—not, however, on his side of the House, he was glad to say—was that the day of canals was past. The statement of the enormous expense of the canal had also been pressed by rival systems and by representatives from distant parts of the Dominion who feared an increase in the debt. In consequence of these representations and of the very strong underground opposition to the canal, the Government appointed the royal commission, and appointed men who, he believed, were capable of looking into the matter. Their ability had not been questioned, and it certainly would not be by this deputation, for they had reported favorably on the canal. It was true that Ontario had seen, and with pleasure, the expenditure on the Canadian Pacific railway. But it must not be forgotten that that road ran through Ontario from one end to the other, and had opened up a large extent of this province and a vast quantity of mineral wealth formerly unknown or unavailable. The canal system of the Dominion was largely in Ontario. There had been larger expenditure in the maritime provinces than would be according to population, but Ontario did not grudge it. In regard to the speedy completion of the canal, it was a question of expenditure and was one for Parliament and upon which the Minister of Finance would have to be consulted. No one would wish to impair the financial credit of the Dominion. Notwithstanding the increase in the debt the credit of the country was better now than it ever was, and it was important for Canada and for its future not to impair that credit. In asking for any grant the Government had to satisfy the members of Parliament, the people generally and the money market. The Government, he proceeded to say, believed that this was a work that must be built—that it was a work that would be built. He was afraid that an expression by Mayor Pepler that the canal would be free of duties would injure the prospects of the canal in the House. The Maritime Province people objected to the low fees on the canals and the deficits upon them, but they as Ontarians answered by referring to the deficit on the Intercolonial railway. He agreed with Mr. McCarthy as to the value of the canals as regulators of rates. Even in winter they had that effect, for if in winter the railway rates were too high the grain would be stored until navigation opened. The report of the commission, without which they could not venture to go before Parliament, was not yet before the House. It would, with the evidence, be laid before the House, and the members would read it and disseminate it. With the able and influential representatives in Parliament from the canal district which they had, there was a guarantee that the matter would be pressed, and he hoped successfully, upon Parliament. He could not say what section would be taken up first. As to completing the canal as rapidly as the Canadian Pacific has been constructed, he was afraid that was more to be hoped for than expected, but he believed Parliament would make a grant that would carry the work on successfully.

On motion of Mr. D. R. MURPHY, seconded by Mr. SIMMONS, a vote of thanks was tendered the Premier and his colleagues for the way the deputation had been received and for the encouragement given. The delegates then withdrew.

The Peterborough delegates, with others who traveled on the same train, left Ottawa at 12.45 in the evening and arrived here at 6 o'clock this morning.

CASH HARDWARE STORE.

On and after 1st April we shall do business on a Cash Basis.

To cover the inevitable losses attendant upon a credit business, which accrue from amount of time spent in keeping accounts, collecting, bad debts, interest account, and in numerous other ways, larger margins of profit must be asked.

In these times cash buyers ask, expect and are entitled to close prices. A careful consideration of the subject convinces us that the time has come for a cash business done on smaller profits.

The only customers who may be put to inconvenience are those who have had long credit. In more ways than one it will be to their advantage to pay cash.

For convenience of our old customers who consider their accounts due when presented, we will call 30 days cash and render all accounts the first of each month, and we wish to say that we will be happy to do business with them on these terms.

As the new departure is something of an experiment, what would be considered a close cash price will be made all through the stock. Not a few leaders only, but a general reduction in everything from the fourth flat to the cellar.

Our idea is to perform more than promised rather than promise more than can be fulfilled.

Our stock is large and varied, consisting of Builders', Contractors', Household, Mechanics', Painters', Shoemakers', Farm, Mill, Factory, Lumbermen's, Sporting, Threshers', Cabinetmakers', and other lines of Hardware.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

AMENDMENTS TO THE MINING LEGISLATION PROMISED.

The Ontario Insurance Act and "the Jack"—Courts to Sit on Holidays—Grants to Protestant and Catholic Schools.

TORONTO, April 21.—A deputation of parties interested in mining waited upon the Government yesterday to protest against the proposed Mining Act, and laid before the Government the grievances complained of at a recent convention held in Toronto. They submitted this memorandum as expressing the opinion of the meeting:

1. It was inexpedient and would injure the country and the mining industries of the province in their present condition to subject the products of any of the mines, whether located on sold or unsold lands within the province, to any royalty or special tax.

2. The patent should carry to the grantee, subject to such conditions for development as may be imposed, the absolute unlimited fee without reservation, except as to merchantable pine.

3. The price of mining locations in surveyed territory within five miles of any constructed line of railway or provided road should not exceed $4 per acre, and outside of such belt should not exceed $2 per acre, and in unsurveyed territory within five miles of such railway or road as aforesaid the price should not exceed $3 per acre, and outside of such belt should not exceed $2 per acre.

4. That the laws applicable to mining should, as far as possible, be general and that the laws of the province relating to mines and mining should as soon as possible be simplified and consolidated.

Mr. Mowat said the matter had already received serious consideration and would continue to do so. The deputation then withdrew.

Mr. Gibson's bill to amend the Ontario Insurance Act by providing that a company shall not be liable for any loss occasioned by the use on the insured premises of a steam engine within 100 feet of a barn or stack met with strong opposition from representatives of rural constituencies in the Assembly yesterday. The bill was introduced at the instance of the Fire Underwriters' Association. Mr. Gibson said that in cases where the engine could not be placed at a distance of 100 feet straightaway the farmer could use an instrument called a "jack," by which power can be transmitted round a corner. Mr. Awrey said the bill had a wider scope than the promoter dreamed—[laughter],—that a "jack" costs about $75, and as it was estimated that there were over 2000 engines in use the bill would involve an expenditure of $150,000 on "jacks"—a very good thing for the "jack" company. Mr. Bishop showed that of 1100 fires in 1888 5 were caused by such engines and of 1000 in 1889 6 were caused by them, while each year more fires were caused by tobacco pipes. [Laughter.] "Mr. Speaker, I think there is something behind this bill which is not on the face of it." [Laughter.] That settled it. The debate was adjourned on the motion of Mr. Fraser.

Mr. Meredith, in moving the second reading of his bill to provide that courts shall not sit on Christmas, New Year's and other holidays, and that the business of courts shall not be continued after 6 p.m., said he would be satisfied if the House assented to the principle of the bill, and would not press it any further this session.

Mr. Mowat, however, was opposed to the bill and refused to allow it to be read a second time. The vote for the second reading resulted 35 yeas, 49 nays. The division was on party lines, except that Messrs. Biggar, Guthrie and Paton supported the bill.

In committee of supply the item of $128,-[illegible] for hospitals and charities, an increase of $6879 over last year, raised a discussion upon the grants made to Roman Catholic and Protestant institutions respectively. Mr. H. E. Clarke pointed out that 39 Protestant charitable institutions received $17,014, having 1761 Protestant inmates and 85 Catholic inmates. Nineteen Roman Catholic charitable institutions received $28,160, having 94 Protestant inmates and 3383 Roman Catholic inmates. The total grant to 17 general hospitals was $67,088, with 5118 Protestant inmates and 2359 Roman Catholic inmates. The Roman Catholic population of the Province is about 350,000 and the Protestant population about 1,800,000. It might be expected that the grant to Protestant charitable institutions would be five times that to Roman Catholic ones, but instead it was $11,000 less. There were 1855 Protestants and 3381 Roman Catholic inmates. The only explanation could be that there was a different system of enumeration in the two classes of institutions. The inspector should make some inquiry into the mode of enumeration.

Mr. Fraser said the discussion was sprung upon them without notice and therefore an absolute answer could not be given at once. But the grants were given under the statute and the machinery for calculating the grants was the same in all institutions. He did not know whether the attention of the inspector had been called to these figures but he was satisfied the details would bear the closest scrutiny. The reason of the apparent disparity in the number of inmates was that the religious minority of the Province was not so well off, especially in the large centres of population. The institutions were called sectarian, but anyone could obtain admission. There was not one institution that was exclusively religious in that sense. Whatever the reason for the difference might be, it could not be charged that the returns were improperly made.

The special committee on the bill respecting undertaking, embalming and organic chemistry struck out all clauses of a compulsory character. As the bill will go to the House it will provide simply for the establishment of the college with powers to grant diplomas and registration certificates. The penalty for the unauthorized use of the title of fellow of the college is fixed at $20 for a first offence and $50 for a second, half of the fines to go to the prosecutor and half to the college. The right of registration is extended to all undertakers and embalmers at present practising in Ontario.

The directors of the Ontario, Belmont & Northern Railway Co. waited upon the Government and asked for a grant of $25,000, or $2000 per mile for their road, which will connect with the existing lines and run to the northern portion of Belmont Township, Peterboro County.

Caught 'Em Too Late

LONDON, April 21.—Philip Levi, the insolvent Dundas-street clothier, was arrested here last night by Detective Carpenter of Montreal on a warrant charging him with obtaining goods under false pretences from the firm of Horsfall & Co., wholesale dealers of Montreal. The goods are valued at $2900 and were obtained a few months since. The detective and the accused left for Montreal last night.

A FLINT MINE.

Important Discovery on Pilgrim Island, Province of Quebec.

MONTREAL, April 21.—What is claimed to be an important discovery in the mining world has been made on Pilgrim Island, seven miles from Riviere Du Loup, in the shape of a silex mine which is the first of the kind found in Canada. A delegation of leading citizens from that place passed through the city yesterday on their return from New York, where they succeeded in interesting a number of capitalists with the object of exploring this mine, which is said to be most valuable. Factories for manufacturing glassware will, if certain concessions are made, be established at Riviere du Loup, where there is magnificent water power. It is claimed that the Local Government will grant a liberal subsidy.

Woman may never be elected to Parliament, but she will ever maintain the position of Speaker of the House.

There is a man in Indiana who takes thirty-two newspapers, and you might as well try to ride a whirl-wind on a side-saddle as to attempt to impose upon that man.

The champion "belt" was given John L. Sullivan—over the head—the other day, by a slender, wiry brakesman on a Southern railroad, who wouldn't take any of his "man."—Texas Siftings.

Never Thought of Them Before.

Mrs. Davis one day last week, called at the house of her friend Mrs. Dorset, and found her in a desperate condition. Her temper was not an angelic one, and Mrs. Davis, who was ever ready to pour oil on troubled waters, said: "Mrs. Dorset, do you wish to live long and be happy?" "Indeed I do Mrs. Davis; and find I have all I need to reach these two points but one thing." "And what is that you lack to attain this happiness Mrs. Dorset?" "Simply, Mrs. Davis, a dye that will color properly and give good results. I have just spoiled some lovely silk by using a miserable dye that my druggist recommended to me." "Ah! Mrs. Dorset you require to use Diamond Dyes to make your happiness complete. They will never cause you to worry or fret." "Many thanks Mrs. Davis, I really never thought of them, being almost a novice in housekeeping, but for the future, I'll only use the Diamond Dyes."

A Blind Editor Charged with Libel.

BRAMPTON, April 21.—Editor Mungovan of The Orangeville Post was before the magistrate here yesterday, charged with criminal libel preferred by John Willoughby of Charleston. Mr. Mungovan was committed for trial. The case will likely be tried at the spring assizes here. Bail was accepted. Mr. Mungovan is stone blind.

Collapse of the Plan of Campaign.

DUBLIN, April 21.—At a meeting of the Tenants' Defence League here to-day Mr. Redmond stated that a continuance of the Plan of Campaign was impossible in view of the fact that with the exception of the fund now held in Paris there was no money with which to continue the warfare against the landlords.

Threatening to Kill.

This serious offence might well be charged against that prevalent disease Constipation, which threatens to destroy many valuable lives if not stopped. It arises from wrong action of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, and causes Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Bad Blood, Boils, Pimples, Rashes, Eruptions, Sores and Foul Tumors. It can only be cured by the prompt use of the right remedy, Burdock Blood Bitters, which never fails to cure even the most obstinate cases and is a specific for all diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels and Blood. Thousands testify. Read and learn.

DEAR SIRS,—I suffered with constipation and headache, and having taken a bottle of B.B.B. on trial, found it doing so much good that I sent for several more and it proved a sure cure. I use it in my family and feel safe in recommending it to my friends.

A BAD HUMOR CURED.

$5000 Expended on Doctors and Medicine Without Avail. Gave Himself up to Die.

Good Wife Suggests Cuticura Remedies. Uses them 7 Months, and is entirely Cured.

I was in the war during 1862-64, and took a heavy cold at Gettysburg, from which I never fully recovered. In 1876 I broke out in sores all over my chest and shoulder, which seemed impossible to cure. I tried all the famed doctors I could find, and to no avail. I expended some five thousand dollars trying to find a cure, but could not, and finally giving myself up to die, my good wife suggested to me, one day, to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES which were so extensively advertised and used. I followed her suggestion, and am happy to say by diligent application of your CUTICURA REMEDIES for seven months I was entirely cured, after spending five years of time and money without avail, and am a sound and well man to-day. You may refer to me if you wish, as I will tell any one who may call on me my experience.

Two Good Things IN

FLOUR!

1. Scale Weight.

2. First Quality.

If good flour makes good bread it follows that one sort of flour makes better bread than another.

Which sort makes best?

That depends. The best flour is the purest, the best ground, the strongest and containing the most health-giving and nourishing properties.

These good points are all found in our Flour.

Have you tried it? Perhaps yes. Perhaps no. If you have not, do so, and you may find a better flour than you have been using, and we a customer.

CANOEISTS DROWNED.

TRAGIC OCCURRENCE IN BURLINGTON BAY.

Three Members of the Hamilton Leander Rowing Club Thrown from Their Boat by a Sudden Squall and Two of Them Drowned.

HAMILTON, April 22.—A sad drowning accident occurred on Hamilton Bay this evening which has cast a gloom over aquatic circles in this city. Three young men belonging to the Leander Rowing Club, named F. W. Oxenham, L. Campbell and D. Stuart McInnes were out for a sail in one of the club's canoes about 4.30 this afternoon, and when about half a mile from shore a squall came up suddenly and capsized the craft, dumping all three into the water. McInnes, who is a good swimmer, managed to keep afloat until rescued, but the other two sank from sight and were drowned. Oxenham was a clerk in the office of the Canada Life Assurance Co. and Campbell, who came from Toronto a short time ago, is employed in the Bank of Hamilton. McInnes is also an employe of the Bank of Hamilton and lives in Park-street south. Neither of the young men are married. The bodies have not yet been recovered.

ATE HIS BROTHER.

Horrible Act of a Madman as Reported from a Cuban Town.

HAVANA, April 22.—News has been received here of a horrible affair which recently happened at Macaigua. A madman attacked his little brother with a knife, cutting off his head and otherwise mutilating him in the most terrible manner. He then proceeded to eat portions of the body and had devoured the fingers, liver, heart and eyes when discovered. In reply to questions why he had committed the horrible deed the madman declared that his brother had died and that he was making an autopsy on the boy's body.

A Father's Awful Crime.

OTTAWA, April 22.—William Evans, a coachman of Lyon-street, was captured by Policeman Flannigan at 3 o'clock this morning, after a hard chase, and run into the station. The charge against him is that of an attempted outrage upon his own 15-year-old daughter, whom he threatened with death if she made any outcry.

The Sky Darkened by June Bugs.

GREEN CASTLE, Ind., April 22.—A strange sight was seen here last evening. A loud, roaring sound was heard and heavy black clouds were observed passing rapidly over the city. Upon close observation it was found that the clouds were composed of millions of bugs, about one inch in size. They passed from the west to the east, and the noise of their combined wings made as much sound as an express train at full speed.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., April 22.—The members of the new Government were sworn in to-day as follows: F. Peters, president of council; R. McLean, Alex. Laird, P. Sinclair, D. Farquharson, J. W. Richards and T. Kickham. The departmental officers will be appointed after the House adjourns probably to-morrow.

WHOLESALE MASSACRES.

THE GREAT POWERS HAVE TROUBLE WITH THEIR SUBJECTS.

Barbarous Treatment of a British Envoy by the King of Gambia—England Sends an Answer in the Shape of Gunboats—The Situation in Manipur.

SIMLA, April 22.—It is thought but few facts connected with the advance of the British forces upon Manipur will be given out for publication until a decisive engagement has been fought. It is known, however, that the advance of the British has been considerably delayed by bad roads and that the troops have found the advance posts of the enemy abandoned. It is expected the Manipuris are retreating to some position where they can make a determined stand against the British. The Manipuris, it is said, have 63 prisoners whom they are holding as hostages. The advancing troops found the headless bodies of three Goorkhas who had evidently escaped death or capture at Manipur but had been afterwards overtaken by the Manipuris.

A KINDLY KING.

How the Native King of Gambia Treated a British Envoy.

LONDON, April 22.—Advices from Bathurst, the capital of Gambia, the British West African colony, show that Great Britain has another "little war" upon her hands. The native King of Gambia has for some time been misbehaving and the colony has suffered by his depredations. The British Administrator, Gilbert T. Carter, C.M.G., sent an envoy to the king with an intimation that if he didn't stop he would taste some marine "cold steel." His sable majesty for reply seized the envoy, had him bound and portions of his cheeks and thighs cut out by the body guard. Later the envoy and the pieces were sent back to the Administrator along with the significant missive, "This is the king's answer." A suitable reply has been arranged for by the British. Three gunboats have already ascended the Gambia River.

A MADAGASCAR MASSACRE.

Fifty-seven Hova Soldiers, the Governor and Thirteen Customs Officials Slain.

MARSEILLES, April 22.—The latest mails from Madagascar bring a report that the Sakalavas of Marrombo have massacred the Governor of Tubear and 57 Hova soldiers, after the Sakalava King had promised the Governor an audience.

The victims' bodies were horribly mutilated. Thirteen Hova customs officers were also murdered. The inhabitants of Tubear fled in terror to the French colony on the Island of Nossi-Be, near Madagascar. At last accounts a French gunboat was cruising along the Madagascar coast waiting for Hova reinforcements.

To Punish the Rebels.

LISBON, April 22.—An expedition to punish the rebels of Portuguese Guiana will start at once from Angola. Warships have left here to join the expedition.

Armed Bands on Bulgaria's Frontier.

VIENNA, April 22.—Armed bands of [illegible] and refugee Bulgarians are appearing in the Dobrudscha and the Roumanian Government, evidently friendly to Russia, is not interfering with them. The Roumanian army is being armed with the same weapons as the Russian and Russian officers are permitted freely to inspect the troops and fortresses. It is reported that a secret treaty is in negotiation between Russia and Roumania, which would place at the disposal of Russia nearly 200,000 Roumanian troops and a small but effective fleet.

The Ever-Recurring Sad Accident.

LONDON, April 22.—Two young sons of ex-Mayor Stafford of Leicester were playing with a revolver yesterday in a bedroom. Cecil, the elder, ignorant that the weapon was loaded, pointed it at his brother Roy and pulled the trigger. The pistol was discharged and the bullet struck the younger boy in the head, inflicting a grievous wound. Cecil, thinking he had killed his brother and overcome with remorse, turned the weapon against himself, fired and fell a corpse to the floor. The mother rushed to the bedroom and found both of her children weltering in their blood upon the floor.

Can Go Gunning Without a Band.

ROME, April 22.—The Italian Government proposes to abolish the use of brass bands in the army. They are pronounced not only very expensive but useless, the theory that the men derive inspiration from their martial melodies being rejected by the military authorities.

A MAD WOLF'S WORK.

Thirty-two Persons Bitten by a Ferocious Beast Will be Sent to Pasteur.

VIENNA, April 22.—A despatch from Czernowitz, capital of the Duchy of Bukowina, says that a mad wolf has spread terror and dismay among a number of families inhabiting a village near that town. The wolf ran amuck through the village, biting, or trying to bite any person, male or female, who came across his path. During the course of his mad rage the animal bit, more or less severely, 32 people. A number of them, all of them if possible, will be sent to Paris for treatment under the Pasteur system.

It Is Costly to Die in Mexico.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., April 22.—The body of Len T. Smith, who died suddenly last Tuesday of heart disease in the City of Mexico, arrived here to-day. The funeral will take place to-morrow. The Mexican State Department compelled the friends to pay $150 to remove the corpse, and the undertaker extorted $681 for his services.

The Cowboy and the Still.

CALGARY, April 22.—While mounted police were searching the premises of Stebbs, a cowboy near here, they discovered a whisky still which had been in recent operation.

A TRAGEDY OF THE STRIKE.

Accidentally Killed Her Lover at Whose Side She Was Fighting Like a Tigress.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 22.—Officers who went to Adelaide to-day to evict strikers were overpowered and driven away. Later they were reinforced by Sheriff McCormick and a large posse and returned to the scene. A pitched battle then took place between the posse and 500 Hungarians, men and women. A Hungarian girl was killed, and others, including several deputies, were injured. It is said the girl was accidentally killed by a bullet from a pistol discharged by her lover, at whose side she was fighting like a tigress. The same bullet wounded Sheriff McCormick's thumb. But for the arrival of C Company every deputy would have been injured, if not killed.

Pinkerton Men for the Coke Regions.

PITTSBURG, April 22.—Four carloads of Pinkerton guards arrived in the coke regions to-day. All were heavily armed. It is thought that these men will take the place of the militia. Last night unknown persons on the hills surrounding Morewood fired several shots, but they could not be located.

The Detroit Street Car Strike.

DETROIT, April 22.—The City Street Railroad Company are running their cars with much difficulty and irregularity to-day. There have been some collisions between strikers and new hands. Some cars were ditched or thrown across the tracks, but still the company is keeping cars moving with policemen on platforms and at the barns. The company have appealed to the Mayor for protection. The strikers' pickets have induced many of the men to quit.

A STRANGE ACCIDENT.

A Markham Youth Probably Fatally Injured in a Peculiar Manner.

MARKHAM, April 22.—Wilmot, son of Mr. Richard Reeves, baker, was romping with some girls in the yard last evening and jumped over the fence close to where a young lad named Killet sat whittling a stick. When he landed on the sidewalk he stumbled and fell across Killet's lap with his whole weight on the knife-blade, which penetrated his left side, the point barely touching his heart. Dr. Shaw, who was called, pronounced the wound a serious one.

LANSING, Mich., April 22.—In the Common Pleas Court to-day Miss Rhoda J. Pratt, formerly private secretary to the Adjutant-General of Michigan, was given a verdict of $8,000 against Prof. J. Clegg Wright of Cincinnati. Wright is a lecturer and spiritualist, and it was charged promised to marry Miss Pratt, but failed to do so.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

TORONTO, April 22.—In the Assembly Mr. Tooley moved: In opinion of this House it is advisable and would be in the interest of the province that supplies that may be required for the public institutions of the province should be supplied by public competition in lieu of the course at present carried out.

Mr. Awrey moved in amendment that supplies for the public institutions have been heretofore and are now purchased by public competition, after advertisement for tenders, so far as that mode of purchase can be advantageously carried out, and in the opinion of the House the best interests of the province will be served by continuing the present mode of dealing with respect to such supplies.

The amendment was carried by a vote of [illegible] to 23.

They Don't Like Guttenberg.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The meeting in Jersey City last night to protest against the existence of the Guttenberg race track was largely attended. Nearly every church in Jersey City was represented. Rev. T. W. Gowen presided. Resolutions were passed denouncing the race track and pledging the support of the meeting "to the executive officers of the law in the performance of their duty, that this pool of wickedness may be closed up and the good name of our county redeemed from the stain now resting on it, to our shame." The resolutions concluded: "Guttenberg must go!"

A collection was taken up to carry on the work. A permanent organization was formed and an executive committee appointed. Speeches were made by Anthony Comstock and others.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

ANOTHER DEFEAT FOR SALISBURY'S GOVERNMENT.

The Dissenters Placed on an Equal Footing with the Church of England—Mr. Gladstone in a Passion—A Liberal-Unionist Victory in Oxfordshire.

LONDON, April 22.—In the House of Commons to-day Samuel Evans (member for Glamorganshire), moved the second reading of the bill enabling trustees of religious bodies to acquire compulsorily the freehold of places of worship upon paying compensation therefor. The motion was carried—[illegible] to 116.

The measure being intended to place the dissenters on an equal footing with the Church of England, the division on the motion is tantamount to a defeat of the government.

Several Conservatives voted for the bill. A number of Liberal members made speeches in which they urged that the measure was necessary in order to secure for the dissenters places of worship in districts held by Tory landlords.

Gladstone in a Temper.

LONDON, April 22.—The House of Commons yesterday was the scene of an unusual outburst of temper on the part of Mr. Gladstone. During the sitting in committee T. W. Russell charged the Liberals with trying to defeat the Irish Land Bill. Mr. Gladstone exclaimed, "That is absolutely untrue." The House stood aghast and Mr. Russell quietly observed that there were so many leaders of the Opposition that it would be advisable to drop the subject. This did not improve Mr. Gladstone's temper, and he again gave vent to language rarely heard on the front bench.

A Unionist Victory.

LONDON, April 22.—At the election for member of the House of Commons from the Mid Oxford or Woodstock division of Oxfordshire, yesterday, Mr. Morrell, the Liberal-Unionist candidate, was elected, receiving 4463 votes, as against 3760 cast for Mr. Benson, the Gladstone Liberal candidate.

NATIONAL FEDERATION.

Parnell's Latest Scheme, According to Healy, is to Ruin the Plan of Campaign—A Tory Alliance.

DUBLIN, April 22.—At a meeting of the Irish National Federation here to-day David Sheehy, M.P. for South Galway, stated that 300 branches of the National Federation have been formed within the past six weeks, and already £4700 has been subscribed to carry out the purposes of the organization.

Timothy Healy, who presided, referred to Redmond's remarks yesterday at the [illegible] Defence League meeting in regard to the impossibility of continuing the plan of campaign as no funds were available. Healy said this state of affairs resulted from Parnell's intention to ruin the campaign tenants, all of whom Healy said were anti-Parnellites. Parnell, continued Healy, was in alliance with the Tories and had undertaken, in order to please Balfour, to bring about a collapse of the plan of campaign on condition that no Conservative candidate should be put forward in opposition to him in Cork. But, said Healy, the evicted tenants would not be deserted. [Cheers.] Even though Parnell abandoned them the Federation would not abandon them.

Strength of Parties in Ireland.

LONDON, April 22.—The reports of the McCarthyite members of the House of Commons who have canvassed the whole of Ireland show that an election in Ireland would oust 26 Parnellite members of Parliament, including Parnell himself. Parnell's nominees would probably capture three seats—Dublin, Mayo and Clare—while the Unionists are expected to defeat McCarthy, Sexton, My. Campbell and Redmond and Sir Thomas Grattan Esmonde. This would leave the strength of the different parties as follows: McCarthyites, 72; Parnellites, 9; Unionists, 26.

HIS VANITY HIS DEATH.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—Because he could not get a new suit for the celebration of Passover, which begins to-day in the Hebrew faith, Ferdinand Meyers, a boy of 17, living at No. 123 Wilmot-street, shot himself in the temple, and died in 15 minutes without uttering a word. Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

The Daily Review.

THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1891.

THE TRENT VALLEY DEPUTATION.

THE large deputation that went to Ottawa on Tuesday in regard to the Trent Valley canal accomplished several important objects. They placed directly before the Government a number of important facts in regard to the canal, and the arguments for the completion of the canal based upon these facts were supported by such a representative deputation that they could not fail to have great weight. They were also enabled to place before the people of the country, through the press, many of the benefits that would follow the completion of the work and this will have an important bearing on the work by making the people and the members of Parliament better acquainted with the project and the necessity for its completion.

The statement of the Premier that the evidence gathered by the commissioners, as well as their report, would be laid before Parliament in such a form that it could be distributed, was an important one, for the preponderance of the evidence is so strongly in favor of the canal that the more it is disseminated the better.

The most important point gained was the statement of Sir John Macdonald that the Government regarded the work as one in the interest of the country—as one, to use his own words, "that must be built and that will be built," and his further intimation that Parliament would be asked to make a grant that would carry the work on successfully. With the report of the commission, including the evidence, in possession of the members, there is no reason why the Government should hesitate in asking for an appropriation at the coming session that will at least make a good commencement on the work yet to be done. The facts—the great benefit the canal would be to the country as a whole and to the large district through which the route runs—would justify the Government and Parliament in placing the whole work as recommended by the commissioners under contract, and in proceeding at once with the survey of the Georgian Bay section. This being the case, it would be farcical for Parliament to commence such a work with a small sum of money, and as the Government recognizes the importance of the canal, and is pledged to complete it throughout, the country will be justified in expecting the Government to recommend and Parliament to grant an adequate sum to make a commencement that will give promise of the whole work being completed within a reasonable time.

THE FIGHTING AT MANIPUR.

THE probability of further serious fighting between the Manipuris and the British troops, says the Toronto Empire, must give us pause in estimating the character and strength of these stubborn hillmen. Since the Maharajah of Manipur, Sur Chandra Singh, was deposed in September last as the result of a series of insurrections led or incited by his brothers Jobraj, the heir, and the Senaputty, or commander-in-chief of the forces, the attention of English readers has been occasionally attracted to the spasms taking place in this little corner of north-eastern India. The previous history of the state is, however, not less interesting. For several years outbreaks were frequent against the authority of the Maharajah; in fact, in 1887, three months after his installation, there was a riot instigated by Wangkhairakpa, who takes rank next to the Senaputty, and whose office may be described as chief of the judiciary. Wangkhairakpa was shot dead in the prompt suppression of the revolt. Trouble continued through the two following years, and enquiry made from time to time during that period did not serve to show the character of the Senaputty in a favorable light. Things became so vexed that the Maharajah decided on banishing his younger brother from the capital, but he must have been slow in carrying out the sentence for the next heard of the Senaputty and his brother, the heir, was that they had possession of 280 Enfield rifles, 60,000 rounds of ball ammunition, two seven-pounders, some shells, Martini rifles and cartridges, which were presented to the Maharajah in 1887. This brings us down to the time of the Maharajah's deposition. Subsequent events may be briefly summarized. The Senaputty was kicked in the assault made by Manipuris upon Fort Thobal, where Lieut. Grant still makes his gallant defence. The policy of the British Government in the matter does not require recapitulation.

Manipur lies in the heart of the mountains. In 1881 the census gave it a population of 221,070, the area being then stated as 8,000 square miles. It borders on the territory of the Lushais, Kukis, Sutie Nagas and other savage hillmen, and among them they keep up one continuous and all round treacherous fight. The Manipuris are by no means the best conducted of the tribes; the country has a black history of bloodshed and revolting cruelties, every man's hand being raised like Cain's against his brother. The hills are densely wooded, and in addition to this wealth Sir A. Mackenzie says the region is rich in coal, iron and gold. There are some good roads through the state, on which the Manipuris are now erecting stone stockades and digging rifle pits. On the whole, what with the character of the natives and the wild features of the country, the British troops may have a hard time of it.

British relations with the state of Manipur date from the time of the first war with Burmah.

Everybody Knows

That at this season the blood is filled with impurities, the accumulation of months of close confinement in poorly ventilated stores, workshops and tenements. All these impurities and every trace of scrofula, salt rheum, or other diseases may be expelled by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier ever produced. It is the only medicine of which "100 doses one dollar" is true.

TORONTO TOPICS

TORONTO, April 23.—Moses Paul, one of the best known commercial men in Canada, died in Milwaukee, Wis., yesterday. He was for 18 years connected with John Macdonald & Co. of this city.

A. W. Godson, late contractor for the corporation, was arrested yesterday on a charge of fraud and forgery.

The Young Liberals held their annual banquet last evening.

Rev. W. F. Wilson, pastor of Woodgreen Methodist Church, known as "Move on" Wilson, was married yesterday to Miss Nellie Smith, daughter of Mr. A. R. Smith, merchant.

At the Criminal Assize Court yesterday the trial of Christopher McIlrain for manslaughter was commenced before Mr. Justice Street. The victim of the crime was Jane Harding. She was the proprietress of a somewhat irregular house at 11 Ontario-street. Liquor was sold in the place and both men and women of anything but moral character nightly congregated there. It was after one of these orgies on the night of February 12, 1891, that the crime was committed. Jane Harding was the prisoner's paramour. The foreman of the jury announced that an agreement could not be arrived at and the prisoner was remanded to the next court. Mr. DuVernet, on behalf of his client, will apply for bail.

Matilda Berry was also tried for manslaughter. She seems to be the proprietress of a sort of baby farm. A child christened William Marshall was born at the Burnside Hospital and by some means came under the charge of the defendant on January 19 last. The child died on March 12 while under her charge. The evidence for the crown was of a very flimsy nature, about the only point proven being that the child was insufficiently nourished. Upon this ground Mr. J. G. Holmes, for the defence, submitted that there was no case to go to the jury. His Lordship concurred and the prisoner was declared not guilty and discharged.

A man named Ambrose Collins called on Rabbi Elzas on Tuesday and by telling a pitiful tale of woe secured from the Hebrew pastor $3 and a pair of pants. Yesterday Mr. Elzas concluded that he had been duped and told Sergeant Detective Reburn. Detective Burrows was detailed to investigate, and found the story told by Collins a lie. He thereupon arrested him for fraud, and when placed in the cells it was discovered that he was wanted on a charge of stealing a bicycle from W. M. Laughton. In the Police Court he pleaded guilty to the fraud and not guilty of the alleged theft. He was remanded until Monday.

Richard O'Leary, perhaps the best known jockey in Canada, died in the city early yesterday morning. Dick was known in almost every town in Ontario where race meetings were held. He was born at Port Credit in 1838, and was thus 53 years of age. O'Leary was known everywhere as an honest, straightforward and outspoken man. He had marvelous courage, good ideas and the courage of his convictions. He lived at various times in London and Ottawa, where he was connected with training stables. His first great Canadian triumph was when he rode Fearnaught to victory for the Queen's Plate at Ottawa in '73. Among the other four years in which Her Majesty's guineas fell to his prowess was in '80, when he rode Colonist ahead of Bonnie Ino, Long Shot, Evangeline and other cracks at Woodbine Park. O'Leary was successful at times over the jumps and his clever steeplechase triumph in St. Catharines is well remembered. O'Leary rode successfully on many United States tracks. Among the horse owners the deceased trained for were Sheriff Powell, Ottawa; John Foster, Woodstock, and James White, Hamilton. His last effort on a track in Toronto was at the O.J.C. fall races last year, when he rode W. Hendrie's Sunbonnet in the Juvenile Stakes without getting a place. Among the horses owned by O'Leary was Bonnie Bras.

Rev. J. Goforth, Presbyterian missionary in China and well known in Canada, writes from Lin Ching that the natives are giving great trouble to the missionaries in the Honan district. He says: Pressure has already been brought to bear on the officials and gentry of the unruly district from their superiors, but it is not sufficient to suit our consul and so they are apt to get a harder squeeze before they awake to the fact that when they adopt Chinese methods of looting Britishers they will have to accept British methods of paying for it. The American Presbyterian missionaries have been driven out of Cho-ming-chen—Dr. Hunter's wife and two children and Mr. Lane. A mob attacked their residence and wrecked all they could lay their hands on, the occupants of the house escaping by highways. Mrs. Hunter was cornered by a mob and caught hold of an elderly Chinaman and asked: "Why are you trying to kill me and my children?" The crowd fell back a little and a man cried out: "We don't want to kill you, but if you don't leave the city at once we will."

The entire party were allowed peacefully to leave the city in carts next day, but the excitement and exposure had an ill-effect on all, especially Mr. Lane and Mrs. Hunter, who have gone into consumption. During the riots the Mandarin was appealed to, but declared that he could do nothing.

The publishers of Our Homes, a large, elegantly printed 32-page magazine, announce that in order to increase their circulation they are willing to devote their entire first year's profits to this end, and in order to do so, offer competitions in which they give large cash rewards to those taking part. One of these competitions is now in progress and closes on April 25th. In addition to the large amount given in each on their general prize list, they offer as an extra inducement the following special cash prizes:—During the weeks ending April 11th and April 18th they offer daily cash prizes of $25, and a weekly cash prize of $50 for the first named week, and $100 for the latter. For the week ending April 25th they offer daily cash prizes of $25, and a prize of $100 for the week. These exceedingly generous prizes are in addition to the general prize list, and the person who gets one of the special rewards may also get a large prize in the general list. A CORPSE DROVE THE CAB.

Through the Crowded Streets of Chicago a Dead Cabman Drives.

CHICAGO, April 23.—Cabman Thomas Gilbert died on his box last night while driving a passenger to the west side union depot. After the Chicago Opera House was built Gilbert made his stand at the southwest corner of Clark and Washington-streets. He was there at 8 o'clock last night, when a man stepped into his cab and said: "Drive me in a hurry to the west side union depot." Gilbert climbed on his box, and gathering up the lines swung his horse into Washington-street and headed west. A crowd of people was surging into the Chicago Opera House when the cab rattled by. Some one noticed Gilbert's head droop forward and then fall over on his breast. The horse trotted along Washington-street and stopped for a moment at LaSalle to let a Milwaukee-avenue cable train pass by. When the train had passed the cab rumbled over the tracks and continued to Fifth-avenue, where the horse was stopped by a pedestrian. The occupant of the cab jumped out and demanded an explanation.

A crowd of people collected on the sidewalk. "You will never reach the Union depot with this driver," said the man who stopped the horse. "Look up there and you will see you are being driven by a corpse!" Two men climbed on top of the vehicle and lifted the driver off. He was dead. His fingers were twined around the iron rod of the seat.

Asking for a Bonus.

A deputation consisting of the following gentlemen waited upon Mr. Mowat and Mr. Hardy on Tuesday in Toronto:—Messrs. J. T. Still (New York), T. D. Ledyard, Douglas Armour and R. Bristol. Their object was to obtain Government aid to the extent of $35,000 for the construction of a line of railway, nine miles in length, from lot 12, township of Belmont, to a point on the Central Ontario railway near Marmora. Mr. Bristol explained that the purpose in view was the opening up of the mining district in that region and not for speculative objects. The iron ore in that district had yielded 70 per cent. of metallic iron and was the best in the world. The greatest possible yield was 72.34 per cent., which had never been actually secured. Samples of the ore taken from the ground were exhibited by Mr. T. D. Ledyard, who stated that three pits had been opened to a depth of 200 feet and the best ore extracted at a depth of 90 feet below the surface. It was computed that there are one million tons of ore in the district, suitable for the manufacture of the best Bessemer steel. The company would guarantee to complete the road in one year, and employ two hundred hands at the outset. Mr. Mowat replied that the matter would be considered by the Government, who would act as seemed best in the premises.

ROCHESTER "STAR" NURSERY.

Some of the Finest Stock Ever Seen in This Section—The Spring Shipment Arrives at the Canadian Branch in Peterborough.

There is not the slightest doubt that more interest is felt this spring in fruit-growing than in previous years, as the recently formed Fruit Growers' Association has awakened a live interest in fruit-growing and tree-planting by its discussion and elucidation on the subjects. It will therefore be a matter of interest to its readers when the REVIEW announces that the Canadian branch of the Rochester "Star" Nursery in Peterborough has received its shipment of stock for planting, and have opened temporary quarters for the exhibition and distribution of the same on Water-st., next to Mayor Stevenson's office.

At this season of the year everyone begins to look around them to find something to plant in the garden, lawn or orchard. Those who have entrusted the supplying of their trees, shrubs, etc., to the Rochester Star Nurseries, will now have an opportunity to satisfy their desire in this direction, as their spring shipment is now moving and will be placed in the hands of their numerous customers as speedily as possible. This firm is again the first to enter their goods into this country this season. Many who plant stock from a nursery are not aware of the great amount of energy and push that is required to dig and pack a large shipment in order to have it reach all points of Canada in time for planting. Every possible effort is put forth by this firm to ensure the delivery of all their stock in the best possible condition, and as early as practicable. Nothing but first-class stock is grown and handled, and every tree is guaranteed to be true to name. The "Star" Nursery has a standing offer, to refund the price of any tree procured from them that does not turn out as labelled. During the past year facilities for growing and handling have been added, which enable their fast increasing business to be conducted with ease and perfection and places them in the front rank of nursery men. The head of this firm has had thirty years experience, and is, therefore, a thoroughly practical man.

The REVIEW had the pleasure of viewing the shipment of stock which has been received here from the Rochester nursery, and all those who take an interest in trees or shrubbery should not fail to inspect it. The trees and shrubs are all healthy, vigorous looking stock, with good roots, which are certain to develop magnificently when planted in garden or orchard. The planting and growing of this fine nursery stock may prove very interesting. The seeds of the different trees are sown and allowed to grow for one year and then budded. This operation is very neat and requires perfect care. Thorough cultivation is always practised, all stock being thoroughly cultivated to ensure rapid and strong growth. The system of staking and growing is so perfect that it is almost impossible for different varieties to become mixed, and therefore all trees and shrubs can be guaranteed true to name. The work or business of growing trees is not conducted at random but is done on a thorough system, the result of years of experience and practice. The operation of budding it is impossible to describe so that it would be understood. The packing of the stock is a nice piece of work. Two large cellars have now been added and the packing yard has been perfected, so that the handling is done perfectly, expeditiously and without any danger from frost. The stock is not dug in the fall as many might imagine, but is dug in the spring and the cellars are used merely for packing and keeping of the stock from frost in the spring. The system of handling and packing is perfect and mistakes are rare in any of the large shipments. As soon as packed the stock is forwarded to Toronto and Niagara for distribution, and delay is prevented by Mr. Bowman who accompanies the shipments himself.

Mr. Chas. L. Trotter, manager of the Canadian branch of the "Star" nursery, will be pleased to show the stock to any visitors at the offices 143 Water-st. They also take this opportunity of thanking their numerous patrons for their liberal support and solicit their continued patronage. All those intending planting any kind of nursery stock will do well to wait until the salesmen of this firm call upon them. Good, reliable men are always employed and need fear no deception or fraud in dealing with them.

Nature requires aid in correcting irregularities at this season, and for both men and women no other remedy equals Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a spring blood tonic. They supply all the constituents necessary to enrich the blood and build up the system. Sold by all dealers, or sent post paid on receipt of price—50c. per box, or five boxes for $2—by addressing Dr. Williams Med. Co., Brockville, Ont.

Of Interest to Horsemen.

Mr. M. C. Gladburn has leased the Peterborough Driving Park for the summer, and will train, develop and educate horses for those who may place their animals in his hands. Races will be put on for May 25th, when liberal prizes will be given and a good series of races may be expected. Mr. Joe Daly's $2,500 American pacer will be entered for the races.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

He Abused His Wife.

Domestic infelicity was the cause of the gaol getting another boarder this morning. Last evening a telephone message to the police station announced the startling news that Alfred Cooney, a rag peddler, who lives on Aylmer-st. north, was killing his wife. Constable Adams went to the scene of the struggle, but Mrs. Cooney had fled from her excited husband. The wife had gone to the Magistrate and swore out a warrant charging her husband with assault. Constable McGinty went to the house and arrested Cooney. At the Police Court this morning the man, who has abused his wife before this according to complaints, was sent to gaol for one month.

ONWARD, EVER ONWARD!

THE ASSESSMENT RETURNS MADE FOR THIS YEAR.

The Population and Assessment Both Show a Good, Healthy Increase—The Town's Present and Future—The Building Operations—The Question of Union.

Peterborough is moving steadily onward in its course, and few towns in this fair Dominion can boast of a more favorable condition, both financially and otherwise, than can our town. This onward progress has not been spasmodic nor ephemeral, nor has it been characterized at any time by what might be called a speculative boom. It has moved steadily, ever advancing by a healthy growth which has gradually increased in magnitude, until if the forward movement continues the town will be a city and the metropolis of Eastern Ontario.

The town assessors, Messrs. Aldridge, Williams, Hartley and McKee, have completed their labors and yesterday evening returned their rolls to Town Clerk Macdonald. These returns show what the progress of the past year has been. Our population has been augmented by 504 souls, the total, as the returns show, being 9,341 persons. This, for such a year as 1890 was, is indeed a most encouraging evidence of the town's future. This increase was largely in the south ward of the town.

But what of this future? With the Edison Works, with its three hundred or more hands with their families coming in a solid body, the other smaller manufacturies which are likely to make this their location before many months, the year 1891 is likely to show a still greater increase in population, and next year there is no reasonable doubt that the assessors' figures will show ten thousand citizens, and that Peterborough will be entitled to the name of city and the councillors will rise to the distinguished and high-sounding title of aldermen. But before the assessment returns are made for 1891, the census statistics may give the town a claim to the name of a city, for it is quite probable that enumerators, with less to occupy their attention, will gather the residents with greater accuracy than the assessors, and add three or four hundred to the 9,341.

This increase of population is evidenced in another way besides the assessment returns. One of the assessors told the REVIEW that in the South Ward there were only two vacant houses and one of these was rented yesterday. In other words, the number of unoccupied houses is reduced to a minimum. The REVIEW also saw some of the more extensive property-owners yesterday, and the reply to questions was always that their houses were all better rented at the present time than for some years back. Probably the largest house-owner in town said that he had few vacant houses, and these were at the extreme northern or western parts of the town. If he had a dozen more houses in the southern portion of the town, he said, he could easily rent them all in one day. This demand for dwellings is unmistakeable evidence for the increase in population.

But not only has the population made an upward move. The assessment has always increased by nearly a hundred thousand dollars. From $4,045,215 last year it has risen to $4,137,165 this year.

What of building this year? There is no decided boom in the building trade at present, although operations are active. There are plenty of mechanics in town to do the work, and this summer will probably be a good one among the working people. Mr. Wm. Fitzgerald yesterday broke ground for the erection of eight new houses on Charlotte-st. New homes in course of erection are to be seen in many parts of the town, but, as already said, there is no building boom. The increasing population will continue to keep the trade in an active, healthy state, but probably not much more.

And again, just at the present time crops up the old question of the union of our village sister across the Otonabee, Ashburnham, with the town. It is understood that some of the residents of the village who were formerly opposed to the joining of the two municipalities, now look upon the proposition with a favorable eye. With the village's population of nearly two thousand, a prosperous, large and thriving city would be formed, the fame of which would soon be Dominion wide. So often taken up, discussed and allowed to return to a comatose state, this question of union may during 1891 be brought up and finally settled by becoming a reality.

The subjoined figures have been extracted from the assessors' returns. Last year the confirmed total assessment was $4,045,215 and the population was 8,837. These figures are given for comparison. The following are the returns for this year:—

A GIGANTIC CORPORATION.

Operations of the Edison Company Here—A big Addition to the Works at Schenectady.

The scene at the Edison works is now vastly different from the brilliant scene of gayety on Monday night, and the workmen are now toiling hard in furthering building operations.

A gang of men are at work excavating the foundation of another building, which will be the compounding shop. This structure will be the same length as the machine shop, 272 feet, but only half as wide, 50 feet. The mason work on this building will be started in a short time.

As soon as the foundation for this second building is completed, the ground will be broken for a third, the wire shop. This will be of the same dimensions, 272x50 feet, as the compounding shop. Both buildings will be pushed to completion with all possible speed. A large boiler, of 100 horse power, will be substituted for the present one, which is used in the building operations.

It will be probably about a month before the Sherbrooke staff of the company arrive here to take up their residence. Mr. Samuel Insul, one of the Vice-Presidents of the company, and Mr. John Kruesi, General Manager at Schenectady, paid the works here a flying visit on Tuesday and were pleased with the progress.

To show the magnitude of the Edison Company's operations and the extensiveness of their industries the following paragraph from the Union, of Schenectady, referring to a recent addition to the company's manufactories is clipped by the REVIEW:—

"For some time past The Union has been aware that the Bergman Chandelier Manufacturing company, now located in New York city, was going to move to Schenectady, but it was thought best not to make the good news public. The Union can to-day authoritively announce to its readers that the concern will come here. Ground has already been broken for an immense building, three stories, and 600 feet long, the construction of which will be pushed, and in all likelihood the shop will be in operation in three or four months. Other buildings will be constructed, and in time the concern will give employment to 900 hands, the number that is now employed in their shops in New York city. The buildings will be located on the land between the Central-Hudson tracks and Kruesi avenue.

"The Bergman company is under the control of the Edison General Electric company, and they manufacture dynamos and all kinds of chandeliers, the work on which requires skilled and high priced mechanics.

"The news will be hailed with pleasure by all Schenectadians. The coming industry will give the town's prosperity a fresh impetus, and the boom will be stronger and healthier than ever. The bringing of 900 mechanics to this city means an increase of 2 000 in population, many new streets will have to be laid out, and hundreds of houses will be constructed. At the rate Schenectady is progressing, Albany or Troy will 'not be in it' with our city when the next census is taken."

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that the people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick-headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sell at 50c and $1 a package and is called Lane's Family Medicine.

April showers may be the forerunner of May flowers, and they are also certain to bring with them cold in the head, which if neglected, develops into catarrh, perhaps into consumption and death. Thursday 23rd April

It Means a Great Deal.

An "inch of rain" means a gallon of water spread over a surface of nearly two square feet, or a fall of about one hundred tons on an acre of ground. One bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, faithfully used, means that you need not employ a physician, and therefore you save a large bill for medical attendance. One bottle of Paine's Celery Compound also means the complete banishment of that nervous, wearied feeling that you are beginning to experience. It means a dispelling of that miserable headache and irritableness which bother you. It means peaceful and refreshing sleep instead of insomnia and wakefulness. One bottle of Paine's Celery Compound to the man or woman often means scores of dollars saved, and hours—yes weeks of suffering and pain avoided. Try it and be convinced of what is said in its favor.

CASH HARDWARE STORE.

On and after 1st April we shall do business on a Cash Basis.

To cover the inevitable losses attendant upon a credit business, which accrue from amount of time spent in keeping accounts, collecting, bad debts, interest account, and in numerous other ways, larger margins of profit must be asked.

In these times cash buyers ask, expect and are entitled to close prices. A careful consideration of the subject convinces us that the time has come for a cash business done on smaller profits.

The only customers who may be put to inconvenienced are those who have had long credit. In more ways than one it will be to their advantage to pay cash.

For convenience of our old customers who consider their accounts due when presented, we will call 30 days each and render all accounts the first of each month, and we wish to say that we will be happy to do business with them on these terms.

As the new departure is something of an experiment, what would be considered a close cash price will be made all through the stock. Not a few leaders only, but a general reduction in everything from the fourth flat to the cellar.

Our idea is to perform more than promised rather than promise more than can be fulfilled.

Our stock is large and varied, consisting of Builders', Contractors', Household, Mechanics', Painters', Shoemakers', Farm, Mill, Factory, Lumbermen's, Sporting, Threshers', Cabinetmakers', and other lines of Hardware.

Catarrh

Is a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

The personal magnetism of eye to eye with those who are really dear to each other overcomes, for the time being, all scruples and recoilings. When, therefore, her brother gave a glad start, and stepped toward Beatrix with an inarticulate exclamation of affection, she forgot everything except that he was her brother, with whom she had spent her childhood, who had cut his initials on the banister of the old staircase, whose white roses she had worn on her bosom until within the last few months, by whose side she had ridden, and in whose company she had ransacked the woods; she found herself with her arms round his neck, kissing him, smiling with wet cheeks, and murmuring: "Dear Ed! dear, darling boy! Oh, I am so glad to have you again!"

"How well you are looking, sis!" he said at length, taking her by the elbows and looking at her. She was, indeed, beautifully dressed, and her face was rosy with the emotion of the moment, [illegible] her than any one else, but he had not the eyes to discern the traces of fatigue and anxiety on her face; it takes a lover to do that. When a man looks at his sister he thinks of the past; when he looks at his mistress he thinks of the present and the future.

"Why, but you're a great swell now, aren't you?" Ed continued laughingly. His temperament varied quickly, and without any moral reason, between extremes of depression and joviality. "I had no idea my little sis was going to come out on the top of the heap this way. I always said nobody could beat you singing, though, and nobody can, though Vera is perfect in her way, too."

"Vera?" she repeated, glancing up quickly.

"That's her name—Vera Marana. Ah, my dear, I've got a heap to tell you about her! By the way," he said, laughing, "people here, I suppose, think you know more about Marana than any one else. Well, you do look a little like her—that's what first made me look at her. But I want you to know her; I'm certain you'd take to each other. She's the dearest woman in the world, and as generous and good as she is lovely!"

"Good?" repeated Beatrix, whose face during this speech had run through a gamut of expressions and now rested in bewilderment.

"Good! I should think so. Do you imagine I'd want you to know her if she wasn't everything a lady should be, and a great deal more? You ought to have heard the way I sailed into poor old dad just now for calling her names. I guess he won't do it again!"

Beatrix clapped her hands together under her chin with a cry of almost hysteric joy, and instantly embraced her brother again with all the added ardor that can be given to affection by remorse. She had wickedly wronged him by allowing herself to imagine, even for a moment, that he or anybody connected with him could ever be anything but patterns of honesty and virtue. For fear of making bad worse she forbore to explain to him the cause of her sudden demonstrativeness; he should be made conscious of her repentance only by the tenderness and observance which she would lavish upon him. The thought came into her mind also that, by her love for her brother, she could in some degree compensate herself for the loss of her other love—for she told herself that it was lost, and had been repeating the statement with tenfold diligence ever since learning that Geoffrey had returned to New York.

Ed, who was never particularly observant of the feelings of others, except when his own feelings were bound up in them, passed over all this little tumult of emotion without any suspicions, and, in reponse to his sister's eagerly expressed interest in the subject, talked about himself and his affairs to the heart's content of both speaker and listener. He no longer felt the humiliation and helplessness of his position so keenly as an hour ago. The companionship of this sister, whom he had so recklessly impoverished, and to whose energy and genius he was under such weighty obligations, insensibly began to put him in better humor with himself and his prospects. It is not difficult to take a reassuring view of our conduct when our natural bias thereto is stimulated by the sympathy of one who emphasizes the significance of all the favorable features and brushes out of sight all the ungainly ones.

Ed gave his sister a picturesque and stirring account of his first meeting with Marana, their mutual captivation, what she had said, what he had answered, what she had answered, and what he had said. He made it appear plainly that his spending a hundred thousand dollars was a proceeding rather meritorious and self-sacrificing than otherwise, inasmuch as it would have been unworthy a Randolph not to make a splendid appearance in the eyes of the woman he loved, and amidst such rivals as those with whom he had to contend; and, moreover (as he truly observed), he himself was the worst off of any of the family when the money was gone. "And of course," he added, "I had no idea at what a rate I was going it; I declare, sis, I never was more floored than when dad wrote me that we were 'ruined by my criminal extravagance,' as he put it. Besides, we shouldn't have been ruined at all if he hadn't gone blundering down into Wall street. That's the way the money went, after all, and I can't help suspecting the old gentleman is as much to blame as I am."

"Well, dear, that's all right now; and I'm glad the money was gone, since it gave me a chance to help. But, oh, Ed! do you think Mlle Marana minds much? She can't think worse of me for doing it—in that way, I mean—than I do of myself; but what should we have done, you see, if I hadn't done it?"

"I don't blame you a bit, sis—remember that," her brother replied. "I'm proud of you; there's not another girl in the country who could succeed as you have. And it's a great deal pleasanter for me to come home and find the bills paid than if I'd found you all living in the poorhouse which was what I expected. All I'm sorry for is—however," he broke off magnanimously, "that can't be helped. It's only my luck!"

(To be Continued)

PRINCETON'S MYSTERY.

This May Be the Correct Explanation of Frank Larmour's Disappearance.

PRINCETON, Ont., April 22.—The mysterious disappearance of Mr. Frank Larmour, the G.T.R. agent, is still the subject of speculation. One theory is that he has gone to join his wife. The story goes that some time ago there came an unpleasantness into Mr. Larmour's family life, for which a certain young woman residing not far from Princeton was held responsible. The result was that Mrs. Larmour decided to leave her husband and she and her sister went to reside at some point not generally known. Mrs. Larmour's sister, Miss Markham, is a lady of considerable wealth—she it was who built the beautiful Catholic church at Princeton—and it is said that she has offered attractive inducements to Mr. Larmour to leave the village and its unhappy associations and follow his wife. Whether he has gone there or not it is impossible at present to ascertain.

Larmour secured leave of absence from the company and his accounts are correct to a cent. One of his particular friends, Captain Williamson, is confident if everything was right with him he would have communicated. The relieving stationmaster says that his last month's pay was sent for him to Princeton and he fully expected him to send an order to have it forwarded to his address. He waited some time and as he was unable to hear from him returned the money to the company as unclaimed.

A SISTER-IN-LAW'S SORROW.

Boarders Cleaned Out the Larder and Killed Her Pet Black Hen.

HAMILTON, April 22.—At the Wentworth Assizes to-day Mrs. Lapsley of Beverley sued her brother-in-law, Walter Lapsley. Mrs. Lapsley rented a farm from him and now brings an action for trespass against him because, she alleges, he came upon the premises before the lease expired and sowed a crop of wheat on a field. In the course of her evidence the plaintiff stated that her brother-in-law and his family had come to board with her on the farm, and had on one occasion held a bee to which a number of neighbors came. In order to provide a recherche spread, she alleges that her boarders cleaned out the larder and killed and cooked a pet black hen belonging to her. She was away at the time, and when she returned at night after the bee there was no food left in the house and she had to go supperless to bed.

It Pays To Be Wise And Economical.

The wise and economical are the happiest people in our midst. Goods for household use and consumption are never bought until their quality and utility is assured. The wise, economical and prudent at all times strictly avoid buying any of the common package dyes prepared by inexperienced makers, knowing well that the result after using these dyes is at all times disastrous and expensive. Diamond Dyes, which are sold at the same price, are invariably asked for by all who have home dyeing to do. The colors are bright, pure and unfading and the reputation of these dyes established years ago.

ROME TREMBLED.

THE VENERABLE CITY SHAKEN TO ITS FOUNDATIONS.

Lives Lost and Property Damaged—An Early Morning Powder Explosion—The Vatican Suffers—Historical Palaces and Churches Damaged.

ROME, April 23.—At about 7 o'clock this morning a tremendous explosion shook this city to its foundations, spreading horror and dismay on all sides. The people rushed affrighted from their houses into the streets, houses rocked, pictures fell from the walls, thousands of panes of glass were broken, crockery was shattered, furniture was overturned, chimneys crashed down on the roofs and in some instances toppled over into the streets. The cupola of the House of Parliament immediately after the explosion shook violently and then collapsed with a crash, which added still further to the feeling of horror which had spread throughout Rome. All the thoroughfares were strewn with bricks, stones, splinters and other debris, hurled there by the force of the powerful concussion which had caused Rome to totter on its foundations. People of all ages and conditions were rushing, pale with fear, about the streets. Rents and cracks appeared in the walls of houses, the plaster fell from the ceilings and general desolation prevailed. In many instances people were thrown from their beds by the shock. It was discovered that the immense powder magazine at Porsono Pantalso, four kilometres (3½ miles) from Rome, had exploded, and that it had caused enormous damage to the neighboring fort.

Signor Nicotera, Minister of the Interior, stated in the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon that 7 were killed and 46 persons were injured at the scene of the explosion and that about 200 persons in this city were slightly hurt. The Minister of War said there were 265 tons of powder in the magazine, but none of the new explosive balestite was stored there. It is surmised that the explosion resulted from slow combustion of the powder.

King Humbert, accompanied by Premier Rudini and other Cabinet officers, visited the scene of the disaster and received an ovation on visiting the hospital where the injured are being cared for.

The rumors that the explosion was of Anarchistic origin are without foundation. The official reports are that inquiries made on the spot tend to show that the explosion was purely accidental.

The races, including the Italy Derby, which were to have been run this afternoon, have been postponed on account of the explosion.

The shock which caused Rome to tremble did not spare the Vatican. That venerated place shook with the rest of the buildings when the effects of the explosion was felt, and several of the famous historical stained glass windows of the old buildings were shattered. The windows in the ancient Raphael chambers and the stained glass in the royal staircase, presented to Pope Pius IX. by the King of Bavaria, were also seriously injured.

Revision of the Sugar Duties.

OTTAWA, April 23.—It is likely that there will be a revision of the sugar duties this session. Hon. George E. Foster, Minister of Finance, stated to-day that he is studying the question. The officials of the Customs Department discredit the reports about extensive smuggling of American sugar across the frontier into the Eastern Townships.

HEARD THE COLONY'S CASE

THE NEWFOUNDLAND DELEGATES IN ENGLAND.

They Lay Their Grievances Before Britain at the Bar of the House—Premier Whiteway Makes a Great Speech—Lord Knutsford's Reply.

LONDON, April 23.—The expectation of so rare and important an event as the representatives of a colony being heard at the Bar of the House attracted an unusually large number of spectators to the House of Lords to-day. The seats in the side galleries were filled with peeresses, and the galleries assigned to the members of the House of Commons were largely occupied. Behind and around the bar groups of favored ladies gave an unusual aspect of liveliness to the customary dulness of the chamber.

There was a full attendance of peers, and the Prince of Wales and Prince Albert Victor sat together on a cross bench. On the steps of the throne were seated Lord Lorne, Sir John Gorst, Political Secretary of the India Office; Baron Henry DeWorms, Political Secretary of the Colonial Office; Henry Cecil Raikes, the Postmaster-General, and other leading members of the House of Commons.

After Lord Salisbury had announced that the Government had decided to send war ships to Pungwe River, Lord Dunraven moved that the Newfoundland delegates be heard at the bar of the House. Lord Dunraven quoted precedents sustaining their claim to appear at the bar. Lord Knutsford, Secretary of State for the Colonial Department, assented to Dunraven's motion, and the Speaker of the House of Lords, Lord Halsbury, Lord High Chancellor of England, gave orders that the delegates from the people of Newfoundland were to be admitted.

The five Newfoundland delegates, headed by Sir William Whiteway, thereupon made their appearance. Sir William delivered his statement in a clear, well-pitched voice, every syllable being distinctly audible.

The Delegates' Petition.

A statement was then read by Sir William Whiteway, Premier and Attorney-General of Newfoundland. Sir William detailed the objections of the Newfoundlanders to Lord Knutsford's coercive bill and concluded with the following proposals, which he said ought, in the opinion of the delegation, and the people of Newfoundland to be accepted by the Imperial Government as a solution of the existing difficulties:

That the Newfoundland Legislature pass immediately an act authorizing the execution for this year of the modus vivendi and of the award of the arbitration commission, together with all treaties and [illegible] the Queen in Council. That further progress of the Knutsford bill be deferred until the passage of the above act and that the present arbitration agreement shall not be allowed to operate beyond the lobster question without obtaining the prior consent of Newfoundland, in which case the colony shall be represented on the commission. That Newfoundland desires that the agreement be for unconditional arbitration on all points that either party can raise under the treaties. If this can be arranged between Great Britain and France Newfoundland will ask to be represented upon the arbitration commission and will pass an act to enforce the execution of the awards of the commission.

Sir William Whiteway added that the Newfoundland delegates regret that up to the present moment these proposals have not only not been accepted but that no hope has been held out that they ever will be accepted. Their adoption, he said, would immediately cause excitement in Newfoundland to subside and would induce peace under conditions which would make coercion by warship extremely difficult. The Newfoundland premier added that if the Knutsford bill became law it would have been forced upon a resentful people, but if proposals of the Newfoundland delegates were adopted every good object of the bill would be pleasantly attained. The enactment of the bill would leave a rankling wound in the hearts of the colonists and would establish a precedent which would ever give a feeling of insecurity to every self-governing colony. In offering on behalf of the Colonial Legislature of Newfoundland," continued the Premier," to enact laws providing for the honorable fulfilment of obligations of an exceedingly arduous kind, we are animated by a spirit of patriotism and devotion to the Empire. Persistence in passage of the bill, therefore, will be a poor return for the faith in Parliament which animated the Newfoundland Legislature in sending us to the bar of the House of Lords."

Sir William was listened to throughout with keen attention.

Praise from a Peer.

Lord Knutsford at the conclusion of the Newfoundland Premier's remarks, in moving to adjourn the second reading of the Newfoundland coercive bill until Monday, referred in terms of warm praise to the very able speech made by Sir William Whiteway.

This adjournment of the second reading of Knutsford's bill was in order to give the Government time to fully consider the representations made by the delegates. Should the delegates be unsuccessful in their appeal to the House of Lords they intend to apply for a hearing before the House of Commons.

A MANIAC'S SUICIDE.

An Insane Inmate of Walkerton Jail Commits Suicide.

WALKERTON, Ont., April 23.—Levi Krepp of Normanby, an insane inmate of the county jail awaiting transference to an asylum, died in his cell from starvation. Application had been made for his admission to the asylum, but he died pending the completion of arrangements. Everything possible had been done for his comfort and all his wants supplied, but he steadfastly refused to either eat or drink. He would allow nothing, not even wine or milk, to pass his lips. The verdict of the jury was that death was caused by lack of nourishment.

Lost Both Husband and Cash.

BARRIE, April 23.—At the Chancery sittings, the case of McDonald v. Nesbitt was heard. The action arose out of a breach of promise suit which was tried at Barrie last year. Wellington Nesbitt, brother of the defendant made a deed of part of the property to his sisters, so Miss McDonald, the plaintiff, contends to beat her out of $1100 damages, which the jury gave her against Wellington Nesbitt for breach of promise of marriage. Action dismissed.

Goodwin's Trial Postponed.

OTTAWA, April 23.—It is reported on good authority that the trial of Goodwin, for the alleged murder of Richard Langford, a Huntley farmer, in December last, will not take place until the next assizes owing to the absence of witnesses.

A FORTUNE IN A BUSTLE.

It Contained $9000 and Will Hereafter Have a Place of Honor.

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 23.—Miss Maggie Schott of Derry, this county, died last week. Miss Schott's relatives have been puzzled to know what she did with her money. She lived like a perverse old maid and indulged in no luxuries or frivolities. Three days after her funeral two of the young women of the house concluded to clean up the room occupied by Miss Schott. Mrs. Jennie Bennett unearthed a large, well-made, heavy bustle. With the remark, "Well, here it goes, Kate," Jennie threw it into the flames. Taking a second thought she pulled it out again. "It seems awful heavy for a bustle," said she, "let's rip it open." When turning it over to insert the scissors a piece of green paper was seen sticking out of a hole in the seam. The green paper was a bright $20 bill. Scissors were thrown aside and deft fingers took their place. The whole thing was ripped open. There was a feminine scream. There lay tens, twenties, fifties and nestling in the bed of greenbacks were shining gold eagles and double eagles and some small silver coin. The find netted $9000.

The money will be divided between her two sisters, with a neat reward to the girls who discovered it. The old bustle will be covered with tinted satin, decked with ribbons and handed down to generations.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

The Mining Regulations Engage the Attention of the House.

TORONTO, April 23.—In the Ontario Legislature yesterday Mr. Hardy, in moving the second reading of the bill to amend the General Mining Act took up the objections which have been made by mining men to the bill and justified the policy of the Government. He devoted himself for some time to the opposition raised to the royalty clauses and showed by reference to other countries that the royalties proposed were not excessive. South Carolina imposed a royalty of 25 per cent. on phosphate, obtaining last year $236,800. Nova Scotia collected last year royalties amounting to $120,008. In Michigan, although the mines were purchased from the Government in fee simple, the great bulk of them were worked on payment of a royalty of about 20 per cent to the owners. The Government believed that a royalty of 3 per cent. on silver, nickel or nickel and copper was a very moderate one. It had been urged that a royalty of 2 per cent on iron was unfair because of the duty collected by the United States and because there was no development of that industry. Instead of imposing a royalty of 2 per cent. absolutely, he thought that iron might be placed on the permissive list embraced in the clause. "All other ores shall be subject to such royalty as shall be from time to time imposed by order-in-council not exceeding 2 per cent."

The nickel belt near Sudbury embraced about two and a quarter million acres, of which only 125,000 acres were sold. New discoveries of nickel were made near Georgian Bay and Lake Wahnapitae, which were as rich as those of the Sudbury district. Therefore the belt of nickel was not limited to two and a quarter million acres. There was an impression that millions of acres of mining lands had been sold, but as a matter of fact only 400,000 acres had been sold since Confederation. A royalty of 3 per cent. would ward off direct taxation for many years and had the advantage that a miner pays only in proportion to what he himself obtains. He had returns from three silver mines of their product last year. One mine produced 2000 tons valued at $160,000, a second 3000 tons valued at $91,600, a third 1600 tons valued at $145,-000. The total production was worth $396,-600, on which the royalty would have amounted to $10,000. In reply to the objection that an increase of price to $3 an acre would prevent the land from being sold, Mr. Hardy said that if the lands were not sold now they would be valuable as assets hereafter. It had been said that in Michigan lands were sold at $1.25 an acre. On the contrary, his information was that they were sold at from $2.50 to $30 and $40 an acre. The fact was that $5 an acre was much below the average price in Michigan.

The second reading of the bill was then carried, only those who spoke against it crying "nay."

Found Guilty.

TORONTO, April 24.—At the York assizes yesterday Sarah Fox was found guilty of manslaughter for killing of her babe. The body was found about Feb. 27 last within the walls of Dr. Richardson's residence, where it had been apparently thrown by the prisoner.

The Mail-Empire libel suit which has been so long pending has at length been dropped. It was the old suit arising out of The Empire's charge that Ned Farrer, when connected with The Mail, had conspired to betray Canada with the Washington authorities. Upon The Empire's withdrawing the plea of justification The Mail abandoned the suit.

A cable despatch just received from Rev. Dr. Mackay, Canadian missionary at Tamsui, Formosa, China, announces the death of the Rev. John Jamieson, M.A., who for the past seven years has been laboring in that field with him. No particulars are given. At the time when the letters last received from Formosa by the Foreign Mission Committee of the church were written Mr. Jamieson was enjoying his usual health, but about two years ago he suffered from a severe attack of phthisis, and it is supposed that a recurrence of this has now proved fatal.

ENGLAND'S ULTIMATUM.

PORTUGAL TO BE BROUGHT TO TIME WITHOUT DELAY.

Three British Warships Sent to the Mouth of the Pungwe—Dom Carlos Can't Play Fast and Loose Any Longer—Salisbury's Announcement in the House of Lords.

LONDON, April 23.—Lord Salisbury in the House of Lords to-day, in answer to an interpellation regarding the action of the Portuguese authorities in interfering with Sir John Willoughby's expedition on the Pungwe River, said the members of the English expedition had been treated in a manner not consistent with the engagements of the Portuguese Government. Lord Salisbury added that the demeanor of the Portuguese officials in Africa corresponded so little with the assurances given by the Lisbon Government that it had been decided to send three British war ships to the mouth of the Pungwe River. [Cries of "Hear, hear."]

Lord Salisbury said the men-of-war sent to the Pungwe River would not be large but they would be sufficient for the purpose, the Portuguese minister having intimated that his Government had ordered the removal of the obstacles to free passage into the interior by the river. Lord Salisbury proposed that Great Britain appoint a consul to see that the modus vivendi was observed and said the Government would send a naval officer to act in that capacity. (Hear, hear.)

Boers Threaten a New Complication.

CAPE TOWN, April 23.—A telegram received here from Pretoria, capital of the Transvaal, or South African Republic on April 19, announced that a Boer "trek," or expedition, with the consent of Portugal, was upon the point of leaving the Transvaal with the object of establishing a republic in either Mashonaland or Manicaland, territories in connection with which the British and Portuguese authorities are now engaged in several disputes. This project, the telegram added, if carried out, would affect Manica territory claimed by England, and might result in further trouble between England and Portugal.

Since that time the Lisbon Government has received the intimation, through the public press and through official channels, that the Portuguese Government was apparently courting the visit of a British fleet to Lisbon. Lord Salisbury is understood to have instructed Sir George Glynn Petre, the British Ambassador at Lisbon, to call the attention of the Lisbon Government to the reported Boer expedition, to the detention of the Sir John Willoughby expedition and to other and similar matters which have caused the relations between Great Britain and Portugal to resume a dangerously strained aspect.

Cape Colony Instructed.

Lord Salisbury was not content with entering a protest against the reported expedition of the Boers. The British Premier, through the Foreign Office, promptly communicated with Sir Henry Brougham Loch, the Governor, British High Commissioner and Commander-in-Chief of Cape Colony, with the result that the latter, with equal promptness, placed himself in communication with the President of the Transvaal, Paul Kruger. The substance of the British Governor's communication to the President of the Boers was that the projected Boer "trek" into Mashonaland with the view of establishing a new republic would be treated as an act of hostility to Her Majesty the Queen of England.

To this distinct declaration President Kruger has just replied. He says that he has damped the projected "trek," and that in addition he has sent messages to the prominent Boers who are suspected of being the leaders of the movement, with the determination to still more clearly impress upon them the necessity of not taking any action which might lead to complications between the Government of the Transvaal and the Government of Great Britain.

Portugal Not in It.

On the other hand, it is understood that the Portuguese Government has assured the British Government that Portugal has not in any way countenanced the Boers' projected raid, and should the Boers obey the injunctions of their President this incident, which threatened to have serious consequences, may be said to have blown over. The Boers, however, are a very crafty race, and their proximity to and meddling with the territory about which Portugal and Great Britain are disputing may yet lead to dangerous complications.

ENGLAND'S REVENUE.

An Excess of Over $7,000,000 in the Estimated Surplus—Beer and Tobacco.

LONDON, April 23.—The Budget was submitted to the House of Commons this afternoon by Mr. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer. Mr. Goschen said there was an excess of £1,750,000 over the surplus which he suggested in 1890, but there was no certainty that a progressive increase would be maintained, as the needs of Ireland had increased the expenditure by £400,000. Mr. Goschen estimated the revenue for the coming year would amount to £90,481,000, and the expenditures to £89,442,000.

The expenditures of the postoffice exceeded the estimates by £103,000, of which sum the most was due to increase in wages paid to postoffice employes. The Government did not believe the cheapest labor was the best. [Cheers.]

Mr. Goschen said £910,000 of the surplus arose from the internal revenue duty on alcoholic spirits. There was an increase in consumption during the year of 19,881,000 gallons of home made spirits. Tobacco had given an increase of £353,000 and beer an increase of £373,000.

The net reduction of the public debt during the year was £8,512,000, making a total reduction of over £44,000,000 during the time the present administration had been in office. [Cheers.]

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

LAKEFIELD LOCALS.

A Pleasant Union Social Meeting—The Sunbeam Launched.

Correspondence of the Review.

A UNION MEETING.—A union social meeting of Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor and Mission Band of the Presbyterian church was held in the Royal Templars hall on Tuesday evening. The attendance was very good. Mr. W. M. Graham presided as chairman. The meeting was opened by singing a hymn and prayer by Rev. J. McEwen. Addresses of welcome were given by Mr. W. M. Graham, President of the Christian Endeavor society, and Miss Duff, President of the Mission Band, and to which Mr. David Smith responded on behalf of the session. Papers were read on the objects and aims of the Mission Band and the Society of Christian Endeavor by Misses May Nelson and Clara F. McEwen respectively. Rev. J. McEwen delivered a short address showing that both societies were organized about two years ago and were each in their several departments doing good work, and [illegible] that there was still room in each of these for more members and that they would be glad to enlarge the membership of each. Refreshments were served by an efficient committee of young ladies and young men. The choir rendered a selection very acceptably. A vote of thanks was passed to the Royal Templars for use of their hall. The meeting then closed by singing a hymn and repeating the Lord's Prayer in concert.

THE SUNBEAM.—The Sunbeam was launched very quietly on Saturday morning about 7 o'clock. Eight was the hour appointed, but owing to one of the ropes breaking they were obliged to let her go, consequently a number of people were disappointed in witnessing the launch.

LAKEFIELD WAS REPRESENTED.—Quite a number of our Lakefield people were down attending the assembly at the Edison Works and returned home well pleased.

NORWOOD NEWS.

A New High School Building to be Erected—The Footballers.

Correspondence of the Review.

LECTURE AND SOCIAL.—Dr. McTavish, of Toronto, lectured in the Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening and a social was given by the Home Mission in the Sunday school room after the lecture.

FOOTBALL.—The football season is now fairly opened and the kickers are putting in some solid practice every evening. It is a pity that no other place in this section of Ontario takes any interest in this manly sport. As a consequence, our boys fail to get on any matches until the colleges open in the fall.

BE WATCHFUL.—No more robberies are reported since the recent raid on Fitzgerald's hardware. It strikes an outsider that if merchants here exercised even ordinary precaution there would be fewer burglars about.

THE HIGH SCHOOL.—The Board of Education met last week to consider Inspector Smith's report of the High School. The grading of the teaching was high, the discipline first-class, the work of the Headmaster excellent and the attendance and general tone of the school all that could be desired. On Friday evening the School Board and Headmaster inspected the building once used for a union school to see if they could be temporarily fitted up for a high school. The buildings were pronounced unfit for school purposes and the Board are determined to erect a new high school building which will be a credit to Norwood. Although it will increase the taxes somewhat it is to be noted that the non-residents and staff have left on an average for the past three years over $2,500 per annum in the village. Assuming that ten per cent. of that sum is profit, the school was worth to Norwood $250 per year. The expense over and above all receipts did not amount to over half that sum, and therefore the school is a financial gain. The wheel and hub factory and the high school are the only two paying industries of any importance in the place. It is to be hoped that the miserable penuriousness of a certain class will not hamper the Board in their laudable efforts to make Norwood the principal centre not only in this county but in the districts adjoining.

ELOPED WITH AN M.D.

A Traveling Doctor Alleged to Have Eloped With Another Man's Wife.

GUELPH, April 23.—Harrison Lyon, who works for Mr. M. O'Connor, Elora-road, was in the city to-day and stated his belief that his wife has eloped with a Dr. McKenzie, who has been staying at the Commercial Hotel since last October. Mr. Lyon's story is that his wife and he lived together for six years until she went to be treated by this Dr. McKenzie, who seems to have won away his wife's affections. Three times she left him, and three times he received her back again. Mrs. Lyon has been working at service in the city for some weeks, and at the last place was visited by her husband and by the doctor, who, she represented, was dogging her. On Tuesday evening of last week she left her place, and has not been seen there since. The same day Dr. McKenzie left the Commercial, saying he would be back in a day or two, but he has not yet turned up. Mr. Lyon is firmly convinced that they have gone off together. The woman is about 23 years old, while the traveling doctor is a middle-aged man and leaves a child in this city.

BLOODSHED IN COKE REGIONS.

Trouble Attending the Eviction of Strikers' Families in Pennsylvania—The Sheriff Furiously Attacked By Women.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., April 23.—Shortly after noon to-day Sheriff McCormick with deputies began making evictions at Leisenring No. 3. A Hungarian woman named Glashko shot at McCormick, the ball inflicting a painful flesh wound in the hand. The sheriff grappled with the woman and wrested the revolver from her. She then secured an ax and attacked the sheriff with the weapon, cutting his foot. McCormick then drew a revolver and shot the woman, fatally injuring her. By this time a great crowd of strikers had gathered and one Hungarian made for the sheriff. McCormick shot the man in the mouth. The deputies were gathered in a knot by this time and the evictions were carried through, but not until the deputies fired into the Hungarians again.

Not a Street Car Running in Detroit—Further Trouble Feared.

DETROIT, April 23.—The street car service on all lines of the City Railroad Company is completely paralyzed to-day. A few stray cars were started this morning, but the attempt to run them was soon abandoned by the company and scarcely a wheel is moving. Trouble is anticipated.

Wages Down.

LONDON, April 24.—The wages of the miners in the Cleveland iron mining district of Yorkshire have been reduced five per cent. At a meeting to-day of Welsh tin plate manufacturers, at which four-fifths of the manufacturers were present, a proposition to close the works controlled by them for a month was adopted.

Flour Up.

LEEDS, April 23.—The Millers' Association has again raised the price of flour. This time the price of flour is increased 1s 6d per bag, which makes a total increase since February last of 6s 6d per bag.

Rioting Stonemasons.

NEW YORK, April 24.—The police reserves were called out up town this afternoon. One hundred Italian stonemasons who had struck for higher wages attempted to drive the men from work on buildings. Fifteen rioters were arrested.

An Old Superstition Revived.

ATHENS, April 23.—Great excitement exists in Corfu because of the murder of a Christian boy in the Jewish quarter. The populace believe that the child was killed by the Hebrews as a Passover sacrifice. The Hebrews are terrified at the threatening attitude assumed by the Christians, and have barricaded their houses, in which they have taken refuge, and are calling upon the Government for protection.

She Wanted to Live in a City.

MADOC, April 23.—Mr. C. Plane, a yeoman, resides in the first concession of the township of Madoc. His wife, it is said, has repeatedly urged her husband to move into the village or the city, as she disliked living in the country. This, however, did not meet Mr. Plane's views and as a result some trouble has arisen between them. Yesterday afternoon, during Mr. Plane's absence from home, his barn was destroyed by fire, together with some cattle, farming implements and a quantity of grain. It was alleged that the wife was the cause of the fire and she was arrested and brought before a justice of the peace in the village of Madoc, who acquitted her.

A Little "Pipe Clay," But Efficient.

PARIS, April 23.—General Saussier yesterday reviewed the Paris garrison, numbering 10,000 men, in order to test its readiness for a campaign. Some rawness was observed among the cavalry, which is attributed to recent recruiting, but the general promptitude of the men was such that a German officer who witnessed the review remarked that even if there was a little "pipe clay" among them they showed striking efficiency.

Mansel Emulates Dunlo.

LONDON, April 23.—Sir Richard Mansel, a Welsh baronet of long pedigree but short purse, has married a dashing music-hall dancer and singer named Lily Earnest, who will remain on the boards and with her earnings help clear the baronet's encumbered estates. Previous to her marriage she commanded a salary of only £5 a week, but will probably soon be worth £100 as a rival to Lady Dunlo.

Sir Richard Mansel, Bart., is the 10th holder of the baronetcy, which was created in 1621. Lily Earnest is his second wife.

Catarrh

Is a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

Not Guilty of Manslaughter.

HAMILTON, April 23.—At the Wentworth Assizes to-day Timothy Wood was placed on trial charged with manslaughter, in having caused the death of George Foster of Winona, who was found dead in bed after a quarrel with prisoner. The bruises found on the body of deceased were accounted for in a measure by the testimony of witnesses who saw him fall from a train, and the jury acquitted the prisoner.

The Key to Success.

Everyone wants a good cow and all farmers know what a good cow is when the year's record of quantity and quality is made up, but how can we know the quantity and quality of each cow in the herd, is the question? Governor Hoard of Wisconsin says that the spring balance with adjustments to save subtracting the weight of the pail is the most perfect method of keeping a daily record of individual cows that he has yet seen and that if it can be put into common use it will do more missionary work against stupidity than anything else. He is right, and the second step will soon follow. This is the determination of the solids and fats. One of the best machines for this purpose is Dr. Babcock's tester, one of which should be owned and used by every butter and cheese factory, not only for the protection of the manufacturers but for the patrons as well. By this each patron can tell where he may or may not belong, and little effort is made to learn a lesson from the failure, or pains taken to discover the shortest road to success. The spring balance will quickly show that one-quarter of the herd are dead-heads and the chain and tester will sign the death warrant of fully another quarter. Thus half the herd has been gotten rid of. If the weeding out has been judiciously done, the other half will make a good foundation with which to start a really superior herd. This half is to be fed more judiciously and cared for with greater judgment and studied more critically.—Prof. I. P. Roberts of Cornell University.

English vs. American Hens.

It is a well-known fact that the average number of eggs received from hens in England is greater than in America. Just why this should be the case deserves consideration. English papers do not hesitate to report as many as 200 eggs as layed by a hen in one year, while in this country it is a remarkably productive hen that lays 175 eggs. The majority of poultrymen here are satisfied if they secure ten dozen eggs in a year from each hen in a flock. We once imported a Black Minorca hen from England, whose laying capacity seemed to have no limit, and she was mated with a choice Black Minorca male, yet not one of her daughters, or granddaughters approached her in this respect. Whether there is something in the climate here, or whether the English breeds degenerated by change is not known, but we well know that certain breeds will thrive in England, but will not do much in the way of giving a profit here, except by extra attention, and among them we may mention the Dorkings and Hamburgs, breeds that are generally favorites in England.—Buffalo Express.

Bringing in Brick.

The Hastings Star says:—"Mr. Henry Wason, of Percy, disposed of his entire stock of brick to the contractor for the Edison Works, Peterborough, and the whole was sent forward by rail some days ago. Mr. Wason is urging the railway officials to run a siding into his brick yard, which would give him better shipping facilities."

The Girls' Guild Apron Sale.

The Girls' Guild of St. John's church had success to reward their labors in their apron sale which was held yesterday in the vacant store above Simcoe-st. on George-st. A large display of aprons, of all patterns, shapes and sizes, were offered for sale and found ready purchasers, while a variety table with sundry fancy articles was also a remunerative source of trade. In the evening refreshments were served. The exact sum which was realized could not be learned, but the financial results were very encouraging.

High Water in the Trent.

The Campbellford Herald says:—"The Trent river has been gradually rising for about three weeks past, and is now a wide-spreading, rapidly-flowing, and beautiful stream. It has risen to its highest water mark, and is said to be higher than it ever was since the great flood of 1870. The piers are only about a foot above water, the break-water at the rear of Mr. Smith's flour mill is flowed over, and the water has crept up and flooded the floor of the dye-house of the Trent Valley mills."

THE ENGLISHMAN'S DAY.

Entertainment and Tea of Lansdowne Lodge, S.O.E. on St. George's Day.

Yesterday was St. George's day and the anniversary of Albion's patron saint was not allowed to pass without some stir among the local Sons of England.

Lansdowne Lodge gave a tea and entertainment in the handsome rooms of the Order on Hunter-st. last evening. The attendance was large, the commodious hall being filled. From 5.30 until 7.30 refreshments of the most tempting and toothsome kind were served and hundreds partook.

When the creature man had received satisfactory attention an excellent programme was rendered. Dr. Scott occupied the chair and the duties that fell to his lot were ably performed. Miss Tivey opened the programme with an excellent instrumental solo, followed by a pleasing vocal selection by Miss Lily Jackson. Then came a humorous reading in inimitable style by Mr. C. N. Brown, succeeded by a delightful song by Mrs. H. Stapleton and mouth organ selection by Mr. Wm. Burdock. Miss Tivey then rendered a vocal solo and a ten minutes intermission was given. Part two opened with the patriotic song "The Union Jack of Old England," by Mr. H. Barnes. Misses Barlow and Taylor then gave a pretty dialogue and Mr. John Nugent recited and was encored when he responded to calls and gave "Jimmy Butler and the Owl" to the great amusement of the audience. Miss Alice Barlow gave a cleverly-rendered character song, after which the programme concluded with the laughable farce "Pumpkin Ridge." This was presented by the same caste as at other entertainments and the audience were kept in roars of laughter throughout.

"God Save the Queen" was sung, after which some of the young people remained and enjoyed a few hours dancing. The evening was a most enjoyable one.

The members of Lansdowne Lodge desire to return thanks to those who so kindly took part in the programme and also to the public for their liberal patronage.

Will Be Interred in Toronto.

Mrs. Henderson, relict of the late John Henderson, superintendent of the Toronto Gas Company and mother of Mrs. Robert Hall, died at the residence of Mr. Hall on Stewart-st., at the advanced age of 75 years. The funeral will take place on Saturday to the Grand Trunk station, the remains being taken to Toronto for interment. The deceased lady had many friends in Peterborough who will regret her demise.

House-Keepers, Attention!

House-keepers who purpose replenishing their stock of furniture will make a note of the sale by auction of the new furniture in the store, No. 404 George-st., next to H. S. Macdonald's drug store, on Saturday, May 2nd, at one o'clock p.m. The furniture offered is all new and well made and finished and such as is suitable for every-day wants, parlor and bed-room sets, lounges, easy chairs, chairs, tables, etc. The stock must be cleared out, so bargains will be the rule. Don't forget the date. J. Haggart, auctioneer.

Results of the Rebellion.

The Kingston correspondent of the Mail announces the following death, the deceased being known here as he went through Peterborough several times as recruiting officer for the Mounted Police:—"Sergt. Matthew Coyne, of "A" Battery, died last evening. He has been long connected with the military forces. In 1885 he accompanied the battery to the Northwest, and is said to have had pieces of a splintered ball driven into his throat at Cut Knife Creek battle. This developed cancer, and after a lingering illness attended with much agony he died to-day."

A Lesson for the General Public.

The general public should read and learn a lesson from the experience of two citizens in the Police Court this morning. Messrs. John McFarlane and Moses Rangie were charged with having allowed their cows to run at large. The first did not know that his beast had escaped from the yard and the second thought his would not do any harm as there was nothing in the gardens yet. The Magistrate reminded the latter that a cow's foot would make a bad and serious hole in a soft lawn at this time of year and fined both men $[illegible] or ten days. The cow by-law will be rigidly enforced so that all owners of bovines should take warning.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Power for Farmers.

Power on the farm is a great consideration, not merely the power of horses which can be utilized in various ways to drive machinery, but a steady, cheap power that can be harnessed to its work easily and quickly. Such a power is the wind developed through a wind-engine or wind-mill as they are generally called. Where shall the farmer who requires a wind-mill get his machine? The answer is easy if he will refer to the catalogue and handbook issued by Mr. George McWilliams, the Peterborough manufacturer of wind-mills, pumps, fanning-mills, etc. The catalogue is full of information on above points, and clearly points out the advantage of using a wind-mill for the various work to which it can be put. Every farmer who requires power to grind, thresh, saw wood, clean grain, etc., should send for a copy of the book and read up the facts. Mr. McWilliams also makes a variety of useful and well-constructed pumps for outside and inside use, particulars of which are given. The catalogue is from the REVIEW Job Department and is neatly printed. Send for a copy.

EMERALD BENEFICIAL ASSOCIATION

An Entertainment in Their New Hall—Address by the Grand President.

An entertainment was given last evening by Peterborough Branch No. 21, of the Emerald Beneficial Association in the lecture hall of the Catholic Association, which the Emerald's have secured for their meetings. The entertainment marked the taking possession by the Emeralds of their new place of meeting. The hall was handsomely decorated for the occasion with bunting and flags, and several mottoes adorned the walls, including a large one bidding their friends thrice welcome, and "E.B.A., Welcome to our Friends." There was a good attendance of members and friends of the Association. Mr. E. O'Neil, President, occupied the chair, and with him on the platform were Rev. Father Scollard, Mr. D. A. Carey, of Toronto, Grand President of the Association, and Mr. John McGrath, Past President of the Branch.

Mr. CAREY was first called on, and explained the objects of the society. After introductory remarks, he said that the Emerald Association was a purely Catholic benevolent organization. It was introduced into America by an Irish priest who, on coming to the Dutch town of Reading, Pa., recognized the desirability of having a social benevolent society in connection with the church. No one, of Irish or other nationality, who had become connected with the society, ever regretted that it had been established. He believed it was one of the best organizations affiliated with the Catholic church, and it was open to good practical Catholics of every nationality. He loved the dear old island, the Emerald Isle, but his views were not confined to it alone and he desired to draw all nationalities into the organization. The society had had its times of trials, its ups and downs, but, like their church, it rested on a solid foundation and would endure. They desired no members who were not heartily in accord with the church. Being benevolent in its character, they cared for sick members and looked after the widows and orphans of deceased members, and as the organization became stronger they would be able to do more. It also had the literary feature, which he considered very important, as it aided young men to improve their education and to develop their natural abilities. He invited all men who were members of the Catholic church to unite with the society and referred to the benefits that would accrue. The Archbishop of Toronto and bishops of the diocese and, he believed, the Bishop of Peterborough, commended the Emeralds, and they would commend them so long as the society did right. The society was growing rapidly, especially in parts of the United States. The members were becoming known as active workers in the church. The time was when almost the whole work of the church fell upon the priesthood, but now they were being more actively assisted by the members and some were of more assistance than Emeralds who lived up to the teachings of their order. He commended the idea of the members going in a body once a year to receive the holy communion, and the late Archbishop Lynch had approved of the idea. The society stirred up careless Catholics to their duty. They had made a good record in this regard here and [illegible] a well delivered address, he thanked them for being present, and urged the members to go on, to be true to their church and the principles of their order, and the society would be a success.

As the Grand President concluded, Miss Lauretta Devlin, a little daughter of Mr. W. J. Devlin, Vice-President of the Society, stepped forward and presented him with a handsome bouquet, saying "Mr. Grand President, allow me to present you with a bouquet from Branch 21, E. B. A." Mr. Carey graciously received the flowers with a kiss amid applause. On motion of Mr. Hogan, seconded by Mr. McGrath, a vote of thanks was tendered the Grand President.

Mr. R. M. Roy was then introduced, and with his excellent stereopticon threw on the screen a series of excellent views. Beginning at London, he took the audience through France, Switzerland and Italy to Rome, giving views of the chief objects of interest. In the Eternal City views were given of St. Peter's, the Coliseum and of the Vatican. A number of dissolving views were also given, and a fine picture of St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough, and portraits of Bishop Dowling, Father Rudkins and Father McEvay. The views were all excellent and were seen with a distinctness that, as Father Scollard remarked, made one think that one was looking at the actual buildings and scenes. There was frequent applause, and for over two hours Mr. Roy entertained the audience in a pleasing manner. The "Leap for Life," the "Clinging to the Cross," and other series were beautiful, and several highly amusing pictures were also introduced.

Mr. Burdick gave a mouth organ solo and was several times encored. Rev. Father Scollard closed the entertainment with a few remarks, in which he regretted the absence from the programme of some who were expected to take part, and expressed the high appreciation of himself and the audience of the address of the President and the excellent views given by Mr. Roy, and his pleasure in listening to Mr. Burdick's music.

A Brilliant Organ Recital.

Dr. Davies, the talented organist of St John's church, gave another of his popular organ recitals at the church last evening, and the grand musical programme was listened to by a large audience who could not fail to appreciate the exquisite music. The programme is given below and will not be commented on in extenso, but the second number, the chorus from Handel's "Israel in Egypt" with pedal passage was a grand revelation given by a master hand. The overture, "Zampa," with brilliant orchestral effects, was another number of unusual beauty. The programme was as follows:

1. Andante and Allegro vivace from Mendelssohn's Fifth Symphony....................
2. Chorus, "The Horse and His Rider" from Handel's "Israel in Egypt"..................
3. Minuet and trio...........Schubert's Octette
4. Andante from third organ sonata......Mendelssohn.
5. Overture.........."Zampa"..........Herold
6. Andante Opus 22......................Dussek
7. Gavotte in D............................Davies
8. Paraphrase..........."Carmen"..........Bizet

How Great are the Goughs!

There is apparently no limit to the ingenuity and resources of Gough Bros., the wonderful cheap men. Though always making some startling advance on the prominent positions they take, the last great stride is after all, an astonisher. They have saved a great clothing dealer from bankruptcy. He was going to the wall for want of a large amount of ready cash. He offered his stock at a great sacrifice for cash, and Gough Bros. united the resources of their several establishments in Peterborough, Toronto and Brantford (though for ordinary purposes they are absolutely separate and distinct), paid the wholesaler spot cash for a splendid bill of ready made goods, and that enables Gough Bros. to give the magnificent bargains hinted at in the following specimen brick of paralyzed prices—a few diamond pointed tips?

Men's Suits at		Men's Suits at		Boys' Suits at
$15 00 $14 00 $12 00 $10 00	for $9.	$8 00 $7 00 $6 00 $5 00	for $4.00	$4 00 $4 00 $3 00 $3 25	for $2 90

The same sweeping reductions in shoes and boots, and in every line of the several departments of Gough Bros.' business. A special drive in fine wool hats. See to it that you do not miss this wonderful chance, for at the prices quoted Goughs' great stock of goods will go like snow in the midsummer sun, or like the man who "wants work," when you give him a job. 2d96 2w18

Unseen Dangers.

One of the most important agents of health in the community, is pure drinking water. Many of our city reservoirs, wells, and tanks contain impure water, and in them lurks unseen dangers which are often fatal to young and old. Common and poorly prepared package dyes contain ingredients that are dangerous to the health of the operator, and destroy the fabrics which are colored. In Diamond Dyes there is every guarantee of perfect purity, good results, and stability of color. It is for these reasons Diamond Dyes are so popular.

A Call on the Board of Health

To the Editor of the Review

SIR,—Not all the assurances of individuals can allay the feeling of misgiving that is becoming widespread in this community. That diphtheria is increasing in extent and virulence is plain. The Board of Health of this town has its duties to perform. It does nothing. It does not even hold meetings. For chairman it has a very respectable member who is assisted by a medical health officer of "masterly inactivity." I am not in love with the Board of Trade, but if the Board of Health would resign or transfer their functions to that very progressive body we, the guileless citizens of Peterborough, would feel much relieved. Some of these men are sowing a whirlwind where in some cases they are apt to congratulate themselves upon their diplomacy. Would any officer who knew anything allow the funerals of those who have died from diphtheria to go with a vast concourse through the town? Where is the ignorance of the small pox patients of Montreal in this comparison?

CASH HARDWARE STORE.

On and after 1st April we shall do business on a Cash Basis.

To cover the inevitable losses attendant upon a credit business, which accrue from amount of time spent in keeping accounts, collecting, bad debts, interest account, and in numerous other ways, larger margins of profit must be asked.

In these times cash buyers ask, expect and are entitled to close prices. A careful consideration of the subject convinces us that the time has come for a cash business done on smaller profits.

The only customers who may be put to inconvenience are those who have had long credit. In more ways than one it will be to their advantage to pay cash.

For convenience of our old customers who consider their accounts due when presented, we will call 30 days cash and render all accounts the first of each month, and we wish to say that we will be happy to do business with them on these terms.

As the new departure is something of an experiment, what would be considered a close cash price will be made all through the stock. Not a few leaders only, but a general reduction in everything from the fourth flat to the cellar.

Our idea is to perform more than promised rather than promise more than can be fulfilled.

Our stock is large and varied, consisting of Builders', Contractors', Household, Mechanics', Painters', Shoemakers', Farm, Mill, Factory, Lumbermen's, Sporting, Threshers', Cabinetmakers', and other lines of Hardware.

An old saying:—"You should go to Kingan's where you can get anything from a Needle to an Anchor."

FRIDAY, APRIL 24, 1891.

BEATRIX RANDOLPH.

BY JULIAN HAWTHORNE.

"Dearest boy! do tell me everything!"

Ed heaved a sigh. The sense of his misfortunes, dispelled for a time by the animation of his self vindication and anecdotes, now returned upon him. "I'm the most unlucky devil alive, and there's no use talking about it," he declared despairingly.

"Oh, Ed! if you can be married what greater happiness could there be?" said his sister, with a suppressed sigh for her own unimportant misery.

"Exactly! but we can't."

"Oh, you can! Who says not? Don't ever let anything prevent you!" Beatrix exclaimed with great energy. There is sometimes a bitter consolation in urging upon others conduct which we would fain embrace ourselves. "If you love a person everything is right and wise, except to let yourself be parted from them. But that is almost wicked!"

"What must be must!" responded Ed in a still more hopeless tone, but not without a secret hope that some method might be devised to escape the inevitable.

Beatrix paused, thinking intently, and with increasing agitation.

"I believe I know what you mean," she said at last, with a deep undertone of sad affection in her voice. "You think you ought not to marry her because I am your sister—that is, because I have wronged her. Oh, Ed, that is it! You can't deny it, dear. You would sacrifice all your happiness so as not to seem to take her part against me. I might have known that it could be nothing less noble than that; but it shall not be—you must not dream of it! When she knows how sorry I am—and she shall know—everybody shall know it! I'll tell you how it shall be," she continued, springing up from the sofa on which they were sitting together, and pacing up and down, passing the fingers of one hand at intervals over her forehead and hair. At length she stopped in front of him.

"To-morrow evening is my last performance," she said. "After it is over I will ask Gen. Inigo to tell the audience, or perhaps it would be better if I went out and told them myself, all the whole story, how I came to take her place, and who I really am, and all! After that she will forgive me; I'll make her forgive me for your sake; and then, Ed, dear," she concluded with a misty smile and a tremor of the lip, "you need not be afraid to make her my sister!"

"It's splendid of you to think of such a thing, dear little sis!" exclaimed her brother, drawing her down to him and kissing her. "But it would never do to go to work in that way; in the first place it might knock all your popularity on the head. The public doesn't understand generous and elevated conduct as I do."

"No matter if they don't understand it. I have already made up my mind to one thing, I shall never sing on the stage after to-morrow."

"What a notion! See if you don't."

"No, indeed. I had decided on that before I knew anything about your affairs, you dear boy! The debts are paid, and papa and I can live in the old house again, and that is all I ever meant to do. Being on the stage is not pleasant in some ways, and besides—well, at any rate I'm determined, and when I am determined I never change; and I will tell the audience so to-morrow night."

"No, no! I tell you," cried Ed, becoming lively again, "if singing won't do for you on the stage speechifying's out of the question. You'd be like those women's rights geese. There's no necessity for it, either. If Vera knew that you wouldn't feel hurt at my marrying her I dare say she'd come round all right. The only difficulty then would be that I should seem to be, in a certain way, dependent on her. But I have been thinking the last few days that I'd go into some profession—engineering, or architecture, or something of that kind—and then I guess I could be making money enough in a year or two to take the edge off the thing. I'm not a fool, sis, though maybe I have acted rather like one."

"You are the dearest and best brother in the world," said Beatrix, with the gentleness of profound conviction; and on the heels of this moderate statement Wallie Dinsmore came into the room and invited Edward to sit down to a cold lunch with him. "The ladies would not wait for us," he observed, "and it would be foolhardy for us to wait for dinner. Of course Miss Randolph and Mrs. Dinsmore will pour out our beer for us."

Edward assented; but Beatrix, after a moment's hesitation, excused herself on some feminine plea, and, refusing any escort or offer of a carriage, set out on foot toward her home, as she had accustomed herself to call it. The evening was now at hand, though it lacked something of 4 o'clock. The sidewalks were covered with a drifting layer of white, and the flakes still swirled and dangled downward from the obscure blackness overhead. As Beatrix, walking briskly, approached Madison Square the frigid glare of the electric lamp, from the summit of its immense mast, marked itself out on the storm like a gigantic tent of light.

Warmly wrapped in her fur lined cloak Beatrix did not mind the snow and wind: they gave her a kind of pleasure; she felt strengthened and heartened by the robust pungency of the atmosphere. It reminded her of her winters in the old place far up the Hudson—the days of frozen forests and gigantic snowballs, and the long icicles hanging from the eaves on the southwest corner. Well, her work was all but done, and she might begin that life again as soon as she pleased. But could that life ever begin again for her? After all the events and experiences of this season could she, in a moment, become Beatrix Randolph once more? Had not the name of Marana carried some spell with it, whose effects would never leave her? As she speculated thus, and her heart began to sink again, she turned the corner of Fifth avenue and came into collision with a gentleman who was proceeding swiftly in the opposite direction.

SMELLING AT THE CORK.

The smell of the cork won't cure you. Rest assured of that, Madam. That's common sense in a nutshell. Do not take a dose or so of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and expect to feel well immediately. You may find marvelously speedy effects from its use, but chronic, or lingering, diseases, which have had possession of the system for years, can't be cured in a day. Such maladies are generally slow in their inception, slow in their progress, and must be cured, if at all, by slow degrees and regular stages.

Perseverance in the use of the "Favorite Prescription" for a reasonable length of time will cure all those chronic weaknesses, irregularities and derangements with which so many females are afflicted. But the use of this world-famed medicine must be persisted in for a considerable time in long standing, complicated and obstinate cases.

Go to your drug store, pay a dollar, get a bottle and try it—try a second, a third if necessary. Before the third one's been taken you'll know there's a remedy to help you. Then you'll keep on taking it and a cure 'll come.

But if you shouldn't feel the help, should be disappointed in the results—you'll find a guarantee printed on the bottle-wrapper that'll get your money back for you.

How many women are there who'd rather have the money than health? And "Favorite Prescription" produces health. Wonder is that there's a woman willing to suffer when there's a guaranteed remedy in the nearest drug store.

Where proof's so easy, can you afford to doubt?

GLADSTONE CRITICIZED.

Balfour Stirring Up Gladstone with a Letter Filled with Gibes at the Liberals.

LONDON, April 23.—Mr. Balfour has written a letter in which he comments at length upon Mr. Gladstone's recent criticisms on the Irish Land Bill. Mr. Balfour says: "The Liberals oppose, line by line, a measure which is accepted in its main principles by every section of the Irish party and eagerly desired by the bulk of the Irish agricultural community, involving no risk, theoretical or practical, to the British taxpayer. Mr. Gladstone does not even pretend to hold out any prospect of a settlement of the question except by occupying the time of Parliament, if he gets a majority, with a fruitless discussion of absurd and impossible schemes of Home Rule.

"While he has been voting on abstract resolutions about self-government, rural parishes and registration, the Government has done more to advance the principle of local self-government in every part of the kingdom, to lighten the cost of education of the working classes, to strengthen the defences of the Empire and to deal with social questions than an administration pledged to Home Rule would be likely to do in a generation. The Government, though not following Mr. Gladstone's example in confining its attention to Ireland, has effected and is effecting more for the material welfare of the country than any of its predecessors."

THE RIPPER IN NEW YORK

A MURDERER SIMILAR TO THE WHITECHAPEL BUTCHERIES.

A Disreputable Woman of Gotham Cut to Pieces and Shockingly Mutilated in One of the Worst Districts—Her Suspected Murderer in Custody.

NEW YORK, April 24.—About 10.45 last night a man and woman entered East River Hotel, Catherine and Water-streets. The man's entry in the register reads "Knickloe and wife." The man was a stranger, while the woman was a dissolute character who frequented the neighborhood. They were assigned to a room on the top floor. This morning a servant endeavored to awaken the couple, but did not succeed. The door of the room was forced and on the bed was found the woman dead and disembowelled. The man had disappeared. The murderer was a man 32 years old and shabbily dressed. It is believed he is "Jack the Ripper." The woman was cut in pieces in the same manner as the Whitechapel victims. She was lying naked on the bed, the sheet and her underclothing were tied tightly about the throat and head, and the abdomen was cut and slashed in a horrible manner by a dull, broken table knife which lay on the floor near the bed. The viscera had been cut and from appearances a part was missing. The woman had evidently been strangled.

The victim has been recognized as Carrie Brown, aged 60. Nearly all the detectives in the city are engaged on the case and every effort is being made to find a man known as "Frenchy," an acquaintance of the woman. The district where the murder was committed is similar to the Whitechapel district of London. The house where the murder was committed is known as "The House of All Drinks," from the big sign of the many kinds of vile beverages that are on draught there. The place is perhaps one of the worst of its class. In the very room in which this murder was committed another low woman was found dead one morning. The bartender has also been arrested for killing a man with a sabre.

Up to midnight four men and seven women had been arrested, who are expected to throw light on the case. At 1 a.m. Adolph Kaltenberg, whose description answers to that of the murderer, was taken into custody.

CUT HIS THROAT AT 19.

Tragic Suicide of a Young Lad in Dundas County.

MORRISBURG, Ont., April 24.—Herman Servise, aged 19, only son of Mrs. William Servise of Iroquois, committed suicide at his sister's. For some time past the young man has been working on a farm across the river and had been in low spirits. He retired to his room and shortly after was found with his throat cut.

Killed By a Cherry Stone.

LINDSAY, April 24.—The 10-year-old daughter of John Fowler of the 14th concession, near Janetville, died under very distressing circumstances. She swallowed a cherry stone, which lodged somewhere in the bowels. An operation was performed to relieve her pain and the stone taken out, but death put a stop to her sufferings.

THE SILENT ONE SLEEPS.

COUNT MOLTKE DIES SUDDENLY FROM HEART FAILURE.

He Had Attended the Reichstag in the Afternoon and the News of His Death Came Upon Berlin Like a Thunderbolt—The Child of Fortune's History.

BERLIN, April 24.—Field Marshal Count Helmut Von Moltke, the man who has so often led the Prussian eagle to victory, the man whose praises all Germany has universally sung, whose name has been on every tongue for half a century, and upon whose honors unique in the history of the Fatherland were showered on the occasion of the 90th anniversary of his birth, on October 26 last, died today in his castle at Kreisau, near the beautiful promenades of the Thiergarten, died in the uniform which he always wore, and with the iron cross pinned on his breast. To the end he was the simple soldier—as modest and unassuming as when, an unknown lieutenant 70 years ago, he proffered his sword to Prussia's King.

Count Von Moltke attended the session of the Reichstag this afternoon. His death was very sudden and the physicians who were summoned announced that it was caused by failure of the heart. He died at 9.45 p.m., passing away quietly and painlessly. The news of the Count's death has caused great sorrow here.

Helmut Karl Bernhard Von Moltke was essentially a child of the century. Born in the village of Parchim, in Mecklenburg, on Sunday, Oct. 26, 1800, the son of Baron Fritz Von Moltke, he belonged, on his father's side, to one of the oldest families in the Empire. The Baron resigned his place in the army and took up his abode in Luebeck. In that historical city young Helmut made his first acquaintance with the "hereditary enemy" of Germany, the soldiers of France. Napoleon had made himself Emperor, had conquered Austria and Russia at Austerlitz, had dismembered the holy Roman Kingdom and by the battle of Jena had humbled and crushed poor Prussia. On Nov. 6 the city was besieged and the French soldiers soon sacked the place. Baron Moltke's home suffered among the rest. The insult left a lasting impression upon the mind of the boy, who was destined, years later, to have such terrible revenge. By the war and the humbled condition of Prussia Baron Moltke lost his fortune and was obliged again to take up his sword in the service of Denmark. Young Moltke then entered the military academy at Copenhagen. His resignation was accepted in 1822, and after a creditable examination he was appointed a second lieutenant in the 8th Prussian Regiment of Infantry.

In 1835 he set out for Turkey and was for four years in the service of Turkey. His life in the far East was full of adventure. He traveled through Asia Minor and camped at the sources of the Euphrates and Tigris; he took part in the memorable and cruel campaign against Mehemed Ali, and acted as an escort to the Sultan in his journey through Rumelia and Bulgaria. He prepared an elaborate work on the condition of the Turkish army; he drew plans of the Dardanelles and surveyed both banks of the Bosporus, he drew a map of Constantinople, inspected [illegible] and built bridges, palaces and aqueducts.

In 1845 he was appointed adjutant of Prince Henry of Prussia, who was then living in Rome. He spent almost a year in Italy, when the death of the Prince brought him again to Prussia. He was again placed in the general staff, being assigned to duty at Coblenz. During the following seven years he advanced rapidly up the military ladder until 1855, when he was appointed adjutant of the Crown Prince. At 56 years of age, he succeeded to a place in which he was destined to win immortal fame. King Frederick William IV., on account of sickness, was obliged to give up the reins of government in favor of his brother, Prince William, in 1857. General von Manteuffel had been summoned to the Cabinet and Moltke succeeded him as chief of the general staff.

Moltke's first duty in his new office was a reorganization of the army. This he completed in 1860, as well as plans for a war against France, which was then believed imminent. The war with Denmark, however, came first. Although his name was not heralded at its close Moltke was the real conqueror of the heights of Dueppel, and added to Germany the proud provinces of Schleswig-Holstein and Lauenburg. The sound of cannon had hardly ceased to reverberate when Prussia began preparations for another war. Moltke, Bismarck, Roon and the King foresaw trouble from the common occupation of Schleswig-Holstein by Prussia and Austria. On June 8, 1866, the tocsin of war was again sounded. Moltke's towering and prophetic genius asserted itself again. True to his great strategic principle, "March separately, attack in union," he sent the three army corps of Prussia toward Koeniggraetz. The brilliant victory laid the foundation for the union of the German States. In one night he was famous. His return home was a triumphal march, of which a Cæsar might have been proud. Villages were decorated in his honor, deputations were sent to meet him, cities gave him their freedom. "Prussia knows itself now," he said. "That is the greatest result of the war. Now Germany may say that it is Germany." The Prussian Landtag voted Moltke a donation of 200,000 thalers for his services.

But now, harder and grander duties fell to his lot.

Before the year 1870 had opened the plans for the mobilization and transportation of the troops and for operations on the field of battle were in the hands of King William. Every emergency was provided for, and Moltke fought over and over again the great battles of the Franco-Prussian war before a cannon had been fired. To his masterful foresight was due the wonderful success of the German arms. Seven days after the declaration of war, on July 19, the mobilization of the troops was complete. Eight days later the armies were drawn up between the Rhine and Saar. All are familiar with the history of that war. Its great victories—Mars-la-Tour, Gravelotte, Sedan and Metz—were, in a great measure, his victories. Metz, too, capitulated on his birthday, when King William conferred upon him the title and dignity of count. Upon his return home, the Reichstag voted him a donation of 300,000 thalers; Emperor William appointed him field-marshal general, a life member of the Herren-Haus and knight of the order Pour le Merite; universities conferred degrees upon him; cities gave him diplomas of citizenship; forts and men-of-war were christened with his name. He left Berlin on July 31, 1870, the subject of a king; he entered Berlin on March 16, 1871, the citizen of an empire.

SHELLED WITH SHRAPNELL.

Manipur Villages Burned and the Rebels Shot Down.

SIMLA, April 24.—The British column advancing on the Manipuris under Gen. Lockhardt reached a large native settlement in the Bahagri Valley. The British force halted when within sight of the settlement, and sent scouts forward to inform the Manipuris that the British general was awaiting proposals of peace from the insurgent tribes. The rebels refused to answer, and the British troops were ordered to advance. The column pushed forward and burned twelve villages which had been occupied by the rebels. The latter in great force retreated to the hills. The British force then shelled the hills with shrapnel, killing and wounding large numbers of the enemy. The latter are now believed to be completely cowed.

Portugal Finds That Discretion is the Better Part of Valor.

LONDON, April 24.—As a result of the action of the Portuguese officials in firing on the steamer Agnes, which was conveying the expedition of Sir John Willoughby up the Pungwe, the British Prime Minister forwarded an ultimatum to the Portuguese Government declaring unless facilities were afforded to British subjects to open the Pungwe in accordance with the provisions of the modus vivendi now existing between Great Britain and Portugal, the British Government would resort to force to ensure respect on the part of Portugal to her treaty engagement, and the result would be disastrous to Portugal in that part of the world.

The Portuguese Cabinet to-day, under pressure of Lord Salisbury's ultimatum, gave consent to the free passage of the Pungwe River.

The King of Portugal signed six decrees yesterday, all aiming at economy in the different branches of the public service.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

THE HOUSE TO PROROGUE END OF NEXT WEEK.

Morning Sessions to be Held Until Dissolution—The New Parliament Buildings—A Bust of Robert Baldwin—Assignments and Preferences.

TORONTO, April 23.—The House yesterday decided to meet on Tuesday next at 11 a.m. Morning sessions will be held for the balance of the term and a vigorous effort will be made to finish the work next week.

Mr. Gibson (Hamilton) found the opposition to his amendments to the Insurance Act so strong that he consented to drop the clause which provides that companies shall not be liable for loss occasioned by steam engines within 100 feet of a barn or stack.

The House resolved, on motion of Mr. Fraser, to add an additional sum of $130,000 to the money set apart for the new Parliament buildings, making the total sum appropriated for that purpose $1,200,000.

The legal committee amended G. B. Smith's bill respecting assignments and preferences by insolvents so as to make void any conveyance or assignment by a person within three months of insolvency. Mr. Meredith's bill to amend the Judicature Act to compel the examination by a medical man of any person on whose behalf compensation for personal injuries might be claimed was so amended as to make the examining physician an impartial witness.

The Municipal Committee dealt with Mr. Tait's bill to amend the Municipal Act in different respects. The clause permitting the expenditure of money on the celebration of national and other holidays and the reception of guests was amended so that cities of over 100,000 may spend $5000, cities between 20,000 and 100,000 may spend $1000, and cities and towns less than 20,000 $400. The clause giving police commissioners power to regulate and prohibit the playing of musical instruments in streets, parks or public places was adopted. It does not apply to military bands on duty. Mayor Clarke moved that police commissioners be given power to regulate and prohibit public speaking in streets, parks, etc. The committee was equally divided on this subject and it was defeated by the casting vote of the chairman. The clause providing for the proper erection and the inspection of builders' scaffolds was adopted.

Letters patent have been issued incorporating H. H. Sypps, Essex, G. J. Leggatt, J. A. Smith and A. H. Clarke, Windsor, and C. H. Delisle, Walkerville, as the Farmers' Natural Gas and Oil Company with a capital of $100,000 to carry on a general gas and oil business in the county of Essex.

Mr. Meredith introduced a bill at the instance of the city of Toronto to amend the act relating to public highways, so that the clause prohibiting traffic over bridges at a faster rate than a walk shall not apply to iron or steel bridges except at the option of the municipality.

There is on exhibition in the library a plaster cast of Robert Baldwin, executed by F. H. T. Dunbar. Those who remember the features and the attitude of the great Reformer when speaking say that the sculptor has done his work well.

GRAND VALLEY, Ont., April 23.—At the coroner's inquest on the child which was found on the C. P. The jury decided that the child came to its death through the violence of some person or persons unknown, and that the box was dropped off the train.

KILLED AT PLAY.

Fatal Bout With Foils in the London Military School.

LONDON, April 24.—It now transpires that Sergeant John Nelson of Chatham, who died at the Military School here Wednesday, was not a victim of grip, as reported. It has since transpired that the young man was the victim of an accident, having been stabbed accidentally in a fencing bout with a fellow pupil, the button having, it is said, come off the foil.

HIS HEART WAS BROKEN.

A Son's Disgrace Causes His Aged Father's Demise from Grief.

KINCARDINE, April 24.—William Remington, father of the young man now in jail on the charge of murdering Agent Flett at Arthur, died at his farm near Hunter. Ever since the arrest of his son Mr. Remington has been in a very depressed state, and latterly has been confined to his bed, being much weakened by fits of weeping which overwhelmed him at the thought of the disgrace brought upon his honorable name. He has never seen his son since his arrest, and it is said that his family were afraid to let him visit Joe as he had threatened to shoot him.

A BOODLER CAUGHT.

Toronto Was Too Dangerous for the Texan and He Left for the East.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 24.—L. Piggott, the Texan who stole 15,000 sheep and 80 horses some time ago, sold them for $30,000 and skipped from San Antonio, was arrested here to-night. The woman with whom he fled and with whom he lived in Toronto for some days was arrested in Montreal this afternoon. Prisoner acknowledged his identity and said he was only waiting the arrival of the woman, when they intended to take the first steamer for England. Only $600 was found in his possession.

Signed the Transfer and Died.

CANNINGTON, Ont., April 24.—J. [illegible] Smith, proprietor of the Queen's Hotel, had just completed the sale of his hotel property to Mr. T. Edwards and after signing the papers he complained of a pain in his head and thought he would lie down for a few minutes. He did so, but in [illegible] his life had left him. His sudden death is attributed to the bursting of a blood vessel in the brain. Deceased was formerly a prominent sporting man, having been the owner of F. O. B. and Maud S.

Suddenly Summoned.

PRESTON, Ont., April 24.—Henry Hagey, ex-reeve of the village, returned from a walk yesterday apparently as well as usual. He entered an adjoining room to prepare for dinner. Shortly after Mr. Maurice Hagey, hearing a noise, entered Mr. Hagey's room, when he was shocked to find his grandfather lying on the floor quite dead. Mr. Hagey was born in Preston in [illegible].

Mutinous Artillerymen Sentenced.

PORTSMOUTH, April 24.—Four artillerymen of the battery which on Monday last mutinied in order to call attention to the grievances and excessive drills from which the men claimed to be suffering have been tried by courtmartial and sentenced to two years' imprisonment each.

KEENE CHRONICLES.

High Water in the Indian River—The Flag On the School House.

Correspondence of the Review.

HIGH WATER.—The water is very high in the Indian River and there is great danger of some of the bridges being carried away, especially the one on the base line near the station. The base line east of the station is impassible.

FALL WHEAT.—The fall wheat looks very good so far.

BUILDING.—Mr. Wm. Fife has Mr. Geo. Shearer at work on his new buildings just north of Mr. Kirby's residence.

HOISTING THE FLAG.—The Empire flag is to be raised on May 1st at 2 p.m. A varied programme has been prepared and a grand time may be expected. The children are preparing a number of patriotic songs and there will be a few speeches by clergymen and others. A very large number will no doubt be present on this interesting occasion.

A Remarkable Statement!

A gentleman largely interested in the Wholesale Drug trade recently declared "that from his extended knowledge of the business in Canada he could assert without fear of contradiction, that the sales for Diamond Dyes in one month, were equal to the total sales of all makes of common crude dyes for one year." There is no doubt we think about the correctness of this estimate. The ladies, who are the consumers, need not be reminded of the great superiority of Diamond Dyes. They are, as in the past, the only trustworthy and reliable dyes now sold for domestic dyeing, and never fail in their work, when properly used.

Pie Social.

On Monday evening next a Pie Social will be given in connection with the Epworth League of Charlotte-st. church. A unique programme will be rendered. An interesting spelling match will be a feature of the evening. Tea and coffee will be served and all kinds of pies for those that are pies-ly inclined. Admission silver collection at the door. d97

Sales Worth Attending.

Mr. C. Stapleton, auctioneer, has booked for early in May two sales of household furniture, furnishings, etc. The goods to be disposed of are all new and in first-class order and of very desirable quality. The circumstances of the sales require that everything must be sold without reserve. Those who are proposing to buy furniture should wait for these sales and possibly secure what they require at prices very much below the average. 2d97

A New Industry.

Mr. Brock's Manufacturing Company are about to erect a large brick building near the Carbon Works for the manufacture of a kind of porcelain ware, largely used in connection with the electric plant. The demand is large and the manufacture will quite extensive. It is understood that the company already have very large orders on hand.

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that the people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick-headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sell at 50c and $1 a package and is called Lane's Family Medicine.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN.

HINTS OF VALUE TO APPLY ALL AROUND THE HOUSE.

Ideal Guests—Etiquette Writers Say Formality is Driving Them Away Along With Old-Fashioned Hospitality —How the Ideal Guest Should Act.

Some writers on etiquette, and more especially the etiquette of this country, complain of the lack of hospitality shown in the present generation, and predict that the time is coming when no one will entertain unless he can see some direct good to himself to be gained by so doing.

Formality does seem to be driving old-fashioned hospitality into very close quarters, but the world entertains more elaborately than ever before. We are now enabled to entertain people in a formal way, by means of receptions or teas or something of the sort, whom we could not visit for ten minutes without suffering from ennui or a severe attack of abhorrence, and yet not be obliged to accuse ourselves of deceitfulness.

There is a great deal said against the hollowness of society manners, but really the ladies of to-day make fewer meaningless protestations of friendship than their grandmothers did.

We were told that it was our duty to give a cordial welcome to whoever chanced to inflict us with his unsought company. We now demand that our guest shall give something in return for the extra time and labor he imposes, or place him on the list of those not entitled to more than formal recognition.

The ideal guest never has cause to complain of a lack of hospitality on the part of the host and hostess; his company is always in demand. If true hospitality dies out, it will be because the world is full of guests who act on the principle that they have a perfect right to expect something for nothing.

There is a woman in this city who has done more visiting than anything else, yet with all her experience she hasn't learned to do it well. She will make some woman's life a burden again this summer. She hasn't the slightest idea that anything is required of her. Her definition of visiting would be the art of being waited upon and entertained. She has nothing to offer in the line of bright or original ideas. Although she has travelled a great deal, she can tell no more about what she has seen than many women who have never been out of the country in which they were born.

"If one could extract any 'visit' from her," said a lady at whose house she is often seen, "there would be some comfort in waiting upon her; but there she sits, day after day, in the most comfortable chair in the most comfortable room, wholly engrossed with her fancy work. I like to feel that a guest comes because she wants to see me, not to be waited upon while she does up her fancy work for the year and makes mental comparisons between my way of living and her better way."

The above criticism contains a very suggestive lesson, which two-thirds of the guests of the present day might profit by.

No one can be an ideal guest who has not infinite tact, and the good breeding which is only perfectly acquired by the warm-hearted and unselfish. The ideal guest carries happiness with him and is a real benefit to the housekeeper who can seldom leave her home. He who cannot become an ideal guest might better confine his visits to formal calls, or to those entertainments where a large number of guests relieve the hostess of a part of his society.

There might be many more ideal guests than there are if they who like to visit would be more thoughtful. The ideal guest knows how to show appreciation of his entertainer's efforts. He makes himself one of the family so easily that the hostess never thinks of worrying for fear he is having a dull time, yet he never so forgets that he is not one of the family as to ask questions about what is none of his business. He entertains himself in his own room or out of doors part of the time, knowing that every family has things to say that a stranger may not hear.

If the guest is a lady she has numberless opportunities to make herself more welcome than troublesome, and by embracing them her visit would be much pleasanter to herself.

If you know a lady whom everybody likes to entertain, and whose visits are never long enough to satisfy her hostess, study her. Don't jump to the conclusion that Fortune has been particularly kind to her, or that her welcome is prompted by selfish reasons, or that there is no reason why she should be better loved than yourself; but study her to find out the reason of her attractiveness. You will doubtless discover that, other things being equal, her popularity is due to a greater freedom from selfishness, and a more kindly consideration of others than you have shown.—The Housekeeper.

A Woman's Philosophy.

To think wisely is the part of a sage; to act wisely requires a combination of man and angel.

To forgive when we have forgotten is easy; to forgive when we know we can never forget is noble.

It is easier to forgive a friend for the wrong he did us than for the lie he told to keep it from us.

The half thoughts of the foolish, put into words, are often the levers that move the wise to think in silence and then act.

To yield love for service is too much like a commercial bargain; but to serve for love is a monopoly of souls, and selfishness can never break the combination.

That we lost the race because we stopped to point out the right way to a wanderer will be remembered by him, though our names are not capitalized in the next day's newspaper.

Some Good Household Rules.

Cream and acids do not curdle, while milk and acids will.

In roasting meat turn with a spoon, instead of a fork, as the latter pierces the meat and lets the juices out.

If sponge-cake is mixed with cold water, it is yellow; but if the water be boiling hot the cake will be white.

If doughnuts are cut out an hour before they are fried to allow a little time for rising, they will be much lighter. Try cutting at night and frying in the morning.

Gravy will generally be lumpy if the thickening is poured in while the pan is over the fire. Set the pan off until the thickening is well stirred in, then set it on the fire and cook thoroughly.

Tact.

Some men have tact in different degrees; while others are wanting in it altogether. It is the outcome of intellectual and of temperamental qualifications, and implies the possession of clear perceptions, quick imagination and delicate sensibilities. It is these that give the tactful person his subtle intuition of another's mental processes and modes of feeling, and in the same moment show exactly the right method of action.

Bill Nye's Hotel Experience.

Bill Nye tells a good many funny stories, but he considers the following his best, because it is true and happened to himself:—

"I was barn-storming once in a small town in Texas and went to the leading hotel for dinner. The larder contained only a tough piece of steak, so I had that and a cup of boot-leg coffee. When the bill was handed me I asked the proprietor, who was also waiter and cashier, how much I owed him."

"Two dollars," was the calm reply.

"Two dollars!" I said; "what for?"

"For steak and coffee."

"But that is outrageous," I answered, "I can get a really good steak and coffee and other things, too, in New York for $1. What makes you charge so much?"

"Well, to tell you the truth, I need the money."

A DEADLY FOE NEAR OUR DOOR.

The people of Canada have lately been thoroughly aroused and, to a large extent, disturbed in mind, regarding an editorial article which appeared in the Montreal Star of April 1st.

The article referred to gives the opinion of a London, Ont., physician regarding the terrible after-effects of that dreaded disease, "La Grippe." This insidious disease is now raging in the United States and is of a more malignant form than has heretofore appeared on this continent. This year its ravages have been on a more extensive scale than in preceding years and the mortality and sad results more appalling than ever before. It has respected neither age nor condition and has siezed its victims from all ranks.

It has been clearly shown, from close observation and carefully gathered statistics, that "La Grippe," when not fatal, often leaves its victims in a terribly dangerous condition, and the greatest possible care is always needed to restore the ailing ones to perfect health again.

Those who have experienced the terrors of this unwelcome visitor know well the depressing influences and feelings which are experienced, as well as the torture of mind and body. The brain is heavy and confused, the mind is absent and terror-stricken and the whole body is weak, helpless and tortured.

Is it any wonder, then, that the keen and practiced eye of the physician is enabled to note a tendency to morbidness and melancholia, and even dreaded insanity?

Can any sane individual, therefore, deny the fact "that we have now in our midst a most dangerous foe and invader?"

It comes to all like a thief in the night, when we are unprepared and unguarded. It ruthlessly lays hold of fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters—those we love dearest and best—and too often snatches them from us.

It behooves us, therefore, to meet this dread foe when it appears, with our full armor girt on and with the proper arms of defence. Let us not under-estimate its power for evil; we must go into the contest for life or death.

Physicians in our land say, without hesitation, judging from the terrible effects prevalent where "La Grippe" has been on tours of devastation and death, as in Chicago and other cities, that its next visit to Canada (soon to come) will be a most fatal one, unless great precautions are observed and sanitary laws obeyed. All Canadians, old and young, all classes of society who are weak, nervous, sleepless, languid, worn-out and dyspeptic, and all who are naturally predisposed to disease, will certainly be among the first victims of this fell destroyer.

The question is naturally asked, "What means can we adopt to avoid this disease, or how prepare to successfully battle with it if attacked?"

Experience for the past eighteen months has clearly demonstrated the fact that all those who have maintained a healthy and active vitality, a clear and unclouded brain, a calm mind, cheerful disposition, good digestion and ability to enjoy sound, peaceful rest, will, in ninety-nine cases out of one hundred, entirely escape.

To secure the above mentioned blessings and complete disease-proof armor, physicians and others have found that that now well known and popular remedy, Paine's Celery Compound, has so far been the agent for protection and robust health. It has been found that whenever this grand remedy was used "La Grippe" with its terrors passed harmlessly by. This powerful and efficacious medicine prepares the weak and all predisposed to disease to resist the fiercest attacks, builds them up in flesh, bone and muscle, gives strength to the nervous system and a clearness to the brain and thinking powers that "La Grippe" can never cope with or weaken.

It was clearly proved recently in Chicago and other western cities and towns that those who had fortified themselves by using Paine's Celery Compound were almost the only persons who escaped the dreadful scourge.

What a lesson, therefore, for the people of Canada! Will the opinions of the ablest physicians go unheeded? Can our people, with safety, throw aside the most positive and convincing evidence ever offered?

Being armed is to be prepared. Let us not then stand idly looking on as doubters; let us remember that this most deadly of modern epidemics is almost at our very doors!

"A stitch in time saves nine," and if you take Hood's Sarsaparilla now it may save months of future possible sickness.

Flowers on a Glacier.

In 1886 Mr. John W. Kelly discovered on the northeast coast of Alaska, emptying into the Arctic Ocean, just above Cape Lisburne, a new river, which has been named the Pitmegea River. The river and its narrow valley are very winding, and the natives say they can ascend it for a distance of forty miles. This stream has not previously appeared on the charts. Mr. Kelly ascended the river for a distance of twenty-five miles, where he found a large glacier, emptying into the river. The glacier faces southward and receives the full benefit of the sunlight during the short polar summer. Gales have deposited on the glacier particles of soil and seeds of plants to a depth of from four inches to a foot. The snowfall of winter soon vanishes before the June sun. Then vegetation on the glacier is warmed into life, and in a remarkably short time the brown crust of soil is covered with a robe of green and with bright flowers, such as buttercups, dandelions, daffodils, and yellow poppies. There are also some hardy grasses, whose roots penetrate the light covering of soil. A few arctic willows are also seen, but they grow only a foot in length and trail along the ground.

Such a spectacle is not often witnessed in the arctic regions. This mass of green, diversified by the brilliant colors of arctic flowers, has only scanty depth of soil to flourish in, and covers, like a carpet or a brilliant robe, the great ice mass on which the soil rests. During the summer the ice front melts away, leaving the protruding soil above it like the eaves of a house. When it protrudes too far for the strength of the grass roots, it topples over into the river.

HE LENT HER A KNIFE.

How a Girl Appreciates a Courteous Thing Delicately Done.

"There are some lovely men in this world, even if they are scarce."

It was a pretty girl who was thus philosophically mingling optimism and pessimism in her view of the less assuming half of humanity. She proceeded to illustrate her position as follows:

"The other day I had to go down town by myself. I am not so very used to going down town, and there is a preponderance of masculinity down there that always scares me a little. This time I went on the elevated road and got off at Rector street. It was about 11 o'clock in the morning, and the train and the station were black with men. There was not a woman, a sister woman to be seen when the lace of my petticoat caught in something just as I was leaving the car, and with a loud, triumphant s—sig ripped off to the extent of about two yards. There was all this white stuff hanging, and I had to get rid of it some way. I stepped to one side and began trying to tear the lace across, but the lace was as strong as the sewing had proved weak; not a thread of it would give. Every one of the stream of men passing turned his head to look at me struggle, and I could feel my face crimson with exertion and mortification. That kind of a situation has a hasheesh effect, and though it seemed like hours I suppose it was only a minute, till a gentleman busily talking to a companion, passed close to me and hardly turning his eyes my way, held out an open pocketknife; then he walked on very slowly and apparently absorbed in conversation. It was the work of a moment to sever the lace, roll it up in my muff and return him his knife. My gratitude was too deep to express itself in what the plays call 'the smooth hollow phrases of society.' I am not sure that I opened my lips, but I am sure that I looked things unutterable.

"He took the knife with just the slightest bow, and touching his hat returned to his muttons with his friend.

"It was a little thing you may say, but it was just the kind of a little thing that tests a man's breeding exquisitely."

CASH HARDWARE STORE.

On and after 1st April we shall do business on a Cash Basis.

To cover the inevitable losses attendant upon a credit business, (which accrue from amount of time spent in keeping accounts, collecting, bad debts, interest account, and in numerous other ways, larger margins of profit must be asked.

In these times cash buyers ask, expect and are entitled to close prices. A careful consideration of the subject convinces us that the time has come for a cash business done on smaller profits.

The only customers who may be put to inconvenience are those who have had long credit. In more ways than one it will be to their advantage to pay cash.

For convenience of our old customers who consider their accounts due when presented, we will call 30 days cash and render all accounts the first of each month, and we wish to say that we will be happy to do business with them on these terms.

As the new departure is something of an experiment, what would be considered a close cash price will be made all through the stock. Not a few leaders only, but a general reduction in everything from the fourth flat to the cellar.

Our idea is to perform more than promised rather than promise more than can be fulfilled.

Our stock is large and varied, consisting of Builders', Contractors', Household, Mechanics', Painters', Shoemakers', Farm, Mill, Factory, Lumbermen's, Sporting, Threshers', Cabinetmakers', and other lines of Hardware.

A very interesting and pleasant evening was spent by a large number of friends in the rooms of Carswell Lodge, I.O.G.T. last evening, C.T. Bro. Early in the chair. At the close a number of propositions were handed in for membership. A large and varied programme was given consisting of songs, readings, recitations, club swinging and instrumental music. Another open lodge will be given in about three weeks time. Grand Lodge meets here in June.

Building in the South Ward.

Extensive building operations are now going on in the south end of the town, every day new foundations are taken out, and at every turn one is surprised to see a new house which he has never seen before. The picturesque old stone cottage, so long the home of the late Captain Fraser, is already torn down and the stone is being built into the foundations of three or four new houses. On the spot Mr. LeBrun is erecting two handsome brick houses, close by Mr. Harry Stabler is putting up two new houses. On the "Priests" lot half a dozen houses are now in course of erection, a little south Mr. Hayes is putting up two houses, near by Mrs. Harvey is erecting a store and residence. Mr. Stephens is completing two houses. In fact, look where you will, building operations are being pushed with great vigor. Peterborough seems as if she cannot be stopped in her growth, her destiny is to be the brightest and best little city in the Dominion. No wonder the south end of the town is alive, for it is evident that the hives of industry will all be planted on the flat lands where the railway facilities are so great.

After suffering horribly for years from scrofula in its worst form, a young son of Mr. R. L. King, 706 Franklin-st., Richmond, Va., was recently cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. No other medicine can approach this preparation as a cleanser of the blood.

HAPPY GOOD WISHES.

Mr. H. LeBrun Presented With an Address and Handsome Silver Tea Service by Employees—His Approaching Marriage the Cause of the Pleasant Surprise.

Mr. H. LeBrun, the well-known and popular senior member of the firm of LeBrun & Co., was most pleasantly and, at the same time, most completely surprised last evening. It has been a rather open secret for some weeks past that Mr. LeBrun is about to leave the ranks of the bachelors and enter those of the benedicts. Knowing this the employees of his establishment wished to express their good wishes and congratulations to a gentleman who has ever been a kind and generous employer and a faithful and esteemed friend.

Accordingly a surprise of the most happy nature was prepared for Mr. LeBrun. Last evening when he returned to the store after supper he was called upstairs on an imaginary errand, when to his utter astonishment the entire staff of the establishment, numbering twenty-five persons in all, flocked around. The bright, happy faces allayed any fears as to the character of the unexpected gathering and before he had recovered from his first surprise, his partner, Mr. Joseph Picard, who has been with him for over eighteen years, stepped forward and read the address and Miss Maggie Clancy made the presentation. The address, which is given, expresses the relations that have existed between a successful business man and his staff and the well-wishes therein expressed will be echoed by thousands of citizens among whom Mr. LeBrun has always held a position of esteem and respect.

The address read as follows:—

Dear Mr. LeBrun.

It is with heartfelt pleasure that we your employees and friends assemble together to tender to you our congratulations on the happy event which is soon to take place in your life and to wish you every blessing that can increase that happiness. It has been the good fortune of some of us to have been associated with you in business from the commencement of your career as a merchant and during that long intercourse extending over eighteen years, we have daily experienced that urbanity and courtesy are characteristic of you. We have seen and appreciated that kindly interest you have always manifested in us. We have marked well your straight-forward and honorable career which it is our highest ambition to emulate. For these and your many other good qualities of mind and heart we have all learned to love you as a friend and will take a friend's interest in everything that concerns your welfare.

We beg, therefore, that you will accept this silver tea service as a token of our esteem and friendship and an earnest of our good wishes for the happiness of yourself and destined bride.

Peterborough, April 24, 1891.

Signed on behalf of staff of H. LeBrun & Co,

JOSEPH PICARD,
MILES FROATS,
PETER CORKERY.

Mr. LeBrun was unable to speak for a few moments, so complete was the surprise and so deep were the feelings that moved him. He replied briefly in the following words:—

DEAR FRIENDS AND EMPLOYEES,—I assure you I am taken altogether by surprise. I must acknowledge that I cannot do justice to my feelings of gratitude to you all in answering to your kind address and for the beautiful present before me to-night. Being taken unaware I am not prepared to answer to it at length. But, as you mention, some of you have been in my employ for over eighteen years; that alone, I believe, is a sufficient proof of our harmonious and favorable connection. I will always make my fervent endeavor to further your interest and welfare as well as my own, to help each other, and will continue to do so in the future as in the past.

Finally in closing, I repeat again I am exceedingly thankful to you all for your kind expression to me and my future bride, and rest assured that this evening will be a memorable one in my memory forever.

The tea service is an elegant and costly one, purchased from Mr. W. A. Sanderson. It comprises the tea service and a handsome waiter.

The happy coming event, the approach of which was the cause of the pleasant presentation, will be solemnized in Watertown on Wednesday next. The bride will be a most estimable lady, who has been a resident of Peterborough and who has a host of friends who will welcome her to Peterborough. Mr. LeBrun will leave for Montreal to-night and when he returns he will bring his bride with him.

Hiawatha Encampment I. O. O. F. gave a very pleasing entertainment in Otonabee Lodge room last evening. The attendance was large. The Peterborough orchestra opened the programme with some excellent selections and then Mr. R. M. Roy gave an evening's entertainment with his stereopticon views. He took his audience to Venice and gave them a week's exploration in the streets and among the sights of the city of beauties. He followed this with several humorous and miscellaneous views which were greatly appreciated. Mr. Roy has now attained a proficiency in this class of entertainment which cannot be excelled. He has a most powerful instrument and last evening the views he gave were some that had never been seen here before and were put on the canvas in a manner which, also, was never excelled in Peterborough. His audience were delighted. During a short intermission the orchestra gave some delightful selections.

JAPAN AND CHINA.

The Heathen Darkness of these Lands—A Letter from Mr. Saunders.

The following letter has been received by the Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. from Mr. F. G. Saunders, who left here last winter to do missionary work in China:—

CHINA INLAND MISSION,
SHANGHAI, CHINA, March 9, 1891.

MY DEAR BROTHER COLVILLE,—I feel as though I must write to you, although at present I can hardly spare time. Of course you will have heard from Mrs. Dillon that we arrived here safely and therefore I know that a good many of my friends will be expecting to hear from me. I wish I could tell you the real joy and blessing that I have had ever since my arrival here. If I remember right, I have written you of my movements until we left Yokohama.

The next place to tell you about is Kobe, Japan. We arrived there in good health and spirits on Feb. 19th at 5 30 p.m., and after having had dinner on board, Mr. Frost and I hired a Sampan and went ashore. On landing we got into Jimrikshas and started for a kind of market place called the Temple. It is a big open space with a lot of stalls in it, where there are all kinds of Japanese goods for sale. After walking through this place and buying some candy at one of the stalls we tried to see the Temple, but we could not see much of it because there was no service there that night. Then we got into the Jimrikshas again and rode off.

We returned to the ship again feeling very sad and poured out our hearts to that dear Father in Heaven, thanking Him that we were born in a Christian land and beseeching Him to send forth more laborers into his harvest. For unless it were God that sent the laborers they had better stay at home. How much we need His sustaining grace here cannot be properly understood unless you see your own self of heathendom. Oh, what love was the love of Christ to die for such a wretch as I was and for such as these, and shall we, who have the light, be guilty of withholding it from those who have not? Is that the way to show our gratitude to Christ, who did so much for us? The Y.M.C.A would not suffer any loss if 20 of its brightest gems were to go out as foreign missionaries, but they would be repaid in the conversion of many more than 20 to fill in the gap left by those who had left. Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse? I will, Lord; here, take me; all I am and all I have is Thine. Pray the Lord of the harvest that He will send forth laborers into His harvest. I will, Lord. Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel. I will Lord. Has the master ever put such words to my dear friends in the Y.M.C.A. and have they ever from the heart given replies like these. If you have had such dealings with the Lord, you will not be long before you will be just in the place where the Lord would have you and you will find out that that is the place of blessing.

On the 20th Mr. Frost and all the rest of us went ashore and went for a ride to a place just outside Kobe called the Waterfall. The jimrikshas put us down at the foot of a high mountain and after we had climbed it for some distance up, we caught the first glimpse of the fall, which seemed to come out of the mountain at a great height above us. After we had rested and taken tea at a little refreshment house we again ascended until we reached another tea house and had another rest, then we went up higher again and had some most beautiful views of the city lying at the foot of the mountain, with the sea beyond. It being a delightful spring day we enjoyed the sight immensely, but there were also some very sad sights in that beautiful mountain, for every now and then we would come across a shrine erected to some heathen god and in one place there was an image of some god, I don't know what one, cut out of stone and placed in a niche at the side of the mountain. In all these shrines and in front of the gods there are little boxes placed for offerings of rice and money. After leaving the waterfall we went to see a Mr. Ballard and his wife, some good Christian people who are not missionaries but receive a missionary's blessing from the Father for their work done in Jesus' name. They keep a missionary boarding house where missionaries who are sick or want a change or rest can go and board for a season and then return to their labors. Fortunately there was room in this house for all of our party, so we made that our home while the ship was being unloaded. Mr. Ballard has lived in China for a number of years, but his health having failed him, last year he took this house at Kobe, and moved there with his wife and two children.

It is one of the best arranged and most beautifully situated houses there, it having been built for the governor, who, however, was removed from that city to some less important station because of his bad conduct. Mr. Ballard just happened to be in Kobe at the right time to buy this place and transform it into what the natives call a Christian hotel. After dinner we visited a school which is connected with the American Congregational church. Miss Brown is the Superintendent of it. There are three or four other American ladies there besides some native teachers. At present there are 145 girls in the school, who are taking a 4 years course, and Miss Stone, one of the teachers, told us that they are all Christians on leaving the school. Another visit we paid in Kobe was to a Missionary society, named the Rev. B. F. Buxton, who paid the expenses of a party of missionaries who arrived in Japan from England last year. He welcomed us by saying "Praise the Lord" and then invited us into the house. He is a splendid man and his wife is also very nice. In the room we entered there were several texts hanging upon the walls and the following motto placed over the mantelboard, "Christ is the Master of this house, He is the unseen guest at every table, the unseen hearer of ever conversation."

Another visit was made to the Seaman's Mission, which is in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Ludlow of the Christian Alliance, they having come from Simpson's College. They are doing a good work in Kobe and are much blessed of God in it. We had a little prayer meeting with them, in which they earnestly commended us to the Almighty for His blessing and guidance on our future work.

Before we left Kobe we were very much interested in visiting

and seeing something of their worship, or rather of their objects of worship. The different gods all have separate buildings set apart to them and the whole of these buildings are in one big enclosure. In the centre was the biggest building of all containing two images, which looked very much like what the boys in England make on the 5th of November to represent Guy Fawkes, only the English boys make those things to burn as bonfires, and these poor people make them to worship as gods. You, my friends, who know the true God, how can you rest at ease when two-thirds of your fellow creatures are living and dying in such darkness, with scarcely anyone to tell them the way of life? How those words that I so often heard in Canada, make my ears tingle, "There are plenty of heathen at home," when I see these sights. Another god we saw was a white horse with blue eyes. Near this horse are little wooden dishes containing about an egg cup full of beans each, which the people in their blindness consider it a meritorious act to buy and give to the horse. Another god was also a white horse about the same size as the first, only made of wood. Others are different objects made of different things. Some of these gods have a rope and bell hanging in front of them which the people ring in order to wake the gods. We also visited a Buddhist graveyard near by this temple. One very noticeable thing in Kobe is the number of beggars one meets. There are all sorts of conditions of them, and all sizes. There are the blind, the halt, the lame, and I was going to write the dumb, but I do not remember seeing any dumb, and if we had seen any I think I should remember it, because those we did meet, kept up a continual whine, at the same time bowing themselves almost to the ground. There is, I am glad to say, a native Y. M. C. A. in this place, although I did not visit it.

We left Kobe at 4 a.m. on Sunday, the 22nd, and journeyed that day and the following morning through the beautiful Japan Island Seas, which with their numberless beautiful Islands reminded me of Stony Lake on a large scale. One rock in these seas is famous in Japanese history from the fact that several years ago a great number of Jesuits were thrown from it into the sea and drowned. The captain of our vessel pointed out this rock to us as we passed it.

We reached Nagasaki at 1.30 p.m, on Monday and had 20 hours stay here in order that they might coal the vessel. The people who coal the ships at Nagasaki, call forth many thoughts of pity from any missionaries who may be on board. Men, women and even children work at it like a swarm of bees. They place themselves in a long line beginning at the barge and ending on the steamer, and pass baskets of coal from one to another with the quickness of conjurers for hours at a time, those in the barge filling the baskets and those on the ship emptying them. At this port we visited a large school under the American Methodist Board. Before finishing telling you about Japan I must tell you about shopping as it is carried on here. If a person wants to buy a certain article, he will go to a shop and enquire the price, if the article is worth fifty cents it is probable that they would ask a dollar for it. The would-be purchaser laughs and offers forty cents for it, then the seller laughs and says he will take ninety cents, and so they proceed laughing at each other all the time until the price is fixed and the article disposed of. Our ship's doctor told me a little of his experience in

JAPANESE TRADING.

One day when the ship was at anchor in a Japanese port, the doctor was sitting on deck reading, when a man came aboard and wanted to sell him a pair of field glasses, asking $14 for them. The doctor, not wanting them and being interested in his reading, thought to get rid of the man by offering him $4, when, much to his surprise, the man said alright, he would take it. Because he had offered the $4 he felt bound to buy the glasses, much to the satisfaction of the man. But I must proceed, we left Nagasaki at 5 p. m. on the 24th of February, and after a very smooth voyage on the whole, considering the time of year, reached Shanghai at 5 p.m on the 26th February. It did not take us long to get from the wharf to the premises and the warm Christian welcome we received there had the effect of soon making us feel at home. Since last October 131 new workers have arrived in connection with the Mission. What an answer to prayer (131 in five months), and yet when they are distributed amongst 250 millions of people, they will appear very insignificant. Truly it may be said of China, the harvest is plenteous add the laborers few. Of course all my friends will be longing to know about the work in the field, but I do not know much about that yet, as I am still in Shanghai. The mission premises were built last year at an outlay of between two and three hundred thousand dollars, which money was given by one donor. This place is the mission headquarters and business centre. As a general rule, incoming members from England, America or Australia only stay here for a day or two, to enable them to repack their outfits in native boxes, put on the native dress, etc., and then they go direct to the mission schools at Gankin, Yang-chaw or elsewhere to study the language. Owing to the arrival of a party from England, a party of 35 Swedes from the United States and a party from Australia just previous to us, our schools are all pretty full and they have not as yet made the necessary arrangements for us to go to our places of study. Still there is abundant employment for all who are here now and as many more as the Lord will send. The Australian party, all but one, who is sick, the English party, with one or two exceptions, and the Swedish ladies, 18 in number, had been transferred to the schools before our arrival. There are at present 60 of us in Shanghai, viz., our party of 5 and Mr. Frost, 17 Swedish brothers, a few sick members of the mission, Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Taylor, the Mission Postmaster, those in charge of the household, a few members lately returned from well-earned vacations, some of the officers of the mission, etc. Last Saturday three young men arrived from Australia and there is a party now on the way from Australia, headed by a Church of England clergyman and his wife. There is also a party of at least 15 more Swedes from the States somewhere very near to China, and we do not know but what another English and also another American party may be also en route.

CHINA INLAND MISSION

This week they are expecting to send a number of us who are here to the schools. I am not sure whether I shall be one of that number.

I have a very important work on at present, which prevents me from studying the language. Miss Geraldine Guiness, a member of our mission (daughter of Gratton Guiness) is engaged in writing a history of the China Inland Mission which will (D.V.) be published before the Mildmay Conference meets. After Miss Guiness has written and Mr. Taylor revised her work I have to copy the revision for the printers.

To-day I went into Chinese clothes and it makes such a change in me that you would hardly know me.

I would like to write you a lot more news but I really have not time, so I will now conclude, with love to all,

I remain,
Yours in service,
F. G. SAUNDERS.

P. S—I have written this in my spare moments at several different times. So please excuse disjointed remarks, mistakes and bad writing.

How Great are the Goughs?

There is apparently no limit to the ingenuity and resources of Gough Bros., the wonderful cheap men. Though always making some startling advance on the prominent positions they take, the last great stride is after all, an astonisher. They have saved a great clothing dealer from bankruptcy. He was going to the wall for want of a large amount of ready cash. He offered his stock at a great sacrifice for cash, and Gough Bros united the resources of their several establishments in Peterborough, Toronto and Brantford (though for ordinary purposes they are absolutely separate and distinct), paid the wholesaler spot cash for a splendid bill of ready made goods, and that enables Gough Bros. to give the magnificent bargains hinted at in the following specimen brick of paralyzed prices—a few diamond pointed tips:

Men's Suits at		Men's Suits at		Boys' Suits at
$16 00 $14 00 $12 00 $10 00	for $8.	$9 00 $7 00 $6 00 $5 00	for $4 90	$4 50 $4 00 $3 50 $3 25	for $2 90

The same sweeping reductions in shoes and boots, and in every line of the several departments of Gough Bros.' business. A special drive in fine wool hats. The Spring Medicine.

The popularity which Hood's Sarsaparilla has gained as a spring medicine is wonderful. It possesses just those elements of health giving, blood-purifying and appetite-restoring which everybody seems to need at this season. Do not continue in a dull, tired, unsatisfactory condition when you may be so much benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies the blood and makes the weak strong.

EVERY day makes more apparent the fact that the town is going ahead rapidly. Numerous changes have taken place in the way of the ownership of property. Many workingmen are buying houses and lots or lots on which to build. One of the most suitable locations is that known as the Erie property, at the west end, owned largely by Mr. Wm. Fitzgerald. This week he has closed the sale of a very desirable new house and lot, and has several eligible lots on this property to dispose of. Property in this neighborhood is rapidly being built up, and it will be well to have a look at the situation if one is at all disposed to buy. The terms are very favorable and especially low for cash, though payment on time may be arranged.

CANADIAN LACROSSE LEAGUE.

MONTREAL, April 24.—The adjourned meeting of the Canadian Lacrosse League was held here to-day. The representatives were Messrs. Garvin, Toronto; Hughes, Cornwall; Kent, Ottawa; Cleghorn, Montreal; McKenna, Shamrocks.

The result of the deliberations was that Montreal and Toronto withdrew from the league. The whole affair did not take long, as both parties had their minds made up. The two big clubs refused to admit the Capitals and announced their secession when they were outvoted by Hughes, Dowling and Kent. After the Montreal and Toronto delegates withdrew those remaining, J. Kent, Ottawa, W. J. Hughes, Cornwall, J. K. Dowling, Capitals, and W. J. McKenna, Shamrock, proceeded to work. Mr. Hughes moved, seconded by Mr. Dowling, that Shamrocks, Cornwalls, Capitals and Ottawas play a series of matches and that these clubs refuse to play exhibition games with Toronto and Montreal. The motion was not pressed as some of the delegates wished to obtain instructions from their clubs.

In the evening the delegates met again and arranged a schedule, the season opening June 6 and ending Oct. 3.

THE CHILIAN BUTCHERIES.

Over 800 Government Troops and 800 Revolutionists Killed.

PANAMA, April 24.—Advices from Chili say 800 Government troops and 800 revolutionists were killed in the battle of Pozo Almonte, in which the Government forces were defeated. Five thousand men were engaged.

Provisions were recently so scarce in Iquique that $30 was paid for a can of preserved milk, and beef sold at $10 per pound.

It is reported that Government troops fired into 800 defenceless workmen, women and children at Negroyros and shot down all the men.

London financiers have declined to grant a loan of £1,000,000 to President Balmaceda of Chili. The president's envoy is confident that the latter will yet defeat the insurgents.

SNOW HER WINDING SHEET.

What the Melting of the Snow Revealed in Grey County.

MARKDALE, Ont., April 23.—While searching for a lost sheep yesterday, John Allan came across the dead body of a woman in a recumbent position, apparently in a peaceful slumber, the left hand partially thrust into the bosom of her dress and the right hand extended outward. The remains were those of Catharine Kennedy, aged 60, who lived on the Garafraxa-road, Glenelg, one mile north of the Rocky Saugeen. She had been missing since Feb. 3, and no doubt perished in the snowstorm which raged on that day.

Decker Discharged.

PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—Harry Decker, the baseball player, who was arrested in New Haven, Conn., some time ago and brought here on a requisition issued by the Governor of Connecticut, was brought into Criminal Court yesterday to answer to a multiplicity of charges of a more or less serious nature, and to all of which he pleaded guilty. Sentence was suspended and Decker discharged, having made restitution to all parties concerned. He has been in jail since March 31.

Died in the Night.

BRADFORD, Ont., April 24.—Miss Ina Henderson was as well as usual on retiring for the night. Next morning she was found dead in bed.

The Women and Girls Require Attention.

A noted professor of the Vienna University says that in the five principal manufacturing countries of Europe there are 10,000,000 women employed, as follows:—Germany, 5,000,000; Britain, 4,000,000; France, 3,700,000; and Italy and Austria, each 2,000,000. In Canada a very large number of women and girls find work in the mills, factories, work shops, stores and offices. Hundreds of these hardworking, busy women and girls owing to badly ventilated and ill-constructed buildings, and the piece work system, are wearing themselves away. In their anxiousness to make large wages, they overwork; they are worried; they become hollow cheeked and pale, the whole muscular system is weakened; they are nervous and generally dyspeptic. They require great care and attention, or their lives become uncertain and miserable. For such subjects, the great strengthener, restorer and life-giver is Paine's Celery Compound. With a moderate amount of gentle physical exercise in the fresh air, Paine's Celery Compound soon restores lost vitality, builds up the system and gives a healthy, natural appetite, and regular sound sleep. To every woman and girl that labors within the walls of a factory, workshop or store, we would kindly urge the use of this great scientific compound; it will do more for you than any physician can do, and at a very small outlay of money.

A BAD HUMOR CURED.

Good Wife Suggests Cuticura Remedies. Uses them 7 Months, and is entirely Cured

I was in the war during 1861-64, and took a heavy cold at Gettysburg, from which I never fully recovered. In 1875 I broke out in sores all over my chest and shoulder, which seemed impossible to cure. I tried all the famed doctors I could find, and to no avail. I expended some five thousand dollars trying to find a cure, but could not, and finally giving myself up to die, my good wife suggested to me, one day, to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES which were so extensively advertised and used. I followed her suggestion, and am happy to say by diligent application of your CUTICURA REMEDIES for seven months I was entirely cured, after spending five years of time and money without avail, and am a sound and well man to-day. You may refer to me if you wish, as I will tell any one who may call on me my experience.

Catarrh

Is a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

LIGHT CUT INTO CLOSED EYES.

Rare Optical Surgery to Give Sight to a Little Girl.

COLORADO SPRINGS, April 24.—Born with her eyelids firmly closed, 6-year-old Myrtle Highes of Denver yesterday underwent a marvelous operation in optical surgery at State School for the Deaf and Blind here. After administering an anæsthetic the surgeons carefully dissected her eyelids, parting them with a scalpel and forceps until the eyeball was reached. It was found then that the eye was turned very much inward. The cornea was slightly opaque and flattened. The eyelid was firmly adhered to the surface of the eyeball by fibres of connective tissue, and these had to be cut one at a time until the eyelid could be turned back. If further adhesion can be prevented the child has a very favorable chance of getting much more light, probably enough so that she will be able to distinguish the larger objects and can avoid running into them.

THE VATICAN SHATTERED.

Precious Relics and Valuable Historical Windows Destroyed.

ROME, April 24.—The explosion of 265 tons of gunpowder yesterday in the magazine created great damage at the Vatican. All the windows of the Pope's library were broken and a number of precious relics were destroyed. In addition many valuable panes of colored glass in the principal windows of St. Peter's Basilica were smashed to pieces. The handsome stained glass window over the chair of St. Peter was also broken. At St. Paul's Church all the stained glass windows were damaged. In fact the damage done at this church was so great that the building has been closed to the public while the debris is being cleared away and the work of temporary repair inaugurated. Much of the destruction wrought by the explosion is irreparable, as the valuable works of art which have been destroyed cannot be replaced. Many of the stained glass windows shattered were the works of celebrated artists who flourished hundreds of years ago.

The Pope had just concluded the celebration of a low mass and was engaged in prayer when the explosion shook the Vatican building.

The investigation made by the military authorities into the origin of the explosion shows that it was caused by the accidental explosion of some shrapnell shell. A few of the people who were injured at the time of the explosion, who were taken to the hospitals, have died from the effects of the injuries they received.

BUSINESS IMPROVING.

As the Result of Good Weather and Promising Crop Reports.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's very generally refer to more settled weather and good crop prospects as causes of increased activity in general trade. Improved weather has not aided the general demand for drygoods materially, trade as a whole being quiet and unsatisfactory. Gingham and woolen dress goods are most active. A drive in prints this week was at lowest prices on record. Low grade cottons are weak. Cotton speculation is active, but irregular. Actual cotton is 1-16c lower.

The industrial situation becomes more disturbed as May 1 approaches, that being the date set for a general demand for fewer hours of work daily by 175,000 bituminous coal miners. It is doubtful, however, whether that number will strike. No trouble is anticipated in the anthracite region. Steel rails have been very quiet this week.

Wheat has been excited and 6c higher during the week, chiefly on speculative operations, heavily backed for the time by cables from England, France and Portugal. Later a disposition to realize, together with rather more favorable crop reports from the continent of Europe, caused a reaction which swallowed up all the advance. More than 120,000,000 bushels were traded in at New York, against 45,000,000 bushels in the preceding week.

General trade throughout Ontario is rather better than in the province of Quebec. Sugars are said to be unsettled owing to expected tariff changes and "smuggling across the border." The Dominion reports 33 business failures this week against 39 last week and 36 this week last year. The total number January 1 to date is 705 against 673 last year.
